Railroad Switchmen's Strike Eases In East

Key Midwest Hubs Still Tied Up; Talks Progress

[By The Associated Press]

The switchmen's crippling "sick call" strike began crumbling in parts of the nation Tuesday, but holdouts in key Midwest cities kept the bulk of the cross-country traffic in a snarl.

Strikers swarmed back to their jobs in New York City and much of the eastern area. Switchmen stayed out in the key rail hubs of Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The walkout still spread on some far western lines.

Scattered back-to-work movements were reported in all sections of the country and some "dead" freight and temporarily cancelled passenger trains began rolling again.

The Railway Express Agency partially lifted its embargo of last Thursday. The agency said it will again accept shipments, effective immeditely, between New York City and New England points and between New York City and New Jersey.

Pennsy Lifts Embargo

The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered its embargo lifted at midnight at Ne York, Trenton, N. J., Philadelphia and Buffalo, N. Y. But, the Pennsylvania said the embargo would remain at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Toledo.

However, a spokesman for the nation's carriers in Washington said that "any idea that the show is over is completely erroneous." He said that for every group that goes back to work "there's another bunch that goes out."

Railroad officials estimated the strike has clogged the movement of more than one third of this country's 2,000,000 freight cars. Some 500,000 empty and 200,000 loaded cars were reported either stranded in terminals or moving into bottlenecks.

The day's developments prompted some eastern industrial firms to cancel layoffs, but 24,000 miners were sent home in West Virginia and 2,000 in Indiana, and 4,500 lumber workers faced unemployment in Oregon because of the spreading strike there.

Progress Made In Talks

At the height of the stoppage, some 12,000 switchmen were off the job, forcing the layoff of 250,000 industrial workers and the imposition of mail, freight and express embargoes.

Many returning strikers in the East attributed their action to their own "patriotism" and last night's appeal of Defense Mobilization Di-

Russia Insists German Issues Top Discussions

Leaves Door Open For Other Subjects

PARIS, Wednesday, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia declared in a note released by the French Foreign Office today that the most aggressive elements of Hitlerite militarism again are raising their heads and demanding that German demilitarization hold the top spot in the proposed four-power foreign ministers meeting.

Despite the strong wording, the Russians left the door open for the introduction of other subjects, as desired by the Western Powers, if and when a conference is held.

Similar Note Sent To U. S.

Similar notes were sent to the United States and Britain.

The four powers have been exchanging views since Nov. 3, when Russia first proposed that the four powers discuss the disarmament of Germany.

The three Western powers replied Dec. 22 that a conference limited to Germany would be "inadequate and unreal." They proposed a preliminary conference to decide on an agenda that would take in the main problems responsible for present "international tensions throughout the world."

Russia said Dec. 30 that German disarmament should be the "first and foremost" topic of discussion, but agreed to a preliminary conference. The three powers Jan. 23 asked Russia to clarify whether she would consent to discuss other questions as well.

Legal Points Remain

Russia's reply, delivered to the western envoys in Moscow Monday, appeared to move slightly in the direction of breaking down differences over the scope and procedure of the projected meeting. But it was evident some fine legal points remained to be threshed out.

For instance, the wording of the Russian reply indicates Russia insists on holding a "council of foreign ministers"—the council that was set up in the four-power meeting at Potsdam in 1945. The Western meeting of the four foreign ministers, thus indicating they want to steer clear of the old Potsdam framework and start afresh.

ECA Says Europe Ready To Rearm

WASHINGTON, Feb 6 (AP)—Western Europe is strong enough to rearm, but it must do it quickly and well, the Economic Cooperation Administration reported to Congress today.

The Marshall Plan agency, which has invested nearly $10,000,000,000 in Western European recovery, said that although the people of the area deplored another war they "had no quarrel" with the need to rebuild their defenses.

"The two and one-half years since the start of the European recovery program have witnessed a profound change in Western Europe—from an area disorganized by war, occupation and isolation and dominated by a mood of helplessness, into a reasonably smoothly functioning economic and political entity," ECA said.

"The impact of the war in Korea and enlarged defense programs will undoubtedly stimulate the growth of European production."

Father Who Slew Son Given 20 Year Term

OREGON, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP) — A 50-year-old father was sentenced to 20 years in prison today on a charge of murdering his son, a polio victim.

Ray Henry, a railroad gateman, pleaded guilty. After killing the eight-year-old son with a .22 calibre rifle, Henry tried to kill himself but failed.

The shooting occurred Oct. 31, 1950. He blamed his act on marital troubles and a fear that the boy would not recover from polio.

Woods Asks Sweeping New Rent Powers, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has asked for sweeping new rent-control powers that will give the government more authority over rents than at the height of World War II.

Here are the powers he is asking: (1) To restore rent control on housing that has been decontrolled; (2) to clamp rent ceilings on new housing that has never been under controls; (3) to regulate commercial rents for the first time; and (4) to roll back inflated rents to July 1, 1950.

These requests have already been submitted to Mobilization Director Charles Wilson in the form of proposed legislation. A confidential summary was also sent to Wilson, boiling down the legal language to plain English. Though this summary was meant for Wilson's eyes only, here are the important excerpts:

"This bill amends the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 by rewriting it completely; it extends to June 30, 1952, control over rents for housing and veterans' preference in the sale and rental of new housing accomodations, and extends the Office of Housing Expediter for the purpose of administering these functions. It also adds a new title authorizing the housing expediter to control commercial rents," sums up the confidential memo.

LUCKY—Roy Brodie, 54, Toronto fire captain, is shown in the Parry Sound, Ont., hospital where he is recovering from injuries received in a freak plane crash. Brodie was attempting to push a ski plane which was stuck in the snow. The plane started suddenly and he was caught on the plane's tail. Brodie slipped from the tail before the ship rose into the air, then crashed. Brodie crawled to an unheated cabin and spent 40 hours without food before being rescued. The plane's pilot, W. Rautian, was killed in the accident. (AP Wirephoto)

Trial-Training For Many Draft 4-Fs Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — The idea of basic training for many men now classified 4-F, to see if they really are disqualified for military service, gained ground today in the House Armed Services Committee. The talk centered on draft-deferred athletes but was not limited to them.

The proposition came up in testimony by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, on the Defense Department's bill to draft 18-year-olds, extend service to 27 months and set up a system of universal military service and training.

Many lawmakers want all other available sources tapped before the draft takes youths below the present 19-year age limit. The trial-training plan, to which Hershey readily agreed, was one of the suggestions aimed what way.

Air Force Calls Reservists

Simultaneously there were these other developments bearing on armed manpower:

1. The Air Force started sending out calls to the first of nearly 80,000 volunteer reservists it plans to bring into active service.

2. The House committee itself showed signs of leaning toward a compromise on 18-year-olds, under which they might be drafted but would have to get six months training before they could go to a combat zone.

3. The committee also gave thought to a requirement that the armed forces reject no more than 22 per cent of the men Selective Service sends them, find some spot for the rest. The "reject" rate has dropped recently to 34 per cent, Hershey said, but is still too high.

Brooks Makes It Broader

Hershey originally was talking only about 4-F athletes when the trial-training subject came up. He favored putting them through basic before any decision is made as to whether they would be useful even in "limited service."

But Rep. Brooks (D-La) made it broader. He suggested it would be logical to "take a man with two eyes, two arms and two legs" and try him out before deferring him for physical defects.

"Agreed," Hershey responded.

Boy Only Bruised In 80-Foot Slide

The youngster tumbled down a hill just like the pair in the nursery rhyme. But Francis did it without breaking his crown. He slipped on ice and plummeted 80 feet down the side of Mt. Washington, a sheer palisade overlooking the Monongahela River. Only a few frozen bushes slowed his descent. Police and firemen found the boy suffering only from a bad scare and a few bruises.

Allies Force Chinese Back South Of Seoul

Enemy Withdraws Over Five Miles

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Wednesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—United Nations forces have knocked the Chinese Reds from their main line of defense south of Seoul, an Army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Chinese have withdrawn five and one-half miles into a new mountain line less than six miles below the Han River.

The Allied capture of Hill 431 made the enemy's whole line of resistance untenable. The hill is 12 miles south-southwest of Seoul.

Hill 431 was the key to the mass of hills from which the strongly entrenched Chinese had impeded the progress of the U. N. limited offensive in the west.

The Reds began withdrawing 36 hours ago.

Red Tanks Appear

The Army spokesman said the enemy had reinforced heavily his positions along the Han River and intends to make a determined stand on the south side of the river to defend Seoul.

Two Allied tank-infantry raider columns, making gains up to four miles Tuesday, rammed into the main Chinese line near Seoul and stirred up a pitched battle with Red tanks and fresh troops.

Some U. N. forces were reported only three air miles south of ruined Seoul. Allied artillery, warplanes and warships offshore poured a withering stream of fire all day into the battle area, where Chinese troops were swarming.

About 50 miles east of Seoul, South Korean infantry drove to within 25 air miles of the 38th parallel. Then they were forced to fight desperately to hold a mountain ridge in this deepest penetration of Red territory since the limited offensive began two weeks ago.

Hills "Loaded With Reds"

The Republican troops were battling 1,500 Reds in the mountains of Central Korea. The South Koreans had driven six air miles north of Hoengsong under cover of U. S. artillery and Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers.

The heaviest action Tuesday, however, was on the western front near Anyang, eight and one half

Naval Officer Seeks Missing Wife, Children

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Navy officer husband of a Michigan socialite reported today that his wife and four young daughters have been missing since they disappeared from their $100 a day Biltmore Hotel suite Sunday.

The husband, Lt. Frank Saunders, flew here yesterday from Detroit to enlist the aid of the Missing Persons Bureau in the search for his family.

He said his wife, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30, and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in fashionable Grosse Point, Mich., making the trip without his knowledge.

Md. Democrats Adopt "Hands Off" Policy Toward Devising New Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Any tax raise measure will have to originate with the Republican state administration, Senate Democrats decided today.

At a closed meeting, the 18 Democratic state senators who form the majority of that house decided to adopt a "hands off" policy towards devising new taxes to meet pay raises and other increased costs of state government which seem almost sure to arise.

"We decided that taxes are the baby of the man upstairs," one Democrat remarked after the meeting.

"The man upstairs" is Republican Gov. McKeldin.

A seven-member steering committee was authorized in the meeting to make department-by-department survey to find out just where the state stands financially, and then to draw up a party fiscal program.

Among the new bills introduced during a routine Senate meeting were several by President Della (D-Balto 6th) to make changes in the merit system laws.

Generally, the new measures would make it easier for a group of temporary employes to gain permanent positions with the state, and would protect the job and pension rights of state workers who join the armed forces.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) introduced legislation to add his county to the list of those which allow women to serve on juries.

Truckers resumed their opposition to a bill which would set up a ton-mile tax on vehicles weighing more than 25,000 pounds.

They had contended last week that faulty construction of highways—and not heavy trucks—is the chief reason why roads are damaged.

At a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee today, J. Marshall Stewart, a spokesman for the truckers, said his group is drawing up a plan to build "cheaper and stronger" state roads.

AEC "Satisfied" As Atom Tests Are Concluded

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 6 (AP) — The fifth and biggest atomic blast at the new government range near here shook Las Vegas today and shattered show windows in two auto agencies.

Later, the Atomic Energy Commission announced that it has concluded its experiments for the present and is "completely satisfied with the conduct of the test operation."

Said Carroll L. Tyler, manager of the tests for the AEC, in a statement:

"Use of the Las Vegas site has saved manpower, materials, money and, above all, invaluable time in the national atomic energy development program."

No one was injured, either among AEC personnel or residents of this Southern Nevada resort city, Tyler said.

Today's blast, as previously, just before dawn, hit Las Vegas with two stiff jolts.

"Bigger than Bikini," was the description of Los Angeles Newscaster Clete Roberts, who also witnessed the Pacific island tests.

"The worst yet," said Las Vegas Police Capt. George Thompson.

Today's was No. 14 in a world-wide series of atom blasts, starting in New Mexico in mid-summer, 1945, and including those at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and one set off by the Russians.

Friday's fourth test here splintered a window in a furniture store. Today's concussion knocked out two in auto agencies within a block of each other. In a nearby garage, a window across which an advertising banner had been stretched cracked from the first concussion. The rush of air apparently sucked the banner into the open crack, and when the sound waves subsided, the cloth was neatly caught in the glass.

British Housewife Defeats American In Pancake Sprint

OLNEY, England, Feb. 6 (AP) — Britain kept the international pancake racing crown today. Its buxom flapjack sprinting ace beat her American counterpart by a comfortable 2.4 seconds.

The winner, Olney housewife Mrs. Isobel Dix, 22, legged the 415-yard course from Parish Pump to Olney Church door in a snappy one minute 12.1 seconds. In the similar annual Shrove Tuesday race staged a few hours later in Liberal, Kas., winner Mrs. Emmagene Bruce, 19, took one minute and 14.5 seconds to tote skittle and pancake over the distance.

Up to 1950, when Liberal housewives challenged the maids and matrons of this tiny country market town, the annual Shrove Tuesday event had been going on quietly since 1445 with gaps for wars and the like.

The Olney girls took up the challenge last year and gave the Liberals a battering.

Steps Are Urged To Reduce Tax Underpayments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) —The nation's tax collector said today that people underpay their federal taxes by almost $1,500,000,000 a year and a withholding levy on interest and dividends would help him collect close to $250,000,000 of that sum.

George J. Schoeneman, the internal revenue commissioner, told the Ways and Means Committee his bureau is steadily improving its methods of detecting and correcting underpayments of taxes.

For the year ended last June 30, he said, the bureau recaptured about $1,800,000,000 from erring taxpayers.

But he said the job of checking up on about 90,000,000 income and excise tax returns is so stupendous he is sure people and firms got away without paying from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 in taxes they owed the government.

Actually, the revenue bureau got around to checking only 4,326,886 out of those 90,000,000 separate returns.

Shoeneman was questioned closely by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering President Truman's request for some $16,500,000,000 new taxes this year to pay for the huge rearmament program.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the prospect of heavy new taxes atop levies already quite high require that the committee insist that taxpayers pay what they owe, with nobody excusd.

Schoenenman said it would probably take an army of 200,000 agents for his bureau to check on all returns. Right now he has about 20,000 agents and collectors, and is asking Congress for 2,484 more. These, along with the withholding tax on dividends and interest, he said, should go a long way toward reducing tax underpayments.

Survivor Says Engineer Tried To Stop Train

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP)—Irving W. Teeple, a Newark, N. J., attorney, aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's commuter train "The Broker" which crashed here tonight, gave this eyewitness description of the wreck:

"I was standing on the platform at the end of my car and I noticed the engineer trying to hold her down.

"He was trying to stop her.

"I noticed him throw the air brakes three times as she came down the grade onto the temporary tracks. He was doing his level best to hold her back.

Happened With Roar

"Then there was a roar.

"I looked through the car and saw the people huddle in their seats. I grabbed a door handle on the platform. The next thing I knew I was wedged in between two other fellows.

"A slide between the cars broke and I saw a small hole. I was able to breath by putting my face to it. My nose was bleeding and my arm hurt. Everything was swimming around me. I got dizzy. I was jammed in.

"My car slid about 30 feet before it stopped. It was hanging over the edge of the embankment.

Afraid Car Would Fall

"I tried to break the door to get out. But I couldn't. So I tried to struggle up through the car. But it seemed to me it was tilting more and more. So I sat down. I was afraid she'd fall down into the street.

"I waited for about three-quarters of an hour while they took out the more badly wounded. Then they came for me and put me on a stretcher and took me down.

"I was lucky."

U. S. Diplomats Expect No Russian Attack This Year

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—The best guess of key American diplomats in Europe is that Russia will not start a world war in 1951.

They feel, however, another struggle is almost inevitable in the years to come if the Kremlin's pressure against the West goes on unabated.

They are pessimistic that anything except propaganda wrangling would result from a new four-power conference, but they expect one will be held.

These are viewpoints widely shared among American diplomats from iron curtain countries who met in Paris last week and those from Western European capitals who are now conferring in Frankfurt.

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk took part in both meetings before departing today by plane to return to his post in Moscow.

Americans reluctantly credit the Soviet government with some success to date in a campaign to sow disunity among the Western Allies and their peoples.

Rebuilding German military strength for a European defense force was an issue, until a few weeks ago, that had western leaders arguing at cross-purposes.

This apparently has been straightened out, at least as regards timing. A western force will be created first. Then the Germans, if conditions are right, will volunteer their contribution.

400 Of Commuter's Passengers Hurt

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP) — A speeding Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train cracked up on a temporary overpass tonight killing at least 71 persons.

Middlesex County Coroner Samuel Kane said there were 71 known dead in hospitals and morgues. The toll is expected to rise. Nearly 400 were injured.

The 11-car train roared onto the trestle and swayed sickenly. Then the steam engine left the rails, dragging five of the cars with it. The crash occurred at 5:43 p. m.

The train — "The Broker" — was carrying passengers to the wealthy North Jersey shore from New York City 30 miles away. The train carried a large number of commuters who normally travel on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which was shut down today by the switchmen's "sick call" walkout. Both lines service the area.

Some of the cars telescoped into a mass of sharp, deadly metal wreckage that ground to pulp some of the passengers.

Third Rail Disaster In Year

It was the third major railroad disaster in the New York metropolitan area in less than a year.

Woodbridge is a city of 27,000 about 30 miles south of New York City near the Jersey shore. The wooden trestle, shored up with big beams, carries trains across Legion Street, two blocks from the center of the city.

A big highway project — New Jersey's cross-state freeway — is underway in that area. The trestle was put up when the tracks were moved to give added room below the embankment.

Railroad men on the scene said the new trestle was put into service only today and the wrecked train was one of the first few to cross it.

First reports said the trestle gave way. However, it did not collapse and the engine of the train had cleared it before derailing.

The Broker left Jersey City at 5:07 p. m. EST, stopped at Newark and then headed for South Amboy, not far from here. The railroad said the train crew was a veteran regular crew.

Not Clear What Happened

Engineer A. H. Fitzsimmons was at the controls as the Broker highballed through blackness of early night above the glistening lights of this industrial section of New Jersey.

It was not plain what happened. A Pennsylvania Railroad official said the train of red coaches was rocking along at top speed. He did not estimate it in miles per hour.

The engine cleared the trestle by about three car lengths. Then in a flash of sparks and with a roar it left the rails and hit the street below. With it went five of the

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — A soldier was shot and killed during a fight before several hundred travelers in Union Station tonight.

The dead man was identified at City Hospital as Robert McKenna. The hospital had no other identification on the man and military authorities said other information would be held up pending notification of next of kin.

Railroad Switchmen's Strike Eases In East

Key Midwest Hubs Still Tied Up; Talks Progress

[By The Associated Press]

The switchmen's crippling "sick call" strike began crumbling in parts of the nation Tuesday, but holdouts in key Midwest cities kept the bulk of the cross-country traffic in a snarl.

Strikers swarmed back to their jobs in New York City and much of the eastern area. Switchmen stayed out in the key rail hubs of Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The walkout still spread on some far western lines.

Scattered back-to-work movements were reported in all sections of the country and some "dead" freight and temporarily cancelled passenger trains began rolling again.

The Railway Express Agency partially lifted its embargo of last Thursday. The agency said it will again accept shipments, effective immeditely, between New York City and New England points and between New York City and New Jersey.

Pennsy Lifts Embargo

The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered its embargo lifted at midnight at Ne York, Trenton, N. J., Philadelphia and Buffalo, N. Y. But, the Pennsylvania said the embargo would remain at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Toledo.

However, a spokesman for the nation's carriers in Washington said that "any idea that the show is over is completely erroneous." He said that for every group that goes back to work "there's another bunch that goes out."

Railroad officials estimated the strike has clogged the movement of more than one third of this country's 2,000,000 freight cars. Some 500,000 empty and 200,000 loaded cars were reported either stranded in terminals or moving into bottlenecks.

The day's developments prompted some eastern industrial firms to cancel layoffs, but 24,000 miners were sent home in West Virginia and 2,000 in Indiana, and 4,500 lumber workers faced unemployment in Oregon because of the spreading strike there.

Progress Made In Talks

At the height of the stoppage, some 12,000 switchmen were off the job, forcing the layoff of 250,000 industrial workers and the imposition of mail, freight and express embargoes.

Many returning strikers in the East attributed their action to their own "patriotism" and last night's appeal of Defense Mobilization Di-

Russia Insists German Issues Top Discussions

Leaves Door Open For Other Subjects

PARIS, Wednesday, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia declared in a note released by the French Foreign Office today that the most aggressive elements of Hitlerite militarism again are raising their heads and demanding that German demilitarization hold the top spot in the proposed four-power foreign ministers meeting.

Despite the strong wording, the Russians left the door open for the introduction of other subjects, as desired by the Western Powers, if and when a conference is held.

Similar Note Sent To U. S.

Similar notes were sent to the United States and Britain.

The four powers have been exchanging views since Nov. 3, when Russia first proposed that the four powers discuss the disarmament of Germany.

The three Western powers replied Dec. 22 that a conference limited to Germany would be "inadequate and unreal." They proposed a preliminary conference to decide on an agenda that would take in the main problems responsible for present "international tensions throughout the world."

Russia said Dec. 30 that German disarmament should be the "first and foremost" topic of discussion, but agreed to a preliminary conference. The three powers Jan. 23 asked Russia to clarify whether she would consent to discuss other questions as well.

Legal Points Remain

Russia's reply, delivered to the western envoys in Moscow Monday, appeared to move slightly in the direction of breaking down differences over the scope and procedure of the projected meeting. But it was evident some fine legal points remained to be threshed out.

For instance, the wording of the Russian reply indicated Russia insists on holding a "council of foreign ministers"—the council that was set up in the four-power meeting at Potsdam in 1945. The Western meeting of the four foreign ministers, thus indicating they want to steer clear of the old Potsdam framework and start afresh.

ECA Says Europe Ready To Rearm

WASHINGTON, Feb 6 (AP)—Western Europe is strong enough to rearm, but it must do it quickly and well, the Economic Cooperation Administration reported to Congress today.

The Marshall Plan agency, which has invested nearly $10,000,000,000 in Western European recovery, said that although the people of the area deplored another war they "had no quarrel" with the need to rebuild their defenses.

"The two and one-half years since the start of the European recovery program have witnessed a profound change in Western Europe—from an area disorganized by war, occupation and isolation and dominated by a mood of helplessness, into a reasonably smoothly functioning economic and political entity," ECA said.

"The impact of the war in Korea and enlarged defense programs will undoubtedly stimulate the growth of European production."

Father Who Slew Son Given 20 Year Term

OREGON, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP) — A 50-year-old father was sentenced to 20 years in prison today on a charge of murdering his son, a polio victim.

Ray Henry, a railroad gateman, pleaded guilty. After killing the eight-year-old son with a .22 calibre rifle, Henry tried to kill himself but failed.

The shooting occurred Oct. 31, 1950. He blamed his act on marital troubles and a fear that the boy would not recover from polio.

Trial-Training For Many Draft 4-Fs Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — The idea of basic training for many men now classified 4-F, to see if they really are disqualified for military service, gained ground today in the House Armed Services Committee. The talk centered on draft-deferred athletes but was not limited to them.

The proposition came up in testimony by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, on the Defense Department's bill to draft 18-year-olds, extend service to 27 months and set up a system of universal military service and training.

Many lawmakers want all other available sources tapped before the draft takes youths below the present 19-year age limit. The trial-training plan, to which Hershey readily agreed, was one of the suggestions aimed what way.

Air Force Calls Reservists

Simultaneously there were these other developments bearing on armed manpower:

1. The Air Force started sending out calls to the first of nearly 80,000 volunteer reservists it plans to bring into active service.

2. The House committee itself showed signs of leaning toward a compromise on 18-year-olds, under which they might be drafted but would have to get six months training before they could go to a combat zone.

3. The committee also gave thought to a requirement that the armed forces reject no more than 22 per cent of the men Selective Service sends them, find some spot for the rest. The "reject" rate has dropped recently to 34 per cent, Hershey said, but is still too high.

Brooks Makes It Broader

Hershey originally was talking only about 4-F athletes when the trial-training subject came up. He favored putting them through basic before any decision is made as to whether they would be useful even in "limited service."

But Rep. Brooks (D-La) made it broader. He suggested it would be logical to "take a man with two eyes, two arms and two legs" and try him out before deferring him for physical defects.

"Agreed," Hershey responded.

Allies Force Chinese Back South Of Seoul

Enemy Withdraws Over Five Miles

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Wednesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—United Nations forces have knocked the Chinese Reds from their main line of defense south of Seoul, an Army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Chinese have withdrawn five and one-half miles into a new mountain line less than six miles below the Han River.

Hill 431 was the key to the mass of hills from which the strongly entrenched Chinese had impeded the progress of the U. N. limited offensive in the west.

The Reds began withdrawing 36 hours ago.

Red Tanks Appear

The Army spokesman said the enemy had reinforced heavily his positions along the Han River and intends to make a determined stand on the south side of the river to defend Seoul.

Two Allied tank-infantry raider columns, making gains up to four miles Tuesday, rammed into the main Chinese line near Seoul and stirred up a pitched battle with Red tanks and fresh troops.

Some U. N. forces were reported only three air miles south of ruined Seoul. Allied artillery, warplanes and warships offshore poured a withering stream of fire all day into the battle area, where Chinese troops were swarming.

About 50 miles east of Seoul, South Korean infantry drove to within 25 air miles of the 38th parallel. Then they were forced to fight desperately to hold a mountain ridge in this deepest penetration of Red territory since the limited offensive began two weeks ago.

Hills "Loaded With Reds"

The Republican troops were battling 1,500 Reds in the mountains of Central Korea. The South Koreans had driven six air miles north of Hoengsong under cover of U. S. artillery and Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers.

Naval Officer Seeks Missing Wife, Children

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Navy officer husband of a Michigan socialite reported today that his wife and four young daughters have been missing since they disappeared from their $100 a day Biltmore Hotel suite Sunday.

He said his wife, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30, and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in fashionable Grosse Point, Mich., making the trip without his knowledge.

AEC "Satisfied" As Atom Tests Are Concluded

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 6 (AP) — The fifth and biggest atomic blast at the new government range near here shook Las Vegas today and shattered show windows in two auto agencies.

Later, the Atomic Energy Commission announced that it has concluded its experiments for the present and is "completely satisfied with the conduct of the test operation."

Said Carroll L. Tyler, manager of the tests for the AEC, in a statement:

"Use of the Las Vegas site has saved manpower, materials, money and, above all, invaluable time in the national atomic energy development program."

No one was injured, either among AEC personnel or residents of this Southern Nevada resort city, Tyler said.

Today's blast, as previously, just before dawn, hit Las Vegas with two stiff jolts.

"Bigger than Bikini," was the description of Los Angeles Newscaster Clete Roberts, who also witnessed the Pacific island tests.

"The worst yet," said Las Vegas Police Capt. George Thompson.

Today's was No. 14 in a worldwide series of atom blasts, starting in New Mexico in mid-summer, 1945, and including those at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and one set off by the Russians.

Friday's fourth test here splintered a window in a furniture store. Today's concussion knocked out two in auto agencies within a block of each other. In a nearby garage, a window across which an advertising banner had been stretched cracked from the first concussion. The rush of air apparently sucked the banner into the open crack, and when the sound waves subsided, the cloth was neatly caught in the glass.

British Housewife Defeats American In Pancake Sprint

OLNEY, England, Feb. 6 (AP) — Britain kept the international pancake racing crown today. Its buxom flapjack sprinting ace beat her American counterpart by a comfortable 2.4 seconds.

The winner, Olney housewife Mrs. Isobel Dix, 22, legged the 415-yard course from Parish Pump to Olney Church door in a snappy one minute 12.1 seconds. In the similar annual Shrove Tuesday race staged a few hours later in Liberal, Kas., winner Mrs. Emmagene Bruce, 19, took one minute and 14.5 seconds to tote skittle and pancake over the distance.

Up to 1950, when Liberal housewives challenged the maids and matrons of this tiny country market town, the annual Shrove Tuesday event had been going on quietly since 1445 with gaps for wars and the like.

Steps Are Urged To Reduce Tax Underpayments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) —The nation's tax collector said today that people underpay their federal taxes by almost $1,500,000,000 a year and a withholding levy on interest and dividends would help him collect close to $250,000,000 of that sum.

George J. Schoeneman, the internal revenue commissioner, told the Ways and Means Committee his bureau is steadily improving its methods of detecting and correcting underpayments of taxes.

For the year ended last June 30, he said, the bureau recaptured about $1,800,000,000 from erring taxpayers.

But he said the job of checking up on about 90,000,000 income and excise tax returns is so stupendous he is sure people and firms got away without paying from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 in taxes they owed the government.

Actually, the revenue bureau got around to checking only 4,326,886 out of those 90,000,000 separate returns.

Shoeneman was questioned closely by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering President Truman's request for some $16,500,000,000 new taxes this year to pay for the huge rearmament program.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the prospect of heavy new taxes atop levies already quite high require that the committee insist that taxpayers pay what they owe, with nobody excusd.

Schoenenman said it would probably take an army of 200,000 agents for his bureau to check on all returns. Right now he has about 20,000 agents and collectors, and is asking Congress for 2,484 more. These, along with the withholding tax on dividends and interest, he said, should go a long way toward reducing tax underpayments.

Soldier Shot, Killed In Union Station Fight

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — A soldier was shot and killed during a fight before several hundred travelers in Union Station tonight.

Three other soldiers and a military policeman were clubbed with guns during the brief fight.

The dead man was identified at City Hospital as Robert McKenna. The hospital had no other identification on the man and military authorities said other information would be held up pending notification of next of kin.

U. S. Diplomats Expect No Russian Attack This Year

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—The best guess of key American diplomats in Europe is that Russia will not start a world war in 1951.

They feel, however, another struggle is almost inevitable in the years to come if the Kremlin's pressure against the West goes on unabated.

They are pessimistic that anything except propaganda wrangling would result from a new four-power conference, but they expect one will be held.

These are viewpoints widely shared among American diplomats from iron curtain countries who met in Paris last week and those from Western European capitals who are now conferring in Frankfurt.

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk took part in both meetings before departing today by plane to return to his post in Moscow.

Americans reluctantly credit the Soviet government with some success to date in a campaign to sow disunity among the Western Allies and their peoples.

Rebuilding German military strength for a European defense force was an issue, until a few weeks ago, that had western leaders arguing at cross-purposes.

This apparently has been straightened out, at least as regards timing. A western force will be created first. Then the Germans, if conditions are right, will volunteer their contribution.

Woods Asks Sweeping New Rent Powers, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has asked for sweeping new rent-control powers that will give the government more authority over rents than at the height of World War II.

Here are the powers he is asking: (1) To restore rent control on housing that has been decontrolled; (2) to clamp rent ceilings on new housing that has never been under controls; (3) to regulate commercial rents for the first time; and (4) to roll back inflated rents to July 1, 1950.

These requests have already been submitted to Mobilization Director Charles Wilson in the form of proposed legislation. A confidential summary was also sent to Wilson, boiling down the legal language to plain English. Though this summary was meant for Wilson's eyes only, here are the important excerpts:

"This bill amends the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 by rewriting it completely; it extends to June 30, 1952, control over rents for housing and veterans' preference in the sale and rental of new housing accomodations, and extends the Office of Housing Expediter for the purpose of administering these functions. It also adds a new title authorizing the housing expediter to control commercial rents," sums up the confidential memo.

Boy Only Bruised In 80-Foot Slide

The youngster tumbled down a hill just like the pair in the nursery rhyme. But Francis did it without breaking his crown. He slipped on ice and plummeted 80 feet down the side of Mt. Washington, a sheer palisade overlooking the Monongahela River. Only a few frozen bushes slowed his descent. Police and firemen found the boy suffering only from a bad scare and a few bruises.

Md. Democrats Adopt "Hands Off" Policy Toward Devising New Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Any tax raise measure will have to originate with the Republican state administration, Senate Democrats decided today.

At a closed meeting, the 18 Democratic state senators who form the majority of that house decided to adopt a "hands off" policy towards devising new taxes to meet pay raises and other increased costs of state government which seem almost sure to arise.

"We decided that taxes are the baby of the man upstairs," one Democrat remarked after the meeting.

"The man upstairs" is Republican Gov. McKeldin.

A seven-member steering committee was authorized in the meeting to make department-by-department survey to find out just where the state stands financially, and then to draw up a party fiscal program.

Among the new bills introduced during a routine Senate meeting were several by President Della (D-Balto 6th) to make changes in the merit system laws.

Generally, the new measures would make it easier for a group of temporary employes to gain permanent positions with the state, and would protect the job and pension rights of state workers who join the armed forces.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) introduced legislation to add his county to the list of those which allow women to serve on juries.

Truckers resumed their opposition to a bill which would set up a ton-mile tax on vehicles weighing more than 25,000 pounds.

They had contended last week that faulty construction of highways—and not heavy trucks—is the chief reason why roads are damaged.

At a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee today, J. Marshall Stewart, a spokesman for the truckers, said his group is drawing up a plan to build "cheaper and stronger" state roads.

Railroad Switchmen's Strike Eases In East

Key Midwest Hubs Still Tied Up; Talks Progress

[By The Associated Press]

The switchmen's crippling "sick call" strike began crumbling in parts of the nation Tuesday, but holdouts in key Midwest cities kept the bulk of the cross-country traffic in a snarl.

Strikers swarmed back to their jobs in New York City and much of the eastern area. Switchmen stayed out in the key rail hubs of Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The walkout still spread on some far western lines.

Scattered back-to-work movements were reported in all sections of the country and some "dead" freight and temporarily cancelled passenger trains began rolling again.

The Railway Express Agency partially lifted its embargo of last Thursday. The agency said it will again accept shipments, effective immeditely, between New York City and New England points and between New York City and New Jersey.

Pennsy Lifts Embargo

The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered its embargo lifted at midnight at Ne York, Trenton, N. J., Philadelphia and Buffalo, N. Y. But, the Pennsylvania said the embargo would remain at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Toledo.

However, a spokesman for the nation's carriers in Washington said that "any idea that the show is over is completely erroneous." He said that for every group that goes back to work "there's another bunch that goes out."

Railroad officials estimated the strike has clogged the movement of more than one third of this country's 2,000,000 freight cars. Some 500,000 empty and 200,000 loaded cars were reported either stranded in terminals or moving into bottlenecks.

The day's developments prompted some eastern industrial firms to cancel layoffs, but 24,000 miners were sent home in West Virginia and 2,000 in Indiana, and 4,500 lumber workers faced unemployment in Oregon because of the spreading strike there.

Progress Made In Talks

At the height of the stoppage, some 12,000 switchmen were off the job, forcing the layoff of 250,000 industrial workers and the imposition of mail, freight and express embargoes.

Many returning strikers in the East attributed their action to their own "patriotism" and last night's appeal of Defense Mobilization Di-

Russia Insists German Issues Top Discussions

Leaves Door Open For Other Subjects

PARIS, Wednesday, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia declared in a note released by the French Foreign Office today that the most aggressive elements of Hitlerite militarism again are raising their heads and demanding that German demilitarization hold the top spot in the proposed four-power foreign ministers meeting.

Despite the strong wording, the Russians left the door open for the introduction of other subjects, as desired by the Western Powers, if and when a conference is held.

Similar Note Sent To U. S.

Similar notes were sent to the United States and Britain.

The four powers have been exchanging views since Nov. 3, when Russia first proposed that the four powers discuss the disarmament of Germany.

The three Western powers replied Dec. 22 that a conference limited to Germany would be "inadequate and unreal." They proposed a preliminary conference to decide on an agenda that would take in the main problems responsible for present "international tensions throughout the world."

Russia said Dec. 30 that German disarmament should be the "first and foremost" topic of discussion, but agreed to a preliminary conference. The three powers Jan. 23 asked Russia to clarify whether she would consent to discuss other questions as well.

Legal Points Remain

Russia's reply, delivered to the western envoys in Moscow Monday, appeared to move slightly in the direction of breaking down differences over the scope and procedure of the projected meeting. But it was evident some fine legal points remained to be threshed out.

For instance, the wording of the Russian reply indicated Russia insists on holding a "council of foreign ministers"—the council that was set up in the four-power meeting at Potsdam in 1945. The Western meeting of the four foreign ministers, thus indicating they want to steer clear of the old Potsdam framework and start afresh.

Survivor Says Engineer Tried To Stop Train

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP)—Irving W. Teeple, a Newark, N. J., attorney, aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's commuter train "The Broker" which crashed here tonight, gave this eyewitness description of the wreck:

"I was standing on the platform at the end of my car and I noticed the engineer trying to hold her down.

"He was trying to stop her.

"I noticed him throw the air brakes three times as she came down the grade onto the temporary tracks. He was doing his level best to hold her back.

Happened With Roar

"Then there was a roar.

"I looked through the car and saw the people huddle in their seats. I grabbed a door handle on the platform. The next thing I knew I was wedged in between two other fellows.

"A slide between the cars broke and I saw a small hole. I was able to breath by putting my face to it. My nose was bleeding and my arm hurt. Everything was swimming around me. I got dizzy. I was jammed in.

"My car slid about 30 feet before it stopped. It was hanging over the edge of the embankment.

Afraid Car Would Fall

"I tried to break the door to get out. But I couldn't. So I tried to struggle up through the car. But it seemed to me it was tilting more and more. So I sat down. I was afraid she'd fall down into the street.

"I waited for about three-quarters of an hour while they took out the more badly wounded. Then they came for me and put me on a stretcher and took me down.

"I was lucky."

400 Of Commuter's Passengers Hurt

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP) — A speeding Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train cracked up on a temporary overpass tonight killing at least 71 persons.

Middlesex County Coroner Samuel Kane said there were 71 known dead in hospitals and morgues. The toll is expected to rise. Nearly 400 were injured.

The 11-car train roared onto the trestle and swayed sickenly. Then the steam engine left the rails, dragging five of the cars with it. The crash occurred at 5:43 p. m.

The train — "The Broker" — was carrying passengers to the wealthy North Jersey shore from New York City 30 miles away. The train carried a large number of commuters who normally travel on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which was shut down today by the switchmen's "sick call" walkout. Both lines service the area.

Some of the cars telescoped into a mass of sharp, deadly metal wreckage that ground to pulp some of the passengers.

Third Rail Disaster In Year

It was the third major railroad disaster in the New York metropolitan area in less than a year.

Woodbridge is a city of 27,000 about 30 miles south of New York City near the Jersey shore. The wooden trestle, shored up with big beams, carries trains across Legion Street, two blocks from the center of the city.

A big highway project — New Jersey's cross-state freeway — is underway in that area. The trestle was put up when the tracks were moved to give added room below the embankment.

Railroad men on the scene said the new trestle was put into service only today and the wrecked train was one of the first few to cross it.

First reports said the trestle gave way. However, it did not collapse and the engine of the train had cleared it before derailing.

The Broker left Jersey City at 5:07 p. m. EST, stopped at Newark and then headed for South Amboy, not far from here. The railroad said the train crew was a veteran regular crew.

Not Clear What Happened

Engineer A. H. Fitzsimmons was at the controls as the Broker highballed through blackness of early night above the glistening lights of this industrial section of New Jersey.

It was not plain what happened.

A Pennsylvania Railroad official said the train of red coaches was rocking along at top speed. He did not estimate it in miles per hour.

The engine cleared the trestle by about three car lengths. Then in a flash of sparks and with a roar it left the rails and hit the street below. With it went five of the

Soldier Shot, Killed In Union Station Fight

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — A soldier was shot and killed during a fight before several hundred travelers in Union Station tonight.

Three other soldiers and a military policeman were clubbed with guns during the brief fight.

The dead man was identified at City Hospital as Robert McKenna. The hospital had no other identification on the man and military authorities said other information would be held up pending notification of next of kin.

ECA Says Europe Ready To Rearm

WASHINGTON, Feb 6 (AP)—Western Europe is strong enough to rearm, but it must do it quickly and well, the Economic Cooperation Administration reported to Congress today.

The Marshall Plan agency, which has invested nearly $10,000,000,000 in Western European recovery, said that although the people of the area deplored another war they "had no quarrel" with the need to rebuild their defenses.

"The two and one-half years since the start of the European recovery program have witnessed a profound change in Western Europe —from an area disorganized by war, occupation and isolation and dominated by a mood of helplessness, into a reasonably smoothly functioning economic and political entity," ECA said.

"The impact of the war in Korea and enlarged defense programs will undoubtedly stimulate the growth of European production."

Father Who Slew Son Given 20 Year Term

OREGON, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP) — A 50-year-old father was sentenced to 20 years in prison today on a charge of murdering his son, a polio victim.

Ray Henry, a railroad gateman, pleaded guilty. After killing the eight-year-old son with a .22 calibre rifle, Henry tried to kill himself but failed.

The shooting occurred Oct. 31, 1950. He blamed his act on marital troubles and a fear that the boy would not recover from polio.

Woods Asks Sweeping New Rent Powers, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has asked for sweeping new rent-control powers that will give the government more authority over rents than at the height of World War II.

Here are the powers he is asking: (1) To restore rent control on housing that has been decontrolled; (2) to clamp rent ceilings on new housing that has never been under controls; (3) to regulate commercial rents for the first time; and (4) to roll back inflated rents to July 1, 1950.

These requests have already been submitted to Mobilization Director Charles Wilson in the form of proposed legislation. A confidential summary was also sent to Wilson, boiling down the legal language to plain English. Though this summary was meant for Wilson's eyes only, here are the important excerpts:

"This bill amends the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 by rewriting it completely; it extends to June 30, 1952, control over rents for housing and veterans' preference in the sale and rental of new housing accomodations, and extends the Office of Housing Expediter for the purpose of administering these functions. It also adds a new title authorizing the housing expediter to control commercial rents," sums up the confidential memo.

Boy Only Bruised In 80-Foot Slide

The youngster tumbled down a hill just like the pair in the nursery rhyme. But Francis did it without breaking his crown. He slipped on ice and plummeted 80 feet down the side of Mt. Washington, a sheer palisade overlooking the Monongahela River. Only a few frozen bushes slowed his descent. Police and firemen found the boy suffering only from a bad scare and a few bruises.

Naval Officer Seeks Missing Wife, Children

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Navy officer husband of a Michigan socialite reported today that his wife and four young daughters have been missing since they disappeared from their $100 a day Biltmore Hotel suite Sunday.

The husband, Lt. Frank Saunders, flew here yesterday from Detroit to enlist the aid of the Missing Persons Bureau in the search for his family.

He said his wife, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30, and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in fashionable Grosse Point, Mich., making the trip without his knowledge.

Md. Democrats Adopt "Hands Off" Policy Toward Devising New Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Any tax raise measure will have to originate with the Republican state administration, Senate Democrats decided today.

At a closed meeting, the 18 Democratic state senators who form the majority of that house decided to adopt a "hands off" policy towards devising new taxes to meet pay raises and other increased costs of state government which seem almost sure to arise.

"We decided that taxes are the baby of the man upstairs," one Democrat remarked after the meeting.

"The man upstairs" is Republican Gov. McKeldin.

A seven-member steering committee was authorized in the meeting to make department-by-department survey to find out just where the state stands financially, and then to draw up a party fiscal program.

Among the new bills introduced during a routine Senate meeting were several by President Della (D-Balto 6th) to make changes in the merit system laws.

Generally, the new measures would make it easier for a group of temporary employes to gain permanent positions with the state, and would protect the job and pension rights of state workers who join the armed forces.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) introduced legislation to add his county to the list of those which allow women to serve on juries.

Truckers resumed their opposition to a bill which would set up a ton-mile tax on vehicles weighing more than 25,000 pounds.

They had contended last week that faulty construction of highways —and not heavy trucks—is the chief reason why roads are damaged.

At a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee today, J. Marshall Stewart, a spokesman for the truckers, said his group is drawing up a plan to build "cheaper and stronger" state roads.

U. S. Diplomats Expect No Russian Attack This Year

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—The best guess of key American diplomats in Europe is that Russia will not start a world war in 1951.

They feel, however, another struggle is almost inevitable in the years to come if the Kremlin's pressure against the West goes on unabated.

They are pessimistic that anything except propaganda wrangling would result from a new four-power conference, but they expect one will be held.

These are viewpoints widely shared among American diplomats from iron curtain countries who met in Paris last week and those from Western European capitals who are now conferring in Frankfurt.

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk took part in both meetings before departing today by plane to return to his post in Moscow.

Americans reluctantly credit the Soviet government with some success to date in a campaign to sow disunity among the Western Allies and their peoples.

Rebuilding German military strength for a European defense force was an issue, until a few weeks ago, that had western leaders arguing at cross-purposes.

This apparently has been straightened out, at least as regards timing. A western force will be created first. Then the Germans, if conditions are right, will volunteer their contribution.

Bears Refuse To Leave Moat

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Two Como Park bears that skidded into an 18-foot deep moat over the weekend know when they're well off, zoo keepers said tonight. They're staying right where they are.

The big bruins—Betty and Buster—went for a little outing over the weekend when warmer temperatures coaxed them out of their winter caves. Apparently groggy because of the premature ending of their winter hibernation, they slipped on glare ice and zipped to the bottom of the moat which separates their playground from spectators.

Zoo keepers, with scores of suggestions from "bear experts," tried without success to coax them out, but the bears kept slipping back. Two ladders were let down, but they quickly snapped under the weight of the 400-pounders.

Then a heavy-duty ladder was constructed—one that could probably hold an elephant.

But Betty and Buster are smart. They're staying at the bottom of the moat. Zoo Keeper Leo Whalen explained that a strong, cold wind was whipping through the park and about the only sheltered spot was at the bottom of the moat.

Stassen Will Speak At Md. GOP Dinner

BALTIMORE, Feb. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen will be the main speaker at the Alexander Hamilton Club's annual Lincoln Day dinner here Feb. 17.

The state-wide club described Stassen in its announcement as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. He sought the nomination in 1948.

Gov. McKeldin, Sen. Butler, and Maryland's three Republican congressmen, plus GOP members of the Maryland General Assembly, also will participate in the banquet program.

Bill To Alter Md. Income Tax Law Is Recommitted

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—House members made it plain again today they want to withhold action on legislation that would cost the state money until they get an overall picture of just how much it will take to run Maryland another year.

A bill to make a change in the income tax law was bounced back to committee after its sponsor disclosed it would mean a $100,000 revenue loss to the state.

And earlier in the day, the Republican minority members reportedly reached an unofficial agreement to try to hold up money bills until the fiscal picture straightens itself out.

Gov. McKeldin is scheduled to present on Thursday his proposed budget for the year starting July 1.

He has already indicated it will top $159,000,000.

And there is growing pressure for raises for all state employes including school teachers.

It has been estimated that the budget could be as much as $20,000,000 out of balance in its final form if all money proposals were adopted, unless new taxes were imposed or existing ones raised.

The income tax bill was up for a last House vote during today's session.

Introduced by Delegate Nowakowski (D-Balto 1st) it would allow every one filing income tax returns to take a flat 10 per cent deduction, up to $1,000, instead of itemizing his allowable deductions.

War Bride Has 3 Sets Of Twins In 3 Years

MENOMINEE, Mich., Feb. 6 (AP)—A 23-year-old Italian war bride today gave birth to her third set of twins in three years.

The twin girls were born to Mrs. John Ferguson of Wallace, Mich., at the local hospital. Each weighed approximately seven pounds.

The first set, twin boys, was born three years ago. One died at birth. The second set, a boy and a girl, was born 16 months ago.

Mrs. Ferguson, the former Perina Buffolin of Vilesse, Italy, is the wife of a farmer. They met while he was serving with the U. S. Army in Italy.

There was panic in some of the splintered coaches. In others dazed passengers stayed calm, their chalk-white faces reflecting the sudden terror of the tragedy.

Screams of the wounded and dying rose in the night air. One man pinned beneath a heavy coach wheel cried:

"Help, help me."

Help was quick in coming for most of the injured. Scores of ambulances sped to the scene and their motors idled patiently as they waited for their cargo of injured.

Lawmaker Urges Higher Taxicabs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP)—A Chicago lawmaker today proposed that taxicabs be high enough inside so passengers won't have to remove their hats.

Rep. Alan Best, a strapping six-footer, filed a bill in the Illinois House requiring cabs to be so constructed that persons of "average height" may sit upright in the rear seat without crushing their hats or riding bareheaded.

Manager Says Taft Won't Run In 1952

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6 (AP)—The man who managed Sen. Robert Taft's three successful races for the Senate said today the Ohioan won't run for president in 1952.

After failing twice in attempts to win the Republican Party's presidential nomination, Taft "just won't put on any campaign" again, said Willis D. Gradison of Cincinnati.

Legal Path Cleared For Harford Voting Machines

BEL AIR, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — The legal path has been cleared for Harford County to have voting machines.

Judge Frederick Lee Cobourn upheld in circuit court a contract under which the county commissioners had agreed to buy 36 of them for $1,296 from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Proctor of Cardiff had attacked the contract in a taxpayers' suit on the grounds the machines were faulty and could be tampered with.

M'Arthur Reportedly Requests Authority To Use Chiang's Troops

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur has asked Washington to bring Chinese Nationalist troops into the fighting in Korea, informed sources said today.

The administration in Washington has rejected all proposals for using the Nationalist either in Korea or on the mainland. The Washton position is that supplies needed to prepare the Nationalists for a Korean campaign could be better used in arming anti-Communist Koreans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Testimony ended today in the lengthy perjury trial of William W. Remington, former government economist accused of lying in telling a federal grand jury he never was a Communist. He may hear his fate tomorrow.

The defense will sum up tomorrow morning and the prosecution in the early afternoon. Then Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan will give his charge to the jurors and turn the case over to them.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced that Television and Radio Commentator Paul Harvey was "apprehended" making an "unauthorized entry" early today at the Argonne National Laboratory.

The matter was reported still under investigation.

Russia Asks U. N. To Condemn U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 6 (AP)—Russia charged the United States with 238 air attacks on Red China in November and December and called on the U. N. to condemn "these illegal acts by the government of the United States."

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate, told the 60-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly that United States war planes violated Chinese territory 328 times between Aug. 28 and Dec. 31. This total included 90 violations previous charged by Russia. He said 16 persons had been killed and 115 wounded in the raids.

The U. S. has answered that the attacks were made along the Yalu River against supply lines for the Red Chinese troops in Korea. The United States has disclaimed any intention to bomb deliberately any Chinese territory.

Tsarapkin presented a resolution which charged that American planes violated the Korean-Manchurian frontier and that a U. S. military vessel bombarded, detained and inspected a Chinese merchant ship. The resolution asked the U. N. to condemn these alleged acts and require the U. S. to pay damages.

The U. S. last summer met similar charges in the Security Council with a demand for an impartial committee to determine the damages, but Russia refused to accept such a group.

Bears Refuse To Leave Moat

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Two Como Park bears that skidded into an 18-foot deep moat over the weekend know when they're well off, zoo keepers said tonight. They're staying right where they are.

The big bruins—Betty and Buster—went for a little outing over the weekend when warmer temperatures coaxed them out of their winter caves. Apparently groggy because of the premature ending of their winter hibernation, they slipped on glare ice and zipped to the bottom of the moat which separates their playground from spectators.

Zoo keepers, with scores of suggestions from "bear experts," tried without success to coax them out, but the bears kept slipping back. Two ladders were let down, but they quickly snapped under the weight of the 400-pounders.

Then a heavy-duty ladder was constructed—one that could probably hold an elephant.

But Betty and Buster are smart. They're staying at the bottom of the moat. Zoo Keeper Leo Whalen explained that a strong, cold wind was whipping through the park and about the only sheltered spot was at the bottom of the moat.

Stassen Will Speak At Md. GOP Dinner

BALTIMORE, Feb. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen will be the main speaker at the Alexander Hamilton Club's annual Lincoln Day dinner here Feb. 17.

The state-wide club described Stassen in its announcement as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. He sought the nomination in 1948.

Gov. McKeldin, Sen. Butler, and Maryland's three Republican congressmen, plus GOP members of the Maryland General Assembly, also will participate in the banquet program.

Bill To Alter Md. Income Tax Law Is Recommitted

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—House members made it plain again today they want to withhold action on legislation that would cost the state money until they get an overall picture of just how much it will take to run Maryland another year.

A bill to make a change in the income tax law was bounced back to committee after its sponsor disclosed it would mean a $100,000 revenue loss to the state.

And earlier in the day, the Republican minority members reportedly reached an unofficial agreement to try to hold up money bills until the fiscal picture straightens itself out.

Gov. McKeldin is scheduled to present on Thursday his proposed budget for the year starting July 1. He has already indicated it will top $159,000,000.

And there is growing pressure for raises for all state employes including school teachers.

It has been estimated that the budget could be as much as $20,000,000 out of balance in its final form if all money proposals were adopted, unless new taxes were imposed or existing ones raised.

The income tax bill was up for a last House vote during today's session.

Introduced by Delegate Nowakowski (D-Balto 1st) it would allow every one filing income tax returns to take a flat 10 per cent deduction, up to $1,000, instead of itemizing his allowable deductions.

Lawmaker Urges Higher Taxicabs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP)—A Chicago lawmaker today proposed that taxicabs be high enough inside so passengers won't have to remove their hats.

Rep. Alan Best, a strapping six-footer, filed a bill in the Illinois House requiring cabs to be so constructed that persons of "average height" may sit upright in the rear seat without crushing their hats or riding bareheaded.

Manager Says Taft Won't Run In 1952

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6 (AP)—The man who managed Sen. Robert Taft's three successful races for the Senate said today the Ohioan won't run for president in 1952.

After failing twice in attempts to win the Republican Party's presidential nomination, Taft "just won't put on any campaign" again, said Willis D. Gradison of Cincinnati.

Legal Path Cleared For Harford Voting Machines

BEL AIR, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — The legal path has been cleared for Harford County to have voting machines.

Judge Frederick Lee Cobourn upheld in circuit court a contract under which the county commissioners had agreed to buy 36 of them for $1,296 from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Proctor of Cardiff had attacked the contract in a taxpayers' suit on the grounds the machines were faulty and could be tampered with.

M'Arthur Reportedly Requests Authority To Use Chiang's Troops

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur has asked Washington to bring Chinese Nationalist troops into the fighting in Korea, informed sources said today.

Informants indicated MacArthur believes the Nationalists should get U. S. support for a thrust at the Communist mainland from their island fortress of Formosa, off the southeast coast of China.

The administration in Washington has rejected all proposals for using the Nationalist either in Korea or on the mainland. The Washton position is that supplies needed to prepare the Nationalists for a Korean campaign could be better used in arming anti-Communist Koreans.

Remington Case Will Go To Jurors Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Testimony ended today in the lengthy perjury trial of William W. Remington, former government economist accused of lying in telling a federal grand jury he never was a Communist. He may hear his fate tomorrow.

The defense will sum up tomorrow morning and the prosecution in the early afternoon. Then Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan will give his charge to the jurors and turn the case over to them.

Commentator Seized

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced that Television and Radio Commentator Paul Harvey was "apprehended" making an "unauthorized entry" early today at the Argonne National Laboratory.

The laboratory turned him over to the FBI for questioning but it was learned he has not been detained.

The matter was reported still under investigation.

Russia Asks U. N. To Condemn U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 6 (AP)—Russia charged the United States with 238 air attacks on Red China in November and December and called on the U. N. to condemn "these illegal acts by the government of the United States."

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate, told the 60-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly that United States war planes violated Chinese territory 328 times between Aug. 28 and Dec. 31. This total included 90 violations previous charged by Russia. He said 16 persons had been killed and 115 wounded in the raids.

The U. S. has answered that the attacks were made along the Yalu River against supply lines for the Red Chinese troops in Korea. The United States has disclaimed any intention to bomb deliberately any Chinese territory.

Tsarapkin presented a resolution which charged that American planes violated the Korean-Manchurian frontier and that a U. S. military vessel bombarded, detained and inspected a Chinese merchant ship. The resolution asked the U. N. to condemn these alleged acts and require the U. S. to pay damages.

The U. S. last summer met similar charges in the Security Council with a demand for an impartial committee to determine the damages, but Russia refused to accept such a group.

War Bride Has 3 Sets Of Twins In 3 Years

MENOMINEE, Mich., Feb. 6 (AP)—A 23-year-old Italian war bride today gave birth to her third set of twins in three years.

The twin girls were born to Mrs. John Ferguson of Wallace, Mich., at the local hospital. Each weighed approximately seven pounds.

The first set, twin boys, was born three years ago. One died at birth. The second set, a boy and a girl, was born 16 months ago.

Mrs. Ferguson, the former Perina Buffolin of Vilesse, Italy, is the wife of a farmer. They met while he was serving with the U. S. Army in Italy.

There was panic in some of the splintered coaches. In others dazed passengers stayed calm, their chalk-white faces reflecting the sudden terror of the tragedy.

Screams of the wounded and dying rose in the night air. One man pinned beneath a heavy coach wheel cried:

"Help, help me."

Help was quick in coming for most of the injured. Scores of ambulances sped to the scene and their motors idled patiently as they waited for their cargo of injured.

What To Do With 7-Year-Old Bank Robber Is Puzzler For Ohio Judge

He's too young for the reform school and too ornery for the children's home," says Probate Judge Harry Albright.

The judge was thinking not only of the latest escapade of a youngster whom we shall name Jimmy.

He was thinking also of Jimmy's police record of 28 offenses.

Judge Albright said Jimmy had:

Stolen a car; broken into a private home with two 10-year-old girls, set fire to papers around the Bellaire police station, pinched all the keys from a used car lot and distributed them up and down the street, and burglarized a number of business places.

To cap this record, Jimmy pulled a $16 burglary of the Belmont Federal Savings and Loan Co. with his five-year-old brother.

Jimmy—that isn't his real name, of course—tossed a brick through the company's window, rifled the petty cash drawer and picked up two boxes of book matches.

Tracks in the snow enabled police to locate the younger brother less than 24 hours later. He readily admitted his part in the burglary—his first crime. But, Jimmy was of sterner stuff.

He steadfastly refused to talk when picked up at a Bellaire movie house. Finally, Patrolman Robert Campbell said:

"Well, I guess I'll have to call in the FBI."

Jimmy took a peek at Campbell to see if he was kidding. Then, he replied:

"Okay, then, I'll talk."

This small boy's hiding place contained candy, cigarets, candles and keys.

Jimmy said he obtained keys to a bakery, grocery store, feed store and soft drink bottling plant—purveyors of juvenile delicacies—on his first night-time trips. He used the keys later, too.

Judge Albright finally decided to send Jimmy temporarily to the Belmont County Child Welfare Board. He said the board will keep Jimmy at the county children's home for a time, then put him in a foster home.

"He does well under strict supervision," Judge Albright said, "but he just can't stay out of trouble when he's on his own."

Why is this? Well, the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus once spent considerable time analyzing Jimmy. Then it reported, "aggressive, anti-social behavior is seen as a reaction to home conditions which are suspected to being more extreme than shown on the surface."

In other words, said Judge Albright, the "boy isn't getting the proper parental supervision."

Jimmy's father is a coal miner. Jimmy's paternal grand parents ended up as a murder and suicide. He has five brothers and a sister.

Jimmy isn't stupid. The research bureau said his intelligence was normal and his "IQ" was 100. He is 48 inches tall, 53 pounds heavy, blond, blue-eyed and fairly clean for a seven-year-old boy.

He talks readily and well. He says he gets his ideas for behavior from the movies.

CULMINATING A 45-MINUTE FIGHT, police rescue workers manage to subdue a young medical student, identified as Harvey Gladstone Schiff, as they prepare to remove him from the wreckage of his car which plunged into an excavation in New York. The driver, who lost half his clothes in the fight, died before reaching the hospital. (International)

Income Tax Primer

Medical Expenses, Taxes, Interest Help To Cut Bill

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Did you pay large medical bills or interest on a sizeable loan and substantial local taxes during 1950?

If you did you may be able to reduce your federal income tax by listing those allowable deductions on your tax return. You can deduct medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income for the year.

The law also allows you to deduct most interest payments, several kinds of state and local taxes and contributions to charitable, religious and educational organizations. You can deduct losses from fire, flood, storm and theft not reimbursed by insurance or otherwise.

Figure carefully to see whether your allowable deductions amount to more than 10 per cent of your income in 1950. You have a choice of taking a standard allowance for deductions amounting to 10 per cent of your income or of listing your various deductions and taking whatever they total.

Here is a sample case:

Jim Brown, married and no dependents, had an income of $5,200 in 1950. Brown paid $320 interest on a home-purchasing loan, $120 property tax, $50 in state gasoline and auto license taxes and $700 doctors' and hospital bills.

Brown can deduct only that portion of his medical expenses which exceeds five per cent of his income.

Five per cent of his $5,200 income is $260. That much of his medical expenses is not deductible but the remaining $440 is deductible.

That $440, plus the $320 interest payment, $120 property tax and $50 gasoline and auto taxes, give him a total of $930 allowable deductions. That's considerably more than 10 per cent of his $5,200 income, $520.

By itemizing his deductions instead of taking the 10 per cent allowance, Brown saves $65 in tax.

But if Brown's allowable deductions amounted to only $425, they would total less than 10 per cent of his income. By taking the 10 per cent allowance instead of itemizing deductions he would save about $16 in tax—and trouble of extra paper work!

Medical expenses include costs of dental work, eyeglasses, hearing aides and crutches, as well as doctors' and hospital bills. Also payment of nurses, including nurses' board when paid for by the taxpayer.

You can deduct amounts paid for accident or health insurance and for membership in group hospital associations. You can deduct the cost of special training in speech and lip reading.

You can deduct travel costs "essential to rendition of medical services or alleviation of a physical or mental illness." But you cannot deduct other travel expenses even if for a rest or if it benefits your health generally.

The law does not allow you to deduct as a medical expense funeral expenses or premiums on life insurance.

The earth's fertile area is estimated at about 33,000,000 square miles.

Judge Albright finally decided to send Jimmy temporarily to the Belmont County Child Welfare Board. He said the board will keep Jimmy at the county children's home for a time, then put him in a foster home.

"He does well under strict supervision," Judge Albright said, "but he just can't stay out of trouble when he's on his own."

Why is this? Well, the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus once spent considerable time analyzing Jimmy. Then it reported, "aggressive, anti-social behavior is seen as a reaction to home conditions which are suspected to being more extreme than shown on the surface."

In other words, said Judge Albright, the "boy isn't getting the proper parental supervision."

Jimmy's father is a coal miner. Jimmy's paternal grand parents ended up as a murder and suicide. He has five brothers and a sister.

Jimmy isn't stupid. The research bureau said his intelligence was normal and his "IQ" was 100. He is 48 inches tall, 53 pounds heavy, blond, blue-eyed and fairly clean for a seven-year-old boy.

He talks readily and well. He says he gets his ideas for behavior from the movies.

Medical Expenses, Taxes, Interest Help To Cut Bill

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Did you pay large medical bills or interest on a sizeable loan and substantial local taxes during 1950?

If you did you may be able to reduce your federal income tax by listing those allowable deductions on your tax return. You can deduct medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income for the year.

The law also allows you to deduct most interest payments, several kinds of state and local taxes and contributions to charitable, religious and educational organizations. You can deduct losses from fire, flood, storm and theft not reimbursed by insurance or otherwise.

Figure carefully to see whether your allowable deductions amount to more than 10 per cent of your income in 1950. You have a choice of taking a standard allowance for deductions amounting to 10 per cent of your income or of listing your various deductions and taking whatever they total.

Here is a sample case:

Jim Brown, married and no dependents, had an income of $5,200 in 1950. Brown paid $320 interest on a home-purchasing loan, $120 property tax, $50 in state gasoline and auto license taxes and $700 doctors' and hospital bills.

Brown can deduct only that portion of his medical expenses which exceeds five per cent of his income.

Five per cent of his $5,200 income is $260. That much of his medical expenses is not deductible but the remaining $440 is deductible.

That $440, plus the $320 interest payment, $120 property tax and $50 gasoline and auto taxes, give him a total of $930 allowable deductions. That's considerably more than 10 per cent of his $5,200 income, $520.

By itemizing his deductions instead of taking the 10 per cent allowance, Brown saves $65 in tax.

But if Brown's allowable deductions amounted to only $425, they would total less than 10 per cent of his income. By taking the 10 per cent allowance instead of itemizing deductions he would save about $16 in tax—and trouble of extra paper work!

Medical expenses include costs of dental work, eyeglasses, hearing aides and crutches, as well as doctors' and hospital bills. Also payment of nurses, including nurses' board when paid for by the taxpayer.

You can deduct amounts paid for accident or health insurance and for membership in group hospital associations. You can deduct the cost of special training in speech and lip reading.

You can deduct travel costs "essential to rendition of medical services or alleviation of a physical or mental illness." But you cannot deduct other travel expenses even if for a rest or if it benefits your health generally.

The law does not allow you to deduct as a medical expense funeral expenses or premiums on life insurance.

The earth's fertile area is estimated at about 33,000,000 square miles.

What To Do With 7-Year-Old Bank Robber Is Puzzler For Ohio Judge

He's too young for the reform school and too ornery for the children's home," says Probate Judge Harry Albright.

The judge was thinking not only of the latest escapade of a youngster whom we shall name Jimmy.

He was thinking also of Jimmy's police record of 28 offenses.

Judge Albright said Jimmy had:

Stolen a car; broken into a private home with two 10-year-old girls, set fire to papers around the Bellaire police station, pinched all the keys from a used car lot and distributed them up and down the street, and burglarized a number of business places.

To cap this record, Jimmy pulled a $16 burglary of the Belmont Federal Savings and Loan Co. with his five-year-old brother.

Jimmy—that isn't his real name, of course—tossed a brick through the company's window, rifled the petty cash drawer and picked up two boxes of book matches.

Tracks in the snow enabled police to locate the younger brother less than 24 hours later. He readily admitted his part in the burglary—his first crime. But, Jimmy was of sterner stuff.

He steadfastly refused to talk when picked up at a Bellaire movie house. Finally, Patrolman Robert Campbell said:

"Well, I guess I'll have to call in the FBI."

Jimmy took a peek at Campbell to see if he was kidding. Then, he replied:

"Okay, then, I'll talk."

This small boy's hiding place contained candy, cigarets, candles and keys.

Jimmy said he obtained keys to a bakery, grocery store, feed store and soft drink bottling plant—purveyors of juvenile delicacies—on his first night-time trips. He used the keys later, too.

Judge Albright finally decided to send Jimmy temporarily to the Belmont County Child Welfare Board. He said the board will keep Jimmy at the county children's home for a time, then put him in a foster home.

"He does well under strict supervision," Judge Albright said, "but he just can't stay out of trouble when he's on his own."

Why is this? Well, the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus once spent considerable time analyzing Jimmy. Then it reported, "aggressive, anti-social behavior is seen as a reaction to home conditions which are suspected to being more extreme than shown on the surface."

In other words, said Judge Albright, the "boy isn't getting the proper parental supervision."

Jimmy's father is a coal miner. Jimmy's paternal grand parents ended up as a murder and suicide. He has five brothers and a sister.

Jimmy isn't stupid. The research bureau said his intelligence was normal and his "IQ" was 100. He is 48 inches tall, 53 pounds heavy, blond, blue-eyed and fairly clean for a seven-year-old boy.

He talks readily and well. He says he gets his ideas for behavior from the movies.

German-French Amity

An encouraging development in Germany is discerned by Leo Lania, author of "Nine Lives of Europe," who has recently returned from the Continent. He finds that the German younger generation is strongly drawn to France, and hopes for a Franco-German understandinug out of which may grow a European union. It may take some time before the French believe in the sincerity of such a movement in a country which has made three efforts to destroy French power, and came near ending French national existence. Still, if the Germans are not too easily discouraged, the presence of a greater danger may induce France to dwell less on past enmities.

A reconciliation would mend the oldest national quarrel in Europe, dating back to the Sixth Century. Then the Franks, a Germanic tribe, ruled both France and Germany, yet repeatedly split the country up so as to provide a kingdom for each of the king's sons. Reunited under Charlemagne and occassionally under his successors, Austrasia, the original territory of Germany, and Neustria, out of which France rose, steadily grew apart. The last sovereign to rule both was the weak Charles the Fat, dethroned in 887.

If a complete alliance is too much to be hoped for in the near future the two countries ought to find a way of living in friendship. Their mutual bitterness is no greater than that long prevailing between the Turks and the Greeks, who now get along harmoniously together.

Edison's Birthday

The 104th anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison on February 11 will pass unobserved and generally unnoticed, and it is strange that this should be so. Edison was one of the greatest of American inventors—certainly the greatest of his time—and he constructed many foundations on which others have continued to build.

Edison invented, or brought to practicability, the electric light, the motion picture, the phonograph, the electric storage battery, and had to his credit scores of other inventions, many of which are commonly accepted conveniences of today.

It is strange that the nation fails to honor the man who contributed so greatly to modern living. Continued neglect of his memory by his countrymen cannot be explained on any rational ground. Presidents and governors issue proclamations calling attention to the birth date of figures less worthy of remembrance.

Edison's was a typical American success story. Reared in poverty, he left school after a few years and started to make his own way at a tender age. But his education, though self-acquired, was all inclusive and not confined to mechanics. His perseverance was unmatched in an era when long hours of application to the task at hand was the rule.

Thomas A. Edison occupies a niche in American history among the truly great.

New Measure Of Time

A dramatic coalition between the newest scientific discoveries and the most ancient materials is being brought about in a Yale University laboratory.

A grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to the Yale division of science is to be used for research in the ages of geological finds, with the aid of recently acquired knowledge and techniques in the field of radioactivity. A common ingredient of all organic matter is a natural radioactive carbon isotope which loses its radioactivity at a known rate. It had previously been suggested that this offered a clue to the exact age of ancient materials when of organic origin. Now discovery of exact age has become a practical possibility through the devolpment of the Geiger counter and techniques for making exact measurements of radioactivity with it.

Through this laboratory it is expected that the ages of relics containing organic materials can be fixed with precision to times as early as 15,000 years ago. This will eliminate much of the guesswork from the reconstruction of history around these relics, and may help to clear up some puzzling questions about the development of the earth and the various races which inhabit it. The better history is understood, the better the present may be understood.

Economics In Israel

With its wage level and its cost of living among the highest in the world, Israel is facing a labor crisis. A series of strikes in the metal industry has brought the situation to a head

The deadlock is a familiar one. Management asserts that wage raises can be granted only on the basis of increased productivity; labor claims that the profit margin is wide enough to allow wage increases without price rises. The continuing flood of immigrants to this haven naturally increases the demand for goods, making it seem reasonable that increased production is vitally necessary. The alternative inflation and a lower standard of living.

Such situations as this are usually resolved only by national emergencies, which demand unselfish service for labor and management alike. Israel apparently has passed the point where its survival as a nation was in doubt. A certain amount of pulling and hauling will doubtless be normal until a time when some new unified national effort becomes necessary.

Chinese Popularity

A large city department store formerly advertised a certain type of furniture as "Chinese furniture." Now "Chinese" has been dropped, and the furniture goes under another name Obviously the store fears a boycott on this type of goods if an unpopular name is attached.

Not long ago China and things Chinese were in high favor in the United States, partly, it is true, because of sympathy for China's struggles against the Japanese. Now this friendship is turning to hostility which, even if the war in Korea ceases, will do damage to China.

Mao and the Communists are responsible for this injury, which may last long. It is not an accident; they seem to want it that way.

The former safecracker who maintained a living by renting out his burglary kit learned, when the police inevitably caught up with him, that it doesn't pay to retire on merely the tools of success. Only actual accomplishments count, and in this case they were worse than worthless.

Ways and means committees in Congress are finding there are plenty of both to consider in this season.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Comfortable Working Quarters

MANY arguments in the home center about the temperature of the room. The husband wants it cooler and the wife prefers it warmer. There is no argument about who wins. Similar discussions are going on in office buildings and factories. It is a complex problem because so many factors are involved. In industry there is no definite rule except that the temperature for work and rest must be comfortable and neither so warm nor so cold as to interfere with the ability and desire to work.

In some foundries, for example, the men work so hard and wear such heavy clothing that there really is no need for added heat. But management tried to maintain a foundry of 60 degrees F. or above; otherwise when the men take their rest periods there would be danger that the warm and perspiring body would become chilled. In ordinary workrooms, air temperatures between 68 and 72 degrees F., with natural or moderate humidity, are suitable for men engaged in light work. Women prefer temperatures four degrees higher because their metabolism is lower and they wear lighter clothing.

Unpleasant drafts should be avoided but some air currents are necessary for ventilation. Air movements not exceeding 50 feet per minute generally are satisfactory. This helps to "purify" the air as well as to remove body odors and tobacco smoke. But the draft problem is one of the most difficult to solve, especially in rooms where many persons work. Those sitting near the windows are on the firing line and are being criticized by the occupants in the middle of the room. Furthermore, the trouble is not always caused by faulty ventilation. The needs of the individual vary and the man or woman most likely to suffer has poor circulation in the extremities or a deficient vasomotor system.

Much also depends upon the size of the room, the number of workers, and how active they are physically. An air change of at least 10 cubic feet per minute per person usually is sufficient assuming that some air is leaking thru the building. Mechanical ventilation is required for adequate air movement, especially when crowding exists or there is excessive heat, moisture, dirt, fumes, gases, or odors in the room.

• — • — •

In many states there is specific legislation relative to the minimum air space per worker. Proper ventilation also tends to lessen infections in crowded quarters where the number of persons occupying a given room is larger than it should be. Disease is spread from one person to another thru droplets in direct proportion to the head to head distance between occupants. Flushing the room with clean air is beneficial but defeats its purpose by stirring up dust and organisms on the floor. The best plan is to space the workers properly and modernize the ventilating system to minimize drafts.

Too high a humidity in a warm room is uncomfortable, more so when the individual is working because the air already is saturated with water, making it more difficult for perspiration to evaporate from the body surface. This rarely is a problem, however, because in the average home or apartment the humidity is low when steam heat is used. Dryness parches the membranes of the nose and throat, and many authorities are convinced that this plays a role in the increasing incidence of respiratory infections.

UNTRUE

Mrs. G. writes: Does a corsage die more quickly if worn during the mentrual period?

REPLY

No. This is an old wives' tale that stems from the days when all sorts of stories were popular concerning what occurred during the period.

• — • — •

FOLDS OF FLESH

Mrs. N. writes: After losing a lot of weight, I have an apron of flesh hanging from my abdomen. Can this be made to disappear thru exercises?

REPLY

No. Some shrinkage will occur in time but when the apron is large, surgery often is suggested. This procedure is similar to removing a double chin except that it is more extensive.

• — • — •

ABDOMINAL DISCOMFORT

Mrs. R. Writes: I am 50 years old and have a spastic colon and diverticulitis. I am miserable. Do you think I will ever feel well again?

REPLY

Both of these conditions are common and are more annoying than serious. Many sufferers have obtained relief by learning not to take life too seriously. These persons have discovered that whenever the bowel flared up this was a sign that they were doing too much work or permitting anxiety to get the upper hand.

• — • — •

DOMINANT SIDE

L. J. writes: Could a right handed person have a dominant left eye?

REPLY

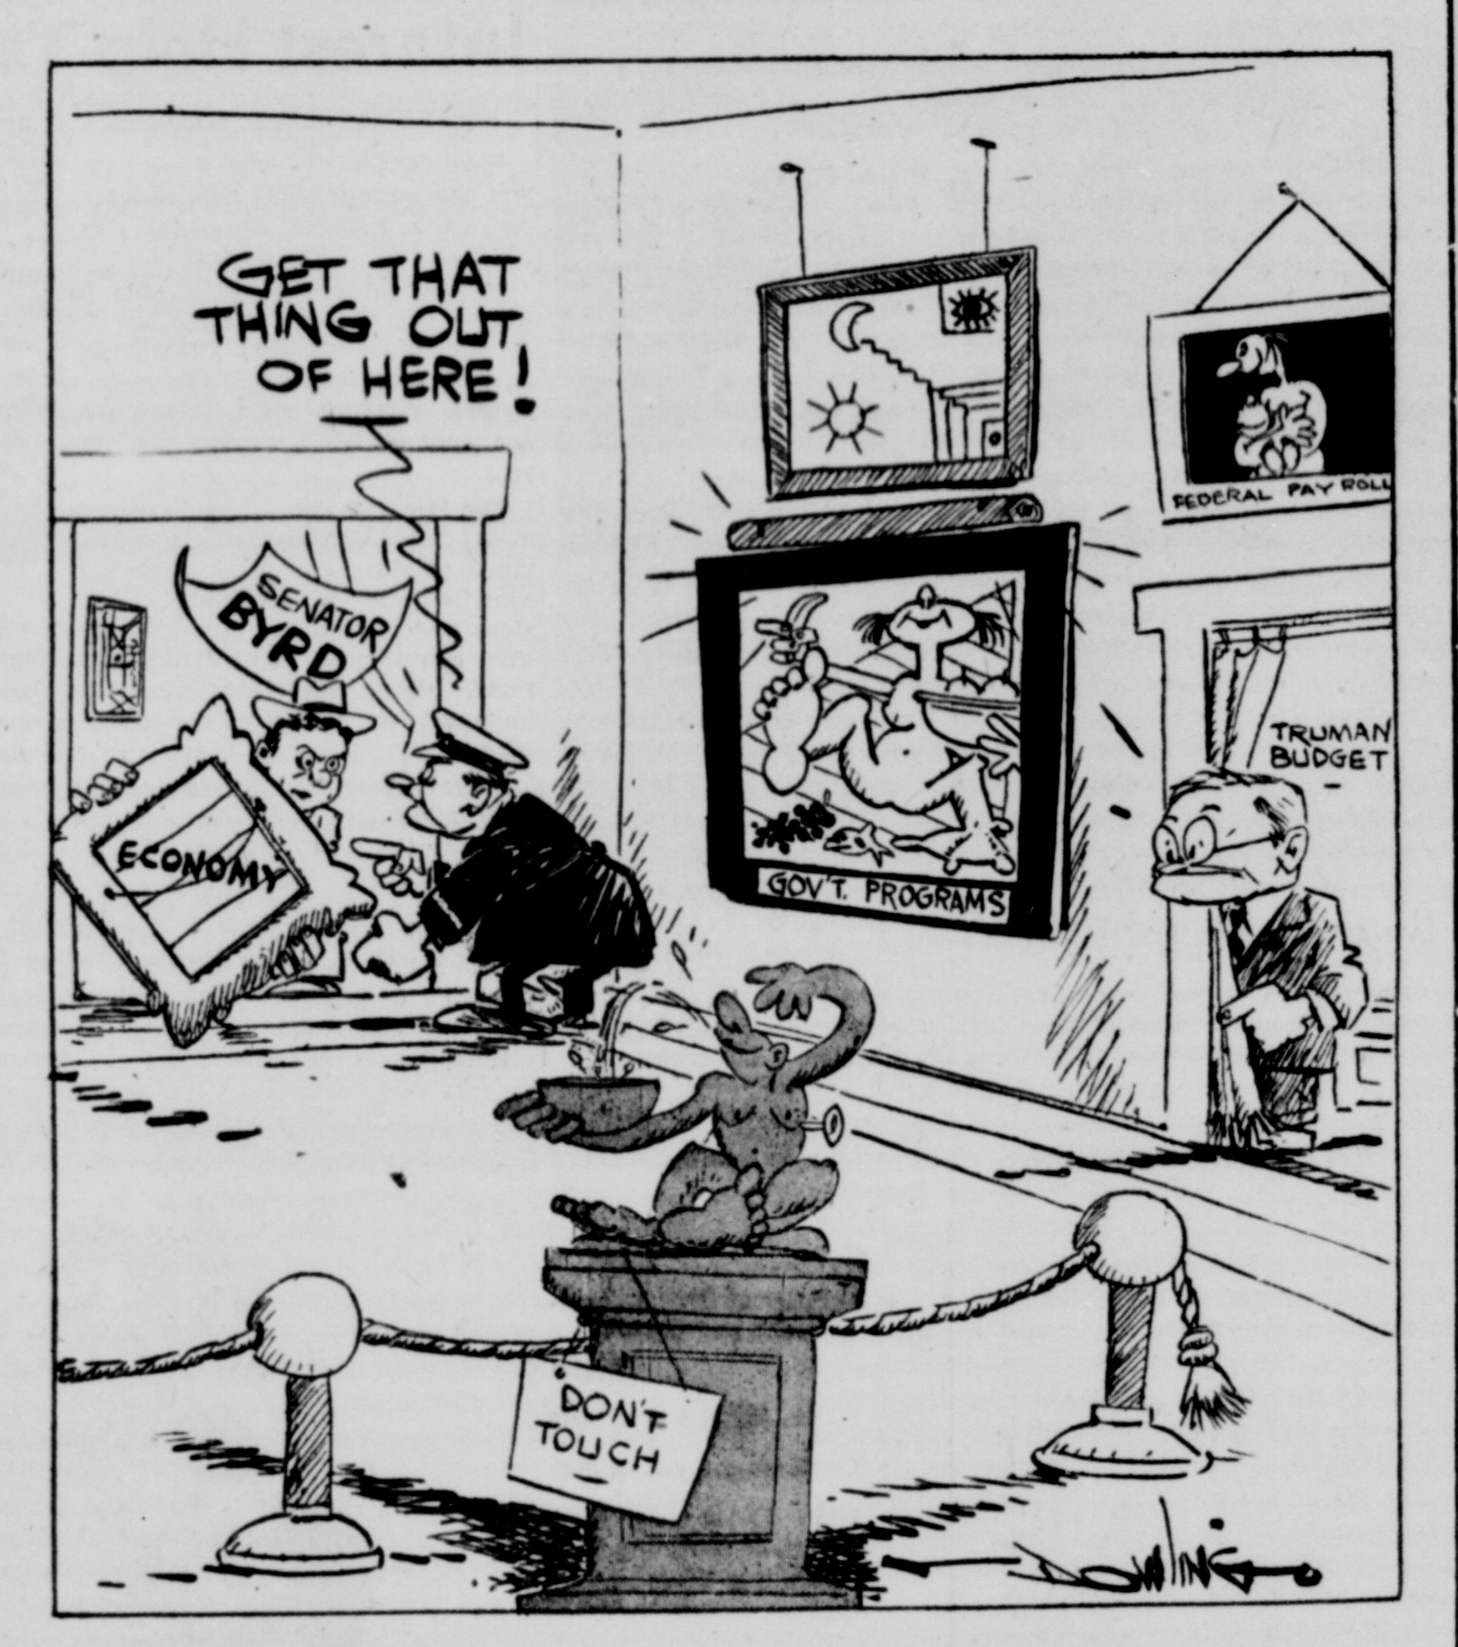
HIS LIFE'S WORK



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Eisenhower Wins Congress To His Corner; Ike Embarrassed By Gen. Gruenther; House Doorkeeper "Takes Care Of" His Stepmother-In-Law.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican—who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward Western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The Air Force and the Navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing peachy, Ike grinned: "If I should philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we couldn't help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a Chief of Staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

CAPITOL LOWDOWN — House doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room," has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.) . . . Though H. S. T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson . . . Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (DiSalle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans).

ALONG THE POTOMAC—Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952 . . . The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicy praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told GOP Leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives." .... Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee. . . . Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purpose of garnering more lecture engagements. Joe's fee has now gone up to $1,000. . . . The White House picked one of the toughest lawyers in the East to enforce price control—"Jiggs" Donohue, the man who convicted Harry Bridges of perjury. Prediction: There'll be less black marketing this time than last.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE DIPLOMATS—Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!" . . . The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans." . . . The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American Embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy. . . . Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other GOPsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

TrumanCampaignAppeals May Be Abetting Inflation

By MARK SULLIVAN

FEBRUARY 1 was a landmark date in our foreign relations, in the sense that momentous decision was in the making. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower had just returned from an extremely important mission to Europe, taken to acquire facts and judgment, and on that day reported to Congress. Congress and the country were seeking to come to a decision between two schools of thought on what was at the moment a crucial question, the extent to which we should give military aid to the countries of Western Europe.

By somber coincidence February 1 was an important date in our most threatening domestic problem also, inflation. Just a week before the Administration, seeking to arrest inflation, had announced imposition of ceilings on prices and wages; agencies to fix the ceilings and enforce them were getting under way in Washington and throughout the country. Into this beginning of the arrest of inflation came threat of more of it.

Railroad workers on a large number of systems had struck on an issue described as 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. That phrasing is almost an automatic formula for inflation, it means increase of purchasing power without corresponding increase of goods. Besides that, and to the same effect, interruption of transportation meant reduced production of goods, in practically all lines. As nearly as the basic cause of inflation can be expressed, it is increase of purchasing power, of money, without corresponding increase of goods.

The railroad strike of the last week in January was disturbing of itself and also symbolically. There had been strikes and threats of strike in many industries during seven months preceding. And these seven months, going back to the outbreak in Korea, June 26, composed a definite period. How the period would be made use of would go far toward determining the country's fate.

From the beginning it was plain there would be war in Korea and need of preparedness against greater war. It was plain also that the country's economy must be mobilized in a way which, unless controlled, would bring danger of extreme inflation. President Truman recognized this and said it to the country with the utmost seriousness. A few steps were taken, chiefly ones that restricted credit. But Mr. Truman recognized the need for other controls also and during July asked Congress for them. Congress granted the controls, in the Defense Production Act of September 12. From that date on Mr. Truman had a large accountability. He had knowledge of the need for the controls as earnestly expressed by himself and had authority to set up the controls. They were not set up until the last week in January.

Mr. Truman can hardly feel justly aggrieved if there is reproach for the delay on the part of political opponents, and others besides, together with search for motives or surmise about them. Surmise and accusation start from a coincidence in time; the period during which

Railroad Strike Bungling Has Caused Much Damage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Lots of bungling occurred in handling the negotiations leading up to the present railroad strike—and an inquiry should certainly be made, irrespective of the ending of the work stoppage this week.

The record discloses that there is a serious defect in labor-management relations on the railroads and a much more serious defect in the way governmental influence is exerted once a crisis arises.

The public is entitled to a thorough study of what has happened. It could lead to legislation to protect the public interest. It could lead to better machinery for mediation or arbitration. But certainly the utter indifference of the Congress of the United States is inexplicable except on the theory that the politicians are afraid of the punitive power of a railroad labor union and hence they shy away from any action whatsoever.

There are some, of course, who have spoken out bluntly and among these is Senator Wayne Morse, Republican, of Oregon, a former member of the War Labor Board, who refers to the "sickness" excuse for the stoppage as a dishonest strike.

The Oregon Senator believes the government might have long before this interposed its influence to bring the parties together and to avoid the interruptions of rail service.

But the fact is the government has meddled with the problem and the machinery provided already by the Railway Labor Act has been utilized, and still the parties do not agree. To understand what had been going on it is necessary to examine a chronological record of the important steps in the controversy:

March 1949—Beginning of formal demands for a 40-hour week at the same pay as 48 hours of work, and filing of demands for other increases in pay for various groups of rail workers.

August 4, 1950 — No agreement after nearly 18 months of bickering, and then a request from President Kennedy of the railroad trainmen that the government take over the railroads.

August 27 — President Truman puts the railroads under the Army. Assurances are given by the union chiefs that the union members will work for the government. This was followed by a series of conferences at the White House, but no joint meetings of labor and management.

December 14 — Beginning of a "wildcat" strike, with sickness as the excuse.

December 21 — Memorandum handed to railroad executives and union chiefs at the White House by John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman. Memorandum was signed by railroad presidents and by the four presidents of the railroad labor unions.

January 7, 1951—All four general chairmen of committees of the rail unions rejected the agreement made by their presidents at the White House.

January 18—Another meeting at the White House with Mr. Steelman, who turned the matter over to the National Mediation Board.

February 1 — "Wildcat" strikes begin anew and spread for several days.

February 2—White House claims that the union presidents did not fully explain the December 21 memorandum to their respective committees and "that they now say they had no intention of recommending it, thereby indicating that they signed it in bad faith." Union chiefs concede they did not recommend the ratification of the memorandum, which on January 7 they characterized as "inadequate and unjust."

February 3—First joint meeting in several months, with rail carriers and union chiefs sitting down together at the White House.

Many Questions Arise

Now it will be asked why, if the communication of the results of the earlier conferences and the meaning of the December 21 memorandum was unsatisfactory, some better means was not devised. Why didn't the government, which was operating the railroads, ask for an opportunity to speak to the rank and file of the workers and explain the agreement? Why were the union chiefs not requested on January 7 to explain to the government their reasons for rejecting something they had signed—and if they signed it under some misapprehension as to its binding character, how did such a misunderstanding arise?

Above all, it seems absurd that better machinery for settling a major dispute cannot be developed. Certainly in a time of crisis the weaknesses in existing statutes cause heavier damage than in normal times. When the government takes over a property, are the workers employes of the government? There needs to be a clarification on this point lest the whole theory of seizure be rendered useless in emergencies.

The rail strike has inflicted hundreds of millions of dollars of damage to innocent bystanders. But, what's more, it has injured the prestige of some of the oldest and best of America's labor unions. Are the leaders aware of the damage they have done to the cause of organized labor by the hollow excuse of "sickness"? Somebody in the rail unions has bungled, too.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The 22nd Amendment

REMARKABLE HEADWAY has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term; thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism.

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and ther agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean War, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-Second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with Constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Jesus' Fellowship with His Father

Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit...to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1. Read Luke 4:1 — 15.

The time for definite action had arrived, but before Jesus could blow the trumpet he had to plan the campaign. He had to think over the challenging Jordan experience, to be as utterly alone as a man can be. It was not a conflict of doubt concerning the discovery of himself, but a time of uncertainty as to the path he should take. He knew that God meant to triumph, and that all the ugliness of evil represented by "the devil" would pass away as a hideous dream just as soon as the world's heart could feel the awakening touch of love.

Feed the people, do the spectacular things, fall down and worship the Spirit of the World! By easy strides Jesus could climb to the world's throne by the world's ways. But to paraphrase Rousseau's famous line, if Plato thought like a philosopher, Jesus Christ thought like God.

Jesus was perfectly willing to die for the something that would last — a community of souls loyal to truth, faithful to the good, and dedicated to love and justice.

Let Us Pray: Our father, teach us the law of spiritual power, and when we have found it let nothing turn us aside. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

German-French Amity

An encouraging development in Germany is discerned by Leo Lania, author of "Nine Lives of Europe," who has recently returned from the Continent. He finds that the German younger generation is strongly drawn to France, and hopes for a Franco-German understandinug out of which may grow a European union. It may take some time before the French believe in the sincerity of such a movement in a country which has made three efforts to destroy French power, and came near ending French national existence. Still, if the Germans are not too easily discouraged, the presence of a greater danger may induce France to dwell less on past enmities.

A reconciliation would mend the oldest national quarrel in Europe, dating back to the Sixth Century. Then the Franks, a Germanic tribe, ruled both France and Germany, yet repeatedly split the country up so as to provide a kingdom for each of the king's sons. Reunited under Charlemagne and occassionally under his successors, Austrasia, the original territory of Germany, and Neustria, out of which France rose, steadily grew apart. The last sovereign to rule both was the weak Charles the Fat, dethroned in 887.

If a complete alliance is too much to be hoped for in the near future the two countries ought to find a way of living in friendship. Their mutual bitterness is no greater than that long prevailing between the Turks and the Greeks, who now get along harmoniously together.

Edison's Birthday

The 104th anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison on February 11 will pass unobserved and generally unnoticed, and it is strange that this should be so. Edison was one of the greatest of American inventors—certainly the greatest of his time—and he constructed many foundations on which others have continued to build.

Edison invented, or brought to practicability, the electric light, the motion picture, the phonograph, the electric storage battery, and had to his credit scores of other inventions, many of which are commonly accepted conveniences of today.

It is strange that the nation fails to honor the man who contributed so greatly to modern living. Continued neglect of his memory by his countrymen cannot be explained on any rational ground. Presidents and governors issue proclamations calling attention to the birth date of figures less worthy of remembrance.

Edison's was a typical American success story. Reared in poverty, he left school after a few years and started to make his own way at a tender age. But his education, though self-acquired, was all inclusive and not confined to mechanics. His perseverance was unmatched in an era when long hours of application to the task at hand was the rule.

Thomas A. Edison occupies a niche in American history among the truly great.

New Measure Of Time

A dramatic coalition between the newest scientific discoveries and the most ancient materials is being brought about in a Yale University laboratory.

A grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to the Yale division of science is to be used for research in the ages of geological finds, with the aid of recently acquired knowledge and techniques in the field of radioactivity. A common ingredient of all organic matter is a natural radioactive carbon isotope which loses its radioactivity at a known rate. It had previously been suggested that this offered a clue to the exact age of ancient materials when of organic origin. Now discovery of exact age has become a practical possibility through the devolpment of the Geiger counter and techniques for making exact measurements of radioactivity with it.

Through this laboratory it is expected that the ages of relics containing organic materials can be fixed with precision to times as early as 15,000 years ago. This will eliminate much of the guesswork from the reconstruction of history around these relics, and may help to clear up some puzzling questions about the development of the earth and the various races which inhabit it. The better history is understood, the better the present may be understood.

Economics In Israel

With its wage level and its cost of living among the highest in the world, Israel is facing a labor crisis. A series of strikes in the metal industry has brought the situation to a head

The deadlock is a familiar one. Management asserts that wage raises can be granted only on the basis of increased productivity; labor claims that the profit margin is wide enough to allow wage increases without price rises. The continuing flood of immigrants to this haven naturally increases the demand for goods, making it seem reasonable that increased production is vitally necessary. The alternative inflation and a lower standard of living.

Such situations as this are usually resolved only by national emergencies, which demand unselfish service for labor and management alike. Israel apparently has passed the point where its survival as a nation was in doubt. A certain amount of pulling and hauling will doubtless be normal until a time when some new unified national effort becomes necessary.

Chinese Popularity

A large city department store formerly advertised a certain type of furniture as "Chinese furniture." Now "Chinese" has been dropped, and the furniture goes under another name Obviously the store fears a boycott on this type of goods if an unpopular name is attached.

Not long ago China and things Chinese were in high favor in the United States, partly, it is true, because of sympathy for China's struggles against the Japanese. Now this friendship is turning to hostility which, even if the war in Korea ceases, will do damage to China.

Mao and the Communists are responsible for this injury, which may last long. It is not an accident; they seem to want it that way.

The former safecracker who maintained a living by renting out his burglary kit learned, when the police inevitably caught up with him, that it doesn't pay to retire on merely the tools of success. Only actual accomplishments count, and in this case they were worse than worthless.

Ways and means committees in Congress are finding there are plenty of both to consider in this season.

Comfortable Working Quarters

MANY arguments in the home center about the temperature of the room. The husband wants it cooler and the wife prefers it warmer. There is no argument about who wins. Similar discussions are going on in office buildings and factories. It is a complex problem because so many factors are involved. In industry there is no definite rule except that the temperature for work and rest must be comfortable and neither so warm nor so cold as to interfere with the ability and desire to work.

In some foundries, for example, the men work so hard and wear such heavy clothing that there really is no need for added heat. But management tried to maintain a foundry of 60 degrees F. or above; otherwise when the men take their rest periods there would be danger that the warm and perspiring body would become chilled. In ordinary workrooms, air temperatures between 68 and 72 degrees F., with natural or moderate humidity, are suitable for men engaged in light work. Women prefer temperatures four degrees higher because their metabolism is lower and they wear lighter clothing.

Unpleasant drafts should be avoided but some air currents are necessary for ventilation. Air movements not exceeding 50 feet per minute generally are satisfactory. This helps to "purify" the air as well as to remove body odors and tobacco smoke. But the draft problem is one of the most difficult to solve, especially in rooms where many persons work. Those sitting near the windows are on the firing line and are being criticized by the occupants in the middle of the room. Furthermore, the trouble is not always caused by faulty ventilation. The needs of the individual vary and the man or woman most likely to suffer has poor circulation in the extremities or a deficient vasomotor system.

Much also depends upon the size of the room, the number of workers, and how active they are physically. An air change of at least 10 cubic feet per minute per person usually is sufficient assuming that some air is leaking thru the building. Mechanical ventilation is required for adequate air movement, especially when crowding exists or there is excessive heat, moisture, dirt, fumes, gases, or odors in the room.

• — • — •

In many states there is specific legislation relative to the minimum air space per worker. Proper ventilation also tends to lessen infections in crowded quarters where the number of persons occupying a given room is larger than it should be. Disease is spread from one person to another thru droplets in direct proportion to the head to head distance between occupants. Flushing the room with clean air is beneficial but defeats its purpose by stirring up dust and organisms on the floor. The best plan is to space the workers properly and modernize the ventilating system to minimize drafts.

Too high a humidity in a warm room is uncomfortable, more so when the individual is working because the air already is saturated with water, making it more difficult for perspiration to evaporate from the body surface. This rarely is a problem, however, because in the average home or apartment the humidity is low when steam heat is used. Dryness parches the membranes of the nose and throat, and many authorities are convinced that this plays a role in the increasing incidence of respiratory infections.

FOLDS OF FLESH

Mrs. N. writes: After losing a lot of weight, I have an apron of flesh hanging from my abdomen. Can this be made to disappear thru exercises?

Both of these conditions are common and are more annoying than serious. Many sufferers have obtained relief by learning not to take life too seriously. These persons have discovered that whenever the bowel flared up this was a sign that they were doing too much work or permitting anxiety to get the upper hand.

HIS LIFE'S WORK

Gen. Eisenhower Wins Congress To His Corner; Ike Embarrassed By Gen. Gruenther; House Doorkeeper "Takes Care Of" His Stepmother-In-Law.

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward Western powers.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we couldn't help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a Chief of Staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE DIPLOMATS—Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!" . . . The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans." . . . The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American Embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy. . . . Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other GOPsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

Truman Campaign Appeals May Be Abetting Inflation

By MARK SULLIVAN

FEBRUARY 1 was a landmark date in our foreign relations, in the sense that momentous decision was in the making. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower had just returned from an extremely important mission to Europe, taken to acquire facts and judgment, and on that day reported to Congress. Congress and the country were seeking to come to a decision between two schools of thought on what was at the moment a crucial question, the extent to which we should give military aid to the countries of Western Europe.

By somber coincidence February 1 was an important date in our most threatening domestic problem also, inflation. Just a week before the Administration, seeking to arrest inflation, had announced imposition of ceilings on prices and wages; agencies to fix the ceilings and enforce them were getting under way in Washington and throughout the country. Into this beginning of the arrest of inflation came threat of more of it.

Railroad workers on a large number of systems had struck on an issue described as 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. That phrasing is almost an automatic formula for inflation, it means increase of purchasing power without corresponding increase of goods. Besides that, and to the same effect, interruption of transportation meant reduced production of goods, in practically all lines. As nearly as the basic cause of inflation can be expressed, it is increase of purchasing power, of money, without corresponding increase of goods.

The railroad strike of the last week in January was disturbing of itself and also symbolically. There had been strikes and threats of strike in many industries during seven months preceding. And these seven months, going back to the outbreak in Korea, June 26, composed a definite period. How the period would be made use of would go far toward determining the country's fate.

From the beginning it was plain there would be war in Korea and need of preparedness against greater war. It was plain also that the country's economy must be mobilized in a way which, unless controlled, would bring danger of extreme inflation. President Truman recognized this and said it to the country with the utmost seriousness. A few steps were taken, chiefly ones that restricted credit. But Mr. Truman recognized the need for other controls also and during July asked Congress for them. Congress granted the controls, in the Defense Production Act of September 12. From that date on Mr. Truman had a large accountability. He had knowledge of the need for the controls as earnestly expressed by himself and had authority to set up the controls. They were not set up until the last week in January.

Mr. Truman can hardly feel justly aggrieved if there is reproach for the delay on the part of political opponents, and others besides, together with search for motives or surmise about them. Surmise and accusation start from a coincidence in time; the period during which

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Lots of bungling occurred in handling the negotiations leading up to the present railroad strike—and an inquiry should certainly be made, irrespective of the ending of the work stoppage this week.

The record discloses that there is a serious defect in labor-management relations on the railroads and a much more serious defect in the way governmental influence is exerted once a crisis arises.

The public is entitled to a thorough study of what has happened. It could lead to legislation to protect the public interest. It could lead to better machinery for mediation or arbitration. But certainly the utter indifference of the Congress of the United States is inexplicable except on the theory that the politicians are afraid of the punitive power of a railroad labor union and hence they shy away from any action whatsoever.

There are some, of course, who have spoken out bluntly and among these is Senator Wayne Morse, Republican, of Oregon, a former member of the War Labor Board, who refers to the "sickness" excuse for the stoppage as a dishonest strike.

The Oregon Senator believes the government might have long before this interposed its influence to bring the parties together and to avoid the interruptions of rail service.

But the fact is the government has meddled with the problem and the machinery provided already by the Railway Labor Act has been utilized, and still the parties do not agree. To understand what had been going on it is necessary to examine a chronological record of the important steps in the controversy:

March 1949—Beginning of formal demands for a 40-hour week at the same pay as 48 hours of work, and filing of demands for other increases in pay for various groups of rail workers.

August 4, 1950 — No agreement after nearly 18 months of bickering, and then a request from President Kennedy of the railroad trainmen that the government take over the railroads.

August 27 — President Truman puts the railroads under the Army. Assurances are given by the union chiefs that the union members will work for the government. This was followed by a series of conferences at the White House, but no joint meetings of labor and management.

December 14 — Beginning of a "wildcat" strike, with sickness as the excuse.

December 21 — Memorandum handed to railroad executives and union chiefs at the White House by John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman. Memorandum was signed by railroad presidents and by the four presidents of the railroad labor unions.

January 7, 1951—All four general chairmen of committees of the rail unions rejected the agreement made by their presidents at the White House.

January 18—Another meeting at the White House with Mr. Steelman, who turned the matter over to the National Mediation Board.

February 1 — "Wildcat" strikes begin anew and spread for several days.

February 2—White House claims that the union presidents did not fully explain the December 21 memorandum to their respective committees and "that they now say they had no intention of recommending it, thereby indicating that they signed it in bad faith." Union chiefs concede they did not recommend the ratification of the memorandum, which on January 7 they characterized as "inadequate and unjust."

February 3—First joint meeting in several months, with rail carriers and union chiefs sitting down together at the White House.

Many Questions Arise

Now it will be asked why, if the communication of the results of the earlier conferences and the meaning of the December 21 memorandum was unsatisfactory, some better means was not devised. Why didn't the government, which was operating the railroads, ask for an opportunity to speak to the rank and file of the workers and explain the agreement? Why were the union chiefs not requested on January 7 to explain to the government their reasons for rejecting something they had signed—and if they signed it under some misapprehension as to its binding character, how did such a misunderstanding arise?

Above all, it seems absurd that better machinery for settling a major dispute cannot be developed. Certainly in a time of crisis the weaknesses in existing statutes cause heavier damage than in normal times. When the government takes over a property, are the workers employes of the government? There needs to be a clarification on this point lest the whole theory of seizure be rendered useless in emergencies.

The rail strike has inflicted hundreds of millions of dollars of damage to innocent bystanders. But, what's more, it has injured the prestige of some of the oldest and best of America's labor unions. Are the leaders aware of the damage they have done to the cause of organized labor by the hollow excuse of "sickness"? Somebody in the rail unions has bungled, too.

The 22nd Amendment

REMARKABLE HEADWAY has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term: thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism.

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and ther agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean War, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-Second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with Constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Jesus' Fellowship with His Father

Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit...to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1. Read Luke 4:1 — 15.

The time for definite action had arrived, but before Jesus could blow the trumpet he had to plan the campaign. He had to think over the challenging Jordan experience, to be as utterly alone as a man can be. It was not a conflict of doubt concerning the discovery of himself, but a time of uncertainty as to the path he should take. He knew that God meant to triumph, and that all the ugliness of evil represented by "the devil" would pass away as a hideous dream just as soon as the world's heart could feel the awakening touch of love.

Feed the people, do the spectacular things, fall down and worship the Spirit of the World! By easy strides Jesus could climb to the world's throne by the world's ways. But to paraphrase Rousseau's famous line, if Plato thought like a philosopher, Jesus Christ thought like God.

Jesus was perfectly willing to die for the something that would last — a community of souls loyal to truth, faithful to the good, and dedicated to love and justice.

Let Us Pray: Our father, teach us the law of spiritual power, and when we have found it let nothing turn us aside. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

German-French Amity

An encouraging development in Germany is discerned by Leo Lania, author of "Nine Lives of Europe," who has recently returned from the Continent. He finds that the German younger generation is strongly drawn to France, and hopes for a Franco-German understandinug out of which may grow a European union. It may take some time before the French believe in the sincerity of such a movement in a country which has made three efforts to destroy French power, and came near ending French national existence. Still, if the Germans are not too easily discouraged, the presence of a greater danger may induce France to dwell less on past enmities.

A reconciliation would mend the oldest national quarrel in Europe, dating back to the Sixth Century. Then the Franks, a Germanic tribe, ruled both France and Germany, yet repeatedly split the country up so as to provide a kingdom for each of the king's sons. Reunited under Charlemagne and occassionally under his successors, Austrasia, the original territory of Germany, and Neustria, out of which France rose, steadily grew apart. The last sovereign to rule both was the weak Charles the Fat, dethroned in 887.

If a complete alliance is too much to be hoped for in the near future the two countries ought to find a way of living in friendship. Their mutual bitterness is no greater than that long prevailing between the Turks and the Greeks, who now get along harmoniously together.

Edison's Birthday

The 104th anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison on February 11 will pass unobserved and generally unnoticed, and it is strange that this should be so. Edison was one of the greatest of American inventors—certainly the greatest of his time—and he constructed many foundations on which others have continued to build.

Edison invented, or brought to practicability, the electric light, the motion picture, the phonograph, the electric storage battery, and had to his credit scores of other inventions, many of which are commonly accepted conveniences of today.

It is strange that the nation fails to honor the man who contributed so greatly to modern living. Continued neglect of his memory by his countrymen cannot be explained on any rational ground. Presidents and governors issue proclamations calling attention to the birth date of figures less worthy of remembrance.

Edison's was a typical American success story. Reared in poverty, he left school after a few years and started to make his own way at a tender age. But his education, though self-acquired, was all inclusive and not confined to mechanics. His perseverance was unmatched in an era when long hours of application to the task at hand was the rule.

Thomas A. Edison occupies a niche in American history among the truly great.

New Measure Of Time

A dramatic coalition between the newest scientific discoveries and the most ancient materials is being brought about in a Yale University laboratory.

A grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to the Yale division of science is to be used for research in the ages of geological finds, with the aid of recently acquired knowledge and techniques in the field of radioactivity. A common ingredient of all organic matter is a natural radioactive carbon isotope which loses its radioactivity at a known rate. It had previously been suggested that this offered a clue to the exact age of ancient materials when of organic origin. Now discovery of exact age has become a practical possibility through the devolpment of the Geiger counter and techniques for making exact measurements of radioactivity with it.

Through this laboratory it is expected that the ages of relics containing organic materials can be fixed with precision to times as early as 15,000 years ago. This will eliminate much of the guesswork from the reconstruction of history around these relics, and may help to clear up some puzzling questions about the development of the earth and the various races which inhabit it. The better history is understood, the better the present may be understood.

Economics In Israel

With its wage level and its cost of living among the highest in the world, Israel is facing a labor crisis. A series of strikes in the metal industry has brought the situation to a head

The deadlock is a familiar one. Management asserts that wage raises can be granted only on the basis of increased productivity; labor claims that the profit margin is wide enough to allow wage increases without price rises. The continuing flood of immigrants to this haven naturally increases the demand for goods, making it seem reasonable that increased production is vitally necessary. The alternative inflation and a lower standard of living.

Such situations as this are usually resolved only by national emergencies, which demand unselfish service for labor and management alike. Israel apparently has passed the point where its survival as a nation was in doubt. A certain amount of pulling and hauling will doubtless be normal until a time when some new unified national effort becomes necessary.

Chinese Popularity

A large city department store formerly advertised a certain type of furniture as "Chinese furniture." Now "Chinese" has been dropped, and the furniture goes under another name Obviously the store fears a boycott on this type of goods if an unpopular name is attached.

Not long ago China and things Chinese were in high favor in the United States, partly, it is true, because of sympathy for China's struggles against the Japanese. Now this friendship is turning to hostility which, even if the war in Korea ceases, will do damage to China.

Mao and the Communists are responsible for this injury, which may last long. It is not an accident; they seem to want it that way.

The former safecracker who maintained a living by renting out his burglary kit learned, when the police inevitably caught up with him, that it doesn't pay to retire on merely the tools of success. Only actual accomplishments count, and in this case they were worse than worthless.

Ways and means committees in Congress are finding there are plenty of both to consider in this season.

Comfortable Working Quarters

MANY arguments in the home center about the temperature of the room. The husband wants it cooler and the wife prefers it warmer. There is no argument about who wins. Similar discussions are going on in office buildings and factories. It is a complex problem because so many factors are involved. In industry there is no definite rule except that the temperature for work and rest must be comfortable and neither so warm nor so cold as to interfere with the ability and desire to work.

In some foundries, for example, the men work so hard and wear such heavy clothing that there really is no need for added heat. But management tried to maintain a foundry of 60 degrees F. or above; otherwise when the men take their rest periods there would be danger that the warm and perspiring body would become chilled. In ordinary workrooms, air temperatures between 68 and 72 degrees F., with natural or moderate humidity, are suitable for men engaged in light work. Women prefer temperatures four degrees higher because their metabolism is lower and they wear lighter clothing.

Unpleasant drafts should be avoided but some air currents are necessary for ventilation. Air movements not exceeding 50 feet per minute generally are satisfactory. This helps to "purify" the air as well as to remove body odors and tobacco smoke. But the draft problem is one of the most difficult to solve, especially in rooms where many persons work. Those sitting near the windows are on the firing line and are being criticized by the occupants in the middle of the room. Furthermore, the trouble is not always caused by faulty ventilation. The needs of the individual vary and the man or woman most likely to suffer has poor circulation in the extremities or a deficient vasomotor system.

Much also depends upon the size of the room, the number of workers, and how active they are physically. An air change of at least 10 cubic feet per minute per person usually is sufficient assuming that some air is leaking thru the building. Mechanical ventilation is required for adequate air movement, especially when crowding exists or there is excessive heat, moisture, dirt, fumes, gases, or odors in the room.

In many states there is specific legislation relative to the minimum air space per worker. Proper ventilation also tends to lessen infections in crowded quarters where the number of persons occupying a given room is larger than it should be. Disease is spread from one person to another thru droplets in direct proportion to the head to head distance between occupants. Flushing the room with clean air is beneficial but defeats its purpose by stirring up dust and organisms on the floor. The best plan is to space the workers properly and modernize the ventilating system to minimize drafts.

Too high a humidity in a warm room is uncomfortable, more so when the individual is working because the air already is saturated with water, making it more difficult for perspiration to evaporate from the body surface. This rarely is a problem, however, because in the average home or apartment the humidity is low when steam heat is used. Dryness parches the membranes of the nose and throat, and many authorities are convinced that this plays a role in the increasing incidence of respiratory infections.

UNTRUE

Mrs. G. writes: Does a corsage die more quickly if worn during the mentrual period?

REPLY

No. This is an old wives' tale that stems from the days when all sorts of stories were popular concerning what occurred during the period.

FOLDS OF FLESH

Mrs. N. writes: After losing a lot of weight, I have an apron of flesh hanging from my abdomen. Can this be made to disappear thru exercises?

REPLY

No. Some shrinkage will occur in time but when the apron is large, surgery often is suggested. This procedure is similar to removing a double chin except that it is more extensive.

ABDOMINAL DISCOMFORT

Mrs. R. Writes: I am 50 years old and have a spastic colon and diverticulitis. I am miserable. Do you think I will ever feel well again?

REPLY

Both of these conditions are common and are more annoying than serious. Many sufferers have obtained relief by learning not to take life too seriously. These persons have discovered that whenever the bowel flared up this was a sign that they were doing too much work or permitting anxiety to get the upper hand.

DOMINANT SIDE

L. J. writes: Could a right handed person have a dominant left eye?

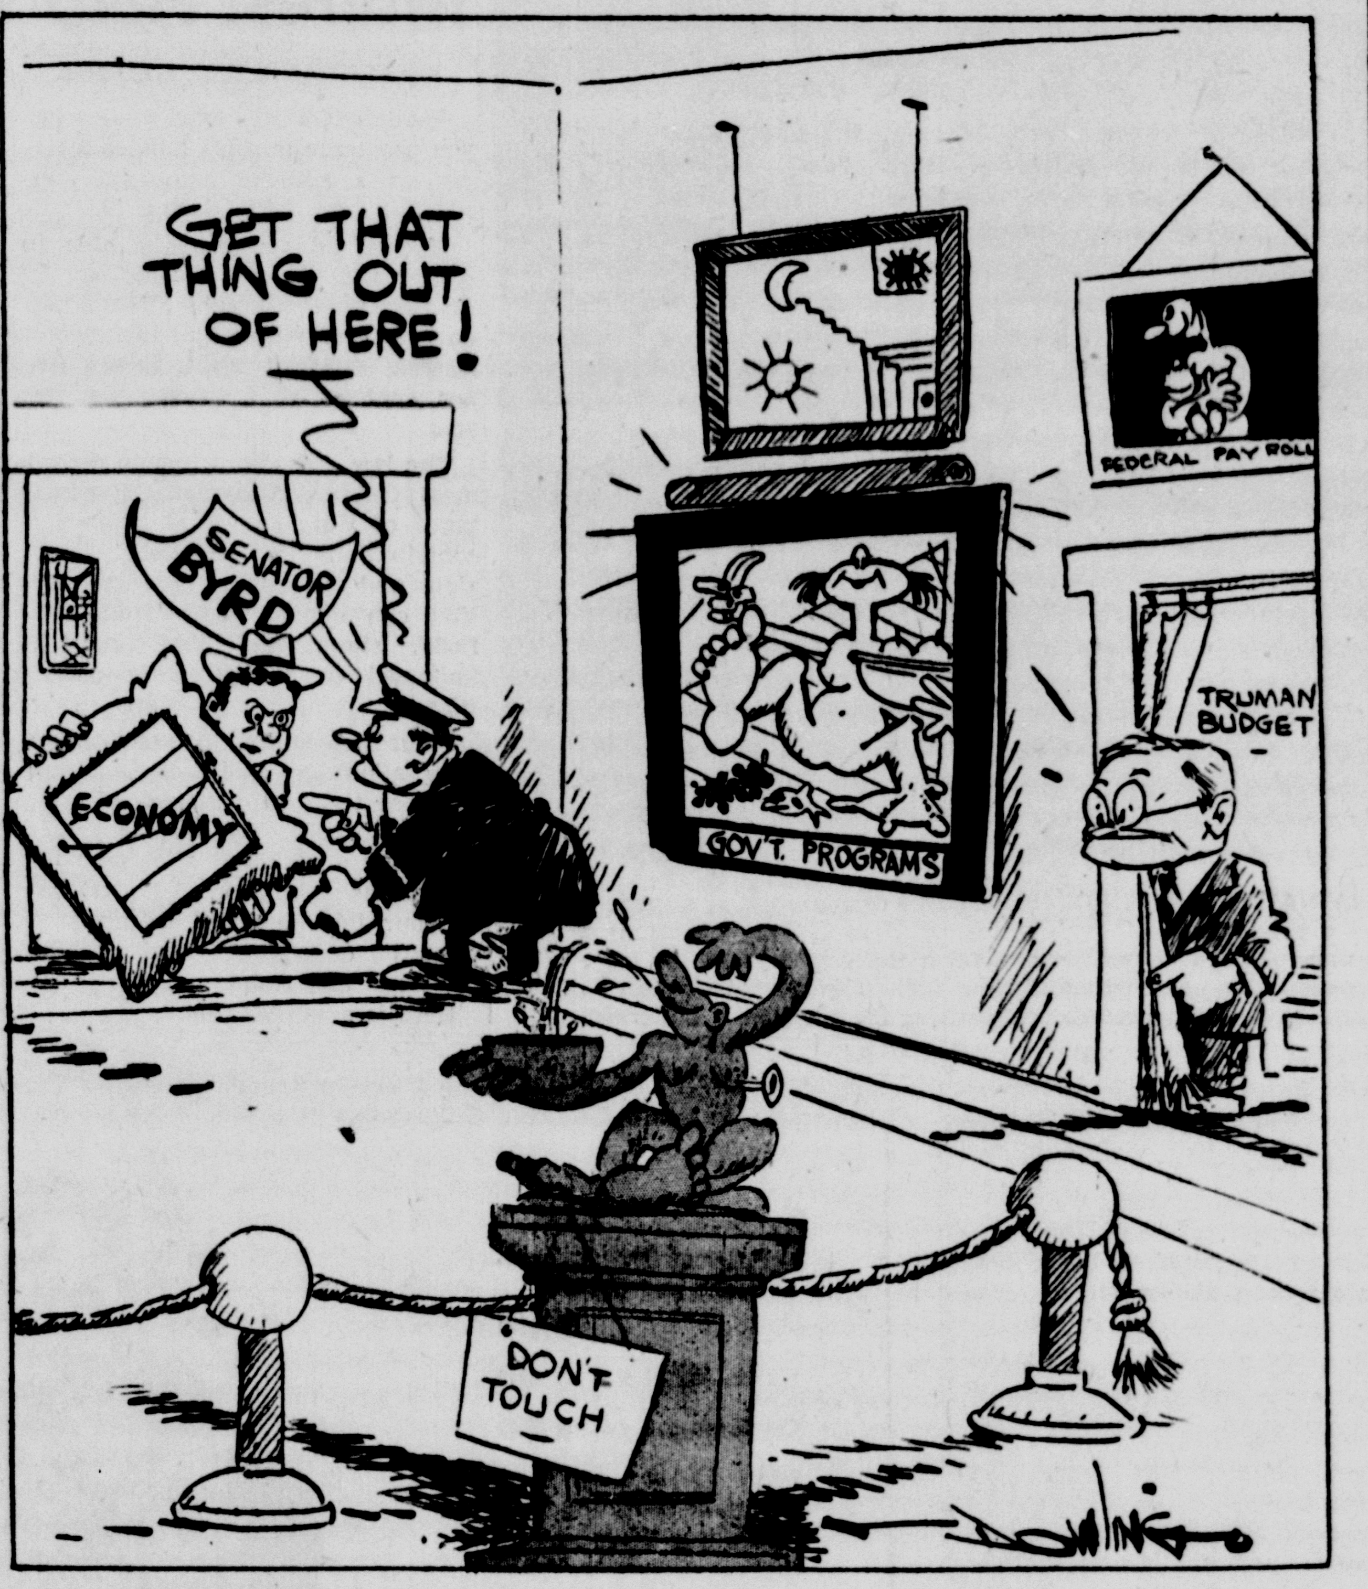
HIS LIFE'S WORK



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Eisenhower Wins Congress To His Corner; Ike Embarrassed By Gen. Gruenther; House Doorkeeper "Takes Care Of" His Stepmother-In-Law.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican—who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward Western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The Air Force and the Navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing peachy, Ike grinned: "If I should philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we couldn't help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a Chief of Staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

CAPITOL LOWDOWN — House doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room," has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.) . . . Though H. S. T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson . . . Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (DiSalle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans).

ALONG THE POTOMAC—Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952 . . . The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicy praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told GOP Leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives." .... Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee. . . . Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purpose of garnering more lecture engagements. Joe's fee has now gone up to $1,000. . . . The White House picked one of the toughest lawyers in the East to enforce price control—"Jiggs" Donohue, the man who convicted Harry Bridges of perjury. Prediction: There'll be less black marketing this time than last.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE DIPLOMATS—Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!" . . . The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans." . . . The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American Embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy. . . . Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other GOPsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

Railroad Strike Bungling Has Caused Much Damage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Lots of bungling occurred in handling the negotiations leading up to the present railroad strike—and an inquiry should certainly be made, irrespective of the ending of the work stoppage this week.

The record discloses that there is a serious defect in labor-management relations on the railroads and a much more serious defect in the way governmental influence is exerted once a crisis arises.

The public is entitled to a thorough study of what has happened. It could lead to legislation to protect the public interest. It could lead to better machinery for mediation or arbitration. But certainly the utter indifference of the Congress of the United States is inexplicable except on the theory that the politicians are afraid of the punitive power of a railroad labor union and hence they shy away from any action whatsoever.

There are some, of course, who have spoken out bluntly and among these is Senator Wayne Morse, Republican, of Oregon, a former member of the War Labor Board, who refers to the "sickness" excuse for the stoppage as a dishonest strike.

March 1949—Beginning of formal demands for a 40-hour week at the same pay as 48 hours of work, and filing of demands for other increases in pay for various groups of rail workers.

August 4, 1950 — No agreement after nearly 18 months of bickering, and then a request from President Kennedy of the railroad trainmen that the government take over the railroads.

August 27 — President Truman puts the railroads under the Army. Assurances are given by the union chiefs that the union members will work for the government. This was followed by a series of conferences at the White House, but no joint meetings of labor and management.

December 14 — Beginning of a "wildcat" strike, with sickness as the excuse.

December 21 — Memorandum handed to railroad executives and union chiefs at the White House by John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman. Memorandum was signed by railroad presidents and by the four presidents of the railroad labor unions.

January 7, 1951—All four general chairmen of committees of the rail unions rejected the agreement made by their presidents at the White House.

January 18—Another meeting at the White House with Mr. Steelman, who turned the matter over to the National Mediation Board.

February 1 — "Wildcat" strikes begin anew and spread for several days.

February 2—White House claims that the union presidents did not fully explain the December 21 memorandum to their respective committees and "that they now say they had no intention of recommending it, thereby indicating that they signed it in bad faith." Union chiefs concede they did not recommend the ratification of the memorandum, which on January 7 they characterized as "inadequate and unjust."

February 3—First joint meeting in several months, with rail carriers and union chiefs sitting down together at the White House.

Many Questions Arise

Now it will be asked why, if the communication of the results of the earlier conferences and the meaning of the December 21 memorandum was unsatisfactory, some better means was not devised. Why didn't the government, which was operating the railroads, ask for an opportunity to speak to the rank and file of the workers and explain the agreement? Why were the union chiefs not requested on January 7 to explain to the government their reasons for rejecting something they had signed—and if they signed it under some misapprehension as to its binding character, how did such a misunderstanding arise?

Above all, it seems absurd that better machinery for settling a major dispute cannot be developed. Certainly in a time of crisis the weaknesses in existing statutes cause heavier damage than in normal times. When the government takes over a property, are the workers employes of the government? There needs to be a clarification on this point lest the whole theory of seizure be rendered useless in emergencies.

The rail strike has inflicted hundreds of millions of dollars of damage to innocent bystanders. But, what's more, it has injured the prestige of some of the oldest and best of America's labor unions. Are the leaders aware of the damage they have done to the cause of organized labor by the hollow excuse of "sickness"? Somebody in the rail unions has bungled, too.

These Days

The 22nd Amendment

REMARKABLE HEADWAY has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term: thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism.

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and ther agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean War, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-Second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with Constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD
Jesus' Fellowship with His Father

Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit...to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1. Read Luke 4:1 — 15.

The time for definite action had arrived, but before Jesus could blow the trumpet he had to plan the campaign. He had to think over the challenging Jordan experience, to be as utterly alone as a man can be. It was not a conflict of doubt concerning the discovery of himself, but a time of uncertainty as to the path he should take. He knew that God meant to triumph, and that all the ugliness of evil represented by "the devil" would pass away as a hideous dream just as soon as the world's heart could feel the awakening touch of love.

Feed the people, do the spectacular things, fall down and worship the Spirit of the World! By easy strides Jesus could climb to the world's throne by the world's ways. But to paraphrase Rousseau's famous line, if Plato thought like a philosopher, Jesus Christ thought like God.

Jesus was perfectly willing to die for the something that would last — a community of souls loyal to truth, faithful to the good, and dedicated to love and justice.

Let Us Pray: Our father, teach us the law of spiritual power, and when we have found it let nothing turn us aside. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

"Pencil Point" Dresses, "Illusion" Coats Among New Spring Fashions

PARIS (AP)—Slender "pencil point" dresses that get narrower towards the hemline, wide lapels and "illusion" coats, were among the spring fashions displayed this week by Robert Piguet.

The "illusion" coats looked like a suit from the front view and a loose box coat from the back. They were simple belted jackets that had panels falling loose from the shoulders at the back.

His outsize lapels—only one lapel to each model—were shown on narrow box coats, and tight waisted coat-dresses. His suit jackets are given the same treatment.

Most of the lapels are in glazed white linen but one coat-dress in black faille had its lapel in white spotted taffeta to match gloves worn with it.

Like Belmain, Piguet also shows crinoline dresses for day and evening wear. By means of stiffening and very pliable whaleboning, he makes them a little more supple looking than the hooped variety.

For evening he showed a frilled crinoline in white nylon. To illustrate how pliable it was, the mannequin wearing it carried a small packet in which the dress could be packed.

Piguet's "pencil point" line was seen on very slender tunic and mock-tunic dresses.

The mock-tunic numbers looked like plain, slim dresses from the back but had two stiff panels falling from the waist to evoke the look of a tunic from the front view.

He uses the "pencil point" technique for hobble evening dresses.

Fashions shown by Gres, whose designing has a sturdy reputation for making fat women look slim, were in direct contrast to those shown by other courtiers so far.

She shows a great deal of Grecian drapery in fine wool, silk jersey or chiffon. Her skirts look quite slender but in reality have blocks of fanpleats or bias fullness displaced at the back or front.

Tree Experts Visit Diseased Forest Area

Two pathologists from the University of Maryland visited the Green Ridge State Forest yesterday to check into diseases which have caused damage to a large number of white oak trees, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Johnson said there have been reports the white oak disease has been found in western Pennsylvania. It may have spread south to this area, he added.

A tract in which the diseased white oak trees were found in the Green Ridge State Forest has been marked and is being cut to salvage the timber.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON.

A NEW industry like television invariably develops new rackets to fool the same old suckers . . . But a sparkling young woman, Sally Muchmore, of our Capital's Better Business Bureau, keeps plugging away to protect people from frauds . . . The brains of the world supposedly assemble here, but Washingtonians apparently are just as gullible as people in other towns.

AUSTINE

A real crusader in a man-size law enforcement job, pleasant, pretty, ash-blond Sally Muchmore, one of the most feared women in town, personally tracks down rackets, whether they're big or small, serious or petty . . . And, she says, "You'd be staggered at what some crooks try to, and often do, get away with!"

Sally's humbug-hounding career began as a secretary in the Better Business Bureau . . . Promoting confidence between merchant and consumer and protecting the public from swindles led her to law school. . . She studied evenings until she won her law degree . . . It's much easier to trap lawbreakers when you know the law . . . And she's trapped all kinds of bamboozlers—from a fellow selling "color television attachments" for $13.95 which turned out to be red, blue and yellow cellophane covers to fit over television screens—to trucks canvassing residential neighborhoods, selling lawn fertilizer which proved to be just plain dirt.

Hardly a week goes by that some new racket doesn't spring up in the Capital, and bring forth screams of protest that, "I've been gypped" . . . Latest involved a "television repairman" who telephoned offering expert services "to make your set work twice as good for only $1.50" . . . The smooth-talking operator would then make a visit to the home of the television owner . . . The repairman had an honest face and pleasing manner . . . He would explain that he wanted to take the set to his shop for a complete overhaul, but since he had promised he would do the job for only $1.50—that was all it would cost! . . . Why, he was losing money on the deal!

As usual, bewildered customers turned to the Washington Better Business Bureau when their TV sets and the repairman failed to show up again. . . Complaints began pouring into the Better Business Bureau from customers to whom he had also sold a $65 "Service Contract" and made off with the dough. . . The Better Business Bureau located the gyp-artist, took him before the district attorney where he promised to make good. Witnesses withdrew their complaints. He made good, all right—went back into business and made off with a couple of other TV sets!

When she isn't listening to complaints from some bilked citizens, or hot on the heels of some heel, smart-looking, ever-smiling Sally Muchmore enjoys a good game of golf or a romp with her four-and-a-half-year-old daughter.

From time to time she has promised to warn this column of The-Racket-of-the-Month in Washington. . . I'll keep you posted.

FLASH! BULLETIN! EXTRA! Something new has been added to an Embassy Party.

So often lazy diplomatic hostesses let local caterers dish up their buffets. . . So the unvarying shrimp on sticks, cold ham, sandwiches, etc., appear at every party, with the same old waiters passing them around . . . A taste of native food prepared by the Embassy chef would surprise the guest and better advertise the homeland. . . At the big yearly Australian party a new feature got gastronomical applause. . . Australian lobster tails, flown over for the event, were big and meaty. . . . Never tasted before in these parts. . . . Guests tore into them with Oh-h-h-h's, Ah-h-h-h's, and um-m-m-m's.

New words have sent some Senators into migraines. . . Such like: . . . Phenolics . . . Melamines . . . Polyesters. . . Polystyrenes and Polyethylenes. . .

Hate to disappoint you but those words mean nothing eyebrow-raising. . . They were first heard by the Senators while listening to witnesses from the plastic industry testifying for one of the committees. . . Stenographers really had a tough time taking the minutes.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

"LOOK HOW those models glide! Wish I could walk like that," said a feminine voice behind me at a recent fashion opening.

"If you'll just step outside a moment, madam, I can show you how in seconds," was what I wanted to turn around and say. Showing is easy—but doing is quite something else.

Even when you know the rules for glide-walking, you cannot make your body follow them unless your legs are in as good condition as well-oiled and adjusted machinery. Daily deep-knee bends, tiptoe walking and ankle rotating are the conditioners—and (please note) part of every smooth-moving model's habitual exercise routine.

Model Routine

Why not make them part of yours? The name of the exercises tells you all you need to know: Deep-bend your knees and sink to the floor; walk, shoeless, around your room on tiptoes; sit on a chair and rotate your ankles outward.

Soon your legs and feet will be ready and able to obey your commands to glide. Then you must start teaching them what not to do. When you've taken all the "what-nots" out of your walk, which bad habits have put there, you will find that you are gliding with the natural grace with which you were born.

No. 1 on the what-not list is never to let your heel strike the ground heavily. It should simply skim the floor as your weight rolls from it through the center of your foot to the toes.

Glide — Don't Slide!

2. Never slide your feet along the floor. Pick each foot up between steps. This is the main difference between ballroom dancing and walking, and why the practice of one improves the other.

3. Never stiffen your knees. Keep them flexed like a cushiony spring.

4. Never let self-consciousness creep into your walk.

Graceful movement is only part of the lovely performance an experienced model gives. The rest is a matter of poise. She controls her mental attitude so that in public she neither shows off nor shows embarrassment. When you come right down to it, this is the charming attribute of charming women everywhere.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON.

A NEW industry like television invariably develops new rackets to fool the same old suckers . . . But a sparkling young woman, Sally Muchmore, of our Capital's Better Business Bureau, keeps plugging away to protect people from frauds . . . The brains of the world supposedly assemble here, but Washingtonians apparently are just as gullible as people in other towns.

AUSTINE

A real crusader in a man-size law enforcement job, pleasant, pretty, ash-blond Sally Muchmore, one of the most feared women in town, personally tracks down rackets, whether they're big or small, serious or petty . . . And, she says, "You'd be staggered at what some crooks try to, and often do, get away with!"

Sally's humbug-hounding career began as a secretary in the Better Business Bureau . . . Promoting confidence between merchant and consumer and protecting the public from swindles led her to law school. . . She studied evenings until she won her law degree . . . It's much easier to trap lawbreakers when you know the law . . . And she's trapped all kinds of bamboozlers—from a fellow selling "color television attachments" for $13.95 which turned out to be red, blue and yellow cellophane covers to fit over television screens—to trucks canvassing residential neighborhoods, selling lawn fertilizer which proved to be just plain dirt.

Hardly a week goes by that some new racket doesn't spring up in the Capital, and bring forth screams of protest that, "I've been gypped" . . . Latest involved a "television repairman" who telephoned offering expert services "to make your set work twice as good for only $1.50" . . . The smooth-talking operator would then make a visit to the home of the television owner . . . The repairman had an honest face and pleasing manner . . . He would explain that he wanted to take the set to his shop for a complete overhaul, but since he had promised he would do the job for only $1.50—that was all it would cost! . . . Why, he was losing money on the deal!

As usual, bewildered customers turned to the Washington Better Business Bureau when their TV sets and the repairman failed to show up again. . . Complaints began pouring into the Better Business Bureau from customers to whom he had also sold a $65 "Service Contract" and made off with the dough. . . The Better Business Bureau located the gyp-artist, took him before the district attorney where he promised to make good. Witnesses withdrew their complaints. He made good, all right—went back into business and made off with a couple of other TV sets!

When she isn't listening to complaints from some bilked citizens, or hot on the heels of some heel, smart-looking, ever-smiling Sally Muchmore enjoys a good game of golf or a romp with her four-and-a-half-year-old daughter.

From time to time she has promised to warn this column of The-Racket-of-the-Month in Washington. . . I'll keep you posted.

FLASH! BULLETIN! EXTRA! Something new has been added to an Embassy Party.

So often lazy diplomatic hostesses let local caterers dish up their buffets. . . So the unvarying shrimp on sticks, cold ham, sandwiches, etc., appear at every party, with the same old waiters passing them around . . . A taste of native food prepared by the Embassy chef would surprise the guest and better advertise the homeland. . . At the big yearly Australian party a new feature got gastronomical applause. . . Australian lobster tails, flown over for the event, were big and meaty. . . . Never tasted before in these parts. . . . Guests tore into them with Oh-h-h-h's, Ah-h-h-h's, and um-m-m-m's.

New words have sent some Senators into migraines. . . Such like: . . . Phenolics . . . Melamines . . . Polyesters. . . Polystyrenes and Polyethylenes. . .

Hate to disappoint you but those words mean nothing eyebrow-raising. . . They were first heard by the Senators while listening to witnesses from the plastic industry testifying for one of the committees. . . Stenographers really had a tough time taking the minutes.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

"LOOK HOW those models glide! Wish I could walk like that," said a feminine voice behind me at a recent fashion opening. "If you'll just step outside a moment, madam, I can show you how in seconds," was what I wanted to turn around and say. Showing is easy—but doing is quite something else.

Even when you know the rules for glide-walking, you cannot make your body follow them unless your legs are in as good condition as well-oiled and adjusted machinery. Daily deep-knee bends, tiptoe walking and ankle rotating are the conditioners—and (please note) part of every smooth-moving model's habitual exercise routine.

Model Routine

Why not make them part of yours? The name of the exercises tells you all you need to know: Deep-bend your knees and sink to the floor; walk, shoeless, around your room on tiptoes; sit on a chair and rotate your ankles outward.

Soon your legs and feet will be ready and able to obey your commands to glide. Then you must start teaching them what not to do. When you've taken all the "what-nots" out of your walk, which bad habits have put there, you will find that you are gliding with the natural grace with which you were born.

No. 1 on the what-not list is never to let your heel strike the ground heavily. It should simply skim the floor as your weight rolls from it through the center of your foot to the toes.

Glide — Don't Slide!

2. Never slide your feet along the floor. Pick each foot up between steps. This is the main difference between ballroom dancing and walking, and why the practice of one improves the other.

3. Never stiffen your knees. Keep them flexed like a cushiony spring.

4. Never let self-consciousness creep into your walk.

Graceful movement is only part of the lovely performance an experienced model gives. The rest is a matter of poise. She controls her mental attitude so that in public she neither shows off nor shows embarrassment. When you come right down to it, this is the charming attribute of charming women everywhere.

Circuit Court Judges Ask For Raise In Jurors Mileage Pay

Also Favor Change In Jury Drawing

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Allegany County Circuit Court have made two recommendations to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county delegation to the General Assembly, on changes in the rate of mileage to persons serving on juries and the method in drawing the grand and petit jurors.

A letter listing the recommendations was also sent to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for its consideration. Members of the Board today expressed themselves as in favor of the changes requested by the court.

Under the present system persons drawn for jury duty and who live outside the city limits of Cumberland are allowed mileage for only one trip during the court term under the state law.

Asks Daily Mileage

Judges Henderson and Harris suggest that the original Allegany county law be re-enacted and jurors be paid 10 cents per mile for each day they serve on the jury. It was pointed out that the additional mileage payments would cost the county about $500 each jury term.

It was also pointed out that a juror living in Westernport must pay $1.40 each day for bus fare, thus his net pay for the day's service is only $3.60 as contrasted to the $5 a Cumberlander receives. The Westernport juror also has the additional disadvantage of having to spend more time on the road coming and returning. The unfairness of this arrangement is commented upon at each term of court, the jurists stated.

The court stated they are leaving the final decision as to the per diem pay for the jurors to the legislators. Each $1 increase in the pay rate for jurors would cost approximately $500 each of the three jury terms of court, it was added. This is based on the figures of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden on the average number of days each juror attends court.

Favor Change in Drawing

The second change is with reference to the method of drawing the jury. Under the law the names of 200 persons are put into the jury box by the judges. These names are taken from the voting precincts, each precinct having representation based on its voting population.

From these names 48 are drawn, all of whom are required to attend court on the opening day of court. When court is assembled on the first day of the term, the foreman is announced, and then 22 other names are drawn. This constitutes the grand jury and it immediately proceeds with its duties.

The other 25 men constitute the petit jury and are then excused until later on in the term, usually the third Monday of the term when the criminal docket starts. Of course, the 25 petit jurors are paid for the opening day of court, so the county pays out a total of $125 without receiving any services from the petit jury.

Suggest Garrett System

The court suggested the Garrett county system be used. The names of 48 jurors are drawn there and the court selects a foreman from the list. Then the 22 top men on this list comprises the grand jury. The grand jury is summoned for the opening day of court and the other 25 persons on the list report at a later date. This saves the county $125.

In addition, there is another advantage in that men know at once whether they are on the grand or petit juries. Most men can sacrifice three to six days service on the grand jury. But many in Allegany county, as soon as they are drawn, ask to be excused from service because they think petit jury service will entail a great deal of time. Therefore, many of them request to be excused although they would not do so if they knew they would only serve on the grand jury.

A copy of the letter was also sent to State Senator Robert B. Kimble. The court has requested Dr. Horace E. Flack, director of the department of legislative reference, to send drafts of the proposed changes in the law for the court to check prior to asking for introduction of the measure.

City Sewage Case Demurrer Upheld By Judge Henderson

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday filed an opinion sustaining the demurrer of the Mayor and City Council against a suit filed by Meyer W. (Kayo) Christner.

The court order grants 15 days in which Christner can file an amended declaration. Christner filed a damage suit against the city as a result of a defective sewer, which he alleged damaged his property on Virginia Avenue. He conducts a bowling alley.

The opinion stated that the demurrer in this case was based on the failure of the declaration to allege that the blocking of the sewer (which caused it to back up and overflow and damage the plaintiff's property) was actually known to the mayor or city engineer at least 24 hours prior to the occurrence of the damage, or that they were notified in writing of the defect in the sewer at least 24 hours prior to the damage.

The city charter makes this condition precedent "before the City of Cumberland shall be liable for damages."

It has been decided by the Court of Appeals of Maryland that this provision of the city charter is constitutional, and that there can be no recovery unless there is actual or written notice.

It was argued on behalf of the plaintiff that in this case the damage was caused by a defective sewer, and that the section referred to above applies only to a defect in "any public street, highway or grounds."

But the wording of the section applies also to a defect in "any public work of the city."

"This is certainly broad enough to include a defect in a sewer," Judge Henderson ruled.

Circuit Court Judges Ask For Raise In Jurors Mileage Pay

Also Favor Change In Jury Drawing

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Allegany County Circuit Court have made two recommendations to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county delegation to the General Assembly, on changes in the rate of mileage to persons serving on juries and the method in drawing the grand and petit jurors.

A letter listing the recommendations was also sent to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for its consideration. Members of the Board today expressed themselves as in favor of the changes requested by the court.

Under the present system persons drawn for jury duty and who live outside the city limits of Cumberland are allowed mileage for only one trip during the court term under the state law.

Asks Daily Mileage

Judges Henderson and Harris suggest that the original Allegany county law be re-enacted and jurors be paid 10 cents per mile for each day they serve on the jury. It was pointed out that the additional mileage payments would cost the county about $500 each jury term.

It was also pointed out that a juror living in Westernport must pay $1.40 each day for bus fare, thus his net pay for the day's service is only $3.60 as contrasted to the $5 a Cumberlander receives. The Westernport juror also has the additional disadvantage of having to spend more time on the road coming and returning. The unfairness of this arrangement is commented upon at each term of court, the jurists stated.

The court stated they are leaving the final decision as to the per diem pay for the jurors to the legislators. Each $1 increase in the pay rate for jurors would cost approximately $500 each of the three jury terms of court, it was added. This is based on the figures of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden on the average number of days each juror attends court.

Favor Change in Drawing

The second change is with reference to the method of drawing the jury. Under the law the names of 200 persons are put into the jury box by the judges. These names are taken from the voting precincts, each precinct having representation based on its voting population.

From these names 48 are drawn, all of whom are required to attend court on the opening day of court. When court is assembled on the first day of the term, the foreman is announced, and then 22 other names are drawn. This constitutes the grand jury and it immediately proceeds with its duties.

South End Business Men Attack City Smoke Program

Say Cost Has Not Been Justified

Results of Cumberland's smoke abatement program have not been sufficient to warrant the money expended in the past two years, the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association claims.

Meeting Monday at Grace Methodist Church, the group went on record unanimously as believing that because of the money expended, as compared to results obtained, the organization should hold the matter open to future discussion.

The action came during an open forum by members on the effectiveness of the local smoke control program headed by George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

The group pointed out, in looking at the money question, that $8,188.68 had been spent from April 1, 1948 to June 30, 1949; a total of $10,085.50 from July 1, 1949 to June 30, 1950; and that $10,500 has been appropriated for the department for the current fiscal year.

Formation of the West Side Improvement Association, in which several of the South End group's members are participants, was discussed and it was decided that coordinated action between the two organizations is consistent with the public interest. The businessmen felt, a spokesman said, that their group should support the West Side organization.

Members taking part in the forum agreed that the major offenders under the smoke ordinance are not railroad engines but stationary installations which apparently are not properly fired.

Considerable discussion was held with respect to specific instances in the permanent installations. It was suggested that association members report violators and the association consolidate information in a review to the Mayor and Council.

Pittsburgh's smoke ordinance was scrutinized and the stringency of the Pennsylvania city's ordinance regarding fuel was emphasized. The group said Cumberland's ordinance has no clause in regard to fuel.

The South End group said many home owners unnecessarily waste coal in the use of stokers, causing excessive smoke because "they do not know how to regulate the mechanism."

The thought was expressed, a spokesman said, that education along this line by the Smoke Abatement Department, would curtail home smoke conditions as well as result in a fuel-saving for home owners.

Charitable Aid Asked By County

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has requested the Allegany county delegation to the General Assembly to amend the present law pertaining to donations to charitable groups so as to include the Allegany County Arthritis and Rheumatic Fever Association.

A total of $5,000 is set aside in the budget each year to provide donations for the Allegany County League of Crippled Children (which gets $1,000 mandatorily), the Red Cross, Cancer Fund, Cumberland Community Chest and others.

The balance of the $5,000, after the League for Crippled Children is given $1,000, is divided among the other agencies.

The board also received a financial report from the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company covering the period from September, 1948, to October, 1950.

All of the volunteer fire companies have been asked to make this report to the board in writing. The companies have requested an increase of $200 each in view of the rising cost of equipment and materials.

The Bedford Road company spent a total of $4,224.81 during the period, and $2,733.52 of the amount was for new equipment. Repairs and maintenance to buildings was $853.02. The report was signed by W. E. Lawyer, fire company president.

'Weaving' Sailor Blames Exam

BALTIMORE, (AP)—John Mingels, a six-foot-six marine engineer, just back from Korea, had his shore leave interrupted for a few hours so he could collect his thoughts in jail

Patrolman James Stefan told Magistrate James R. Cadden he saw the big engineer "weaving" at a downtown corner after he was turned down by a cab and a Turkish bath establishment.

"That's bad," Magistrate Cadden said, referring to the charge of drunkenness.

It wasn't that, explained Mingels. It was because he had taken a check-up proficiency exam during the morning.

"This exam, your honor, is very tiresome," he added. "It makes you feel sort of drunk. Figure, figure, figure, is all you do."

"Are you sure you didn't make a stop after you took the exam?" the magistrate asked.

No, sir, not Mingels.

"Not even for a little nip?"

"No, sir," declared the sailor. "It's the figuring that makes you dizzy."

"That must haye been a tough exam, drunk or sober," Magistrate Cadden said. "You'd better not take it anymore."

"I won't have to, not for five years," answered Mingels.

"Then you can go as soon as you've assembled your thoughts," said the judge. He suspended a $1 fine and costs.

Belfoure Appeal Case Scheduled For Today

A hearing in the appeal of Edward J. Belfoure, proprietor of the Hi-Dee Club, 138 North Mechanic Street, from a fine of $150 imposed in Police Court, is scheduled today tomorrow in Circuit Court.

Belfoure was fined in Police Court for the sale of intoxicants to minors.

Area Chain Store Workers Receive Raise In Pay Scale

A contract has been signed between Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Meat Cutters Union, Local 322, AFL, and the American Stores Company for a wage raise for approximately 75 employes in the firm's stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and Piedmont, W. Va.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the increased wages are based upon weekly gross income of the stores. Workers in stores with a gross income up to $3,000 will receive $1 per week pay increase retroactive to January 20 and an additional $2 on April 1.

Stores which do from $3,000 to $8,000 business will pay workers $2 retroactive to January 20 and an additional $3 on April 1. In stores with over $8,000 gross income workers will receive $3 weekly retroactive to January 20 and an addtional $2 on April 1.

Stutzman also reported that truck drivers and warehousemen employed by the Kenneweg Company, C. D. Kenny Company, Piedmont Grocery Company and the Pritchard Company met last night at Trades Council Hall, Frederick Street, to act on a $2 wage offer by the firms.

Today at 2 p. m. a field examiner of the National Labor Relations Board will meet at the office of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, to interview Stutzman on charges of the union against the Ort Brothers Bakery.

The field examiner will check evidence produced by Stutzman against the bakery on charges of unfair labor practices. The data will then be submitted to the regional NLRB for action. The facts in the case will determine if a hearing on the charges will be ordered.

County Supports Assessment Plan

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday sent a telegram to Clarence E. Tyler, legal representative of the State Association of County Commissioners, in which it unanimously supported the proposed three-year cycle of assessing property.

Under the present system the cycle extends over a five-year period. One fifth of the county is assessed each year under this setup.

The board commented that even if the legislature changes the present system to the three-year plan it would not go into effect until 1954.

As explained yesterday by the board, the assesembling would be done over a three-year period and then at the end of that time all changes in assesments would be placed on the tax books.

All other provisions of the present law would be retained.

The area of the Baltic sea is 160,000 square miles. It has a great influx of fresh water, and so contains proportionally little salt.

"No, sir," declared the sailor. "It's the figuring that makes you dizzy."

"That must have been a tough exam, drunk or sober," Magistrate Cadden said. "You'd better not take it anymore."

"I won't have to, not for five years," answered Mingels.

"Then you can go as soon as you've assembled your thoughts," said the judge. He suspended a $1 fine and costs.

Belfoure Appeal Case Scheduled For Today

A hearing in the appeal of Edward J. Belfoure, proprietor of the Hi-Dee Club, 138 North Mechanic Street, from a fine of $150 imposed in Police Court, is scheduled today tomorrow in Circuit Court.

Belfoure was fined in Police Court for the sale of intoxicants to minors.

Area Chain Store Workers Receive Raise In Pay Scale

A contract has been signed between Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Meat Cutters Union, Local 322, AFL, and the American Stores Company for a wage raise for approximately 75 employes in the firm's stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and Piedmont, W. Va.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the increased wages are based upon weekly gross income of the stores. Workers in stores with a gross income up to $3,000 will receive $1 per week pay increase retroactive to January 20 and an additional $2 on April 1.

Stores which do from $3,000 to $8,000 business will pay workers $2 retroactive to January 20 and an additional $3 on April 1. In stores with over $8,000 gross income workers will receive $3 weekly retroactive to January 20 and an addtional $2 on April 1.

Stutzman also reported that truck drivers and warehousemen employed by the Kenneweg Company, C. D. Kenny Company, Piedmont Grocery Company and the Pritchard Company met last night at Trades Council Hall, Frederick Street, to act on a $2 wage offer by the firms.

Today at 2 p. m. a field examiner of the National Labor Relations Board will meet at the office of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, to interview Stutzman on charges of the union against the Ort Brothers Bakery.

The field examiner will check evidence produced by Stutzman against the bakery on charges of unfair labor practices. The data will then be submitted to the regional NLRB for action. The facts in the case will determine if a hearing on the charges will be ordered.

County Supports Assessment Plan

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday sent a telegram to Clarence E. Tyler, legal representative of the State Association of County Commissioners, in which it unanimously supported the proposed three-year cycle of assessing property.

Under the present system the cycle extends over a five-year period. One fifth of the county is assessed each year under this setup.

The board commented that even if the legislature changes the present system to the three-year plan it would not go into effect until 1954.

As explained yesterday by the board, the assesembling would be done over a three-year period and then at the end of that time all changes in assesments would be placed on the tax books.

All other provisions of the present law would be retained.

The area of the Baltic sea is 160,000 square miles. It has a great influx of fresh water, and so contains proportionally little salt.

Thaws Will Pose Serious Threat To Allied Forces

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—The coming spring thaws pose a serious future threat to the United Nations advance in Korea.

The predominantly American U. N. army is highly mechanized. It is fighting in an area whose dirt roads are narrow and bounded by rice fields or hills which make broadening difficult.

Even with the earth frozen, the huge self-propelled 155-millimeter guns, Pershing and British Centurion tanks and other large vehicles have trouble maneuvering over the roads.

Somewhere between the last week of February and the end of March, the spring thaw is expected, engineer officers report.

Temporary thaws have given a preview of what is to come. Jeeps sank axle deep in mud on main supply routes. The real thaw will almost certainly slow down mechanized supply lines. Tank and self-propelled gun movements will be limited sharply.

River beds pose one of the sharpest threats. Permanent bridges were long since blown up in the fighting. Now some nearly dry rivers are crossed only by fords. When the thaws come, those rivers will be torrents. They must be bridged in the next few weeks.

"The situation is serious but not as bad as might appear," said Maj. Harvey Whitehouse of Columbus, Ohio, an assistant division engineer. He explained that divisional engineers can keep their own forward divisional area road net working provided there are sufficent corps and army engineers to take care of the rear.

Burial Expense Law Discussed At Meeting

The Maryland statute regulating funeral expenses from a deceased person's estate was discussed yesterday by the judges of the Allegany County Orphans Court and representatives of the Tri-State Funeral Directors' Association in the Orphans Court.

The conference to clarify points of the law was called by the judges to get the opinions of the funeral directors and their counsel on its provisions.

Attending, besides the judges, were Charles L. George, a member of the Tri-State group; Charles E. Delosier, of Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland State Funeral Directors Association; J. Purdon Wright, of Baltimore, general counsel for the State Association, and Albert A. Doub, president of the Allegany County Bar Association. D. Lindley Sloan, attorney for the Tri-State group, was unable to attend because of illness.

More than 16,000,000 women are employed in the United States.

MILK OPERATORS HOLD CONFERENCE—The third annual Milk Plant Manager and Plant Foreman Conference was held in conjunction with the Cumberland Health Department yesterday at 1:30 p. m. at the Health Department Training Center, Union Street Building. Fifty-three persons attended the meeting under the chairmanship of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer. Speakers at the occasion were W. S. Anderson, director Bureau of Milk Control, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; John D. Liebau, president Dairy Association, here; H. M. Ewell, Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia; W. E. Botwright, Rohm and Hass Company, Philadelphia; Dr. Frantz; Dr. H. S. Johnson, chief of Dairy Products Laboratory, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and J. B. Dowling, state sanitary inspector, city.

Drills Start In April, 76 Members Hear Hoey

Seventy-six members of the Hot Stove League were present in the recreation room of the Cumberland Brewing Company last night to hear City Recreation Director Edmund Hoey tell what has been accomplished to date in organization of the baseball circuit for thirteen and fourteen year old boys for the coming season.

Hoey reported that all Little League graduates will be assigned to teams within the next few weeks when managers will draft players in that classification. All fourteen year olds and thirteen year olds who did not play in the Little League will report for spring practice in April and a draft of players in this classification will be made by May 1.

League play will start about the middle of May on a modified basis so as not to interfere with school, and as soon as school is out the program will be accellerated so that each team will play at least two games per week.

The City Rec Department has received two hundred and twelve applications from boys who wish to play in the league and expect to receive at least one hundred more.

Five of the eight team sponsoring service clubs delivered checks covering the expense of equipping their teams, leaving three sponsors who have agreed to deliver their checks this week.

Two baseball films were shown depicting the major league stars of the infield performing at their respective positions.

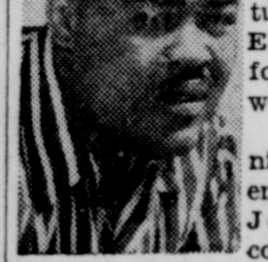
Louis To Face Cuban Heavy At Miami Tonight

Seamon Expects Joe To Kayo Agramonte

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)— Joe Louis meets Omelio Agramonte of Cuba tomorrow night at Miami stadium in a ten-round fight that Louis hopes will be the next-to-last before the return battle with Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title.



JOE LOUIS

Trainer Mannie Seaman was enthusiastic about Joe's physical condition. The Brown Bomber weighed 207 pounds when he finished his heavy training yesterday.

Seamon said Louis was "trained to go one round or 10, but he'll try to knock out Agramonte quick."

The ex-heavyweight champ meets Andy Walker in San Francisco Feb. 23 and says he would like another crack at Charles in March because he's "as ready as I'll ever be" for the title fight.

That was surprising to Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker who arrived here Saturday.

"Charles don't want Louis until September," Weill said. "Ezzard is fighting Jersey Joe Walcott at Detroit and we've mapped out a fight for Charles with Joey Maxim in Chicago around June."

But, after thinking it over, Weill added: "We'll let Charles decide it. After all, he's the champion, and if he wants Louis, we'll be willing to put it on in March, April or May."

Despite rainy weather the past two days, promoters of the Louis-Agramonte fight were forecasting an attendance of 15,000 and a gross gate of $50,000. The fight will not be broadcast or televised.

Rinehart Slated For Racing Post

Washington Countian Will Replace Dulin

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — It was reported today that Governor McKeldin will appoint D. Eldred Rinehart of Washington County to the State Racing Commission.

Rinehart, it was said, will replace Wilbur R. Dulin, an Anne Arundel Democrat, on July 1. Rinehart is Republican leader of Washington County and president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, operator of the half-mile track there.

Dulin was appointed to fill out the term of H. Courtenay Jenifer which expires July 1. Jenifer was moved up to chairman of the commission when Stuart Janney resigned to step into a term expiring in 1953.

Governor McKeldin also is expected to replace Jenifer as chairman in July with Frank Small, Jr., the third member of the commission.

West Virginia Whips Spiders By 76-60 Score

14 Straight Points In 4th Heat Decide

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP) —West Virginia uncorked 14 straight points in the closing moments tonight to spill Richmond 76-60 in a Southern Conference basketball game.

The Mountaineer explosion came after the surprising Spiders had cut West Virginia's edge to one point at 60-59 with three minutes and 14 seconds to play.

Mark Workman started the surge with a tip-in to make it 62-59 and added two more goals later. Jim Sottile and Ken Alessi each had two fielders in the outburst.

Workman, appearing before home town folks, led all scorers with 30 points, although he missed numerous tries close in. He thus ran his total for the year to 530 as West Virginia ran its overall record to 14-9 and its conference mark to 8-3.

Richmond, led by Wesley Brown with 16 points, saw its loop mark slip to 4-7.

National League To Play Record 209 Night Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — A week ago President Truman, in his congratulatory letter to the National League on its 75th anniversary, voiced the hope "may the sun never set on baseball."

Today, the National League announced its 1951 playing schedule containing a record number of 209 night games. The St. Louis Cardinals set the pace with 53 arclight tilts.

Nearly one third of the big league contests next season will be played at night. Together with the previously announced 197 American League tilts, a total of 406 of the 1,232 games will be played after dark.

Last year the National engaged in 205 night games to set an all-time mark. Seven were played by that circuit in 1935, the year night play was inaugurated in the majors.

The Cardinals' 53 night games at home fall one short of their record of last year when they played 54 such games.

Bowie Track Goes In Hands Of Receiver

Court Takes Action Following Petition By Stockholders

The court acted on a petition by minority stockholders asserting the present Bowie management has engaged in "illegal and unlawful activities" and had misapplied corporation assets.

Judge Marbury named as receiver M. Hampton Magruder, a former Prince Georges county state's attorney and collector of internal revenue for Maryland.

Until 1947 Magruder was president of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association which operates both Bowie and Marlboro, a half-mile track.

Bowie apparently will continue to operate, but it will be managed by Magruder, who in turn will be responsible to the Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

The judge said the need for placing Bowie in immediate receivership was "unusually urgent" since the Maryland Racing Commission is considering assigning racing dates for Maryland's tracks.

The petition said the state racing commission had let it be known it would not renew Bowie's license unless L. Ed O'Hara were replaced as general manager and Mrs. Josephine O'Hara were replaced as president.

Mrs. O'Hara was elevated to the post last month at a stormy board of directors meeting in which John W. Farrell was ousted from the presidency.

The petition was filed in behalf of Farrell; Howard S. Pierce, largest single stockholder and former secretary who was let out with Farrell; Mrs. Pierce, and seven others.

The writ stressed that Bowie's financial status was sound.

"But the acts of certain officers and directors," it said, "are of such character as to amount to gross mismanagement of the business of the corporation and a misapplication of its assets to the injury of the stockholders."

Judge Marbury said normally the court would delay naming a receiver until the Bowie management was given an opportunity to show cause why such action should not be taken.

But any delay now might result in Bowie lying idle this year without racing dates or a license from the racing commission, he said. And this, he added, would invite serious harm to both the track's stockholders and Maryland taxpayers.

The petitioners contended that acts of "gross mismanagement" by the present Bowie officials included "illegal and unlawful activities in violation of the laws of Maryland and the rules, regulations and orders of the Maryland Racing Commission."

The racing commission last month turned over to the state's attorney a statement made by Bowie officials concerning alleged activities during last year's meetings. The state's attorney has said the statement probably would not be made public until the county grand jury convenes in April.

Drills Start In April, 76 Members Hear Hoey

Seventy-six members of the Hot Stove League were present in the recreation room of the Cumberland Brewing Company last night to hear City Recreation Director Edmund Hoey tell what has been accomplished to date in organization of the baseball circuit for thirteen and fourteen year old boys for the coming season.

Hoey reported that all Little League graduates will be assigned to teams within the next few weeks when managers will draft players in that classification. All fourteen year olds and thirteen year olds who did not play in the Little League will report for spring practice in April and a draft of players in this classification will be made by May 1.

League play will start about the middle of May on a modified basis so as not to interfere with school, and as soon as school is out the program will be accellerated so that each team will play at least two games per week.

The City Rec Department has received two hundred and twelve applications from boys who wish to play in the league and expect to receive at least one hundred more.

Five of the eight team sponsoring service clubs delivered checks covering the expense of equipping their teams, leaving three sponsors who have agreed to deliver their checks this week.

Two baseball films were shown depicting the major league stars of the infield performing at their respective positions.

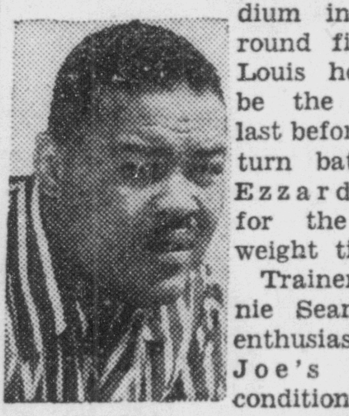
Louis To Face Cuban Heavy At Miami Tonight

Seamon Expects Joe To Kayo Agramonte

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)— Joe Louis meets Omelio Agramonte of Cuba tomorrow night at Miami stadium in a ten-round fight that Louis hopes will be the next-to-last before the return battle with Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title.



JOE LOUIS

Trainer Mannie Seaman was enthusiastic about Joe's physical condition. The Brown Bomber weighed 207 pounds when he finished his heavy training yesterday.

Seamon said Louis was "trained to go one round or 10, but he'll try to knock out Agramonte quick."

The ex-heavyweight champ meets Andy Walker in San Francisco Feb. 23 and says he would like another crack at Charles in March because he's "as ready as I'll ever be" for the title fight.

That was surprising to Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker who arrived here Saturday.

"Charles don't want Louis until September," Weill said. "Ezzard is fighting Jersey Joe Walcott at Detroit and we've mapped out a fight for Charles with Joey Maxim in Chicago around June."

But, after thinking it over, Weill added: "We'll let Charles decide it. After all, he's the champion, and if he wants Louis, we'll be willing to put it on in March, April or May."

Despite rainy weather the past two days, promoters of the Louis-Agramonte fight were forecasting an attendance of 15,000 and a gross gate of $50,000. The fight will not be broadcast or televised.

Rinehart Slated For Racing Post

Washington Countian Will Replace Dulin

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — It was reported today that Governor McKeldin will appoint D. Eldred Rinehart of Washington County to the State Racing Commission.

Rinehart, it was said, will replace Wilbur R. Dulin, an Anne Arundel Democrat, on July 1. Rinehart is Republican leader of Washington County and president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, operator of the half-mile track there.

Dulin was appointed to fill out the term of H. Courtenay Jenifer which expires July 1. Jenifer was moved up to chairman of the commission when Stuart Janney resigned to step into a term expiring in 1953.

Governor McKeldin also is expected to replace Jenifer as chairman in July with Frank Small, Jr., the third member of the commission.

14 Straight Points In 4th Heat Decide

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP) —West Virginia uncorked 14 straight points in the closing moments tonight to spill Richmond 76-60 in a Southern Conference basketball game.

The Mountaineer explosion came after the surprising Spiders had cut West Virginia's edge to one point at 60-59 with three minutes and 14 seconds to play.

Mark Workman started the surge with a tip-in to make it 62-59 and added two more goals later. Jim Sottile and Ken Alessi each had two fielders in the outburst.

Workman, appearing before home town folks, led all scorers with 30 points, although he missed numerous tries close in. He thus ran his total for the year to 530 as West Virginia ran its overall record to 14-9 and its conference mark to 8-3.

Richmond, led by Wesley Brown with 16 points, saw its loop mark slip to 4-7.

National League To Play Record 209 Night Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — A week ago President Truman, in his congratulatory letter to the National League on its 75th anniversary, voiced the hope "may the sun never set on baseball."

Today, the National League announced its 1951 playing schedule containing a record number of 209 night games. The St. Louis Cardinals set the pace with 53 arclight tilts.

Nearly one third of the big league contests next season will be played at night. Together with the previously announced 197 American League tilts, a total of 406 of the 1,232 games will be played after dark.

Last year the National engaged in 205 night games to set an all-time mark. Seven were played by that circuit in 1935, the year night play was inaugurated in the majors.

The Cardinals' 53 night games at home fall one short of their record of last year when they played 54 such games.

Bowie Track Goes In Hands Of Receiver

Court Takes Action Following Petition By Stockholders

The court acted on a petition by minority stockholders asserting the present Bowie management has engaged in "illegal and unlawful activities" and had misapplied corporation assets.

Judge Marbury named as receiver M. Hampton Magruder, a former Prince Georges county state's attorney and collector of internal revenue for Maryland.

Until 1947 Magruder was president of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association which operates both Bowie and Marlboro, a half-mile track.

Bowie apparently will continue to operate, but it will be managed by Magruder, who in turn will be responsible to the Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

The judge said the need for placing Bowie in immediate receivership was "unusually urgent" since the Maryland Racing Commission is considering assigning racing dates for Maryland's tracks.

The petition said the state racing commission had let it be known it would not renew Bowie's license unless L. Ed O'Hara were replaced as general manager and Mrs. Josephine O'Hara were replaced as president.

Mrs. O'Hara was elevated to the post last month at a stormy board of directors meeting in which John W. Farrell was ousted from the presidency.

The petition was filed in behalf of Farrell; Howard S. Pierce, largest single stockholder and former secretary who was let out with Farrell; Mrs. Pierce, and seven others.

The writ stressed that Bowie's financial status was sound.

"But the acts of certain officers and directors," it said, "are of such character as to amount to gross mismanagement of the business of the corporation and a misapplication of its assets to the injury of the stockholders."

Judge Marbury said normally the court would delay naming a receiver until the Bowie management was given an opportunity to show cause why such action should not be taken.

But any delay now might result in Bowie lying idle this year without racing dates or a license from the racing commission, he said. And this, he added, would invite serious harm to both the track's stockholders and Maryland taxpayers.

The petitioners contended that acts of "gross mismanagement" by the present Bowie officials included "illegal and unlawful activities in violation of the laws of Maryland and the rules, regulations and orders of the Maryland Racing Commission."

The racing commission last month turned over to the state's attorney a statement made by Bowie officials concerning alleged activities during last year's meetings. The state's attorney has said the statement probably would not be made public until the county grand jury convenes in April.

Drills Start In April, 76 Members Hear Hoey

Seventy-six members of the Hot Stove League were present in the recreation room of the Cumberland Brewing Company last night to hear City Recreation Director Edmund Hoey tell what has been accomplished to date in organization of the baseball circuit for thirteen and fourteen year old boys for the coming season.

Hoey reported that all Little League graduates will be assigned to teams within the next few weeks when managers will draft players in that classification. All fourteen year olds and thirteen year olds who did not play in the Little League will report for spring practice in April and a draft of players in this classification will be made by May 1.

League play will start about the middle of May on a modified basis so as not to interfere with school, and as soon as school is out the program will be accellerated so that each team will play at least two games per week.

The City Rec Department has received two hundred and twelve applications from boys who wish to play in the league and expect to receive at least one hundred more.

Five of the eight team sponsoring service clubs delivered checks covering the expense of equipping their teams, leaving three sponsors who have agreed to deliver their checks this week.

Two baseball films were shown depicting the major league stars of the infield performing at their respective positions.

Louis To Face Cuban Heavy At Miami Tonight

Seamon Expects Joe To Kayo Agramonte

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)— Joe Louis meets Omelio Agramonte of Cuba tomorrow night at Miami stadium in a ten-round fight that Louis hopes will be the next-to-last before the return battle with Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title.

JOE LOUIS

Trainer Mannie Seaman was enthusiastic about Joe's physical condition. The Brown Bomber weighed 207 pounds when he finished his heavy training yesterday.

Seamon said Louis was "trained to go one round or 10, but he'll try to knock out Agramonte quick."

The ex-heavyweight champ meets Andy Walker in San Francisco Feb. 23 and says he would like another crack at Charles in March because he's "as ready as I'll ever be" for the title fight.

That was surprising to Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker who arrived here Saturday.

"Charles don't want Louis until September," Weill said. "Ezzard is fighting Jersey Joe Walcott at Detroit and we've mapped out a fight for Charles with Joey Maxim in Chicago around June."

But, after thinking it over, Weill added: "We'll let Charles decide it. After all, he's the champion, and if he wants Louis, we'll be willing to put it on in March, April or May."

Despite rainy weather the past two days, promoters of the Louis-Agramonte fight were forecasting an attendance of 15,000 and a gross gate of $50,000. The fight will not be broadcast or televised.

Rinehart Slated For Racing Post

Washington Countian Will Replace Dulin

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — It was reported today that Governor McKeldin will appoint D. Eldred Rinehart of Washington County to the State Racing Commission.

Rinehart, it was said, will replace Wilbur R. Dulin, an Anne Arundel Democrat, on July 1. Rinehart is Republican leader of Washington County and president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, operator of the half-mile track there.

Dulin was appointed to fill out the term of H. Courtenay Jenifer which expires July 1. Jenifer was moved up to chairman of the commission when Stuart Janney resigned to step into a term expiring in 1953.

Governor McKeldin also is expected to replace Jenifer as chairman in July with Frank Small, Jr., the third member of the commission.

14 Straight Points In 4th Heat Decide

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP) —West Virginia uncorked 14 straight points in the closing moments tonight to spill Richmond 76-60 in a Southern Conference basketball game.

The Mountaineer explosion came after the surprising Spiders had cut West Virginia's edge to one point at 60-59 with three minutes and 14 seconds to play.

Mark Workman started the surge with a tip-in to make it 62-59 and added two more goals later. Jim Sottile and Ken Alessi each had two fielders in the outburst.

Workman, appearing before home town folks, led all scorers with 30 points, although he missed numerous tries close in. He thus ran his total for the year to 530 as West Virginia ran its overall record to 14-9 and its conference mark to 8-3.

Richmond, led by Wesley Brown with 16 points, saw its loop mark slip to 4-7.

National League To Play Record 209 Night Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — A week ago President Truman, in his congratulatory letter to the National League on its 75th anniversary, voiced the hope "may the sun never set on baseball."

Today, the National League announced its 1951 playing schedule containing a record number of 209 night games. The St. Louis Cardinals set the pace with 53 arclight tilts.

Nearly one third of the big league contests next season will be played at night. Together with the previously announced 197 American League tilts, a total of 406 of the 1,232 games will be played after dark.

Last year the National engaged in 205 night games to set an all-time mark. Seven were played by that circuit in 1935, the year night play was inaugurated in the majors.

The Cardinals' 53 night games at home fall one short of their record of last year when they played 54 such games.

Bowie Track Goes In Hands Of Receiver

Court Takes Action Following Petition By Stockholders

The court acted on a petition by minority stockholders asserting the present Bowie management has engaged in "illegal and unlawful activities" and had misapplied corporation assets.

Judge Marbury named as receiver M. Hampton Magruder, a former Prince Georges county state's attorney and collector of internal revenue for Maryland.

Until 1947 Magruder was president of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association which operates both Bowie and Marlboro, a half-mile track.

Bowie apparently will continue to operate, but it will be managed by Magruder, who in turn will be responsible to the Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

The judge said the need for placing Bowie in immediate receivership was "unusually urgent" since the Maryland Racing Commission is considering assigning racing dates for Maryland's tracks.

The petition said the state racing commission had let it be known it would not renew Bowie's license unless L. Ed O'Hara were replaced as general manager and Mrs. Josephine O'Hara were replaced as president.

Mrs. O'Hara was elevated to the post last month at a stormy board of directors meeting in which John W. Farrell was ousted from the presidency.

The petition was filed in behalf of Farrell; Howard S. Pierce, largest single stockholder and former secretary who was let out with Farrell; Mrs. Pierce, and seven others.

The writ stressed that Bowie's financial status was sound.

"But the acts of certain officers and directors," it said, "are of such character as to amount to gross mismanagement of the business of the corporation and a misapplication of its assets to the injury of the stockholders."

Judge Marbury said normally the court would delay naming a receiver until the Bowie management was given an opportunity to show cause why such action should not be taken.

But any delay now might result in Bowie lying idle this year without racing dates or a license from the racing commission, he said. And this, he added, would invite serious harm to both the track's stockholders and Maryland taxpayers.

The petitioners contended that acts of "gross mismanagement" by the present Bowie officials included "illegal and unlawful activities in violation of the laws of Maryland and the rules, regulations and orders of the Maryland Racing Commission."

The racing commission last month turned over to the state's attorney a statement made by Bowie officials concerning alleged activities during last year's meetings. The state's attorney has said the statement probably would not be made public until the county grand jury convenes in April.

Colorful Career Of Gabby Street Ended By Death

Led St. Louis Cards To Pair Of Pennants

Gabby Street

The "Old Sarge," who served as player, manager and radio commentator during his years in the sport, died in a Joplin hospital at the age of 68.

He entered the hospital January 24 and died of a malignancy of which he had never been advised. Twice before he had fought off the same trouble, undergoing operations in 1945 and 1949. At his bedside when he died at 5:55 o'clock this morning were Mrs. Street and their two children, Marine Lieutenant Charles E. Street, Jr., and Mrs. Owen Hull of Weston, Mo.

Gabby's career included terms as manager of the two St. Louis major league teams, the Cardinals in 1930-33 and the Browns in 1938. He won pennants with the Cards in 1930 and 1931 and led them to a world series victory over the Philadelphia Athletics the latter year.

He considered those two years and his association with pitcher Walter Johnson on Washington Senator teams as the highlights of his career. The Johnson-Street combination was one of the game's great batteries.

A member of baseball's old guard, Gabby was a popular figure in diamond society from coast to coast. Early in life he chose the nickname Gabby for himself and it suited him well. He had a seemingly endless supply of baseball yarns. He was the first man to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, a stunt which gained him much publicity.

Gabby broke into professional baseball with Hopkinsville, Ky. in the kitty league in 1902. After a term with Terre Haute, Ind., in 1904 he went to the majors and played with the Senators, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Braves and New York Yankees.

A weak hitter—his lifetime major league average was .208—Gabby dropped into the minors in 1913 where he played with San Francisco, Chattanooga, Nashville, Joplin, Muskogee, Okla., Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

After his St. Louis Cardinals jobs, he managed San Francisco for two years in 1936 handled St. Paul in the American Association before being signed as Browns' manager in 1938. In recent years he had been broadcasting Cardinal games over a midwestern network.

Funeral plans have not been completed.

Japan Draws US Davis Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 6 (AP) — Japan, challenging for the Davis Cup for the first time since before the war, was drawn today to face the United States in the first round of the North American Zone in the 1951 championships.

If the Japanese succeed in training a team and sending it to the U. S., it will mark the first time in exactly 30 years that the two countries have met in international tennis competition.

Back in 1921 the Japanese surprised the tennis world by playing through to the challenge round, where they lost to the American team, 5-0, at Forest Hills.

Play At Campobello, AHS Annexed Opener

Ridgeley High's busy Blackhawks will play the second of three games on their schedule for this week when they wind up their season series with Allegany High School tonight on the Campobello court at 8 o'clock.

Coach Ralph Poling's aggregation dropped a 69-60 decision at Moorefield on Monday and will play its final game of the week on Friday by meeting LaSalle on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The boys across the Potomac lost the series opener to Allegany, 56-49, beat LaSalle 50-41 and lost to Fort Hill 55-38. A win tonight would give the Mineral Countians an even break with Cumberland teams.

Ridgeley's record to date is eight wins and seven losses. Allegany has bagged six and lost eight.

Officials for tonight's game will be Bill Hahn and William "Bee" Orndorff.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games round out tonight's cage program.

Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High Elks play hosts to Capon Bridge while the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney invades Mathias to do battle with Mathias High School.

Lew Jenkins Sober When Car Killed MP

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Feb. 6 (AP) —Police reported today that former boxing champion Lew Jenkins was not under the influence of alcohol when his automobile struck and killed a military policeman.

Jenkins, who once held the lightweight title, has been held in the county jail since Sunday night when Corp. David Dexter of Camp Carson, near here, was run down.

A blood test was made of Jenkins at a hospital yesterday. He is a sergeant at Camp Carson and has coached the boxing team at the post since last August.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (INS) — Sometimes we get downright discouraged trying to tell some of the sucker public how the chips are stacked against them in the fight and wrestling rackets.

And when we think of that alleged "fight" between Joe Louis and Omelio Agramonte in Miami tomorrow night we are forcibly reminded of the old saying among Broadway con men:

"Never give a sucker an even break because he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it."

We asked Al Weill, matchmaker for the International Boxing Octopus, how he ever dug up nerve to foist this one on Miami, and his reply was:

"Say, you guys are all wet about Agramonte. He's a great fighter. Maybe he will knock Louis out. Anyhow, it will do at least $60,000."

Can you tie that? and, mind you this is the same Agramonte who had to be assured Louis would go easy on him in a four-round exhibition with the big gloves.

He also is the same Agramonte who was soundly thrashed by one Clarence Henry in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden only three weeks ago.

And Weill has the gall to insist this bird is a great fighter.

The old Joe Louis would have stopped Agramonte with one punch. Even now, as far gone as he is, Joe shouldn't let him go over three rounds.

If a rabbit like Agramonte can go the full ten heats with Joe, Joe should be made to hang up his gloves before even a mediocre pug beats his brains out.

No matter how bad the fight may be it won't worry Weill, provided it draws the $60,000 he predicted. Should the fight prove a stinkeroo, Fat will simply waive a pudgy cynical paw and say, as he has said so often before:

"Well, nobody made them pay to see it."

And then some wonder what's wrong with the fight racket.

It just occurs to us that Joe Louis might do well, since he is running a Bum Of The Month Club again, to follow Max Baer's example and become a wrestler.

We hear that Max is to get $100,000 (promoter's publicity figures) for 26 weeks on the mat.

Max should be a distinct addition to the mat game and he was often enough on the canvas to be entirely familiar there.

At that, his still magnificent physique should make him a tremendous attraction, especially to the female fans, and his hamming should be worth the price of admission.

If a neanderthal specimen like Primo Carnera can pack 'em in, Max should have the SRO sign out all the time.

Louis, too, could easily blow himself up to 250 pounds and be a distinct addition to the quote game unquote.

Maryland Harness Tracks Satisfied Oppose Separate Racing Commission

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Owners of the state's four harness tracks said today they didn't want a separate racing commission to supervise their sport.

Representatives of Rosecroft, Laurel, Ocean Downs and Baltimore Raceways said they are satisfied with administration by the present commission which regulates all Maryland horse racing.

They joined spokesmen for thoroughbred tracks and two of the present racing commissioners in asking the House Ways and Means Committee to kill a bill to name a separate harness commission.

All opponents expressed fear that squabbles between two commissions over awarding dates would jeopardize the entire sport.

The commission bill was introduced by Delegate McNulty (D-Anne Arundel) as representative of harness horse owners and trainers he said are demanding a voice in administration of their sport. McNulty and other proponents admitted at this and a previous hearing they have no specific complaints against regulation by the present commission.

"Our real objection to this bill," said Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico, "is that it is an unnecessary duplication that can do nothing but cause trouble."

He said it is difficult now with one commission to allot 230 racing days a year with a minimum of competition and it would be almost an impossibility to do so with two commissions.

Reckord said the mile thoroughbred tracks are the state's primary concern because they produce $4,000,000 of Maryland's $4,500,000 revenue from racing.

"Unless we so adjust our dates so that the mile tracks can cater to the large crowds, thereby getting a greater amount of play, the state as well as the tracks will be the loser," he declared.

Reckord suggested the harness horsemen might be satisfied if by law one of their representatives would be appointed to the present commission. The harness horsemen opposed this, and so did H. Courtenay Jenifer, present racing chairman.

Jenifer said the racing commissioners shouldn't be horsemen of any type and that since 1920 only two of them have been. The commissioners' jobs are merely regulatory and don't require actual experience with horses, he said.

"If you don't protect the interest of the state," he said, "you might as well repeal your racing laws and sell your horses."

Ridgeley Meets Allegany In Series Finale Tonight

Play At Campobello, AHS Annexed Opener

Ridgeley High's busy Blackhawks will play the second of three games on their schedule for this week when they wind up their season series with Allegany High School tonight on the Campobello court at 8 o'clock.

Coach Ralph Poling's aggregation dropped a 69-60 decision at Moorefield on Monday and will play its final game of the week on Friday by meeting LaSalle on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The boys across the Potomac lost the series opener to Allegany, 56-49, beat LaSalle 50-41 and lost to Fort Hill 55-38. A win tonight would give the Mineral Countians an even break with Cumberland teams.

Ridgeley's record to date is eight wins and seven losses. Allegany has bagged six and lost eight.

Officials for tonight's game will be Bill Hahn and William "Bee" Orndorff.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games round out tonight's cage program.

Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High Elks play hosts to Capon Bridge while the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney invades Mathias to do battle with Mathias High School.

Colorful Career Of Gabby Street Ended By Death

Led St. Louis Cards To Pair Of Pennants

Gabby Street

He entered the hospital January 24 and died of a malignancy of which he had never been advised. Twice before he had fought off the same trouble, undergoing operations in 1945 and 1949. At his bedside when he died at 5:55 o'clock this morning were Mrs. Street and their two children, Marine Lieutenant Charles E. Street, Jr., and Mrs. Owen Hull of Weston, Mo.

Gabby's career included terms as manager of the two St. Louis major league teams, the Cardinals in 1930-33 and the Browns in 1938. He won pennants with the Cards in 1930 and 1931 and led them to a world series victory over the Philadelphia Athletics the latter year.

He considered those two years and his association with pitcher Walter Johnson on Washington Senator teams as the highlights of his career. The Johnson-Street combination was one of the game's great batteries.

A member of baseball's old guard, Gabby was a popular figure in diamond society from coast to coast. Early in life he chose the nickname Gabby for himself and it suited him well. He had a seemingly endless supply of baseball yarns. He was the first man to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, a stunt which gained him much publicity.

Gabby broke into professional baseball with Hopkinsville, Ky. in the kitty league in 1902. After a term with Terre Haute, Ind., in 1904 he went to the majors and played with the Senators, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Braves and New York Yankees.

A weak hitter—his lifetime major league average was .208—Gabby dropped into the minors in 1913 where he played with San Francisco, Chattanooga, Nashville, Joplin, Muskogee, Okla., Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

After his St. Louis Cardinals jobs, he managed San Francisco for two years in 1936 handled St. Paul in the American Association before being signed as Browns' manager in 1938. In recent years he had been broadcasting Cardinal games over a midwestern network.

Funeral plans have not been completed.

Japan Draws US Davis Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 6 (AP) — Japan, challenging for the Davis Cup for the first time since before the war, was drawn today to face the United States in the first round of the North American Zone in the 1951 championships.

If the Japanese succeed in training a team and sending it to the U. S., it will mark the first time in exactly 30 years that the two countries have met in international tennis competition.

Back in 1921 the Japanese surprised the tennis world by playing through to the challenge round, where they lost to the American team, 5-0, at Forest Hills.

Names of the challenging countries were drawn from the kleaming Davis Cup today by Sir John Latham, chief justice of Australia.

Ridgeley Meets Allegany In Series Finale Tonight

Play At Campobello, AHS Annexed Opener

Ridgeley High's busy Blackhawks will play the second of three games on their schedule for this week when they wind up their season series with Allegany High School tonight on the Campobello court at 8 o'clock.

Coach Ralph Poling's aggregation dropped a 69-60 decision at Moorefield on Monday and will play its final game of the week on Friday by meeting LaSalle on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The boys across the Potomac lost the series opener to Allegany, 56-49, beat LaSalle 50-41 and lost to Fort Hill 55-38. A win tonight would give the Mineral Countians an even break with Cumberland teams.

Ridgeley's record to date is eight wins and seven losses. Allegany has bagged six and lost eight.

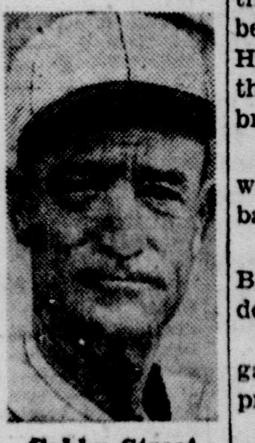
Officials for tonight's game will be Bill Hahn and William "Bee" Orndorff.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games round out tonight's cage program.

Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High Elks play hosts to Capon Bridge while the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney invades Mathias to do battle with Mathias High School.

Colorful Career Of Gabby Street Ended By Death

Led St. Louis Cards To Pair Of Pennants



Gabby Street

The "Old Sarge," who served as player, manager and radio commentator during his years in the sport, died in a Joplin hospital at the age of 68.

He entered the hospital January 24 and died of a malignancy of which he had never been advised. Twice before he had fought off the same trouble, undergoing operations in 1945 and 1949. At his bedside when he died at 5:55 o'clock this morning were Mrs. Street and their two children, Marine Lieutenant Charles E. Street, Jr., and Mrs. Owen Hull of Weston, Mo.

Gabby's career included terms as manager of the two St. Louis major league teams, the Cardinals in 1930-33 and the Browns in 1938. He won pennants with the Cards in 1930 and 1931 and led them to a world series victory over the Philadelphia Athletics the latter year.

He considered those two years and his association with pitcher Walter Johnson on Washington Senator teams as the highlights of his career. The Johnson-Street combination was one of the game's great batteries.

A member of baseball's old guard, Gabby was a popular figure in diamond society from coast to coast. Early in life he chose the nickname Gabby for himself and it suited him well. He had a seemingly endless supply of baseball yarns. He was the first man to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, a stunt which gained him much publicity.

Gabby broke into professional baseball with Hopkinsville, Ky. in the kitty league in 1902. After a term with Terre Haute, Ind., in 1904 he went to the majors and played with the Senators, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Braves and New York Yankees.

A weak hitter—his lifetime major league average was .208—Gabby dropped into the minors in 1913 where he played with San Francisco, Chattanooga, Nashville, Joplin, Muskogee, Okla., Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

After his St. Louis Cardinals jobs, he managed San Francisco for two years in 1936 handled St. Paul in the American Association before being signed as Browns' manager in 1938. In recent years he had been broadcasting Cardinal games over a midwestern network.

Funeral plans have not been completed.

Japan Draws US Davis Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 6 (AP) — Japan, challenging for the Davis Cup for the first time since before the war, was drawn today to face the United States in the first round of the North American Zone in the 1951 championships.

If the Japanese succeed in training a team and sending it to the U. S., it will mark the first time in exactly 30 years that the two countries have met in international tennis competition.

Back in 1921 the Japanese surprised the tennis world by playing through to the challenge round, where they lost to the American team, 5-0, at Forest Hills.

Names of the challenging countries were drawn from the kleaming Davis Cup today by Sir John Latham, chief justice of Australia.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (INS) — Sometimes we get downright discouraged trying to tell some of the sucker public how the chips are stacked against them in the fight and wrestling rackets.

And when we think of that alleged "fight" between Joe Louis and Omelio Agramonte in Miami tomorrow night we are forcibly reminded of the old saying among Broadway con men:

"Never give a sucker an even break because he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it."

We asked Al Weill, matchmaker for the International Boxing Octopus, how he ever dug up nerve to foist this one on Miami, and his reply was:

"Say, you guys are all wet about Agramonte. He's a great fighter. Maybe he will knock Louis out. Anyhow, it will do at least $60,000."

Can you tie that? And, mind you this is the same Agramonte who had to be assured Louis would go easy on him in a four-round exhibition with the big gloves.

He also is the same Agramonte who was soundly thrashed by one Clarence Henry in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden only three weeks ago.

And Weill has the gall to insist this bird is a great fighter.

The old Joe Louis would have stopped Agramonte with one punch. Even now, as far gone as he is, Joe shouldn't let him go over three rounds.

If a rabbit like Agramonte can go the full ten heats with Joe, Joe should be made to hang up his gloves before even a mediocre pug beats his brains out.

No matter how bad the fight may be it won't worry Weill, provided it draws the $60,000 he predicted. Should the fight prove a stinkeroo, Fat will simply waive a pudgy cynical paw and say, as he has said so often before:

"Well, nobody made them pay to see it."

And then some wonder what's wrong with the fight racket.

It just occurs to us that Joe Louis might do well, since he is running a Bum Of The Month Club again, to follow Max Baer's example and become a wrestler.

We hear that Max is to get $100,000 (promoter's publicity figures) for 26 weeks on the mat.

Max should be a distinct addition to the mat game and he was often enough on the canvas to be entirely familiar there.

At that, his still magnificent physique should make him a tremendous attraction, especially to the female fans, and his hamming should be worth the price of admission.

If a neanderthal specimen like Primo Carnera can pack 'em in, Max should have the SRO sign out all the time.

Louis, too, could easily blow himself up to 250 pounds and be a distinct addition to the quote game unquote.

Maryland Harness Tracks Satisfied Oppose Separate Racing Commission

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Owners of the state's four harness tracks said today they didn't want a separate racing commission to supervise their sport.

Representatives of Rosecroft, Laurel, Ocean Downs and Baltimore Raceways said they are satisfied with administration by the present commission which regulates all Maryland horse racing.

They joined spokesmen for thoroughbred tracks and two of the present racing commissioners in asking the House Ways and Means Committee to kill a bill to name a separate harness commission.

All opponents expressed fear that squabbles between two commissions over awarding dates would jeopardize the entire sport.

The commission bill was introduced by Delegate McNulty (D-Anne Arundel) as representative of harness horse owners and trainers he said are demanding a voice in administration of their sport. McNulty and other proponents admitted at this and a previous hearing they have no specific complaints against regulation by the present commission.

"Our real objection to this bill," said Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico, "is that it is an unnecessary duplication that can do nothing but cause trouble."

He said it is difficult now with one commission to allot 230 racing days a year with a minimum of competition and it would be almost an impossibility to do so with two commissions.

Reckord said the mile thoroughbred tracks are the state's primary concern because they produce $4,000,000 of Maryland's $4,500,000 revenue from racing.

"Unless we so adjust our dates so that the mile tracks can cater to the large crowds, thereby getting a greater amount of play, the state as well as the tracks will be the loser," he declared.

Reckord suggested the harness horsemen might be satisfied if by law one of their representatives would be appointed to the present commission. The harness horsemen opposed this, and so did H. Courtenay Jenifer, present racing chairman.

Jenifer said the racing commissioners shouldn't be horsemen of any type and that since 1920 only two of them have been. The commissioners' jobs are merely regulatory and don't require actual experience with horses, he said.

"If you don't protect the interest of the state," he said, "you might as well repeal your racing laws and sell your horses."

Steam Shovel Damages Truck, $1,750 Suit Says

Two Other Actions Filed In Court

A civil suit for $1,750 damages allegedly received by a truck when a steam shovel dropped boulders and other rocks upon it was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Enoch P. Price, through Attorney John M. Robb, filed the suit against G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc.

In this suit, Robb asserted that the damage occurred on or about August 26, 1948, while an employe of the plaintiff was hauling dirt in a truck owned by the plaintiff from the North American Refractories Company to another point. The truck was being loaded by a steam shovel owned by G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., and operated by one of its employes.

The suit asserted that the defendant's employe "did allow claw of said shovel to become too full" and as a result a boulder, other rocks and dirt were dropped on Price's truck damaging its hood and cab extensively.

Dispute Over Estate

A second suit filed yesterday involves a dispute over the administration of the estate of the late William T. Tharp. This suit was filed in behalf of John Furstenburg and James Abe, an infant, by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., against David T. Tharp and the New Amsterdam Casualty Company.

This declaration set forth that on or about September 28, 1949, letters of administration of the estate of William T. Tharp were issued by Allegany County Orphans Court to David T. Tharp. His surety bond was posted by the New Amsterdam Casualty Company.

The plaintiffs contend that Tharp did not "well and truly" perform his duties. They say they were entitled to shares which they allege they did not receive from the estate, which was set at $6,580.90 upon payment of all debts, taxes and other expenditures. The petition alleges that John Furstenburg was William T. Tharp's nephew and James Abe was his great nephew. They seek $2,000 through the suit.

Comprise Settlement

A third suit filed yesterday, a $1,000 action, also carried with it papers showing that the two parties agreed to a $100 compromise settlement of the case. This $1,000 suit was filed for Thomas Salisbury, Lonaconing, whose wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Salisbury, was killed last November 7 when struck by an automobile on U. S. Route 36, one mile north of Midland. Attorney Leslie J. Clark filed the suit for Salisbury against Harbert E. Allen, RFD 1, Frostburg, who was driving the car. An agreement for the $100 compromise judgment was signed by Clark and Thomas B. Finan, attorney for the defendant.

A railroad in this state hauls heavy freight and keeps their road beds in shape. They are not taxed. Trucks are taxed and the revenue is used to build highways except when it is diverted. An average mile of 2 lane highway costs more than an average mile of 2 track railroad, so highways could be built and able to carry Senator Kimble's so called "boxcars on rubber tires."

However, from information received, "The first diversion of motor vehicle revenue occurred in Maryland in 1933. It was in that year that General Assembly of Maryland transferred $512,000 from the highways to the General Fund. In 1935 Maryland embarked upon the real misuse of motor vehicle revenue. During the '30s a total of fifteen million dollars of highway revenue was used for General Fund purposes. In fact, it was not until 1947 that the titling tax, a 2% special tax on the titling of vehicles, was used for highway purposes.

Although this tax was originally levied in 1935, many millions of motorists' dollars went for General Fund purposes. It is indeed interesting to note that although this outright diversion of special motor vehicle revenue was stopped in 1947, legislative records show that Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County was co-sponsor of a measure which would have put these funds into the General Fund."

Such a tax, if made law, would be discriminatory, almost impossible to enforce, cause hardship, provoke retalitory measures by surrounding state and in general create chaos. In the end the trucker will not pay the tax as he cannot. The public will have to pay.

Former Resident Believed Murdered

Suspicion of murder was expressed officially yesterday in Eureka, Calif., in the mysterious killing of Jack W. Burns, former Cumberlander who more recently was a San Carlos, Calif., chemical salesman, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Burns was found dead in a motel court at Pepperwood, Calif.

During World War II, Burns was assistant to the director of research at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at nearby Pinto. He also was secretary of the Rocket Propellant Panel working under the Joint Committee on New Weapons and Equipment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Burns was found Sunday night just outside his cabin door. He had been shot in the chest and side.

Sheriff Charles Raab of Eureka said yesterday he was convinced a murder had been committed but that he had uncovered nothing to establish a motive.

HERE ARE THE FACTS, YOU BE THE JUDGE!

TO OUR FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR:

A statement on the so-called labor dispute at Ort Bros. Bakery. On January 6 there appeared pickets at Ort Bros. Bakery stating the Teamsters were on strike. However, NO NOTIFICATION OF SUCH A STRIKE HAS EVER BEEN MADE TO THIS COMPANY.

In a letter to you signed by Mr. C. E. Stutzman of the Teamsters Union, he stated that a majority of the men were members of his union and requested a strike. IF MR. STUTZMAN CAN SHOW HE EVER REPRESENTED A MAJORITY OF THE MEN, HE AT ONE TIME CLAIMS TO HAVE COVERED, WE WILL RECOGNIZE HIM AS A LAWFUL BARGAINING AGENT IMMEDIATELY.

HERE ARE SOME QUESTIONS THAT SHOULD BE ANSWERED:

- If his statements are true, why have the bakers, who are 100% union shop, continued to produce Sof-Spun Bread as before?
- Why were our salesmen, themselves, not notified that there was to be a so-called strike?
- Why does Mr. Stutzman have to use outside pickets in his attempts to harass the men into joining his union?

This management offers to sit down anywhere, any place, any time that might be selected and discuss this situation, answer any charges that may be made and let you know the truth of this whole despicable situation. Ort Bros. Bakery will peacefully bargain with any union of the men's free choice. We will not stand for our people being coerced into anything they do not desire. This is not the American way. If our salesmen desire to organize, their privilege as citizens of this land of ours is to choose who will represent them and not to be brow-beaten into anything. Nearly 30 years of peaceful union-management relationship by this company should mean something. Consider the facts before you decide!

A railroad in this state hauls heavy freight and keeps their road beds in shape. They are not taxed. Trucks are taxed and the revenue is used to build highways except when it is diverted. An average mile of 2 lane highway costs more than an average mile of 2 track railroad, so highways could be built and able to carry Senator Kimble's so called "boxcars on rubber tires."

However, from information received, "The first diversion of motor vehicle revenue occurred in Maryland in 1933. It was in that year that General Assembly of Maryland transferred $512,000 from the highways to the General Fund. In 1935 Maryland embarked upon the real misuse of motor vehicle revenue. During the '30s a total of fifteen million dollars of highway revenue was used for General Fund purposes. In fact, it was not until 1947 that the titling tax, a 2% special tax on the titling of vehicles, was used for highway purposes.

Although this tax was originally levied in 1935, many millions of motorists' dollars went for General Fund purposes. It is indeed interesting to note that although this outright diversion of special motor vehicle revenue was stopped in 1947, legislative records show that Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County was co-sponsor of a measure which would have put these funds into the General Fund."

Such a tax, if made law, would be discriminatory, almost impossible to enforce, cause hardship, provoke retalitory measures by surrounding state and in general create chaos. In the end the trucker will not pay the tax as he cannot. The public will have to pay.

Former Resident Believed Murdered

Suspicion of murder was expressed officially yesterday in Eureka, Calif., in the mysterious killing of Jack W. Burns, former Cumberlander who more recently was a San Carlos, Calif., chemical salesman, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Burns was found dead in a motel court at Pepperwood, Calif.

During World War II, Burns was assistant to the director of research at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at nearby Pinto. He also was secretary of the Rocket Propellant Panel working under the Joint Committee on New Weapons and Equipment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Burns was found Sunday night just outside his cabin door. He had been shot in the chest and side.

Sheriff Charles Raab of Eureka said yesterday he was convinced a murder had been committed but that he had uncovered nothing to establish a motive.

HERE ARE THE FACTS, YOU BE THE JUDGE!

TO OUR FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR:

A statement on the so-called labor dispute at Ort Bros. Bakery. On January 6 there appeared pickets at Ort Bros. Bakery stating the Teamsters were on strike. However, NO NOTIFICATION OF SUCH A STRIKE HAS EVER BEEN MADE TO THIS COMPANY.

In a letter to you signed by Mr. C. E. Stutzman of the Teamsters Union, he stated that a majority of the men were members of his union and requested a strike. IF MR. STUTZMAN CAN SHOW HE EVER REPRESENTED A MAJORITY OF THE MEN, HE AT ONE TIME CLAIMS TO HAVE COVERED, WE WILL RECOGNIZE HIM AS A LAWFUL BARGAINING AGENT IMMEDIATELY.

HERE ARE SOME QUESTIONS THAT SHOULD BE ANSWERED:

- If his statements are true, why have the bakers, who are 100% union shop, continued to produce Sof-Spun Bread as before?
- Why were our salesmen, themselves, not notified that there was to be a so-called strike?
- Why does Mr. Stutzman have to use outside pickets in his attempts to harass the men into joining his union?

This management offers to sit down anywhere, any place, any time that might be selected and discuss this situation, answer any charges that may be made and let you know the truth of this whole despicable situation. Ort Bros. Bakery will peacefully bargain with any union of the men's free choice. We will not stand for our people being coerced into anything they do not desire. This is not the American way. If our salesmen desire to organize, their privilege as citizens of this land of ours is to choose who will represent them and not to be brow-beaten into anything. Nearly 30 years of peaceful union-management relationship by this company should mean something. Consider the facts before you decide!

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

What About Radios and Telephones?

EVEN THOUGH YOUR TELEPHONE MAY CONTINUE TO WORK, USE IT ONLY FOR TRUE EMERGENCIES

NEITHER explosive nor lingering radioactivity has any effect on the operation of most mechanical or electrical devices. Unless the wires are down or there is a power failure, both your lights and telephone should continue to work. But don't rush to the phone just to find out how Aunt Susie may have weathered the attack. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

The bomb's radioactivity will not interfere with the operation of your radio. In the event of attack, be sure to turn it on. It may be your main source of emergency instructions. And don't forget: Battery-operated portable sets, including those installed in automobiles, will continue to work even if the city power goes off. Television reception, like radio, won't be jammed by radioactivity.

What About Automobiles?

KEEP THE FAMILY CAR OFF THE STREET. RADIOACTIVITY WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH ITS OPERATION

One more household suggestion: In times of emergency don't park the family automobile on the street. Leave the way clear for emergency traffic. Keep the windows rolled up to prevent possible contamination of the interior by underwater or ground bursts and don't worry whether or not it will run. Radioactivity won't interfere with operation of its fuel or ignition system.

What About Children?

EVERYTHING IN THESE ARTICLES APPLIES TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY

Everything in these articles holds true for all members of the family, including children, old people, or shut-ins. It would be a good idea to talk over the facts with all members of the family to be sure each understands. People with school children should discuss the articles with teachers and other parents at PTA meetings and similar gatherings.

You may be sure that, in times of emergency, all schools will be well organized for the protection of children.

Children old enough to understand can be taught to do the right things. Younger children simply will have to depend on their parents.

To Sum Up

BLAST AND HEAT ARE THE GREATEST DANGERS YOU FACE

To sum up, always remember that blast and heat are the two greatest dangers you face. The things that you do to protect yourself from these dangers usually will go a long way toward providing protection from the explosive radioactivity loosed by atomic explosions.

While the lingering radioactivity that occasionally follows some types of atomic bursts may be dangerous, still it is no more to be feared than typhoid fever or other diseases that sometimes follow major disasters. The only difference is that we can't now ward it off with a shot in the arm; you must simply take the known steps to avoid it.

KEEP YOUR HEAD. DON'T TOUCH OFF A PANIC THAT MAY COST YOUR LIFE

If you follow the pointers in the series, you stand far better than an even chance of surviving the bomb's blast, heat, and radioactivity. What's more, you will make a definite contribution to civil defense in your community, because civil defense must start with you. But if you lose your head and blindly attempt to run from the dangers, you may touch off a panic that will cost your life and put tremendous obstacles in the way of your Civil Defense Corps.

NEW YORK (INS)

It was formally unveiled yesterday at the headquarters of its maker, General Aniline and Film Corp., whose president and board chairman is Jack Frye, one of the top pioneers of commericial aviation during his years with TWA.

PVP, as the substance will be popularly known, is—in the form revealed today—an off-white powder which, when sifted into a solution of water and alcohol, becomes man-made blood plasma.

Exhaustive tests have indicated that it may be even superior to natural plasma as a stream in which the life-giving corpuscles navigate. Recent research also has brought out many other uses for PVP.

It looks like the efficient "retarder" which biochemists have been searching for since the advent of the wonder drugs: The sulphas, penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin, cortisone, ACTH and the like. The human system too quickly discharges most of those drugs and antibiotics.

Penicillin mixed with PVP not only stays with the patient longer thus hastening recovery, but can be administered in much larger doses than is now considered advisable. So can morphine and novocaine.

• — • — •

Iodine, always tricky when taken internally for treatment of, say, goitre, is rendered extremely less toxic when mixed with PVP, and there are many other uses for this curious new matter.

PVP is a condensation product of pyrrolidone (a compound derived from certain protein substances) and common acetylene gas. It is not to be confused with another plasma substitute recently developed at Marquette University—utilizing the pods of okra.

General Aniline, whose research chemists contributed greatly to the refinement of PVP, is currently staffed and equipped to produce 15,000 pounds of it a month—enough for 440,000 standard doses. Company officials state that production can be stepped up to a vast scale.

PVP arrives on the broad medical scene at a time when civilian defense authorities are deep in their studies of how to care for widespread casualties in the event of an A-bomb attack on American population centers.

Cortisone came into existence, partially at least, because we believed erroneously that the Germans were souping up their crack Luftwaffe pilots with hormone extracted from the adrenal cortex of cattle. We tried to ape them, and came up with cortisone.

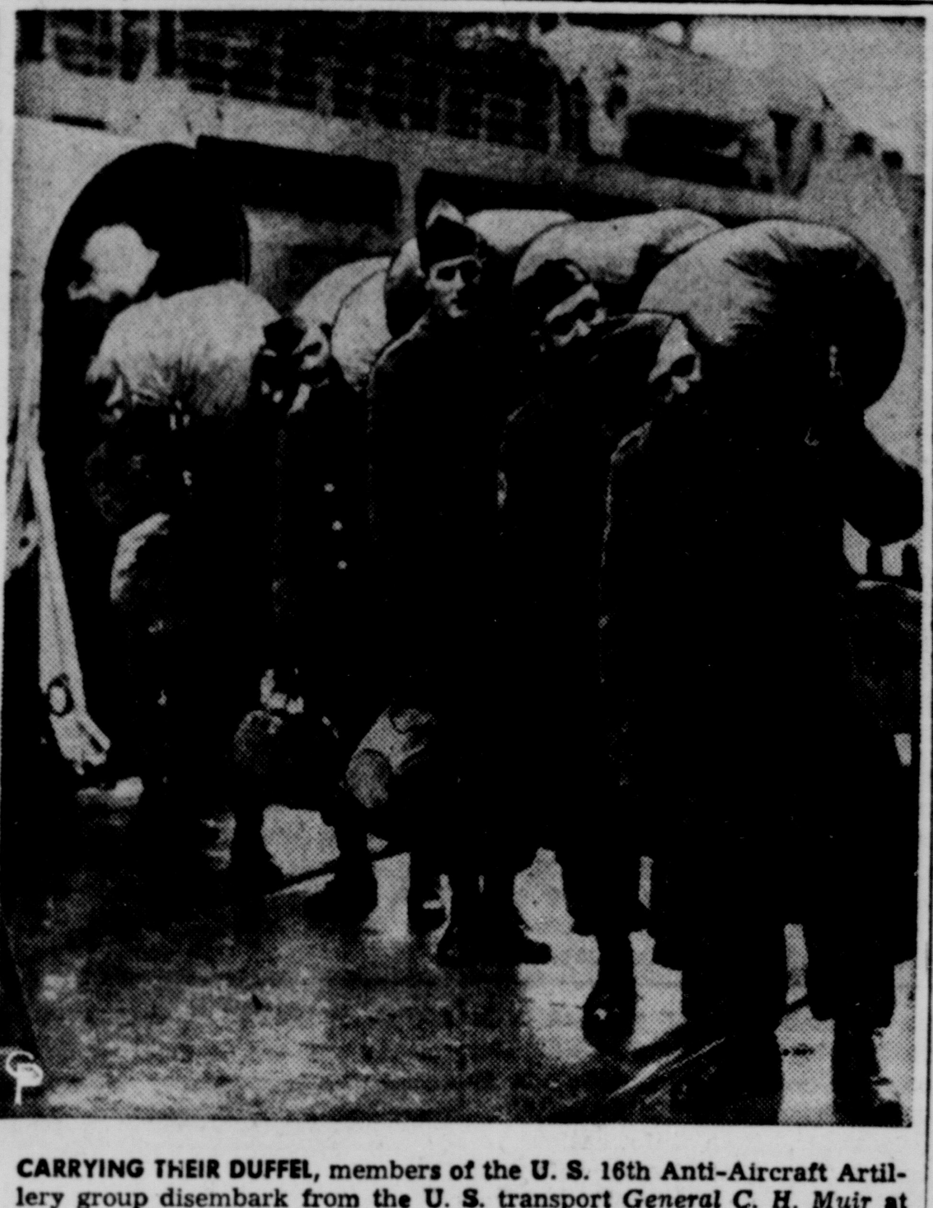
PVP's roots reach more realistically into Germany, and the military aspect is again present. About a dozen years ago a group of German scientists, alerted to Hitler's impending war, found the basic formula for PVP. It helped keep Germany in the war after its natural reserves of plasma were exhausted. It was used extensively on wounded troops and civilians, and in French hospitals during the occupation.

The versatile product, greatly improved by General Aniline scientists, can sustain life in a patient who has only 15 per cent hemoglobin whereas 30 per cent hemoglobin is the minimum required to keep alive patients given regular plasma transfusions.

PVP has elevated serious low blood pressure within 30 minutes. Of 75 infants treated with PVP for extreme gastro-intestinal disturbances, 40 were quickly cured — where natural plasma had no effect. In 230 cases of hemorrhage, shock collapse and surgery, PVP proved itself as efficacious as whole blood and had a persistent tonic action on blood vessels.

Luftwaffe flight surgeons were impressed with its effect on badly burned fliers, and before the end of the war were using PVP instead of whole blood. The Germans also discovered that it had few equals as a treatment for dehydration caused by severe diarrhea. It became standard practice in German military hospitals to inject PVP in patients just prior to surgery.

Its introduction into the U. S., on what promises to be a vast scale is not an invitation to close down the country's blood banks. There will always be an urgent need for whole blood plasma within the country and among our troops overseas. But this substitute, which can be manufactured in enormous quantities, removes an enormous worry from the minds of the military and civilian defense heads.



CARRYING THEIR DUFFEL, members of the U. S. 16th Anti-Aircraft Artillery group disembark from the U. S. transport General C. H. Muir at Southampton, England. Coming from Fort Meade, Maryland, and Fort Bliss, Texas, the men will be stationed in Great Britain. (International)

General Aniline, whose research chemists contributed greatly to the refinement of PVP, is currently staffed and equipped to produce 15,000 pounds of it a month—enough for 440,000 standard doses. Company officials state that production can be stepped up to a vast scale.

PVP arrives on the broad medical scene at a time when civilian defense authorities are deep in their studies of how to care for widespread casualties in the event of an A-bomb attack on American population centers.

Cortisone came into existence, partially at least, because we believed erroneously that the Germans were souping up their crack Luftwaffe pilots with hormone extracted from the adrenal cortex of cattle. We tried to ape them, and came up with cortisone.

PVP's roots reach more realistically into Germany, and the military aspect is again present. About a dozen years ago a group of German scientists, alerted to Hitler's impending war, found the basic formula for PVP. It helped keep Germany in the war after its natural reserves of plasma were exhausted. It was used extensively on wounded troops and civilians, and in French hospitals during the occupation.

The versatile product, greatly improved by General Aniline scientists, can sustain life in a patient who has only 15 per cent hemoglobin whereas 30 per cent hemoglobin is the minimum required to keep alive patients given regular plasma transfusions.

PVP has elevated serious low blood pressure within 30 minutes. Of 75 infants treated with PVP for extreme gastro-intestinal disturbances, 40 were quickly cured — where natural plasma had no effect. In 230 cases of hemorrhage, shock collapse and surgery, PVP proved itself as efficacious as whole blood and had a persistent tonic action on blood vessels.

Luftwaffe flight surgeons were impressed with its effect on badly burned fliers, and before the end of the war were using PVP instead of whole blood. The Germans also discovered that it had few equals as a treatment for dehydration caused by severe diarrhea. It became standard practice in German military hospitals to inject PVP in patients just prior to surgery.

Its introduction into the U. S., on what promises to be a vast scale is not an invitation to close down the country's blood banks. There will always be an urgent need for whole blood plasma within the country and among our troops overseas. But this substitute, which can be manufactured in enormous quantities, removes an enormous worry from the minds of the military and civilian defense heads.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

What About Radios and Telephones?

EVEN THOUGH YOUR TELEPHONE MAY CONTINUE TO WORK, USE IT ONLY FOR TRUE EMERGENCIES

NEITHER explosive nor lingering radioactivity has any effect on the operation of most mechanical or electrical devices. Unless the wires are down or there is a power failure, both your lights and telephone should continue to work. But don't rush to the phone just to find out how Aunt Susie may have weathered the attack. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

The bomb's radioactivity will not interfere with the operation of your radio. In the event of attack, be sure to turn it on. It may be your main source of emergency instructions. And don't forget: Battery-operated portable sets, including those installed in automobiles, will continue to work even if the city power goes off. Television reception, like radio, won't be jammed by radioactivity.

What About Automobiles?

KEEP THE FAMILY CAR OFF THE STREET. RADIOACTIVITY WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH ITS OPERATION

One more household suggestion: In times of emergency don't park the family automobile on the street. Leave the way clear for emergency traffic. Keep the windows rolled up to prevent possible contamination of the interior by underwater or ground bursts and don't worry whether or not it will run. Radioactivity won't interfere with operation of its fuel or ignition system.

What About Children?

Everything in these articles holds true for all members of the family, including children, old people, or shut-ins. It would be a good idea to talk over the facts with all members of the family to be sure each understands. People with school children should discuss the articles with teachers and other parents at PTA meetings and similar gatherings.

You may be sure that, in times of emergency, all schools will be well organized for the protection of children.

Children old enough to understand can be taught to do the right things. Younger children simply will have to depend on their parents.

To Sum Up

BLAST AND HEAT ARE THE GREATEST DANGERS YOU FACE

To sum up, always remember that blast and heat are the two greatest dangers you face. The things that you do to protect yourself from these dangers usually will go a long way toward providing protection from the explosive radioactivity loosed by atomic explosions.

While the lingering radioactivity that occasionally follows some types of atomic bursts may be dangerous, still it is no more to be feared than typhoid fever or other diseases that sometimes follow major disasters. The only difference is that we can't now ward it off with a shot in the arm; you must simply take the known steps to avoid it.

KEEP YOUR HEAD. DON'T TOUCH OFF A PANIC THAT MAY COST YOUR LIFE

If you follow the pointers in the series, you stand far better than an even chance of surviving the bomb's blast, heat, and radioactivity. What's more, you will make a definite contribution to civil defense in your community, because civil defense must start with you. But if you lose your head and blindly attempt to run from the dangers, you may touch off a panic that will cost your life and put tremendous obstacles in the way of your Civil Defense Corps.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

ADD TO THE LIST of dramatic medical advances a synthetic blood plasma with the jaw-breaking name of "polyvinyl-pyrrolidone."

It was formally unveiled yesterday at the headquarters of its maker, General Aniline and Film Corp., whose president and board chairman is Jack Frye, one of the top pioneers of commericial aviation during his years with TWA.

PVP, as the substance will be popularly known, is—in the form revealed today—an off-white powder which, when sifted into a solution of water and alcohol, becomes man-made blood plasma.

Exhaustive tests have indicated that it may be even superior to natural plasma as a stream in which the life-giving corpuscles navigate. Recent research also has brought out many other uses for PVP.

It looks like the efficient "retarder" which biochemists have been searching for since the advent of the wonder drugs: The sulphas, penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin, cortisone, ACTH and the like. The human system too quickly discharges most of those drugs and antibiotics.

Penicillin mixed with PVP not only stays with the patient longer thus hastening recovery, but can be administered in much larger doses than is now considered advisable. So can morphine and novocaine.

Iodine, always tricky when taken internally for treatment of, say, goitre, is rendered extremely less toxic when mixed with PVP, and there are many other uses for this curious new matter.

PVP is a condensation product of pyrrolidone (a compound derived from certain protein substances) and common acetylene gas. It is not to be confused with another plasma substitute recently developed at Marquette University—utilizing the pods of okra.

General Aniline, whose research chemists contributed greatly to the refinement of PVP, is currently staffed and equipped to produce 15,000 pounds of it a month—enough for 440,000 standard doses. Company officials state that production can be stepped up to a vast scale.

PVP arrives on the broad medical scene at a time when civilian defense authorities are deep in their studies of how to care for widespread casualties in the event of an A-bomb attack on American population centers.

Poultryman Is Enjoined From Keyser Business

Judge See Takes Action In Case

KEYSER, W. Va.—A permanent injunction was issued yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral Circuit Court prohibiting Eddie Carroll from conducting a commercial chicken business within the city limits of Keyser.

Some months ago legal action in this case was begun in a suit titled City of Keyser vs. Walter and Alice Bartlett and Eddie Carroll. When Judge See heard the case he sided with the city, contending that the chicken business run by Carroll on Mineral Street was both a nuisance and a health menace.

The case was appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals which refused to review it, thereby affirming Judge See's ruling.

In addition to handing down the injunction, Judge See ordered Carroll to pay the cost of court. The case insofar as it pertained to the Bartletts was dismissed. They own the property where the business was operated.

Defense Attorney Vernon (Pat) Rankin informed Judge See before he took action yesterday that Carroll no longer occupied the premises on Mineral Street. He said that the Bartletts were planing to remodel the property and convert it into apartments.

Bus Problems Discussed In Westernport

Construction Plans Will Be Listed

WESTERNPORT—Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company and the Osgood Bus Company conferred with Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night about traffic problems.

Since the C. & W. Bus company could not get near the curb, causing a traffic congestion, Mayor Kight suggested to Jack Lochoner, Lonaconing, traffic supervisor for the line, that two parking meters be reserved a short distance above Trenum's Store on Main Street for their exclusive use.

The bus company would pay $7.50 for each meter reservation and no one else would be permitted to park in that location.

Lochoner seemed favorably impressed but said he would have to discuss the matter with his general manager and said the town would be informed soon of the bus company's decision.

Roy Mulledy, police commissioner, stated to officials of the Osgood Bus Company that some time ago buses were pulling out on Main Street and backing, with the driver not having clear vision and some one nearly was run over.

Cupp assured the commissioners the situation had been remedied.

William Brasher told the town officials he planned to erect a weigh scales below Malc's Place and understood the town has ordered or purchased a new scale. He suggested that if town could make an agreement for weighing it would not need to buy a public weigh scales.

Brashear was informed the city would consider a proposition.

Dwayne Brashear requested that Greene Street be improved and was told some work would be done on it.

Robert Miller asked the town to deliver some shale for him on Wood Street, he offered to place it and his wish was granted.

A letter from G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, was read, stating the Bureau of Public Roads has requested the State Roads Commission to provide the NPA with lists of critical material entering the proposed construction of maintenance of roads and streets for 1951 and 1952.

It was ordered that a reply be made, giving an approximate estimate of contemplated construction costs.

It was ordered that a sign prohibiting the placing of garbage at the lower side of Kolberg's Hill be erected.

Poultryman Is Enjoined From Keyser Business

Judge See Takes Action In Case

KEYSER, W. Va.—A permanent injunction was issued yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral Circuit Court prohibiting Eddie Carroll from conducting a commercial chicken business within the city limits, of Keyser.

Some months ago legal action in this case was begun in a suit titled City of Keyser vs. Walter and Alice Bartlett and Eddie Carroll. When Judge See heard the case he sided with the city, contending that the chicken business run by Carroll on Mineral Street was both a nuisance and a health menace.

The case was appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals which refused to review it, thereby affirming Judge See's ruling.

In addition to handing down the injunction, Judge See ordered Carroll to pay the cost of court. The case insofar as it pertained to the Bartletts was dismissed. They own the property where the business was operated.

Defense Attorney Vernon (Pat) Rankin informed Judge See before he took action yesterday that Carroll no longer occupied the premises on Mineral Street. He said that the Bartletts were planing to remodel the property and convert it into apartments.

Bus Problems Discussed In Westernport

Construction Plans Will Be Listed

WESTERNPORT—Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company and the Osgood Bus Company conferred with Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night about traffic problems.

Since the C. & W. Bus company could not get near the curb, causing a traffic congestion, Mayor Kight suggested to Jack Lochoner, Lonaconing, traffic supervisor for the line, that two parking meters be reserved a short distance above Trenum's Store on Main Street for their exclusive use.

The bus company would pay $7.50 for each meter reservation and no one else would be permitted to park in that location.

Lochoner seemed favorably impressed but said he would have to discuss the matter with his general manager and said the town would be informed soon of the bus company's decision.

Roy Mulledy, police commissioner, stated to officials of the Osgood Bus Company that some time ago buses were pulling out on Main Street and backing, with the driver not having clear vision and some one nearly was run over.

Cupp assured the commissioners the situation had been remedied.

William Brasher told the town officials he planned to erect a weigh scales below Malc's Place and understood the town has ordered or purchased a new scale. He suggested that if town could make an agreement for weighing it would not need to buy a public weigh scales.

Brashear was informed the city would consider a proposition.

Dwayne Brashear requested that Greene Street be improved and was told some work would be done on it.

Robert Miller asked the town to deliver some shale for him on Wood Street, he offered to place it and his wish was granted.

A letter from G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, was read, stating the Bureau of Public Roads has requested the State Roads Commission to provide the NPA with lists of critical material entering the proposed construction of maintenance of roads and streets for 1951 and 1952.

It was ordered that a reply be made, giving an approximate estimate of contemplated construction costs.

It was ordered that a sign prohibiting the placing of garbage at the lower side of Kolberg's Hill be erected.

Poultryman Is Enjoined From Keyser Business

Judge See Takes Action In Case

KEYSER, W. Va.—A permanent injunction was issued yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral Circuit Court prohibiting Eddie Carroll from conducting a commercial chicken business within the city limits, of Keyser.

Some months ago legal action in this case was begun in a suit titled City of Keyser vs. Walter and Alice Bartlett and Eddie Carroll. When Judge See heard the case he sided with the city, contending that the chicken business run by Carroll on Mineral Street was both a nuisance and a health menace.

The case was appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals which refused to review it, thereby affirming Judge See's ruling.

In addition to handing down the injunction, Judge See ordered Carroll to pay the cost of court. The case insofar as it pertained to the Bartletts was dismissed. They own the property where the business was operated.

Defense Attorney Vernon (Pat) Rankin informed Judge See before he took action yesterday that Carroll no longer occupied the premises on Mineral Street. He said that the Bartletts were planing to remodel the property and convert it into apartments.

Bus Problems Discussed In Westernport

Construction Plans Will Be Listed

WESTERNPORT—Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company and the Osgood Bus Company conferred with Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night about traffic problems.

Since the C. & W. Bus company could not get near the curb, causing a traffic congestion, Mayor Kight suggested to Jack Lochoner, Lonaconing, traffic supervisor for the line, that two parking meters be reserved a short distance above Trenum's Store on Main Street for their exclusive use.

The bus company would pay $7.50 for each meter reservation and no one else would be permitted to park in that location.

Lochoner seemed favorably impressed but said he would have to discuss the matter with his general manager and said the town would be informed soon of the bus company's decision.

Roy Mulledy, police commissioner, stated to officials of the Osgood Bus Company that some time ago buses were pulling out on Main Street and backing, with the driver not having clear vision and some one nearly was run over.

Cupp assured the commissioners the situation had been remedied.

William Brasher told the town officials he planned to erect a weigh scales below Malc's Place and understood the town has ordered or purchased a new scale. He suggested that if town could make an agreement for weighing it would not need to buy a public weigh scales.

Brashear was informed the city would consider a proposition.

Dwayne Brashear requested that Greene Street be improved and was told some work would be done on it.

Robert Miller asked the town to deliver some shale for him on Wood Street, he offered to place it and his wish was granted.

A letter from G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, was read, stating the Bureau of Public Roads has requested the State Roads Commission to provide the NPA with lists of critical material entering the proposed construction of maintenance of roads and streets for 1951 and 1952.

It was ordered that a reply be made, giving an approximate estimate of contemplated construction costs.

It was ordered that a sign prohibiting the placing of garbage at the lower side of Kolberg's Hill be erected.

Foxey Lad Wins At Hialeah Park

Hedley Woodhouse Is Aboard Victor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Circle M Farm's Foxey Lad, making his first start since the close of the New York racing season, impressed the crowd of 16,591 at Hialeah Park today when he captured the featured Bay Pines Purse, a test for three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Despite his long absence from competition, the black colt was sent postward the favorite at $5.60.

Foxey Lad whipped J. W. Nizlek's Teaneck Flash by a length and completed a riding double for Hedley Woodhouse, who seems to have a habit of winning Hialeah's feature races. Third in the field of nine was Irene Martin's Ogre, while F. W. Hooper's Officious finished a tiring fourth.

Joseph Tucci's Flamingo hopeful, Bob Considine, also made his three-year-old debut in the $4,000 overnight race, but the colt broke late and finished sixth. Foxey Lad is not eligible for the $50,000 Flamingo.

Last year, Foxey Lad was sparingly campaigned, competing in only five races, winning two of them, with one second and a third for earnings of $5,600.

STOP Baldness!

GROW THICKER HAIR in Your OWN HOME

Free EXAMINATION One Day Only!

National Staff Trichologist

Trichologist V. T. Paul will personally give you a FREE HAIR and SCALP EXAMINATION at the FORT CUMBERLAND HOTEL THURSDAY, Feb. 8th, 11 A. M. to 9 P. M. No Appointments Necessary!

Come in when it's most convenient for you. We will analyze your scalp disorders absolutely FREE! We'll explain our new home treatment method that helps you grow thicker, stronger, more virile hair . . . at home!

Home Treatments Individually Prescribed

Since there are a dozen good reasons for baldness, no "cure-all" has ever been 100% effective... so HAIR EXPERTS, Inc., insists on a personal scalp examination and an individual treatment for each hair and scalp condition. Your treatments and instructions are for you alone, and you treat yourself . . . right in the privacy of your own home . . . usually twice a week for about 10 weeks. Treatments are simple, brisk, and stimulating.

Results Are Quick!

You'll notice a new, clean, vigorous feeling in your scalp right away, and, in most cases, your scalp will be purged of bacteria, imbedded dandruff, and decay organisms in just a few, short weeks. Then your scalp is free of the hair-killers, and Nature's dynamic urge to GROW THICKER HAIR is once again able to function, able to keep your hair thick and luxurious for life.

Learn the Facts!

Stop in at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and see Trichologist V. T. Paul. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way, and if you decide to take HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments, you will find the fee very reasonable.

Can You Answer These "Bald" Questions?

Q. Is baldness hereditary?
Q. Is baldness due to old age?
Q. Can baldness be prevented?

No, baldness is not inherited, nor is it due to old age. These are just misconceptions of the "Hair Tonic" age. Hair can be regrown with the aid of HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments. This has been proved by HAIR EXPERTS' Offices across the country throughout the years. In most cases of thinning hair or baldness, there is a definite scalp disorder that is blocking the growth of normal, healthy hair. Don't miss this chance for THICKER HAIR AT HOME!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (INS) — Over the long distance telephone, George Sanders, who is in New York, agreed to play the role of Caesar in "Androcles And The Lion" before he opens on Broadway in "South Pacific." Gabriel Pascal, who made the call, says George will be here this week to join Jean Simmons, Horace Mahon and Robert Newton.

George Sanders

Newton arrived via TWA today. He made front page news when he left London with his four-months-old baby and nurse. His wife was paging him frantically, but Newton says the child must have care and Mrs. N. is in a nursing home.

Sanders, by the way, gets the role in "Androcles" for which sexy-Rexy Harrison was originally scheduled.

Dolores Costello, who hasn't been seen on stage or screen since she married John Barrymore many years ago, opens at the Century Theater in Harold Sherman's stage play "The Great Man," March 6.

Dolores, daughter of the late Maurice Costello, met John Barrymore on the Warner lot when she was his leading lady and, as all the world knows, later became Mrs. Barrymore. Their son, John Barrymore, Jr., is carving a career for himself as a screen actor.

At the time Dolores was at the Warner Studio she was a real beauty, so fragile and lovely.

I've just heard from New York that Cardinal Spellman is making two shorts for the bishop's fund for war victims. Jarmila Novotna will narrate one film depicting the pitiful plight of the children in the displaced persons camp. That's a subject close to her heart since the children of her own country, Czechoslovakia, were war victims.

Novotna, by the way, has signed with the Metropolitan Opera for an additional eight performances of "Die Fledermaus" both in New York and on the road.

The 22nd of this month Maria Jeritza makes her comeback as Rosalinda opposite Novotna's Orlovsky in the Strauss opera.

There's an interesting story on Al Jolson in the February Cosmopolitan magazine, "The Jolson Nobody Knew," by Harry Akst, song composer and Al's friend for many years.

One sad phase of the Jolson story not told is that Lou Epstein, who was Al's business manager and close adviser for thirty-four years, has no job. Eppie is very able and very likeable, and it seems that he ought to be valuable to anyone who needs a manager.

Those closest to the Jolson situation feel that Al must have intended to do something about Eppie. Meanwhile the infant girl who inherited a half million dollars, will never be well and Mrs. Jolson is heartbroken. What to do about her is the question.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance to watch is that of Jim Howard and Marguerite Chapman, who were a Saddle and Sirloin duo.

Since her marriage to Philip Rivero, Judy Canova is in the Golden Book of Havana (the Cuban 400).

Grace and Abel Green, who are at the Hotel Nacional in Cuba, sent me a clipping of my column in the Havana Post. It was a thrill to see it.

Anna May Wong, most famous of our Chinese actresses, may play the Oriental charmer in "Peiping Express." Anna was actually born right here in Los Angeles.

The Stanley Goulds expect their first baby in June. She was formerly married to Jed Harris.

Eddie Duchin is back in the Memorial Hospital for treatment, and his friends are all pulling for him to hurry and get well.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Foxey Lad Wins At Hialeah Park

Hedley Woodhouse Is Aboard Victor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Circle M Farm's Foxey Lad, making his first start since the close of the New York racing season, impressed the crowd of 16,591 at Hialeah Park today when he captured the featured Bay Pines Purse, a test for three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Despite his long absence from competition, the black colt was sent postward the favorite at $5.60.

Foxey Lad whipped J. W. Nizlek's Teaneck Flash by a length and completed a riding double for Hedley Woodhouse, who seems to have a habit of winning Hialeah's feature races. Third in the field of nine was Irene Martin's Ogre, while F. W. Hooper's Officious finished a tiring fourth.

Joseph Tucci's Flamingo hopeful, Bob Considine, also made his three-year-old debut in the $4,000 overnight race, but the colt broke late and finished sixth. Foxey Lad is not eligible for the $50,000 Flamingo.

Last year, Foxey Lad was sparingly campaigned, competing in only five races, winning two of them, with one second and a third for earnings of $5,600.

STOP Baldness!

GROW THICKER HAIR in Your OWN HOME

Free EXAMINATION One Day Only!

National Staff Trichologist

Trichologist V. T. Paul will personally give you a FREE HAIR and SCALP EXAMINATION at the FORT CUMBERLAND HOTEL THURSDAY, Feb. 8th, 11 A. M. to 9 P. M. No Appointments Necessary!

Come in when it's most convenient for you. We will analyze your scalp disorders absolutely FREE! We'll explain our new home treatment method that helps you grow thicker, stronger, more virile hair . . . at home!

Home Treatments Individually Prescribed

Since there are a dozen good reasons for baldness, no "cure-all" has ever been 100% effective... so HAIR EXPERTS, Inc., insists on a personal scalp examination and an individual treatment for each hair and scalp condition. Your treatments and instructions are for you alone, and you treat yourself . . . right in the privacy of your own home . . . usually twice a week for about 10 weeks. Treatments are simple, brisk, and stimulating.

Results Are Quick!

You'll notice a new, clean, vigorous feeling in your scalp right away, and, in most cases, your scalp will be purged of bacteria, imbedded dandruff, and decay organisms in just a few, short weeks. Then your scalp is free of the hair-killers, and Nature's dynamic urge to GROW THICKER HAIR is once again able to function, able to keep your hair thick and luxurious for life.

Learn the Facts!

Stop in at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and see Trichologist V. T. Paul. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way, and if you decide to take HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments, you will find the fee very reasonable.

Can You Answer These "Bald" Questions?

Q. Is baldness hereditary?
Q. Is baldness due to old age?
Q. Can baldness be prevented?

No, baldness is not inherited, nor is it due to old age. These are just misconceptions of the "Hair Tonic" age. Hair can be regrown with the aid of HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments. This has been proved by HAIR EXPERTS' Offices across the country throughout the years. In most cases of thinning hair or baldness, there is a definite scalp disorder that is blocking the growth of normal, healthy hair. Don't miss this chance for THICKER HAIR AT HOME!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (INS) — Over the long distance telephone, George Sanders, who is in New York, agreed to play the role of Caesar in "Androcles And The Lion" before he opens on Broadway in "South Pacific." Gabriel Pascal, who made the call, says George will be here this week to join Jean Simmons, Horace Mahon and Robert Newton.

George Sanders

Newton arrived via TWA today. He made front page news when he left London with his four-months-old baby and nurse. His wife was paging him frantically, but Newton says the child must have care and Mrs. N. is in a nursing home.

Sanders, by the way, gets the role in "Androcles" for which sexy-Rexy Harrison was originally scheduled.

Dolores Costello, who hasn't been seen on stage or screen since she married John Barrymore many years ago, opens at the Century Theater in Harold Sherman's stage play "The Great Man," March 6.

Dolores, daughter of the late Maurice Costello, met John Barrymore on the Warner lot when she was his leading lady and, as all the world knows, later became Mrs. Barrymore. Their son, John Barrymore, Jr., is carving a career for himself as a screen actor.

At the time Dolores was at the Warner Studio she was a real beauty, so fragile and lovely.

I've just heard from New York that Cardinal Spellman is making two shorts for the bishop's fund for war victims. Jarmila Novotna will narrate one film depicting the pitiful plight of the children in the displaced persons camp. That's a subject close to her heart since the children of her own country, Czechoslovakia, were war victims.

Novotna, by the way, has signed with the Metropolitan Opera for an additional eight performances of "Die Fledermaus" both in New York and on the road.

The 22nd of this month Maria Jeritza makes her comeback as Rosalinda opposite Novotna's Orlovsky in the Strauss opera.

There's an interesting story on Al Jolson in the February Cosmopolitan magazine, "The Jolson Nobody Knew," by Harry Akst, song composer and Al's friend for many years.

One sad phase of the Jolson story not told is that Lou Epstein, who was Al's business manager and close adviser for thirty-four years, has no job. Eppie is very able and very likeable, and it seems that he ought to be valuable to anyone who needs a manager.

Those closest to the Jolson situation feel that Al must have intended to do something about Eppie. Meanwhile the infant girl who inherited a half million dollars, will never be well and Mrs. Jolson is heartbroken. What to do about her is the question.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance to watch is that of Jim Howard and Marguerite Chapman, who were a Saddle and Sirloin duo.

The Duchess of Windsor's closest friend in Manhattan these February days is Ethel Merman.

Since her marriage to Philip Rivero, Judy Canova is in the Golden Book of Havana (the Cuban 400).

Grace and Abel Green, who are at the Hotel Nacional in Cuba, sent me a clipping of my column in the Havana Post. It was a thrill to see it.

Anna May Wong, most famous of our Chinese actresses, may play the Oriental charmer in "Peiping Express." Anna was actually born right here in Los Angeles.

The Stanley Goulds expect their first baby in June. She was formerly married to Jed Harris.

Eddie Duchin is back in the Memorial Hospital for treatment, and his friends are all pulling for him to hurry and get well.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

ALL STAR GAME—DETROIT—TUESDAY, JULY 10

Foxey Lad Wins At Hialeah Park

Hedley Woodhouse Is Aboard Victor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Circle M Farm's Foxey Lad, making his first start since the close of the New York racing season, impressed the crowd of 16,591 at Hialeah Park today when he captured the featured Bay Pines Purse, a test for three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Despite his long absence from competition, the black colt was sent postward the favorite at $5.60.

Foxey Lad whipped J. W. Nizlek's Teaneck Flash by a length and completed a riding double for Hedley Woodhouse, who seems to have a habit of winning Hialeah's feature races. Third in the field of nine was Irene Martin's Ogre, while F. W. Hooper's Officious finished a tiring fourth.

Joseph Tucci's Flamingo hopeful, Bob Considine, also made his three-year-old debut in the $4,000 overnight race, but the colt broke late and finished sixth. Foxey Lad is not eligible for the $50,000 Flamingo.

Last year, Foxey Lad was sparingly campaigned, competing in only five races, winning two of them, with one second and a third for earnings of $5,600.

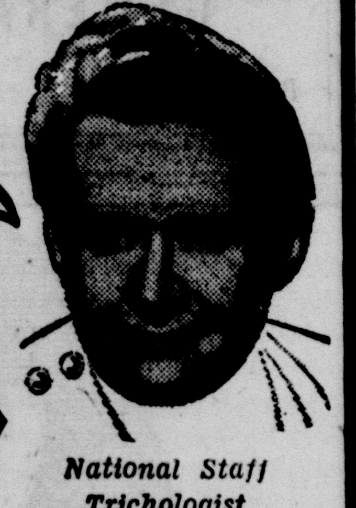
STOP Baldness!

GROW THICKER HAIR in Your OWN HOME

Free EXAMINATION One Day Only!



National Staff Trichologist

Trichologist V. T. Paul will personally give you a FREE HAIR and SCALP EXAMINATION at the FORT CUMBERLAND HOTEL THURSDAY, Feb. 8th, 11 A. M. to 9 P. M. No Appointments Necessary!

Come in when it's most convenient for you. We will analyze your scalp disorders absolutely FREE! We'll explain our new home treatment method that helps you grow thicker, stronger, more virile hair . . . at home!

Home Treatments Individually Prescribed

Since there are a dozen good reasons for baldness, no "cure-all" has ever been 100% effective... so HAIR EXPERTS, Inc., insists on a personal scalp examination and an individual treatment for each hair and scalp condition. Your treatments and instructions are for you alone, and you treat yourself . . . right in the privacy of your own home . . . usually twice a week for about 10 weeks. Treatments are simple, brisk, and stimulating.

Results Are Quick!

You'll notice a new, clean, vigorous feeling in your scalp right away, and, in most cases, your scalp will be purged of bacteria, imbedded dandruff, and decay organisms in just a few, short weeks. Then your scalp is free of the hair-killers, and Nature's dynamic urge to GROW THICKER HAIR is once again able to function, able to keep your hair thick and luxurious for life.

Learn the Facts!

Stop in at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and see Trichologist V. T. Paul. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way, and if you decide to take HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments, you will find the fee very reasonable.

Can You Answer These "Bald" Questions?

Q. Is baldness hereditary?
Q. Is baldness due to old age?
Q. Can baldness be prevented?

No, baldness is not inherited, nor is it due to old age. These are just misconceptions of the "Hair Tonic" age. Hair can be regrown with the aid of HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments. This has been proved by HAIR EXPERTS' Offices across the country throughout the years. In most cases of thinning hair or baldness, there is a definite scalp disorder that is blocking the growth of normal, healthy hair. Don't miss this chance for THICKER HAIR AT HOME!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (INS) — Over the long distance telephone, George Sanders, who is in New York, agreed to play the role of Caesar in "Androcles And The Lion" before he opens on Broadway in "South Pacific." Gabriel Pascal, who made the call, says George will be here this week to join Jean Simmons, Horace Mahon and Robert Newton.

George Sanders

Newton arrived via TWA today. He made front page news when he left London with his four-months-old baby and nurse. His wife was paging him frantically, but Newton says the child must have care and Mrs. N. is in a nursing home.

Sanders, by the way, gets the role in "Androcles" for which sexy-Rexy Harrison was originally scheduled.

Dolores Costello, who hasn't been seen on stage or screen since she married John Barrymore many years ago, opens at the Century Theater in Harold Sherman's stage play "The Great Man," March 6.

Dolores, daughter of the late Maurice Costello, met John Barrymore on the Warner lot when she was his leading lady and, as all the world knows, later became Mrs. Barrymore. Their son, John Barrymore, Jr., is carving a career for himself as a screen actor.

At the time Dolores was at the Warner Studio she was a real beauty, so fragile and lovely.

I've just heard from New York that Cardinal Spellman is making two shorts for the bishop's fund for war victims. Jarmila Novotna will narrate one film depicting the pitiful plight of the children in the displaced persons camp. That's a subject close to her heart since the children of her own country, Czechoslovakia, were war victims.

Novotna, by the way, has signed with the Metropolitan Opera for an additional eight performances of "Die Fledermaus" both in New York and on the road.

The 22nd of this month Maria Jeritza makes her comeback as Rosalinda opposite Novotna's Orlovsky in the Strauss opera.

There's an interesting story on Al Jolson in the February Cosmopolitan magazine, "The Jolson Nobody Knew," by Harry Akst, song composer and Al's friend for many years.

One sad phase of the Jolson story not told is that Lou Epstein, who was Al's business manager and close adviser for thirty-four years, has no job. Eppie is very able and very likeable, and it seems that he ought to be valuable to anyone who needs a manager.

Those closest to the Jolson situation feel that Al must have intended to do something about Eppie. Meanwhile the infant girl who inherited a half million dollars, will never be well and Mrs. Jolson is heartbroken. What to do about her is the question.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance to watch is that of Jim Howard and Marguerite Chapman, who were a Saddle and Sirloin duo.

The Duchess of Windsor's closest friend in Manhattan these February days is Ethel Merman.

Since her marriage to Philip Rivero, Judy Canova is in the Golden Book of Havana (the Cuban 400).

Grace and Abel Green, who are at the Hotel Nacional in Cuba, sent me a clipping of my column in the Havana Post. It was a thrill to see it.

Anna May Wong, most famous of our Chinese actresses, may play the Oriental charmer in "Peiping Express." Anna was actually born right here in Los Angeles.

The Stanley Goulds expect their first baby in June. She was formerly married to Jed Harris.

Eddie Duchin is back in the Memorial Hospital for treatment, and his friends are all pulling for him to hurry and get well.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

By JOHN CROSBY

Death In The Afternoon

EDNA FERBER once attributed the success of her novels at least partly to the fact that they dealt in the fundamentals of life—birth, marriage, disease, death. Soap opera deals pretty much in the same primary commodities except that the emphasis lies on their frustration or perversion. Soapland is full of women who can't have children, of marriages that have broken up or are breaking and of deaths that are anything but ordinary.

John Crosby

Murder, which intruded only occasionally in soap opera years ago, has become overwhelmingly fashionable. That old sleuth, Perry Mason, has Walter Bott on trial for his life for murder. My old friend Larry Noble of "Backstage Wife," just beat a murder rap for a backstage killing. It was Claudia Vincent, as you and I knew all along, who was the killer. Claudia's mind snapped under the strain and she's been put away. But not before she threw acid into the face of Mary Noble, "Backstage Wife," possibly disfiguring her forever.

• — • — •

Some instinct tells me she'll recover her beauty. She's done it before after even worse tribulations. As a matter of fact, poor Mary has a rather nasty habit of falling victim to the mentally deranged. Last time I listened in February, 1946, she was recovering nicely, after having been drugged, locked in a room and left to die by someone described as "mentally not well."

Backstage and theatrical murders are rather fashionable among current soap opera. Front Page Farrell, the demon reporter, is currently trying to solve a double murder of stage folk. And Portia, the demon lady lawyer of "Portia Faces Life," also has a twin killing involving nightclub people. The freshest corpse anywhere around is that of Ralph Kirkland who was done in by Rupert Gorham on "The Second Mrs. Burton." Rupert then proceeded to elope with his victim's mother-in-law, Grace Burton, a nice touch. Ralph is so freshly dead, that his wife, Marsha, doesn't know it yet. She thinks her husband is off again with that Elizabeth Miller girl who has again escaped from the hospital.

A good many of the murders have been committed by women. The "Backstage Wife" and the "Young Widder Brown" killings were both done by women and I strongly suspect the Front Page Farrell murders had a woman behind them, too. In addition, there is a woman swindler, Lady Audrey Jones, now trying to get her claws on all that Peabody money in Lorenzo Jones.

That pretty well winds up the homicide in soapland, except that Stella Dallas just escaped a couple of attempted assassinations and there has been a good deal of bloodshed in "Lorenzo Jones" which was once primarily a comedy show. Murder has been popular a long time in the evening hours but this afternoon murder is a rather different dish of tea. In the first place, there is almost no element of mystery.

Almost always an innocent person is indicted and the trial goes on for weeks or months, keeping the housewife in a wonderful state of sustained anxiety. Sometimes murders are committed for no other reason than to implicate Nora or Caroline or whoever, the victim having been unfortunate to be around when a corpse was needed. Jealousy is the principal motive but the girls, curiously enough, don't kill the other woman; they are much more likely to kill the man they both love. In that way, Nora is kept alive—after all, the Noras have to live forever—to weep her eyes out and then stand trial.

While good women are nobler than anything in your or my experience in soap opera, the bad women are more venomous than anything you'd care to encounter. In either case, the women are strong, just as men, whether good or bad, are weak or at best rather simpleminded and easily bamboozled by women. Also, while women are committing a good many of these soapland murders, these lapses from feminine grace are offset by the fact that women solve the crimes too. It was Mary who put the finger on Claudia in "Backstage Wife;" Portia is running down the nightclub murders and even Front Page Farrell is getting a lot of help from his wife. The man's job in soapland murder is just to stand around. Or better yet, to fall down gracefully when the bullets strike.

Death In The Afternoon

John Crosby

EDNA FERBER once attributed the success of her novels at least partly to the fact that they dealt in the fundamentals of life—birth, marriage, disease, death. Soap opera deals pretty much in the same primary commodities except that the emphasis lies on their frustration or perversion. Soapland is full of women who can't have children, of marriages that have broken up or are breaking and of deaths that are anything but ordinary.

Murder, which intruded only occasionally in soap opera years ago, has become overwhelmingly fashionable. That old sleuth, Perry Mason, has Walter Bott on trial for his life for murder. My old friend Larry Noble of "Backstage Wife," just beat a murder rap for a backstage killing. It was Claudia Vincent, as you and I knew all along, who was the killer. Claudia's mind snapped under the strain and she's been put away. But not before she threw acid into the face of Mary Noble, "Backstage Wife," possibly disfiguring her forever.

Some instinct tells me she'll recover her beauty. She's done it before after even worse tribulations. As a matter of fact, poor Mary has a rather nasty habit of falling victim to the mentally deranged. Last time I listened in February, 1946, she was recovering nicely, after having been drugged, locked in a room and left to die by someone described as "mentally not well."

Backstage and theatrical murders are rather fashionable among current soap opera. Front Page Farrell, the demon reporter, is currently trying to solve a double murder of stage folk. And Portia, the demon lady lawyer of "Portia Faces Life," also has a twin killing involving nightclub people. The freshest corpse anywhere around is that of Ralph Kirkland who was done in by Rupert Gorham on "The Second Mrs. Burton." Rupert then proceeded to elope with his victim's mother-in-law, Grace Burton, a nice touch. Ralph is so freshly dead, that his wife, Marsha, doesn't know it yet. She thinks her husband is off again with that Elizabeth Miller girl who has again escaped from the hospital.

A good many of the murders have been committed by women. The "Backstage Wife" and the "Young Widder Brown" killings were both done by women and I strongly suspect the Front Page Farrell murders had a woman behind them, too. In addition, there is a woman swindler, Lady Audrey Jones, now trying to get her claws on all that Peabody money in Lorenzo Jones.

That pretty well winds up the homicide in soapland, except that Stella Dallas just escaped a couple of attempted assassinations and there has been a good deal of bloodshed in "Lorenzo Jones" which was once primarily a comedy show. Murder has been popular a long time in the evening hours but this afternoon murder is a rather different dish of tea. In the first place, there is almost no element of mystery.

Almost always an innocent person is indicted and the trial goes on for weeks or months, keeping the housewife in a wonderful state of sustained anxiety. Sometimes murders are committed for no other reason than to implicate Nora or Caroline or whoever, the victim having been unfortunate to be around when a corpse was needed. Jealousy is the principal motive but the girls, curiously enough, don't kill the other woman; they are much more likely to kill the man they both love. In that way, Nora is kept alive—after all, the Noras have to live forever—to weep her eyes out and then stand trial.

While good women are nobler than anything in your or my experience in soap opera, the bad women are more venomous than anything you'd care to encounter. In either case, the women are strong, just as men, whether good or bad, are weak or at best rather simpleminded and easily bamboozled by women. Also, while women are committing a good many of these soapland murders, these lapses from feminine grace are offset by the fact that women solve the crimes too. It was Mary who put the finger on Claudia in "Backstage Wife;" Portia is running down the nightclub murders and even Front Page Farrell is getting a lot of help from his wife. The man's job in soapland murder is just to stand around. Or better yet, to fall down gracefully when the bullets strike.

By JOHN CROSBY

Death In The Afternoon

EDNA FERBER once attributed the success of her novels at least partly to the fact that they dealt in the fundamentals of life—birth, marriage, disease, death. Soap opera deals pretty much in the same primary commodities except that the emphasis lies on their frustration or perversion. Soapland is full of women who can't have children, of marriages that have broken up or are breaking and of deaths that are anything but ordinary.

John Crosby

Murder, which intruded only occasionally in soap opera years ago, has become overwhelmingly fashionable. That old sleuth, Perry Mason, has Walter Bott on trial for his life for murder. My old friend Larry Noble of "Backstage Wife," just beat a murder rap for a backstage killing. It was Claudia Vincent, as you and I knew all along, who was the killer. Claudia's mind snapped under the strain and she's been put away. But not before she threw acid into the face of Mary Noble, "Backstage Wife," possibly disfiguring her forever.

• — • — •

Some instinct tells me she'll recover her beauty. She's done it before after even worse tribulations. As a matter of fact, poor Mary has a rather nasty habit of falling victim to the mentally deranged. Last time I listened in February, 1946, she was recovering nicely, after having been drugged, locked in a room and left to die by someone described as "mentally not well."

Backstage and theatrical murders are rather fashionable among current soap opera. Front Page Farrell, the demon reporter, is currently trying to solve a double murder of stage folk. And Portia, the demon lady lawyer of "Portia Faces Life," also has a twin killing involving nightclub people. The freshest corpse anywhere around is that of Ralph Kirkland who was done in by Rupert Gorham on "The Second Mrs. Burton." Rupert then proceeded to elope with his victim's mother-in-law, Grace Burton, a nice touch. Ralph is so freshly dead, that his wife, Marsha, doesn't know it yet. She thinks her husband is off again with that Elizabeth Miller girl who has again escaped from the hospital.

A good many of the murders have been committed by women. The "Backstage Wife" and the "Young Widder Brown" killings were both done by women and I strongly suspect the Front Page Farrell murders had a woman behind them, too. In addition, there is a woman swindler, Lady Audrey Jones, now trying to get her claws on all that Peabody money in Lorenzo Jones.

That pretty well winds up the homicide in soapland, except that Stella Dallas just escaped a couple of attempted assassinations and there has been a good deal of bloodshed in "Lorenzo Jones" which was once primarily a comedy show. Murder has been popular a long time in the evening hours but this afternoon murder is a rather different dish of tea. In the first place, there is almost no element of mystery.

Almost always an innocent person is indicted and the trial goes on for weeks or months, keeping the housewife in a wonderful state of sustained anxiety. Sometimes murders are committed for no other reason than to implicate Nora or Caroline or whoever, the victim having been unfortunate to be around when a corpse was needed. Jealousy is the principal motive but the girls, curiously enough, don't kill the other woman; they are much more likely to kill the man they both love. In that way, Nora is kept alive—after all, the Noras have to live forever—to weep her eyes out and then stand trial.

While good women are nobler than anything in your or my experience in soap opera, the bad women are more venomous than anything you'd care to encounter. In either case, the women are strong, just as men, whether good or bad, are weak or at best rather simpleminded and easily bamboozled by women. Also, while women are committing a good many of these soapland murders, these lapses from feminine grace are offset by the fact that women solve the crimes too. It was Mary who put the finger on Claudia in "Backstage Wife;" Portia is running down the nightclub murders and even Front Page Farrell is getting a lot of help from his wife. The man's job in soapland murder is just to stand around. Or better yet, to fall down gracefully when the bullets strike.

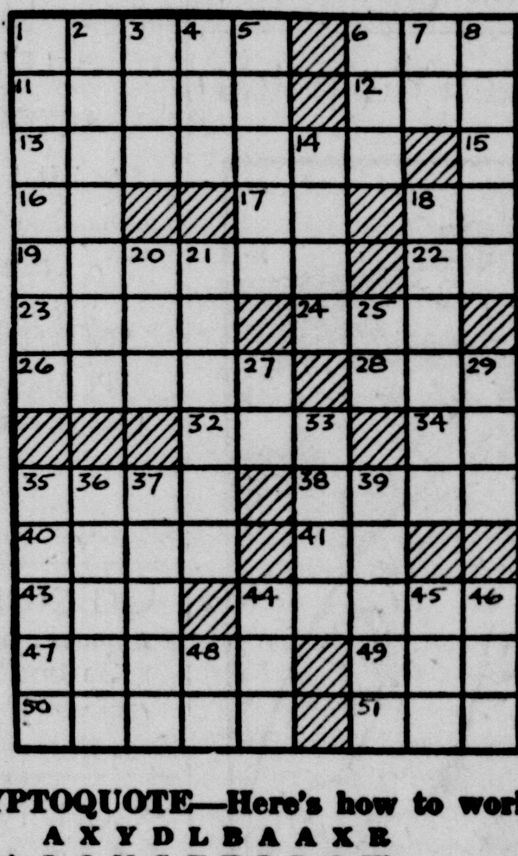
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CROSS—In loving memory of my beloved father, Charles W. Cross, who passed away 4 years ago today, February 7, 1947.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine,"
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His ever patient, worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

Sadly missed by his son and family,
MR. & MRS. RICHARD L. CROSS

KERNS—May we take this means to express our heartfelt appreciation to all our neighbors and friends who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement of our mother, Leah M. Kerns, also we especially thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who sent floral tributes and the Minister, Rev. J. A. Patterson, for his comforting words.

Sons —
Clarence, Clinton and Granville Kerns

In Memoriam

CROSS—In loving memory of my beloved father, Charles W. Cross, who passed away 4 years ago today, February 7, 1947.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine,"
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His ever patient, worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

Sadly missed by his son and family,
MR. & MRS. RICHARD L. CROSS

KERNS—May we take this means to express our heartfelt appreciation to all our neighbors and friends who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement of our mother, Leah M. Kerns, also we especially thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who sent floral tributes and the Minister, Rev. J. A. Patterson, for his comforting words.

Sons —
Clarence, Clinton and Granville Kerns

In Memoriam

CROSS—In loving memory of my beloved father, Charles W. Cross, who passed away 4 years ago today, February 7, 1947.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine,"
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His ever patient, worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

Sadly missed by his son and family,
MR. & MRS. RICHARD L. CROSS

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICKING THE WINNER

SUCCESS of a throw-in play can depend on more than merely preparing the situation by stripping out certain suits. In some card combinations, the play can be thwarted if the wrong defender wins the trick which is used to throw the side into the lead. He is then able to make a return through the tenace in a crucial suit. One sure way of picking the correct winner of that decisive trick is by taking a losing low finesse in that very suit, if the cards in your own hand and dummy permit such action.

At three tables where West led the 2 of his partner's clubs, only one declarer made the contract. The first, who failed, won with the club A, scored the heart K, finessed the spade J, led to the spade A, used the heart A and Q, discarding the club 7, then finessed the diamond Q to the K. Later he lost another diamond, so was down one.

Five tricks went the same at another table. To the sixth, South led the heart Q, discarding the diamond 9, ruffed the heart 7 and then led the club 7, hoping East would win it. But West overtook the J with the K and returned the diamond 2, compelling South to lose to the diamond K and be set a trick.

Where South made the contract, his play was different in one great essential. He followed the club A trick with the heart K, spade J, heart A, a ruff of the heart 7, the spade A, heart Q for discard of the club 7, a ruff of the club 10, return to his own hand with the spade 7 to the Q and then led the diamond 3. Dummy retained the diamond A-Q-9 and a trump and his own hand just the three diamonds and a trump. No matter what West played, he was able to make East win that trick and then lead back anything he wished. A diamond would have been into the A-Q and a club would have enabled South to ruff in dummy while discarding his next to last diamond, assuring the contract.

The Cresaptown Area Lay Health Group spent $25.05 in the past month for glasses and cod liver oil capsules for children of the area, Mrs. Edward Walker reported at the meeting of the group. Mrs. Lester McGill presided and Mrs. Kenneth Lee gave a routine report.

The group voted to send notes of thanks to Mrs. Edward Lewis, teacher of the Mary Mart, a Sunday School Class, and to Mrs. Elek Densock, president of the the A. E. L. Sisterhood of Cresaptown Methodist Church, for collecting articles of clothing for the health center, which will be divided into layettes and distributed when needed in the community. The group has been collecting infants clothing for several years.

Mrs. George McKenzie was welcomed as a new member.

Volunteering to assist Miss Margaret Morrissey at the school on Tuesdays and Thursdays of this month are Mrs. Otis Chaney, Mrs. Douglas Breedlove, Mrs. Philip Bowman, Mrs. Ashby Lawrence, Mrs. Fred Poland, Mrs. Edward Denkenberger, Mrs. Irma Lee and Mrs. McKenzie.

The well baby clinic will be held February 27.

After the business meeting, the group went by autimobile to the County Home and Infirmary. A tour of the new building was conducted by Mrs. Ella Beamer Smith, head nurse. Mrs. Earl Grim, wife of the superintendent, escorted them through the county home. They viewed the women's quarters and were introduced to the patients. The group spent some time visiting and talking with the patients.

Making the tour were Mrs. Kathleen Murray, Mrs. A. G. Wallis, Mrs. Edward Walker, Mrs. Chelsie Liller, Mrs. Fred Poland, Mrs. Lester McGill, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Mrs. Kenneth Lee, Mrs. Otis Chaney, Mrs. Philip Powman, Mrs. Douglas Breedlove, Mrs. Edward Denkenberger, Mrs. George McKenzie, Miss Morrissey, Mrs. John Barncord, Lester McGill and John Chelsie.

J. B. Dowling, sanitation officer, has been asked to speak on sanitation at the March meeting. Election of officers will also be held. All members are urged to be present.

A tour of Barton's Dairy is planned for April and in May they will visit the state sanitarium at Sabillasville.

Those who did not play on a team, however, must register, he added.

Boys who graduated from or registered for the Little League last year must register for the Hot Stove League being organized for 13 and 14 year old boys.

Truman

Mr. Truman could have taken action but did not coincided with a political campaign to elect a new Congress. In this Mr. Truman took an aggressive hand, at St. Louis on Saturday night preceding the election he made a vigorous appeal in behalf of candidates of his own party, expressed strong opposition to Republicans.

Politics Enters

While putting ceilings over wages and prices would affect the public generally, there were two large groups members of which would feel the limitations of the ceilings with especially concrete directness; and toward whom as groups politics is apt to defer. These are labor and farmers. These groups had been especially singled out for appeal by Mr. Truman in his 1948 campaign for the presidency. In his acceptance speech that year he said:

"Never in the world were farmers of any republic as prosperous as the farmers of the United States. And if they don't do their duty to the Democratic party they're the most ungrateful people in the world . . . and I will say to labor just what I have said about the farmers — they're the most ungrateful people in the world if they don't support the Democratic party."

It would be little wonder if Mr. Truman, having made this appeal in 1948, and having won the election largely through the votes of these groups, especially the farm vote, should feel constraint about them—hesitating to impose ceilings which would limit the demands for wage raises which labor was making during the months from June to January and hesitating to interfere with the price support of farm crops that was in operation.

The likelihood is that it would have passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

RUSSIA'S MYSTERY CLASS BATTLESHIP AS SKETCHED BY ARTIST

GUIDED MISSILE LAUNCHING GEAR
MAIN ARMAMENT: PROBABLY 16 IN. GUNS

HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT ARMAMENT
HEAVY SECONDARY ARMAMENT OF 20 DUAL-PURPOSE GUNS (PROBABLY 5 IN.)
CP

WHILE THE KREMLIN GUARDS THE SECRET of whether Russia is the only major naval Power increasing its battleship strength, a London artist presents his impression of the Sovietski Soyuz's probable appearance. He pieced together bits of European intelligence to project the supposed battleship of 860 feet overall length, 45,000 tons displacement and 260,000 shaft horse power. With a reputed speed of 33-35 knots, it would be faster than the U.S.S. Iowa class. It is believed to be of 130-foot beam but its comparatively shallow draft of 29 feet would facilitate navigation in the Baltic and the Black Sea. Armament is estimated to be 15- or 16-inch guns, in either two or three triple turrets, and twenty secondary guns of about 5-inch calibre. A pair of domed towers (fore and aft) are understood to be for launching guided missiles. Reports say that German experts have been "co-opted" to assist in modernizing the design. It is pointed out that if and when ships of the Sovietski Soyuz class are completed, they will make a menacing addition to the Russian battleship strength, which now consists of three launched in 1911. It is rumored that there are at least three in the new class. (The Illustrated London News—Central Press)

Market Declines Slightly Under Pressure Of Selling

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—The stock market eased lower today under the pressure of general selling that touched almost every section of the list.

There were a number of individual issues that bested the trend, and motion pictures as a group stood out on the upside.

Most of the pressure on the downside came in the steels and motors. Irregularity was the rule in the rails. Santa Fe lost 3½ at 174, Illinois Central gained 3¼ at 74, Nickel Plate was off 2 at 228, and Southern Railway gained 1½ at 59½.

Motion pictures did well. RKO Theater led the most active list up ¼ at 5 with RKO Pictures in third place up ⅛ at 4¼. Loew's was fifth most active up 1 at 18¼. Also on the list of 15 most active issues were Warner Bros. Pictures up ⅜ at 12¾, and Twentieth Century-Fox up 1⅜ at 23⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $96.70. The industrial component of the average was off 30 cents and rails were down 10 cents. The utilities section gained 20 cents.

The volume of business contracted to 2,360,000 shares as compared with 2,680,000 shares yesterday when the market advanced to a new high for 1950-51 and the best average level in more than 20 years.

There were 1,207 individual issues traded with 346 advancing and 600 declining. There were 69 new highes established and one new low.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do sick men make "bad patients"?

Answer: Certainly not all of them. I believe as many men as women have made triumphal adjustments to illness or invalidism—as the record of handicapped veterans from both wars shows. If the average man is more apt than his wife to be thrown into a panic by being laid up with a bad cold, remember how sternly he has been conditioned to feel that not only his security but that of his family depends on his staying active. Aside from the fact that women are more accustomed than men to minor disabilities, the ultimate disaster to a family is the crippling of the breadwinner, and right well he knows it.

Will stern parents make a child a bully?

Answer: Yes, says Edith Lesser Atkin in a pamphlet, "Aggressiveness in Children" issued by the Child Study Association. While every human being has some degree of aggressiveness in his nature, how fully this is developed depends largely upon whether as a child he finds the world a warm and friendly place or a cold and dangerous one. In the latter case, the child builds up a mass of suppressed hostility which he takes out on the first people weaker than himself whom he meets. The child who becomes a playground bully for such reasons as this appears least appealing when he needs help most.

May mental attitudes make motherhood more dangerous?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Desmond O'Neill of Guy's Hospital, London. Many of the actual dangers of motherhood are either created or increased by such conscious or unconscious mental attitudes as emotional shock, the desire to retain the irresponsibility of childhood, hostility towards one's husband (or toward men in general) and identification with a mother who has herself had serious difficulties in child-bearing. The safety of expectant mothers may depend almost as much upon their being helped to conquer morbid feelings as upon the physical side of pre-natal care.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICKING THE WINNER

SUCCESS of a throw-in play can depend on more than merely preparing the situation by stripping out certain suits. In some card combinations, the play can be thwarted if the wrong defender wins the trick which is used to throw the side into the lead. He is then able to make a return through the tenace in a crucial suit. One sure way of picking the correct winner of that decisive trick is by taking a losing low finesse in that very suit, if the cards in your own hand and dummy permit such action.

At three tables where West led the 2 of his partner's clubs, only one declarer made the contract. The first, who failed, won with the club A, scored the heart K, finessed the spade J, led to the spade A, used the heart A and Q, discarding the club 7, then finessed the diamond Q to the K. Later he lost another diamond, so was down one.

Five tricks went the same at another table. To the sixth, South led the heart Q, discarding the diamond 9, ruffed the heart 7 and then led the club 7, hoping East would win it. But West overtook the J with the K and returned the diamond 2, compelling South to lose to the diamond K and be set a trick.

Where South made the contract, his play was different in one great essential. He followed the club A trick with the heart K, spade J, heart A, a ruff of the heart 7, the spade A, heart Q for discard of the club 7, a ruff of the club 10, return to his own hand with the spade 7 to the Q and then led the diamond 3. Dummy retained the diamond A-Q-9 and a trump and his own hand just the three diamonds and a trump. No matter what West played, he was able to make East win that trick and then lead back anything he wished. A diamond would have been into the A-Q and a club would have enabled South to ruff in dummy while discarding his next to last diamond, assuring the contract.

While there she will visit with her other daughters and sons. Mrs. Beachy's son, Charles J. Bevans, expects to be sent to foreign countries on Government business soon. This will mark his first overseas trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stanton of Bittinger have received a letter from their son, Robert, who had been a patient in a hospital in Korea. He is now well enough to work in the hospital.

Truman

Mr. Truman could have taken action but did not coincided with a political campaign to elect a new Congress. In this Mr. Truman took an aggressive hand, at St. Louis on Saturday night preceding the election he made a vigorous appeal in behalf of candidates of his own party, expressed strong opposition to Republicans.

Politics Enters

While putting ceilings over wages and prices would affect the public generally, there were two large groups members of which would feel the limitations of the ceilings with especially concrete directness; and toward whom as groups politics is apt to defer. These are labor and farmers. These groups had been especially singled out for appeal by Mr. Truman in his 1948 campaign for the presidency. In his acceptance speech that year he said:

"Never in the world were farmers of any republic as prosperous as the farmers of the United States. And if they don't do their duty to the Democratic party they're the most ungrateful people in the world . . . and I will say to labor just what I have said about the farmers — they're the most ungrateful people in the world if they don't support the Democratic party."

It would be little wonder if Mr. Truman, having made this appeal in 1948, and having won the election largely through the votes of these groups, especially the farm vote, should feel constraint about them—hesitating to impose ceilings which would limit the demands for wage raises which labor was making during the months from June to January and hesitating to interfere with the price support of farm crops that was in operation.

The likelihood is that it would have passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

RUSSIA'S MYSTERY CLASS BATTLESHIP AS SKETCHED BY ARTIST

WHILE THE KREMLIN GUARDS THE SECRET of whether Russia is the only major naval Power increasing its battleship strength, a London artist presents his impression of the Sovietski Soyuz's probable appearance. He pieced together bits of European intelligence to project the supposed battleship of 860 feet overall length, 45,000 tons displacement and 260,000 shaft horse power. With a reputed speed of 33-35 knots, it would be faster than the U.S.S. Iowa class. It is believed to be of 130-foot beam but its comparatively shallow draft of 29 feet would facilitate navigation in the Baltic and the Black Sea. Armament is estimated to be 15- or 16-inch guns, in either two or three triple turrets, and twenty secondary guns of about 5-inch calibre. A pair of domed towers (fore and aft) are understood to be for launching guided missiles. Reports say that German experts have been "co-opted" to assist in modernizing the design. It is pointed out that if and when ships of the Sovietski Soyuz class are completed, they will make a menacing addition to the Russian battleship strength, which now consists of three launched in 1911. It is rumored that there are at least three in the new class. (The Illustrated London News—Central Press)

Market Declines Slightly Under Pressure Of Selling

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—The stock market eased lower today under the pressure of general selling that touched almost every section of the list.

There were a number of individual issues that bested the trend, and motion pictures as a group stood out on the upside.

Most of the pressure on the downside came in the steels and motors. Irregularity was the rule in the rails. Santa Fe lost 3½ at 174, Illinois Central gained 3¼ at 74, Nickel Plate was off 2 at 228, and Southern Railway gained 1½ at 59½.

Motion pictures did well. RKO Theater led the most active list up ¼ at 5 with RKO Pictures in third place up ⅛ at 4¼. Loew's was fifth most active up 1 at 18¼. Also on the list of 15 most active issues were Warner Bros. Pictures up ⅜ at 12¾, and Twentieth Century-Fox up 1⅜ at 23⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $96.70. The industrial component of the average was off 30 cents and rails were down 10 cents. The utilities section gained 20 cents.

The volume of business contracted to 2,360,000 shares as compared with 2,680,000 shares yesterday when the market advanced to a new high for 1950-51 and the best average level in more than 20 years.

There were 1,207 individual issues traded with 346 advancing and 600 declining. There were 69 new highes established and one new low.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do sick men make "bad patients"?

Answer: Certainly not all of them. I believe as many men as women have made triumphal adjustments to illness or invalidism—as the record of handicapped veterans from both wars shows. If the average man is more apt than his wife to be thrown into a panic by being laid up with a bad cold, remember how sternly he has been conditioned to feel that not only his security but that of his family depends on his staying active. Aside from the fact that women are more accustomed than men to minor disabilities, the ultimate disaster to a family is the crippling of the breadwinner, and right well he knows it.

Will stern parents make a child a bully?

Answer: Yes, says Edith Lesser Atkin in a pamphlet, "Aggressiveness in Children" issued by the Child Study Association. While every human being has some degree of aggressiveness in his nature, how fully this is developed depends largely upon whether as a child he finds the world a warm and friendly place or a cold and dangerous one. In the latter case, the child builds up a mass of suppressed hostility which he takes out on the first people weaker than himself whom he meets. The child who becomes a playground bully for such reasons as this appears least appealing when he needs help most.

May mental attitudes make motherhood more dangerous?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Desmond O'Neill of Guy's Hospital, London. Many of the actual dangers of motherhood are either created or increased by such conscious or unconscious mental attitudes as emotional shock, the desire to retain the irresponsibility of childhood, hostility towards one's husband (or toward men in general) and identification with a mother who has herself had serious difficulties in child-bearing. The safety of expectant mothers may depend almost as much upon their being helped to conquer morbid feelings as upon the physical side of pre-natal care.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICKING THE WINNER

SUCCESS of a throw-in play can depend on more than merely preparing the situation by stripping out certain suits. In some card combinations, the play can be thwarted if the wrong defender wins the trick which is used to throw the side into the lead. He is then able to make a return through the tenace in a crucial suit. One sure way of picking the correct winner of that decisive trick is by taking a losing low finesse in that very suit, if the cards in your own hand and dummy permit such action.

Pass	6 ♦	Pass	6 ♠

At three tables where West led the 2 of his partner's clubs, only one declarer made the contract. The first, who failed, won with the club A, scored the heart K, finessed the spade J, led to the spade A, used the heart A and Q, discarding the club 7, then finessed the diamond Q to the K. Later he lost another diamond, so was down one.

Five tricks went the same at another table. To the sixth, South led the heart Q, discarding the diamond 9, ruffed the heart 7 and then led the club 7, hoping East would win it. But West overtook the J with the K and returned the diamond 2, compelling South to lose to the diamond K and be set a trick.

Where South made the contract, his play was different in one great essential. He followed the club A trick with the heart K, spade J, heart A, a ruff of the heart 7, the spade A, heart Q for discard of the club 7, a ruff of the club 10, return to his own hand with the spade 7 to the Q and then led the diamond 3. Dummy retained the diamond A-Q-9 and a trump and his own hand just the three diamonds and a trump. No matter what West played, he was able to make East win that trick and then lead back anything he wished. A diamond would have been into the A-Q and a club would have enabled South to ruff in dummy while discarding his next to last diamond, assuring the contract.

If the opponents had not bid, how should South play for 4-Hearts after trumping the third diamond?

Mr. Truman could have taken action but did not coincided with a political campaign to elect a new Congress. In this Mr. Truman took an aggressive hand, at St. Louis on Saturday night preceding the election he made a vigorous appeal in behalf of candidates of his own party, expressed strong opposition to Republicans.

Politics Enters

While putting ceilings over wages and prices would affect the public generally, there were two large groups members of which would feel the limitations of the ceilings with especially concrete directness; and toward whom as groups politics is apt to defer. These are labor and farmers. These groups had been especially singled out for appeal by Mr. Truman in his 1948 campaign for the presidency. In his acceptance speech that year he said:

"Never in the world were farmers of any republic as prosperous as the farmers of the United States. And if they don't do their duty to the Democratic party they're the most ungrateful people in the world . . . and I will say to labor just what I have said about the farmers — they're the most ungrateful people in the world if they don't support the Democratic party."

It would be little wonder if Mr. Truman, having made this appeal in 1948, and having won the election largely through the votes of these groups, especially the farm vote, should feel constraint about them—hesitating to impose ceilings which would limit the demands for wage raises which labor was making during the months from June to January and hesitating to interfere with the price support of farm crops that was in operation.

The likelihood is that it would have passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

WHILE THE KREMLIN GUARDS THE SECRET of whether Russia is the only major naval Power increasing its battleship strength, a London artist presents his impression of the Sovietski Soyuz's probable appearance. He pieced together bits of European intelligence to project the supposed battleship of 860 feet overall length, 45,000 tons displacement and 260,000 shaft horse power. With a reputed speed of 33-35 knots, it would be faster than the U.S.S. Iowa class. It is believed to be of 130-foot beam but its comparatively shallow draft of 29 feet would facilitate navigation in the Baltic and the Black Sea. Armament is estimated to be 15- or 16-inch guns, in either two or three triple turrets, and twenty secondary guns of about 5-inch calibre. A pair of domed towers (fore and aft) are understood to be for launching guided missiles. Reports say that German experts have been "co-opted" to assist in modernizing the design. It is pointed out that if and when ships of the Sovietski Soyuz class are completed, they will make a menacing addition to the Russian battleship strength, which now consists of three launched in 1911. It is rumored that there are at least three in the new class. (The Illustrated London News—Central Press)

Market Declines Slightly Under Pressure Of Selling

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—The stock market eased lower today under the pressure of general selling that touched almost every section of the list.

There were a number of individual issues that bested the trend, and motion pictures as a group stood out on the upside.

Most of the pressure on the downside came in the steels and motors. Irregularity was the rule in the rails. Santa Fe lost 3½ at 174, Illinois Central gained 3¼ at 74, Nickel Plate was off 2 at 228, and Southern Railway gained 1½ at 59½.

Motion pictures did well. RKO Theater led the most active list up ¼ at 5 with RKO Pictures in third place up ⅛ at 4¼. Loew's was fifth most active up 1 at 18¼. Also on the list of 15 most active issues were Warner Bros. Pictures up ⅜ at 12¾, and Twentieth Century-Fox up 1⅜ at 23⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $96.70. The industrial component of the average was off 30 cents and rails were down 10 cents. The utilities section gained 20 cents.

The volume of business contracted to 2,360,000 shares as compared with 2,680,000 shares yesterday when the market advanced to a new high for 1950-51 and the best average level in more than 20 years.

There were 1,207 individual issues traded with 346 advancing and 600 declining. There were 69 new highes established and one new low.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Soybeans advanced at the Board of Trade today, but grains sagged in fairly heavy trading. The advance in the bean pit was attributed to export demand, and an early firmness in oil. Closing futures:

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do sick men make "bad patients"?

Answer: Certainly not all of them. I believe as many men as women have made triumphal adjustments to illness or invalidism—as the record of handicapped veterans from both wars shows. If the average man is more apt than his wife to be thrown into a panic by being laid up with a bad cold, remember how sternly he has been conditioned to feel that not only his security but that of his family depends on his staying active. Aside from the fact that women are more accustomed than men to minor disabilities, the ultimate disaster to a family is the crippling of the breadwinner, and right well he knows it.

Will stern parents make a child a bully?

Answer: Yes, says Edith Lesser Atkin in a pamphlet, "Aggressiveness in Children" issued by the Child Study Association. While every human being has some degree of aggressiveness in his nature, how fully this is developed depends largely upon whether as a child he finds the world a warm and friendly place or a cold and dangerous one. In the latter case, the child builds up a mass of suppressed hostility which he takes out on the first people weaker than himself whom he meets. The child who becomes a playground bully for such reasons as this appears least appealing when he needs help most.

May mental attitudes make motherhood more dangerous?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Desmond O'Neill of Guy's Hospital, London. Many of the actual dangers of motherhood are either created or increased by such conscious or unconscious mental attitudes as emotional shock, the desire to retain the irresponsibility of childhood, hostility towards one's husband (or toward men in general) and identification with a mother who has herself had serious difficulties in child-bearing. The safety of expectant mothers may depend almost as much upon their being helped to conquer morbid feelings as upon the physical side of pre-natal care.

Unusual Events Mark Failure Of Power Here

Electric Blackout Hits Entire System

An unusual chain of circumstances including two entirely unrelated mishaps cut off electric power in the Cumberland and tristate area, interrupted an operation at a local hospital, caused production loss at Amcelle plant, stopped newspaper production completely and created untold confusion yesterday afternoon.

Henry W. Price, dictrict manager of the Potomac Edison Company, whose power was completely shut down for from 20 minutes to an hour over the entire system, related that a construction crane used at the Batch Plant at Rolling Mill in South Cumberland for the area flood project, struck and knocked out a 33,000-volt transmission power line. This caused a short circuit at the company's substation at the River Plant.

The resultant short temporarily caused a breakdown of power in Cumberland and the surrounding area. It damaged insulation, wiring, and fuses at the River plant. Local repairmen replaced the broken transmission line and restored power service here in approximately 20 minutes, Price said.

Williamsport Failure

Apparently a few minutes after the local mishap a valve in a condensed steam line at the Williamsport plant blew off and removed all power from that section. This combined with a shutdown for inspection and repairs at the New Riverton, Va., plant, created the complete breakdown of the PE system, the first of its kind in the history of the company, according to Price.

The temporary loss of power here caused a substantial production loss at the Celanese Corporation of America plant as a majority of the plant was shut down, H. C. Givens, Jr., personnel manager, said last night. A single turbine at the plant works independently of the regular power, Givens said, and kept essential parts working.

At Allegany Hospital, Dr. Wiley Faw was operating on a four-weeks-old baby when the current was stopped. Emergency portable lights operated from a battery were placed into use to aid the completion of the operation, hospital attaches said yesterday.

Hospital Emergency

Nurses working in surgery at the time of the incident said no complications resulted from the power failure in the operating room although the remainder of the building has no emergency setup.

The telephone operator at the hospital related she had to use a flashlight to operate the central switchboard there during the failure.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night that an emergency battery power set kept all phases of the hospital in operation during the critical moments. Lights were turned on a few moments after the power cut off, they said. Memorial also has a portable emergency battery spotlight for use in the operating room in case of light failure. It was not necessary to use it.

West Penn Tapped

Cumberland's electrically controlled fire alarm system was not affected, firemen reported, as the system automatically switches to emergency power provided by batteries in case of trouble.

The PE succeeded in obtaining power tapped from West Penn Power Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., until repairs were made and resumed normal operations about an hour after the mishaps.

Radio stations here and in Hagerstown were put out of commission. Other towns hit included Frederick, Brunswick, Hancock and Clear Spring, in Maryland, Waynesboro, Pa., Winchester, Va., and Martinsburg, W. Va.

St. Patrick's To Mark Lent

Lenten services at St. Patrick's Catholic Church were announced last night by Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor and dean of Western Maryland.

Ashes will be distributed today after the 6:30 and 8 a. m. masses, at 2:30 p. m. and after Benediction of Blessed Sacrament at 7:30 p. m.

Stations of the Cross will be held each Friday during Lent at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Beginning February 14, Rev. Francis Curley, O. M. I., of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, Catholic University, Washington, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

The sermons will continue each Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. during Lent, Father Kilkenny said.

North End Teenage Council Elects

Paul Ackerman has been named president of the Teenage Council sponsored by the North End Playground Association and the City Recreation Department.

Other officers are David Herboldsheimer, vice president; Gene Weisenmiller, secretary-treasurer. John Kienhofer, Mary Fisher, Smokey Howe and James Nixon were named to the council.

The group will meet each Thursday at 7 p. m. at the North End field house. The February social activity will be square dancing.

Delegates from the Teenage Council will be present at all North End Playground Association meetings.

Empty Bins And Mail Sacks

Empty receiving bins and mail sacks in the Cumberland Post Office are mute evidence of the seriousness of the embargo placed on mail and parcel post. The local post office is using only a skeleton crew to handle the small flow of first class mail and parcel post which is delivered to local and surrounding areas points. Officials have estimated the normal flow of mail through the Cumberland area has dropped 80 per cent since the mail embargo. Oswald C. Dean stands beside the parcel post stamp machine before an empty receiving window in the post office while Earl Humbertson collects and sorts the small amount of first class mail dropped in the bins.

Cobey Explains City Liability In Accidents

Relates Procedure In Filing Claims

The city is definitely not responsible for most of the accidents which occur in Cumberland, according to W. Earle Cobey, city attorney.

Those who believe they have legitimate claims against the city, he added, should make complaints through regular channels and not to the departments involved, he added.

Claims must originate, he said, in a letter to the Mayor and Council.

Then the department involved makes a complete investigation and reports to the city attorney, who advises the city of its responsibility in the complaint.

Only then, Cobey said, can definite action be taken on damage claims.

The city is definitely not responsible in most accidents unless the mayor or city engineer is notified at least 24 hours before of a potentially dangerous situation. The claim must be submitted within 30 days of the date of the accident.

The city code requires that snow be removed from sidewalks and footwalks within six hours after the end of a snowfall.

Penalties include a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $2 for each violation with a $5 fine for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalk.

Wide Interest Shown In Area For War Work

17 Shops Combine Defense Efforts

A number of prime contractors have become interested in the facilities of the Tri-State Industrial Complex which was formed here recently for mutual assistance in bidding on government contracts.

H. W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project, said representatives of the contractors have visited the area in recent weeks to inspect the facilities of firms.

The cooperative, with assets of over $850,000 and over 500 specialized machine tools and 165,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space, will be able to bid on either prime or sub-contracts.

As the nation's defense activities progress, officials said, a greater part of the work awarded to prime contractors will be turned over to sub-contractors.

Some idea of the facilities available in the cooperative may be seen from the list of tools available.

They include 104 lathes, 20 milling machines, 44 drills, 46 grinding machines, 19 power saws, 11 shapers, five arbor presses, 20 welding machines, nine heat treating furnaces, 10 hydraulic and push presses and 26 miscellaneous metal working machines.

Nine varied plastics forming machines will be available for the manufacture of plastics.

Another 133 machines are available for specialized metal and wood working tasks.

Three foundries have a capacity of 10 tons of iron and nickel-iron, four tons of brass and 2½ tons of aluminum each day.

Machinists Support Teamsters' Strike

Local 212, International Association of Machinists, this week voted full support of Local 453, Teamsters Union's strike at the Ort Brothers Bakery.

C. F. Schelble, secretary, who announced the action, said B. and O. Federated Shop Crafts No. 7 has taken similar action.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

Editor's Note—Starting today, Ash Wednesday, The News begins a series of sermons by Cumberland ministers through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association. Hereafter the sermonettes, digests of a message preached in a local church on Sunday, will appear every Monday morning.

In addition, The News will carry daily during Lent the "Fellowship of Prayer," a non-sectarian daily devotion. It starts today on Page 4.

Today's sermonette was prepared by Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, who is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Divine Resources

IN A world which is characterized by strife, confusion, hurry and uncertainty there is need for faith in something bigger than ourselves. Most of us have had the experience of being "all dressed up with no place to go." We had a new outfit and wanted to show it to some one who would admire it. But it happened that our friends were all occupied elsewhere and we found ourselves with a feeling of frustration and loneliness.

The world is full of people in such a predicament. We are driven by inner compulsions which send us out in search of comfort, recognition and appreciation. We look for something which is satisfying—and find no place to go. Yet there is a source of satisfaction which is available to all of us if we but turn in the right direction. Abraham Lincoln once said, "Often I have been driven to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had no place to go." The source to which he turned for help is available to all.

Ash Wednesday formally opens the Lenten season. According to an old custom, people were given a mark of ashes on their foreheads on the first day of Lent. This custom gave us the term Ash Wednesday. The Lenten season is a time for special emphasis on the spiritual side of life. During this season it is profitable for us to think of our relationship to the divine.

God is the Giver of life. If we are grateful for our daily bread, as all of us should be, to whom do we express our gratitude? The baker and other workers toil in unseen places that we may have daily food and other essentials of life. But the baker did not grow the bread. He used the flour which some miller had ground from the wheat which some farmer had raised. But again the farmer did not make the wheat grow. He merely planted the seed and the sun and rain from above called out the life which was inherent in the seed. The baker, the miller and the farmer helped in the process but we are dependent first of all upon God for our bread.

God is the Forgiver of life. The U. S. Treasury has over a million dollars in a "conscience fund," a fund consisting of money received across the years from people who have cheated the government, have repented, and have made restitution. In the words of the givers most of it has been returned "to clear my conscience." Yet the forgiveness of men is never enough to give one a sense of complete satisfaction. Only God can finally forgive. We must depend upon him for pardon. "If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us."

God is the Sustainer of life. The pressures of life are heavy, and we need strength beyond our own to withstand them. The men who dig tunnels under rivers must work under pressures which make their tasks impossible unless a counter-pressure is set up in the tunnel to match the pressure outside it. Compressed air is used to prevent the collapse of the tunnel and the destruction of the work and the workers. To withstand the pressures of life we need strength within us. Those who have learned the secret of abundant living are grateful for the fact that "the Lord is my strength and my salvation."

God is the Goal of life. The grave is not the end of man. "'Dust thou art, to dust returnest' was not spoken of the soul." A man who took his own life left a note which said that he had exhausted his powers in "homeless wanderings." To one who has faith in God life on earth is not homeless wandering. It is a journey which leads to a glorious eternity.

Commissioners End Hearing Of Employes' Firing

Infirmary Nurses Speak At Session

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners concluded its investigation into the abrupt discharge of seven employes of the County Infirmary with an hour-long session in the grand jury room at the Court House.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the workers who received dismissal notices January 31, said last night that the commissioners indicated to him they would make a decision in the case later this week.

Only one of the discharged employes—a man who had served as an orderly—was heard by the commissioners at yesterday's hearing. Three registered nurses still employed at the County Infirmary also testified. Ryan said that all of the nurses dealt in generalities and gossip without making any specific charges against the employes who lost their jobs.

Four of the fired workers appeared before the commissioners when they opened the investigation with a hearing at the County Infirmary Monday afternoon.

Ryan first brought the case to the attention of the commissioners when he appeared at last Friday's meeting at the Court House. He contended then and has repeated since that the workers should have received at least two weeks' notice before discharge and should have been given specific reasons why their work was not satisfactory.

The dismissal notices were given the seven employes last Wednesday by Earl Grim, who has served as Infirmary superintendent since the first of the year.

Water Supply Good

Sensabaugh Asks Kimble's Withdrawal

French Sensabaugh, of the Sensabaugh Contracting Company, has sent a telegram to Lewis Goldstein, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee in Annapolis. The message pertains to action by Senator Robert B. Kimble on additional taxation to the trucking industry.

The telegram reads as follows:

Due to Senator Kimble's association with interests competitive to the trucking industry we believe, in dignity, that he should bar himself from any action pro or con relative to the two mill tax or any legislation affecting trucking. If he doesn't, we think you should consider requesting him to do so. With rare exceptions heavy trucks do not hurt highways anymore than, with rare

Cornelia Stabler To Offer Monologues Here Feb. 19

Cornelia Stabler, monologist, will present a program of her original character sketches in the Allegany High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Monday, February 19, under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society.

She calls her sketches "Personality Portraits" for they are word-pictures of the people one meets every day. Her repertoire of 20 sketches includes a busy secretary, a lady lecturer, the mother of a family of radio fans, an elderly actress who is giving a party and a modern teen-ager coming home from a date.

Miss Stabler, who is the author as well as the interpreter of her monologues, has presented them from coast to coast in this country, and has also toured Europe for USO Camp Shows. She has been heard on the major radio networks, has appeared on television, and had the honor of entertaining at the White House for the late President and Mrs. Roosevelt. During the summer months she directs a Community Theatre in the Pocono resort area of Pennsylvania.

CORNELIA STABLER

Jack Platt, who has arranged for her appearance here, said that no admission will be charged. A free will offering will be collected at intermission.

City Dustfall Shows Decline During January

Diesels Credited For Improvement

Dustfall in Cumberland showed a significant drop last month, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, announced yesterday.

He attributed most of the decrease to the increasing Dieselization of the Cumberland yards, which brought a sharp decrease in dustfall in the Thomas Street area.

January records showed a citywide average of 26.54 tons of dust per square mile. That is 2.5 tons less than in January, 1949, and 3.31 tons less than last year's average.

A chemical analysis of the dustfall, Hitchcock, said, showed non toxic PH readings varying from 3.4 at Humbird Street School and 4.2 at Allegany Hospital.

Most of January's improvement showed up in the Thomas Street section, near the B. and O. Hump.

In December, 1950, dustfall readings there showed an average of 297.22 tons a month. Last month, the reading had dropped to 234.60 tons, a 62.75 ton improvement during the month and a drop of 101.5 tons over the 1950 average.

The marked decrease in Thomas Street shows a definite trend toward the solution of Cumberland's air pollution problems, Hitchcock said.

In the Fairmont Lane section, which receives the first dustfall from east winds, the fall was back to a normal 3.22 tons, but Columbia Avenue at Franklin Street showed an increase of 14.54 tons in January, possibly due to shifting winds.

The Allegany Hospital area, Hitchcock said, dropped 11 tons over December's 56.18 tons, but is still too high.

A fair improvement was noted at the B. and O. YMCA, with a dustfall of 65.45 tons last month, a drop of 36.5 tons over December.

The Avirett lot area dropped 16.93 tons over January, 1950, with a reading of 13.33 in January.

The best improvement in the city was noted at the C. and P. Telephone building. The 1950 average there was 464.80 tons. January's dustfall there, if continued throughout the year, will mean a decrease of 133 tons a year.

Lowndes Heads State Easter Sale Campaign

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the Maryland State Board of Education, is directing the 1951 Easter Seal Sale on behalf of crippled children and adults, it was announced this week.

Lowndes, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Second National Bank, said that the goal of the campaign is $110,000 in the city and state.

Lowndes declared: "The Easter Seals which are to be sent to 300,000 Maryland homes late this month support the work among the handicapped performed by the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliates, including the Allegany County League, the Baltimore League, the Frederick County Chapter, the Montgomery County Chapter and helps with Society activities throughout the State.

"The Easter Seals mean hope to the thousands of handicapped in our State; to the cerebral palsied, the boy or girl with a speech difficulty, the crippled youngster, man or woman who needs help. The services performed by Easter Seal funds are not duplicated by any other agency.

Piedmont Grocery Grants Wage Boost

The Piedmont Grocery Company announced last night that a $2 a week wage increase was granted to drivers and warehousemen of the firm January 19.

The five cents an hour wage boost for some 12 workers went into effect before the wage-price freeze became effective, according to R. G. Duvall, manager of the firm.

Duvall said similar boosts were granted to workers of the firm in Oakland.

Help Heart Drive

Barbara Joyce and Nancy Carol, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry T. Defibaugh, 515 City View Terrace, help the local campaign of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association by adding their contribution to the red heart collection containers. Barbara Joyce drops a dime into the container which is held by her sister. The local campaign committee, under the direction of Howard M. Spiker, distributed and placed the containers throughout the city last night.

Cumberland Heart Fund Drive Committee Named

Posters And Coin Containers Placed

Appeal posters and red heart contribution containers were placed in business and professional establishments last night by the Cumberland committee members of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund raising organization.

Howard M. Spiker, local real estate man, and William C. Cobel, are co-chairmen of the Cumberland group which covers areas in LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Pinto, Flintstone, Oldtown and Cumberland.

Spiker announced his local committee, composed of American Legion Post No. 13 members, and named co-chairmen for the outlying districts under the local committee's jurisdiction.

The legion committee members are Joseph F. Reissig, George E. Zegles, Joseph F. Challinor, Filmore Fleming, Lawrence E. Lease, Ralph L. Wilson, William P. Claar, Jerry T. Defibaugh, Jr., Thomas R. Farrell, Galen Storer and Raymond Settle.

The legion group is working in close cooperation with other service organizations and auxiliary units in the city as the Heart Association drive gains momentum in its campaign toward a $7,000 goal.

Mrs. Rachel Iames, chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary committee, Mrs. Effie Vogel, chairman of the American Legion auxiliary committee, and Mrs. Heyl Walker, chairman of the 8-40 group, are planning Tag Day to be held either the 10th or 17th of this month.

Chairmen of surrounding districts named by Spiker are Dale Broadwater, Cresaptown postmaster, John L. Nixon, postmaster at Oldtown, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone school principal, and Mrs. Betty Kirk, home visiting nurse who will work in the Rawlings, Pinto and Bowling Green areas.

Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman of the Association's campaign, said a meeting of the Frostburg group will be held tomorrow.

Zoning Board Hearing Slated

The application of a local man to build a three-car garage and apartment building at the rear of his home has been referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, recently asked the City Engineer to issue a building permit for the structure.

The application will be considered at a meeting of the appeals board February 28 at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Officials said the City Engineer may issue permits for two car garages if the structure does not take up over half of the back yard space.

Applications for three car garages, however, are automatically referred to the appeals board.

The structure is planned in a Residential B area.

Parkway Land Bill Proposed By Beall

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced last night that he has presented to Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, a bill which would empower the Maryland State Roads Commission to purchase additional land along the right of way of the proposed C. and O. Canal Parkway.

He said Senator Kimble indicated he will introduce the bill in the Senate within the next few days.

Rep. Beall emphasized that he is not pressing the Parkway plan at present, due to the national emergency.

He said, however, that it was deemed wise to secure the enabling legislation since non-emergency laws may be passed only at regular sessions of the assembly.

Whitworth To Head Budget Trimming Group In House

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was named yesterday to head a House sub-committee appointed to study Governor McKeldin's budget with a view of trimming it wherever possible.

Another sub-committee headed by Delegate Hopkins, (R-Balto 3rd) will look into means of obtaining additional revenue for the state.

Governor McKeldin has indicated his budget will cost $159,000,000.

The appointment of the committees was one of a growing list of House actions in the last several days that added weight to the evidence that the delegates want to go slow on financial measures at this time.

Hearing Slated

A hearing on a House resolution introduced by Delegate Whitworth calling for the ratification of an amendment to the U. S. Constitution limiting the President to two consecutive terms of office will be held February 21 at 3 p. m., in Annapolis.

Whitworth said that the hearing will be open to the public before the House Judiciary committee.

Police To Open Drive To Curb Speeding In City

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night appealed for full cooperation of all citizens in a drive to curb dangerous speeding.

Many reports have been received recently, he said, of cars speeding in school areas, especially at dismissal time.

The full cooperation of drivers, police, school safety patrols, students, and parents, the commissioner added, will be needed to solve the problem.

Drivers of all police cruisers members of the traffic division and patrolmen have been notified by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to be on the alert for speeding vehicles.

Although reports of speeding come from all sections of the city, the majority of recent complaints were from Virginia Avenue and First and Second Streets, police said.

Delegation Bills Praised By City

Members of the Allegany County Delegation received an unanimous vote of thanks from the Mayor and City Council this week for two House resolutions relating to this area.

The legislation, introduced by the County Delegation, includes HR 11, asking that county residents be employed on flood prevention and control work in Allegany County.

The second, HR 5, requested the Office of Defense Mobilization to establish defense industries in Allegany Counties.

The council voted full support to the Delegation toward passage of the legislation.

Meyersdale Boy Hit By Train, Dies

Eight-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer died last eevning from injuries suffered when the car he was riding in was hit by a fast freight train at a crossing in Meyersdale, Pa., Monday.

Mrs John Schnelzer, 30, mother of the boy, who was badly hurt when she attempted to rescue the youth from the car which was stalled on the tracks, was reported improving in Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, last night.

Quartermaster Laboratory Site Due For Decision

Secretary Marshall Will Make Selection

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The site where the Quartermaster Corps will establish its research laboratory may be announced within two weeks, a Defense Department spokesman said today.

He said the report of a special committee appointed to recommend one or more sites now is being signed and may reach Secretary of Defense Marshall this week.

The final decision is up to Marshall and no disclosure will be made in advance of the Secretary's announcement, the spokesman emphasized.

The report will include several sites, he continued, listed in the order in which the committee thinks they would meet requirements. From these Marshall will make his choice.

Does Not Know Sites

The spokesman, who has been working with the committee since its inception, said he does not know what the recommended sites are.

However, he said, his office has received numerous telephone calls, telegrams, letters and other communications from various localities purporting to be on the recommendation list.

"They can't all be on it," he said.

Congress was told last December during hearings on a supplementary appropriation bill that the number of sites had been reduced to three. The sites were not named. Hundreds of prospective sites had been considered.

Congress has authorized $11,000,000 to build the laboratory, which will conduct research on clothing, equipment and other items for the armed forces.

The Army has received a $250,000 appropriation to get the laboratory started, when the site is selected.

May Cost More

Persons close to the situation have said that, because of increased costs brought about by the Korean War and the defense effort, the laboratory might cost much more than $11,000,000. If so, an additional congressional authorization would have to be sought.

The two principal contenders for the laboratory have been Boston and Philadelphia.

Congressional spokesmen for both cities fought over the issue for years.

Eventually, a compromise was reached under which the Secretary of Defense would make the selection, acting on the recommendation of a special committee.

That committee, chosen by the chairman of the Research and Development Board, includes:

Chester M. Alter, dean of the Boston University Graduate School; H. S. Coleman, assistant director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh; Donald H. Loughridge, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Gilbert Scribner of Winston & Company, Chicago; John J. Traynor, assistant vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York; and Blake R. Vanleer, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, chairman.

Cattle Feeding School Arranged

Two faculty members from the University of Maryland will be the featured speakers at the 1951 Allegany County Cattle Feeding School, which will be held Thursday, February 15, in the Cumberland City Hall, according to County Agent R. F. McHenry.

About 100 dariy farmers are expected to attend the one-day school, which will begin at 10 a. m. when John L. Morris of the University of Maryland's Dairy Department speaks on "Standards of Efficient Dairy Production." Then, at 11 a. m. Stanley L. Stabler of the university's Agronomy Department will discuss "Pasture Renovation." A lunch recess will come after Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger shows some local colored slides at noon.

"Feeding the Milking Herd" will be Morris' topic at the afternoon session, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Then, at 2:30 o'clock Stabler will speak concerning "Grass Silage—Its Merit and Its Problems." Adjournment will come at 3:30 p. m.

Unusual Events Mark Failure Of Power Here

Electric Blackout Hits Entire System

An unusual chain of circumstances including two entirely unrelated mishaps cut off electric power in the Cumberland and tristate area, interrupted an operation at a local hospital, caused production loss at Amcelle plant, stopped newspaper production completely and created untold confusion yesterday afternoon.

Henry W. Price, dictrict manager of the Potomac Edison Company, whose power was completely shut down for from 20 minutes to an hour over the entire system, related that a construction crane used at the Batch Plant at Rolling Mill in South Cumberland for the area flood project, struck and knocked out a 33,000-volt transmission power line. This caused a short circuit at the company's substation at the River Plant.

The resultant short temporarily caused a breakdown of power in Cumberland and the surrounding area. It damaged insulation, wiring, and fuses at the River plant. Local repairmen replaced the broken transmission line and restored power service here in approximately 20 minutes, Price said.

Williamsport Failure

Apparently a few minutes after the local mishap a valve in a condensed steam line at the Williamsport plant blew off and removed all power from that section. This combined with a shutdown for inspection and repairs at the New Riverton, Va., plant, created the complete breakdown of the PE system, the first of its kind in the history of the company, according to Price.

The temporary loss of power here caused a substantial production loss at the Celanese Corporation of America plant as a majority of the plant was shut down, H. C. Givens, Jr., personnel manager, said last night. A single turbine at the plant works independently of the regular power, Givens said, and kept essential parts working.

At Allegany Hospital, Dr. Wiley Faw was operating on a four-weeks-old baby when the current was stopped. Emergency portable lights operated from a battery were placed into use to aid the completion of the operation, hospital attaches said yesterday.

Hospital Emergency

Nurses working in surgery at the time of the incident said no complications resulted from the power failure in the operating room although the remainder of the building has no emergency setup.

The telephone operator at the hospital related she had to use a flashlight to operate the central switchboard there during the failure.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night that an emergency battery power set kept all phases of the hospital in operation during the critical moments. Lights were turned on a few moments after the power cut off, they said. Memorial also has a portable emergency battery spotlight for use in the operating room in case of light failure. It was not necessary to use it.

West Penn Tapped

Cumberland's electrically controlled fire alarm system was not affected, firemen reported, as the system automatically switches to emergency power provided by batteries in case of trouble.

The PE succeeded in obtaining power tapped from West Penn Power Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., until repairs were made and resumed normal operations about an hour after the mishaps.

Radio stations here and in Hagerstown were put out of commission. Other towns hit included Frederick, Brunswick, Hancock and Clear Spring, in Maryland, Waynesboro, Pa., Winchester, Va., and Martinsburg, W. Va.

St. Patrick's To Mark Lent

Lenten services at St. Patrick's Catholic Church were announced last night by Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor and dean of Western Maryland.

Ashes will be distributed today after the 6:30 and 8 a. m. masses, at 2:30 p. m. and after Benediction of Blessed Sacrament at 7:30 p. m.

Stations of the Cross will be held each Friday during Lent at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Beginning February 14, Rev. Francis Curley, O. M. I., of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, Catholic University, Washington, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

The sermons will continue each Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. during Lent, Father Kilkenny said.

North End Teenage Council Elects

Paul Ackerman has been named president of the Teenage Council sponsored by the North End Playground Association and the City Recreation Department.

Other officers are David Herboldsheimer, vice president; Gene Weisenmiller, secretary-treasurer. John Kienhofer, Mary Fisher, Smokey Howe and James Nixon were named to the council.

The group will meet each Thursday at 7 p. m. at the North End field house. The February social activity will be square dancing.

Delegates from the Teenage Council will be present at all North End Playground Association meetings.

Empty Bins And Mail Sacks

Empty receiving bins and mail sacks in the Cumberland Post Office are mute evidence of the seriousness of the embargo placed on mail and parcel post. The local post office is using only a skeleton crew to handle the small flow of first class mail and parcel post which is delivered to local and surrounding areas points. Officials have estimated the normal flow of mail through the Cumberland area has dropped 80 per cent since the mail embargo. Oswald C. Dean stands beside the parcel post stamp machine before an empty receiving window in the post office while Earl Humbertson collects and sorts the small amount of first class mail dropped in the bins.

Cobey Explains City Liability In Accidents

Relates Procedure In Filing Claims

The city is definitely not responsible for most of the accidents which occur in Cumberland, according to W. Earle Cobey, city attorney.

Those who believe they have legitimate claims against the city, he added, should make complaints through regular channels and not to the departments involved, he added.

Claims must originate, he said, in a letter to the Mayor and Council.

Then the department involved makes a complete investigation and reports to the city attorney, who advises the city of its responsibility in the complaint.

Only then, Cobey said, can definite action be taken on damage claims.

The city is definitely not responsible in most accidents unless the mayor or city engineer is notified at least 24 hours before of a potentially dangerous situation. The claim must be submitted within 30 days of the date of the accident.

The city code requires that snow be removed from sidewalks and footwalks within six hours after the end of a snowfall.

Penalties include a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $2 for each violation with a $5 fine for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalk.

Wide Interest Shown In Area For War Work

17 Shops Combine Defense Efforts

A number of prime contractors have become interested in the facilities of the Tri-State Industrial Complex which was formed here recently for mutual assistance in bidding on government contracts.

H. W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project, said representatives of the contractors have visited the area in recent weeks to inspect the facilities of firms.

The cooperative, with assets of over $850,000 and over 500 specialized machine tools and 165,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space, will be able to bid on either prime or sub-contracts.

As the nation's defense activities progress, officials said, a greater part of the work awarded to prime contractors will be turned over to sub-contractors.

Some idea of the facilities available in the cooperative may be seen from the list of tools available.

They include 104 lathes, 20 milling machines, 44 drills, 46 grinding machines, 19 power saws, 11 shapers, five arbor presses, 20 welding machines, nine heat treating furnaces, 10 hydraulic and push presses and 26 miscellaneous metal working machines.

Nine varied plastics forming machines will be available for the manufacture of plastics.

Another 133 machines are available for specialized metal and wood working tasks.

Three foundries have a capacity of 10 tons of iron and nickel-iron, four tons of brass and 2½ tons of aluminum each day.

Machinists Support Teamsters' Strike

Local 212, International Association of Machinists, this week voted full support of Local 453, Teamsters Union's strike at the Ort Brothers Bakery.

C. F. Schelble, secretary, who announced the action, said B. and O. Federated Shop Crafts No. 7 has taken similar action.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

Editor's Note—Starting today, Ash Wednesday, The News begins a series of sermons by Cumberland ministers through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association. Hereafter the sermonettes, digests of a message preached in a local church on Sunday, will appear every Monday morning.

In addition, The News will carry daily during Lent the "Fellowship of Prayer," a non-sectarian daily devotion. It starts today on Page 4.

Today's sermonette was prepared by Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, who is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Divine Resources

IN A world which is characterized by strife, confusion, hurry and uncertainty there is need for faith in something bigger than ourselves. Most of us have had the experience of being "all dressed up with no place to go." We had a new outfit and wanted to show it to some one who would admire it. But it happened that our friends were all occupied elsewhere and we found ourselves with a feeling of frustration and loneliness.

The world is full of people in such a predicament. We are driven by inner compulsions which send us out in search of comfort, recognition and appreciation. We look for something which is satisfying—and find no place to go. Yet there is a source of satisfaction which is available to all of us if we but turn in the right direction. Abraham Lincoln once said, "Often I have been driven to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had no place to go." The source to which he turned for help is available to all.

Ash Wednesday formally opens the Lenten season. According to an old custom, people were given a mark of ashes on their foreheads on the first day of Lent. This custom gave us the term Ash Wednesday. The Lenten season is a time for special emphasis on the spiritual side of life. During this season it is profitable for us to think of our relationship to the divine.

God is the Giver of life. If we are grateful for our daily bread, as all of us should be, to whom do we express our gratitude? The baker and other workers toil in unseen places that we may have daily food and other essentials of life. But the baker did not grow the bread. He used the flour which some miller had ground from the wheat which some farmer had raised. But again the farmer did not make the wheat grow. He merely planted the seed and the sun and rain from above called out the life which was inherent in the seed. The baker, the miller and the farmer helped in the process but we are dependent first of all upon God for our bread.

God is the Forgiver of life. The U. S. Treasury has over a million dollars in a "conscience fund," a fund consisting of money received across the years from people who have cheated the government, have repented, and have made restitution. In the words of the givers most of it has been returned "to clear my conscience." Yet the forgiveness of men is never enough to give one a sense of complete satisfaction. Only God can finally forgive. We must depend upon him for pardon. "If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us."

God is the Sustainer of life. The pressures of life are heavy, and we need strength beyond our own to withstand them. The men who dig tunnels under rivers must work under pressures which make their tasks impossible unless a counter-pressure is set up in the tunnel to match the pressure outside it. Compressed air is used to prevent the collapse of the tunnel and the destruction of the work and the workers. To withstand the pressures of life we need strength within us. Those who have learned the secret of abundant living are grateful for the fact that "the Lord is my strength and my salvation."

God is the Goal of life. The grave is not the end of man. "'Dust thou art, to dust returnest' was not spoken of the soul." A man who took his own life left a note which said that he had exhausted his powers in "homeless wanderings." To one who has faith in God life on earth is not homeless wandering. It is a journey which leads to a glorious eternity.

Commissioners End Hearing Of Employes' Firing

Infirmary Nurses Speak At Session

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners concluded its investigation into the abrupt discharge of seven employes of the County Infirmary with an hour-long session in the grand jury room at the Court House.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the workers who received dismissal notices January 31, said last night that the commissioners indicated to him they would make a decision in the case later this week.

Only one of the discharged employes—a man who had served as an orderly—was heard by the commissioners at yesterday's hearing. Three registered nurses still employed at the County Infirmary also testified. Ryan said that all of the nurses dealt in generalities and gossip without making any specific charges against the employes who lost their jobs.

Four of the fired workers appeared before the commissioners when they opened the investigation with a hearing at the County Infirmary Monday afternoon.

Ryan first brought the case to the attention of the commissioners when he appeared at last Friday's meeting at the Court House. He contended then and has repeated since that the workers should have received at least two weeks' notice before discharge and should have been given specific reasons why their work was not satisfactory.

The dismissal notices were given the seven employes last Wednesday by Earl Grim, who has served as Infirmary superintendent since the first of the year.

Water Supply Good

Sensabaugh Asks Kimble's Withdrawal

French Sensabaugh, of the Sensabaugh Contracting Company, has sent a telegram to Lewis Goldstein, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee in Annapolis. The message pertains to action by Senator Robert B. Kimble on additional taxation to the trucking industry.

The telegram reads as follows:

Due to Senator Kimble's association with interests competitive to the trucking industry we believe, in dignity, that he should bar himself from any action pro or con relative to the two mill tax or any legislation affecting trucking. If he doesn't, we think you should consider requesting him to do so. With rare exceptions heavy trucks do not hurt highways anymore than, with rare

CORNELIA STABLER

Cornelia Stabler, monologist, will present a program of her original character sketches in the Allegany High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Monday, February 19, under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society.

She calls her sketches "Personality Portraits" for they are word-pictures of the people one meets every day. Her repertoire of 20 sketches includes a busy secretary, a lady lecturer, the mother of a family of radio fans, an elderly actress who is giving a party and a modern teen-ager coming home from a date.

Miss Stabler, who is the author as well as the interpreter of her monologues, has presented them from coast to coast in this country, and has also toured Europe for USO Camp Shows. She has been heard on the major radio networks, has appeared on television, and had the honor of entertaining at the White House for the late President and Mrs. Roosevelt. During the summer months she directs a Community Theatre in the Pocono resort area of Pennsylvania.

Jack Platt, who has arranged for her appearance here, said that no admission will be charged. A free will offering will be collected at intermission.

City Dustfall Shows Decline During January

Diesels Credited For Improvement

Dustfall in Cumberland showed a significant drop last month, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, announced yesterday.

He attributed most of the decrease to the increasing Dieselization of the Cumberland yards, which brought a sharp decrease in dustfall in the Thomas Street area.

January records showed a city-wide average of 26.54 tons of dust per square mile. That is 2.5 tons less than in January, 1949, and 3.31 tons less than last year's average.

A chemical analysis of the dustfall, Hitchcock, said, showed non toxic PH readings varying from 3.4 at Humbird Street School and 4.2 at Allegany Hospital.

Most of January's improvement showed up in the Thomas Street section, near the B. and O. Hump.

In December, 1950, dustfall readings there showed an average of 297.22 tons a month. Last month, the reading had dropped to 234.60 tons, a 62.75 ton improvement during the month and a drop of 101.5 tons over the 1950 average.

The marked decrease in Thomas Street shows a definite trend toward the solution of Cumberland's air pollution problems, Hitchcock said.

In the Fairmont Lane section, which receives the first dustfall from east winds, the fall was back to a normal 3.22 tons, but Columbia Avenue at Franklin Street showed an increase of 14.54 tons in January, possibly due to shifting winds.

The Allegany Hospital area, Hitchcock said, dropped 11 tons over December's 56.18 tons, but is still too high.

A fair improvement was noted at the B. and O. YMCA, with a dustfall of 65.45 tons last month, a drop of 36.5 tons over December.

The Avirett lot area dropped 16.93 tons over January, 1950, with a reading of 13.33 in January.

The best improvement in the city was noted at the C. and P. Telephone building. The 1950 average there was 464.80 tons. January's dustfall there, if continued throughout the year, will mean a decrease of 133 tons a year.

Lowndes Heads State Easter Sale Campaign

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the Maryland State Board of Education, is directing the 1951 Easter Seal Sale on behalf of crippled children and adults, it was announced this week.

Lowndes, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Second National Bank, said that the goal of the campaign is $110,000 in the city and state.

Lowndes declared: "The Easter Seals which are to be sent to 300,000 Maryland homes late this month support the work among the handicapped performed by the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliates, including the Allegany County League, the Baltimore League, the Frederick County Chapter, the Montgomery County Chapter and helps with Society activities throughout the State.

"The Easter Seals mean hope to the thousands of handicapped in our State; to the cerebral palsied, the boy or girl with a speech difficulty, the crippled youngster, man or woman who needs help. The services performed by Easter Seal funds are not duplicated by any other agency.

Piedmont Grocery Grants Wage Boost

The Piedmont Grocery Company announced last night that a $2 a week wage increase was granted to drivers and warehousemen of the firm January 19.

The five cents an hour wage boost for some 12 workers went into effect before the wage-price freeze became effective, according to R. G. Duvall, manager of the firm.

Duvall said similar boosts were granted to workers of the firm in Oakland.

Help Heart Drive

Barbara Joyce and Nancy Carol, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry T. Defibaugh, 515 City View Terrace, help the local campaign of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association by adding their contribution to the red heart collection containers. Barbara Joyce drops a dime into the container which is held by her sister. The local campaign committee, under the direction of Howard M. Spiker, distributed and placed the containers throughout the city last night.

Cumberland Heart Fund Drive Committee Named

Posters And Coin Containers Placed

Appeal posters and red heart contribution containers were placed in business and professional establishments last night by the Cumberland committee members of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund raising organization.

Howard M. Spiker, local real estate man, and William C. Cobel, are co-chairmen of the Cumberland group which covers areas in LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Pinto, Flintstone, Oldtown and Cumberland.

Spiker announced his local committee, composed of American Legion Post No. 13 members, and named co-chairmen for the outlying districts under the local committee's jurisdiction.

The legion committee members are Joseph F. Reissig, George E. Zegles, Joseph F. Challinor, Filmore Fleming, Lawrence E. Lease, Ralph L. Wilson, William P. Claar, Jerry T. Defibaugh, Jr., Thomas R. Farrell, Galen Storer and Raymond Settle.

The legion group is working in close cooperation with other service organizations and auxiliary units in the city as the Heart Association drive gains momentum in its campaign toward a $7,000 goal.

Mrs. Rachel Iames, chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary committee, Mrs. Effie Vogel, chairman of the American Legion auxiliary committee, and Mrs. Heyl Walker, chairman of the 8-40 group, are planning Tag Day to be held either the 10th or 17th of this month.

Chairmen of surrounding districts named by Spiker are Dale Broadwater, Cresaptown postmaster, John L. Nixon, postmaster at Oldtown, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone school principal, and Mrs. Betty Kirk, home visiting nurse who will work in the Rawlings, Pinto and Bowling Green areas.

Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman of the Association's campaign, said a meeting of the Frostburg group will be held tomorrow.

Zoning Board Hearing Slated

The application of a local man to build a three-car garage and apartment building at the rear of his home has been referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, recently asked the City Engineer to issue a building permit for the structure.

The application will be considered at a meeting of the appeals board February 28 at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Officials said the City Engineer may issue permits for two car garages if the structure does not take up over half of the back yard space.

Applications for three car garages, however, are automatically referred to the appeals board.

The structure is planned in a Residential B area.

Parkway Land Bill Proposed By Beall

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced last night that he has presented to Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, a bill which would empower the Maryland State Roads Commission to purchase additional land along the right of way of the proposed C. and O. Canal Parkway.

He said Senator Kimble indicated he will introduce the bill in the Senate within the next few days.

Rep. Beall emphasized that he is not pressing the Parkway plan at present, due to the national emergency.

He said, however, that it was deemed wise to secure the enabling legislation since non-emergency laws may be passed only at regular sessions of the assembly.

Whitworth To Head Budget Trimming Group In House

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was named yesterday to head a House sub-committee appointed to study Governor McKeldin's budget with a view of trimming it wherever possible.

Another sub-committee headed by Delegate Hopkins, (R-Balto 3rd) will look into means of obtaining additional revenue for the state.

Governor McKeldin has indicated his budget will cost $159,000,000.

The appointment of the committees was one of a growing list of House actions in the last several days that added weight to the evidence that the delegates want to go slow on financial measures at this time.

Hearing Slated

A hearing on a House resolution introduced by Delegate Whitworth calling for the ratification of an amendment to the U. S. Constitution limiting the President to two consecutive terms of office will be held February 21 at 3 p. m., in Annapolis.

Whitworth said that the hearing will be open to the public before the House Judiciary committee.

Police To Open Drive To Curb Speeding In City

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night appealed for full cooperation of all citizens in a drive to curb dangerous speeding.

Many reports have been received recently, he said, of cars speeding in school areas, especially at dismissal time.

The full cooperation of drivers, police, school safety patrols, students, and parents, the commissioner added, will be needed to solve the problem.

Drivers of all police cruisers members of the traffic division and patrolmen have been notified by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to be on the alert for speeding vehicles.

Although reports of speeding come from all sections of the city, the majority of recent complaints were from Virginia Avenue and First and Second Streets, police said.

Delegation Bills Praised By City

Members of the Allegany County Delegation received an unanimous vote of thanks from the Mayor and City Council this week for two House resolutions relating to this area.

The legislation, introduced by the County Delegation, includes HR 11, asking that county residents be employed on flood prevention and control work in Allegany County.

The second, HR 5, requested the Office of Defense Mobilization to establish defense industries in Allegany Counties.

The council voted full support to the Delegation toward passage of the legislation.

Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, mother of the boy, who was badly hurt when she attempted to rescue the youth from the car which was stalled on the tracks, was reported improving in Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, last night.

Quartermaster Laboratory Site Due For Decision

Secretary Marshall Will Make Selection

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The site where the Quartermaster Corps will establish its research laboratory may be announced within two weeks, a Defense Department spokesman said today.

He said the report of a special committee appointed to recommend one or more sites now is being signed and may reach Secretary of Defense Marshall this week.

The final decision is up to Marshall and no disclosure will be made in advance of the Secretary's announcement, the spokesman emphasized.

The report will include several sites, he continued, listed in the order in which the committee thinks they would meet requirements. From these Marshall will make his choice.

Does Not Know Sites

The spokesman, who has been working with the committee since its inception, said he does not know what the recommended sites are.

However, he said, his office has received numerous telephone calls, telegrams, letters and other communications from various localities purporting to be on the recommendation list.

"They can't all be on it," he said.

Congress was told last December during hearings on a supplementary appropriation bill that the number of sites had been reduced to three. The sites were not named. Hundreds of prospective sites had been considered.

Congress has authorized $11,000,000 to build the laboratory, which will conduct research on clothing, equipment and other items for the armed forces.

The Army has received a $250,000 appropriation to get the laboratory started, when the site is selected.

May Cost More

Persons close to the situation have said that, because of increased costs brought about by the Korean War and the defense effort, the laboratory might cost much more than $11,000,000. If so, an additional congressional authorization would have to be sought.

The two principal contenders for the laboratory have been Boston and Philadelphia.

Congressional spokesmen for both cities fought over the issue for years.

Eventually, a compromise was reached under which the Secretary of Defense would make the selection, acting on the recommendation of a special committee.

That committee, chosen by the chairman of the Research and Development Board, includes:

Chester M. Alter, dean of the Boston University Graduate School; H. S. Coleman, assistant director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh; Donald H. Loughridge, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Gilbert Scribner of Winston & Company, Chicago; John J. Traynor, assistant vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York; and Blake R. Vanleer, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, chairman.

Cattle Feeding School Arranged

Two faculty members from the University of Maryland will be the featured speakers at the 1951 Allegany County Cattle Feeding School, which will be held Thursday, February 15, in the Cumberland City Hall, according to County Agent R. F. McHenry.

About 100 dariy farmers are expected to attend the one-day school, which will begin at 10 a. m. when John L. Morris of the University of Maryland's Dairy Department speaks on "Standards of Efficient Dairy Production." Then, at 11 a. m. Stanley L. Stabler of the university's Agronomy Department will discuss "Pasture Renovation." A lunch recess will come after Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger shows some local colored slides at noon.

"Feeding the Milking Herd" will be Morris' topic at the afternoon session, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Then, at 2:30 o'clock Stabler will speak concerning "Grass Silage—Its Merit and Its Problems." Adjournment will come at 3:30 p. m.

Unusual Events Mark Failure Of Power Here

Electric Blackout Hits Entire System

An unusual chain of circumstances including two entirely unrelated mishaps cut off electric power in the Cumberland and tri-state area, interrupted an operation at a local hospital, caused production loss at Amcelle plant, stopped newspaper production completely and created untold confusion yesterday afternoon.

Henry W. Price, dictrict manager of the Potomac Edison Company, whose power was completely shut down for from 20 minutes to an hour over the entire system, related that a construction crane used at the Batch Plant at Rolling Mill in South Cumberland for the area flood project, struck and knocked out a 33,000-volt transmission power line. This caused a short circuit at the company's substation at the River Plant.

The resultant short temporarily caused a breakdown of power in Cumberland and the surrounding area. It damaged insulation, wiring, and fuses at the River plant. Local repairmen replaced the broken transmission line and restored power service here in approximately 20 minutes, Price said.

Williamsport Failure

Apparently a few minutes after the local mishap a valve in a condensed steam line at the Williamsport plant blew off and removed all power from that section. This combined with a shutdown for inspection and repairs at the New Riverton, Va., plant, created the complete breakdown of the PE system, the first of its kind in the history of the company, according to Price.

The temporary loss of power here caused a substantial production loss at the Celanese Corporation of America plant as a majority of the plant was shut down, H. C. Givens, Jr., personnel manager, said last night. A single turbine at the plant works independently of the regular power, Givens said, and kept essential parts working.

At Allegany Hospital, Dr. Wiley Faw was operating on a four-weeks-old baby when the current was stopped. Emergency portable lights operated from a battery were placed into use to aid the completion of the operation, hospital attaches said yesterday.

Hospital Emergency

Nurses working in surgery at the time of the incident said no complications resulted from the power failure in the operating room although the remainder of the building has no emergency setup.

The telephone operator at the hospital related she had to use a flashlight to operate the central switchboard there during the failure.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night that an emergency battery power set kept all phases of the hospital in operation during the critical moments. Lights were turned on a few moments after the power cut off, they said. Memorial also has a portable emergency battery spotlight for use in the operating room in case of light failure. It was not necessary to use it.

West Penn Tapped

Cumberland's electrically controlled fire alarm system was not affected, firemen reported, as the system automatically switches to emergency power provided by batteries in case of trouble.

The PE succeeded in obtaining power tapped from West Penn Power Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., until repairs were made and resumed normal operations about an hour after the mishaps.

Radio stations here and in Hagerstown were put out of commission. Other towns hit included Frederick, Brunswick, Hancock and Clear Spring, in Maryland, Waynesboro, Pa., Winchester, Va., and Martinsburg, W. Va.

St. Patrick's To Mark Lent

Lenten services at St. Patrick's Catholic Church were announced last night by Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor and dean of Western Maryland.

Ashes will be distributed today after the 6:30 and 8 a. m. masses, at 2:30 p. m. and after Benediction of Blessed Sacrament at 7:30 p. m.

Stations of the Cross will be held each Friday during Lent at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Beginning February 14, Rev. Francis Curley, O. M. I., of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, Catholic University, Washington, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

The sermons will continue each Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. during Lent, Father Kilkenny said.

North End Teenage Council Elects

Paul Ackerman has been named president of the Teenage Council sponsored by the North End Playground Association and the City Recreation Department.

Other officers are David Herboldsheimer, vice president; Gene Weisenmiller, secretary-treasurer. John Kienhofer, Mary Fisher, Smokey Howe and James Nixon were named to the council.

The group will meet each Thursday at 7 p. m. at the North End field house. The February social activity will be square dancing.

Delegates from the Teenage Council will be present at all North End Playground Association meetings.

Empty Bins And Mail Sacks

Empty receiving bins and mail sacks in the Cumberland Post Office are mute evidence of the seriousness of the embargo placed on mail and parcel post. The local post office is using only a skeleton crew to handle the small flow of first class mail and parcel post which is delivered to local and surrounding areas points. Officials have estimated the normal flow of mail through the Cumberland area has dropped 80 per cent since the mail embargo. Oswald C. Dean stands beside the parcel post stamp machine before an empty receiving window in the post office while Earl Humbertson collects and sorts the small amount of first class mail dropped in the bins.

Cobey Explains City Liability In Accidents

Relates Procedure In Filing Claims

The city is definitely not responsible for most of the accidents which occur in Cumberland, according to W. Earle Cobey, city attorney.

Those who believe they have legitimate claims against the city, he added, should make complaints through regular channels and not to the departments involved, he added.

Claims must originate, he said, in a letter to the Mayor and Council.

Then the department involved makes a complete investigation and reports to the city attorney, who advises the city of its responsibility in the complaint.

Only then, Cobey said, can definite action be taken on damage claims.

The city is definitely not responsible in most accidents unless the mayor or city engineer is notified at least 24 hours before of a potentially dangerous situation. The claim must be submitted within 30 days of the date of the accident.

The city code requires that snow be removed from sidewalks and footwalks within six hours after the end of a snowfall.

Penalties include a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $2 for each violation with a $5 fine for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalk.

Wide Interest Shown In Area For War Work

17 Shops Combine Defense Efforts

A number of prime contractors have become interested in the facilities of the Tri-State Industrial Complex which was formed here recently for mutual assistance in bidding on government contracts.

H. W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project, said representatives of the contractors have visited the area in recent weeks to inspect the facilities of firms.

The cooperative, with assets of over $850,000 and over 500 specialized machine tools and 165,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space, will be able to bid on either prime or sub-contracts.

As the nation's defense activities progress, officials said, a greater part of the work awarded to prime contractors will be turned over to sub-contractors.

Some idea of the facilities available in the cooperative may be seen from the list of tools available.

They include 104 lathes, 20 milling machines, 44 drills, 46 grinding machines, 19 power saws, 11 shapers, five arbor presses, 20 welding machines, nine heat treating furnaces, 10 hydraulic and push presses and 26 miscellaneous metal working machines.

Nine varied plastics forming machines will be available for the manufacture of plastics.

Another 133 machines are available for specialized metal and wood working tasks.

Three foundries have a capacity of 10 tons of iron and nickel-iron, four tons of brass and 2½ tons of aluminum each day.

Machinists Support Teamsters' Strike

Local 212, International Association of Machinists, this week voted full support of Local 453, Teamsters Union's strike at the Ort Brothers Bakery.

C. F. Schelble, secretary, who announced the action, said B. and O. Federated Shop Crafts No. 7 has taken similar action.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

Editor's Note—Starting today, Ash Wednesday, The News begins a series of sermons by Cumberland ministers through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association. Hereafter the sermonettes, digests of a message preached in a local church on Sunday, will appear every Monday morning.

In addition, The News will carry daily during Lent the "Fellowship of Prayer," a non-sectarian daily devotion. It starts today on Page 4.

Today's sermonette was prepared by Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, who is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Divine Resources

IN A world which is characterized by strife, confusion, hurry and uncertainty there is need for faith in something bigger than ourselves. Most of us have had the experience of being "all dressed up with no place to go." We had a new outfit and wanted to show it to some one who would admire it. But it happened that our friends were all occupied elsewhere and we found ourselves with a feeling of frustration and loneliness.

The world is full of people in such a predicament. We are driven by inner compulsions which send us out in search of comfort, recognition and appreciation. We look for something which is satisfying—and find no place to go. Yet there is a source of satisfaction which is available to all of us if we but turn in the right direction. Abraham Lincoln once said, "Often I have been driven to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had no place to go." The source to which he turned for help is available to all.

Ash Wednesday formally opens the Lenten season. According to an old custom, people were given a mark of ashes on their foreheads on the first day of Lent. This custom gave us the term Ash Wednesday. The Lenten season is a time for special emphasis on the spiritual side of life. During this season it is profitable for us to think of our relationship to the divine.

God is the Giver of life. If we are grateful for our daily bread, as all of us should be, to whom do we express our gratitude? The baker and other workers toil in unseen places that we may have daily food and other essentials of life. But the baker did not grow the bread. He used the flour which some miller had ground from the wheat which some farmer had raised. But again the farmer did not make the wheat grow. He merely planted the seed and the sun and rain from above called out the life which was inherent in the seed. The baker, the miller and the farmer helped in the process but we are dependent first of all upon God for our bread.

God is the Forgiver of life. The U. S. Treasury has over a million dollars in a "conscience fund," a fund consisting of money received across the years from people who have cheated the government, have repented, and have made restitution. In the words of the givers most of it has been returned "to clear my conscience." Yet the forgiveness of men is never enough to give one a sense of complete satisfaction. Only God can finally forgive. We must depend upon him for pardon. "If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us."

God is the Sustainer of life. The pressures of life are heavy, and we need strength beyond our own to withstand them. The men who dig tunnels under rivers must work under pressures which make their tasks impossible unless a counter-pressure is set up in the tunnel to match the pressure outside it. Compressed air is used to prevent the collapse of the tunnel and the destruction of the work and the workers. To withstand the pressures of life we need strength within us. Those who have learned the secret of abundant living are grateful for the fact that "the Lord is my strength and my salvation."

God is the Goal of life. The grave is not the end of man. "'Dust thou art, to dust returnest' was not spoken of the soul." A man who took his own life left a note which said that he had exhausted his powers in "homeless wanderings." To one who has faith in God life on earth is not homeless wandering. It is a journey which leads to a glorious eternity.

Commissioners End Hearing Of Employes' Firing

Infirmary Nurses Speak At Session

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners concluded its investigation into the abrupt discharge of seven employes of the County Infirmary with an hour-long session in the grand jury room at the Court House.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the workers who received dismissal notices January 31, said last night that the commissioners indicated to him they would make a decision in the case later this week.

Only one of the discharged employes—a man who had served as an orderly—was heard by the commissioners at yesterday's hearing. Three registered nurses still employed at the County Infirmary also testified. Ryan said that all of the nurses dealt in generalities and gossip without making any specific charges against the employes who lost their jobs.

Four of the fired workers appeared before the commissioners when they opened the investigation with a hearing at the County Infirmary Monday afternoon.

Ryan first brought the case to the attention of the commissioners when he appeared at last Friday's meeting at the Court House. He contended then and has repeated since that the workers should have received at least two weeks' notice before discharge and should have been given specific reasons why their work was not satisfactory.

The dismissal notices were given the seven employes last Wednesday by Earl Grim, who has served as Infirmary superintendent since the first of the year.

Water Supply Good

Sensabaugh Asks Kimble's Withdrawal

French Sensabaugh, of the Sensabaugh Contracting Company, has sent a telegram to Lewis Goldstein, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee in Annapolis. The message pertains to action by Senator Robert B. Kimble on additional taxation to the trucking industry.

The telegram reads as follows:

Due to Senator Kimble's association with interests competitive to the trucking industry we believe, in dignity, that he should bar himself from any action pro or con relative to the two mill tax or any legislation affecting trucking. If he doesn't, we think you should consider requesting him to do so. With rare exceptions heavy trucks do not hurt highways anymore than, with rare

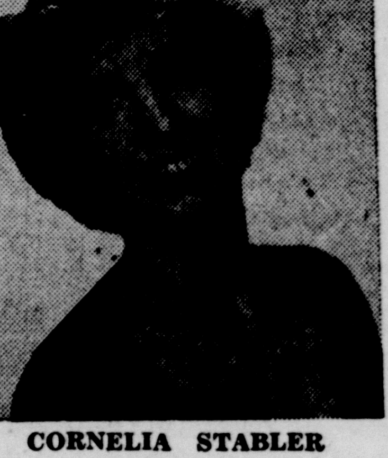
Cornelia Stabler, monologist, will present a program of her original character sketches in the Allegany High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Monday, February 19, under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society.

She calls her sketches "Personality Portraits" for they are word-pictures of the people one meets every day. Her repertoire of 20 sketches includes a busy secretary, a lady lecturer, the mother of a family of radio fans, an elderly actress who is giving a party and a modern teen-ager coming home from a date.

Miss Stabler, who is the author as well as the interpreter of her monologues, has presented them from coast to coast in this country, and has also toured Europe for USO Camp Shows. She has been heard on the major radio networks, has appeared on television, and had the honor of entertaining at the White House for the late President and Mrs. Roosevelt. During the summer months she directs a Community Theatre in the Pocono resort area of Pennsylvania.



CORNELIA STABLER

Jack Platt, who has arranged for her appearance here, said that no admission will be charged. A free will offering will be collected at intermission.

City Dustfall Shows Decline During January

Diesels Credited For Improvement

Dustfall in Cumberland showed a significant drop last month, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, announced yesterday.

He attributed most of the decrease to the increasing Dieselization of the Cumberland yards, which brought a sharp decrease in dustfall in the Thomas Street area.

January records showed a city-wide average of 26.54 tons of dust per square mile. That is 2.5 tons less than in January, 1949, and 3.31 tons less than last year's average.

A chemical analysis of the dustfall, Hitchcock, said, showed non toxic PH readings varying from 3.4 at Humbird Street School and 4.2 at Allegany Hospital.

Most of January's improvement showed up in the Thomas Street section, near the B. and O. Hump.

In December, 1950, dustfall readings there showed an average of 297.22 tons a month. Last month, the reading had dropped to 234.60 tons, a 62.75 ton improvement during the month and a drop of 101.5 tons over the 1950 average.

The marked decrease in Thomas Street shows a definite trend toward the solution of Cumberland's air pollution problems, Hitchcock said.

In the Fairmont Lane section, which receives the first dustfall from east winds, the fall was back to a normal 3.22 tons, but Columbia Avenue at Franklin Street showed an increase of 14.54 tons in January, possibly due to shifting winds.

The Allegany Hospital area, Hitchcock said, dropped 11 tons over December's 56.18 tons, but is still too high.

A fair improvement was noted at the B. and O. YMCA, with a dustfall of 65.45 tons last month, a drop of 36.5 tons over December.

The Avirett lot area dropped 16.93 tons over January, 1950, with a reading of 13.33 in January.

The best improvement in the city was noted at the C. and P. Telephone building. The 1950 average there was 464.80 tons. January's dustfall there, if continued throughout the year, will mean a decrease of 133 tons a year.

Lowndes Heads State Easter Sale Campaign

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the Maryland State Board of Education, is directing the 1951 Easter Seal Sale on behalf of crippled children and adults, it was announced this week.

Lowndes, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Second National Bank, said that the goal of the campaign is $110,000 in the city and state.

Lowndes declared: "The Easter Seals which are to be sent to 300,000 Maryland homes late this month support the work among the handicapped performed by the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliates, including the Allegany County League, the Baltimore League, the Frederick County Chapter, the Montgomery County Chapter and helps with Society activities throughout the State.

"The Easter Seals mean hope to the thousands of handicapped in our State; to the cerebral palsied, the boy or girl with a speech difficulty, the crippled youngster, man or woman who needs help. The services performed by Easter Seal funds are not duplicated by any other agency.

Piedmont Grocery Grants Wage Boost

The Piedmont Grocery Company announced last night that a $2 a week wage increase was granted to drivers and warehousemen of the firm January 19.

The five cents an hour wage boost for some 12 workers went into effect before the wage-price freeze became effective, according to R. G. Duvall, manager of the firm.

Duvall said similar boosts were granted to workers of the firm in Oakland.

Appeal posters and red heart contribution containers were placed in business and professional establishments last night by the Cumberland committee members of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund raising organization.

Howard M. Spiker, local real estate man, and William C. Cobel, are co-chairmen of the Cumberland group which covers areas in LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Pinto, Flintstone, Oldtown and Cumberland.

Spiker announced his local committee, composed of American Legion Post No. 13 members, and named co-chairmen for the outlying districts under the local committee's jurisdiction.

The legion committee members are Joseph F. Reissig, George E. Zegles, Joseph F. Challinor, Filmore Fleming, Lawrence E. Lease, Ralph L. Wilson, William P. Claar, Jerry T. Defibaugh, Jr., Thomas R. Farrell, Galen Storer and Raymond Settle.

Mrs. Rachel Iames, chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary committee, Mrs. Effie Vogel, chairman of the American Legion auxiliary committee, and Mrs. Heyl Walker, chairman of the 8-40 group, are planning Tag Day to be held either the 10th or 17th of this month.

Chairmen of surrounding districts named by Spiker are Dale Broadwater, Cresaptown postmaster, John L. Nixon, postmaster at Oldtown, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone school principal, and Mrs. Betty Kirk, home visiting nurse who will work in the Rawlings, Pinto and Bowling Green areas.

Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman of the Association's campaign, said a meeting of the Frostburg group will be held tomorrow.

Zoning Board Hearing Slated

The application of a local man to build a three-car garage and apartment building at the rear of his home has been referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, recently asked the City Engineer to issue a building permit for the structure.

The application will be considered at a meeting of the appeals board February 28 at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Officials said the City Engineer may issue permits for two car garages if the structure does not take up over half of the back yard space.

Applications for three car garages, however, are automatically referred to the appeals board.

The structure is planned in a Residential B area.

Parkway Land Bill Proposed By Beall

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced last night that he has presented to Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, a bill which would empower the Maryland State Roads Commission to purchase additional land along the right of way of the proposed C. and O. Canal Parkway.

He said Senator Kimble indicated he will introduce the bill in the Senate within the next few days.

Rep. Beall emphasized that he is not pressing the Parkway plan at present, due to the national emergency.

He said, however, that it was deemed wise to secure the enabling legislation since non-emergency laws may be passed only at regular sessions of the assembly.

Whitworth To Head Budget Trimming Group In House

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was named yesterday to head a House sub-committee appointed to study Governor McKeldin's budget with a view of trimming it wherever possible.

Another sub-committee headed by Delegate Hopkins, (R-Balto 3rd) will look into means of obtaining additional revenue for the state.

Governor McKeldin has indicated his budget will cost $159,000,000.

The appointment of the committees was one of a growing list of House actions in the last several days that added weight to the evidence that the delegates want to go slow on financial measures at this time.

Hearing Slated

A hearing on a House resolution introduced by Delegate Whitworth calling for the ratification of an amendment to the U. S. Constitution limiting the President to two consecutive terms of office will be held February 21 at 3 p. m., in Annapolis.

Whitworth said that the hearing will be open to the public before the House Judiciary committee.

Police To Open Drive To Curb Speeding In City

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night appealed for full cooperation of all citizens in a drive to curb dangerous speeding.

Many reports have been received recently, he said, of cars speeding in school areas, especially at dismissal time.

The full cooperation of drivers, police, school safety patrols, students, and parents, the commissioner added, will be needed to solve the problem.

Drivers of all police cruisers members of the traffic division and patrolmen have been notified by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to be on the alert for speeding vehicles.

Although reports of speeding come from all sections of the city, the majority of recent complaints were from Virginia Avenue and First and Second Streets, police said.

Delegation Bills Praised By City

Members of the Allegany County Delegation received an unanimous vote of thanks from the Mayor and City Council this week for two House resolutions relating to this area.

The legislation, introduced by the County Delegation, includes HR 11, asking that county residents be employed on flood prevention and control work in Allegany County.

The second, HR 5, requested the Office of Defense Mobilization to establish defense industries in Allegany Counties.

The council voted full support to the Delegation toward passage of the legislation.

Quartermaster Laboratory Site Due For Decision

Secretary Marshall Will Make Selection

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The site where the Quartermaster Corps will establish its research laboratory may be announced within two weeks, a Defense Department spokesman said today.

He said the report of a special committee appointed to recommend one or more sites now is being signed and may reach Secretary of Defense Marshall this week.

The final decision is up to Marshall and no disclosure will be made in advance of the Secretary's announcement, the spokesman emphasized.

The report will include several sites, he continued, listed in the order in which the committee thinks they would meet requirements. From these Marshall will make his choice.

Does Not Know Sites

The spokesman, who has been working with the committee since its inception, said he does not know what the recommended sites are.

However, he said, his office has received numerous telephone calls, telegrams, letters and other communications from various localities purporting to be on the recommendation list.

"They can't all be on it," he said.

Congress was told last December during hearings on a supplementary appropriation bill that the number of sites had been reduced to three. The sites were not named. Hundreds of prospective sites had been considered.

Congress has authorized $11,000,000 to build the laboratory, which will conduct research on clothing, equipment and other items for the armed forces.

The Army has received a $250,000 appropriation to get the laboratory started, when the site is selected.

May Cost More

Persons close to the situation have said that, because of increased costs brought about by the Korean War and the defense effort, the laboratory might cost much more than $11,000,000. If so, an additional congressional authorization would have to be sought.

The two principal contenders for the laboratory have been Boston and Philadelphia.

Congressional spokesmen for both cities fought over the issue for years.

Eventually, a compromise was reached under which the Secretary of Defense would make the selection, acting on the recommendation of a special committee.

That committee, chosen by the chairman of the Research and Development Board, includes:

Chester M. Alter, dean of the Boston University Graduate School; H. S. Coleman, assistant director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh; Donald H. Loughridge, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Gilbert Scribner of Winston & Company, Chicago; John J. Traynor, assistant vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York; and Blake R. Vanleer, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, chairman.

Reds Retreat To New Defense Line

Railroad Switchmen's Strike Eases In East

Key Midwest Hubs Still Tied Up; Talks Progress

[By The Associated Press]

The switchmen's crippling "sick call" strike began crumbling in parts of the nation Tuesday, but holdouts in key Midwest cities kept the bulk of the cross-country traffic in a snarl.

Strikers swarmed back to their jobs in New York City and much of the eastern area. Switchmen stayed out in the key rail hubs of Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis and Minneapolis-St. Paul. The walkout still spread on some far western lines.

Scattered back-to-work movements were reported in all sections of the country and some "dead" freight and temporarily cancelled passenger trains began rolling again.

The Railway Express Agency partially lifted its embargo of last Thursday. The agency said it will again accept shipments, effective immeditely, between New York City and New England points and between New York City and New Jersey.

Pennsy Lifts Embargo

The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered its embargo lifted at midnight at Ne York, Trenton, N. J., Philadelphia and Buffalo, N. Y. But, the Pennsylvania said the embargo would remain at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Toledo.

However, a spokesman for the nation's carriers in Washington said that "any idea that the show is over is completely erroneous." He said that for every group that goes back to work "there's another bunch that goes out."

Railroad officials estimated the strike has clogged the movement of more than one third of this country's 2,000,000 freight cars. Some 500,000 empty and 200,000 loaded cars were reported either stranded in terminals or moving into bottlenecks.

The day's developments prompted some eastern industrial firms to cancel layoffs, but 24,000 miners were sent home in West Virginia and 2,000 in Indiana, and 4,500 lumber workers faced unemployment in Oregon because of the spreading strike there.

Progress Made In Talks

At the height of the stoppage, some 12,000 switchmen were off the job, forcing the layoff of 250,000 industrial workers and the imposition of mail, freight and express embargoes.

Many returning strikers in the East attributed their action to their own "patriotism" and last night's appeal of Defense Mobilization Di-

Russia Insists German Issues Top Discussions

Leaves Door Open For Other Subjects

PARIS, Wednesday, Feb. 7 (AP)—Russia declared in a note released by the French Foreign Office today that the most aggressive elements of Hitlerite militarism again are raising their heads and demanding that German demilitarization hold the top spot in the proposed four-power foreign ministers meeting.

Despite the strong wording, the Russians left the door open for the introduction of other subjects, as desired by the Western Powers, if and when a conference is held.

Similar Note Sent To U. S.

Similar notes were sent to the United States and Britain.

The four powers have been exchanging views since Nov. 3, when Russia first proposed that the four powers discuss the disarmament of Germany.

The three Western powers replied Dec. 22 that a conference limited to Germany would be "inadequate and unreal." They proposed a preliminary conference to decide on an agenda that would take in the main problems responsible for present "international tensions throughout the world."

Russia said Dec. 30 that German disarmament should be the "first and foremost" topic of discussion, but agreed to a preliminary conference. The three powers Jan. 23 asked Russia to clarify whether she would consent to discuss other questions as well.

Legal Points Remain

Russia's reply, delivered to the western envoys in Moscow Monday, appeared to move slightly in the direction of breaking down differences over the scope and procedure of the projected meeting. But it was evident some fine legal points remained to be threshed out.

For instance, the wording of the Russian reply indicated Russia insists on holding a "council of foreign ministers"—the council that was set up in the four-power meeting at Potsdam in 1945. The Western meeting of the four foreign ministers, thus indicating they want to steer clear of the old Potsdam framework and start afresh.

ECA Says Europe Ready To Rearm

WASHINGTON, Feb 6 (AP)—Western Europe is strong enough to rearm, but it must do it quickly and well, the Economic Cooperation Administration reported to Congress today.

The Marshall Plan agency, which has invested nearly $10,000,000,000 in Western European recovery, said that although the people of the area deplored another war they "had no quarrel" with the need to rebuild their defenses.

"The two and one-half years since the start of the European recovery program have witnessed a profound change in Western Europe—from an area disorganized by war, occupation and isolation and dominated by a mood of helplessness, into a reasonably smoothly functioning economic and political entity," ECA said.

"The impact of the war in Korea and enlarged defense programs will undoubtedly stimulate the growth of European production."

Father Who Slew Son Given 20 Year Term

OREGON, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP) — A 50-year-old father was sentenced to 20 years in prison today on a charge of murdering his son, a polio victim.

Ray Henry, a railroad gateman, pleaded guilty. After killing the eight-year-old son with a .22 calibre rifle, Henry tried to kill himself but failed.

The shooting occurred Oct. 31, 1950. He blamed his act on marital troubles and a fear that the boy would not recover from polio.

Woods Asks Sweeping New Rent Powers, Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has asked for sweeping new rent-control powers that will give the government more authority over rents than at the height of World War II.

Here are the powers he is asking: (1) To restore rent control on housing that has been decontrolled; (2) to clamp rent ceilings on new housing that has never been under controls; (3) to regulate commercial rents for the first time; and (4) to roll back inflated rents to July 1, 1950.

These requests have already been submitted to Mobilization Director Charles Wilson in the form of proposed legislation. A confidential summary was also sent to Wilson, boiling down the legal language to plain English. Though this summary was meant for Wilson's eyes only, here are the important excerpts:

"This bill amends the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 by rewriting it completely; it extends to June 30, 1952, control over rents for housing and veterans' preference in the sale and rental of new housing accomodations, and extends the Office of Housing Expediter for the purpose of administering these functions. It also adds a new title authorizing the housing expediter to control commercial rents," sums up the confidential memo.

Trial-Training For Many Draft 4-Fs Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) — The idea of basic training for many men now classified 4-F, to see if they really are disqualified for military service, gained ground today in the House Armed Services Committee. The talk centered on draft-deferred athletes but was not limited to them.

The proposition came up in testimony by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, on the Defense Department's bill to draft 18-year-olds, extend service to 27 months and set up a system of universal military service and training.

Many lawmakers want all other available sources tapped before the draft takes youths below the present 19-year age limit. The trial-training plan, to which Hershey readily agreed, was one of the suggestions aimed what way.

Air Force Calls Reservists

Simultaneously there were these other developments bearing on armed manpower:

1. The Air Force started sending out calls to the first of nearly 80,000 volunteer reservists it plans to bring into active service.

2. The House committee itself showed signs of leaning toward a compromise on 18-year-olds, under which they might be drafted but would have to get six months training before they could go to a combat zone.

3. The committee also gave thought to a requirement that the armed forces reject no more than 22 per cent of the men Selective Service sends them, find some spot for the rest. The "reject" rate has dropped recently to 34 per cent, Hershey said, but is still too high.

Brooks Makes It Broader

Hershey originally was talking only about 4-F athletes when the trial-training subject came up. He favored putting them through basic before any decision is made as to whether they would be useful even in "limited service."

But Rep. Brooks (D-La) made it broader. He suggested it would be logical to "take a man with two eyes, two arms and two legs" and try him out before deferring him for physical defects.

"Agreed," Hershey responded.

Boy Only Bruised In 80-Foot Slide

The youngster tumbled down a hill just like the pair in the nursery rhyme. But Francis did it without breaking his crown. He slipped on ice and plummeted 80 feet down the side of Mt. Washington, a sheer palisade overlooking the Monongahela River. Only a few frozen bushes slowed his descent. Police and firemen found the boy suffering only from a bad scare and a few bruises.

Allies Force Chinese Back South Of Seoul

Enemy Withdraws Over Five Miles

ON WESTERN KOREAN FRONT, Wednesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—United Nations forces have knocked the Chinese Reds from their main line of defense south of Seoul, an Army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Chinese have withdrawn five and one-half miles into a new mountain line less than six miles below the Han River.

The Allied capture of Hill 431 made the enemy's whole line of resistance untenable. The hill is 12 miles south-southwest of Seoul.

Hill 431 was the key to the mass of hills from which the strongly entrenched Chinese had impeded the progress of the U. N. limited offensive in the west.

The Reds began withdrawing 36 hours ago.

Red Tanks Appear

The Army spokesman said the enemy had reinforced heavily his positions along the Han River and intends to make a determined stand on the south side of the river to defend Seoul.

Two Allied tank-infantry raider columns, making gains up to four miles Tuesday, rammed into the main Chinese line near Seoul and stirred up a pitched battle with Red tanks and fresh troops.

Some U. N. forces were reported only three air miles south of ruined Seoul. Allied artillery, warplanes and warships offshore poured a withering stream of fire all day into the battle area, where Chinese troops were swarming.

About 50 miles east of Seoul, South Korean infantry drove to within 25 air miles of the 38th parallel. Then they were forced to fight desperately to hold a mountain ridge in this deepest penetration of Red territory since the limited offensive began two weeks ago.

Hills "Loaded With Reds"

The Republican troops were battling 1,500 Reds in the mountains of Central Korea. The South Koreans had driven six air miles north of Hoengsong under cover of U. S. artillery and Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers.

The heaviest action Tuesday, however, was on the western front near Anyang, eight and one half

Naval Officer Seeks Missing Wife, Children

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Navy officer husband of a Michigan socialite reported today that his wife and four young daughters have been missing since they disappeared from their $100 a day Biltmore Hotel suite Sunday.

The husband, Lt. Frank Saunders, flew here yesterday from Detroit to enlist the aid of the Missing Persons Bureau in the search for his family.

He said his wife, Mrs. Barbara Mercier Shuell Saunders, 30, and the children arrived here Jan. 28 from their home in fashionable Grosse Point, Mich., making the trip without his knowledge.

Md. Democrats Adopt "Hands Off" Policy Toward Devising New Taxes

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Any tax raise measure will have to originate with the Republican state administration, Senate Democrats decided today.

At a closed meeting, the 18 Democratic state senators who form the majority of that house decided to adopt a "hands off" policy towards devising new taxes to meet pay raises and other increased costs of state government which seem almost sure to arise.

"We decided that taxes are the baby of the man upstairs," one Democrat remarked after the meeting.

"The man upstairs" is Republican Gov. McKeldin.

A seven-member steering committee was authorized in the meeting to make department-by-department survey to find out just where the state stands financially, and then to draw up a party fiscal program.

Among the new bills introduced during a routine Senate meeting were several by President Della (D-Balto 6th) to make changes in the merit system laws.

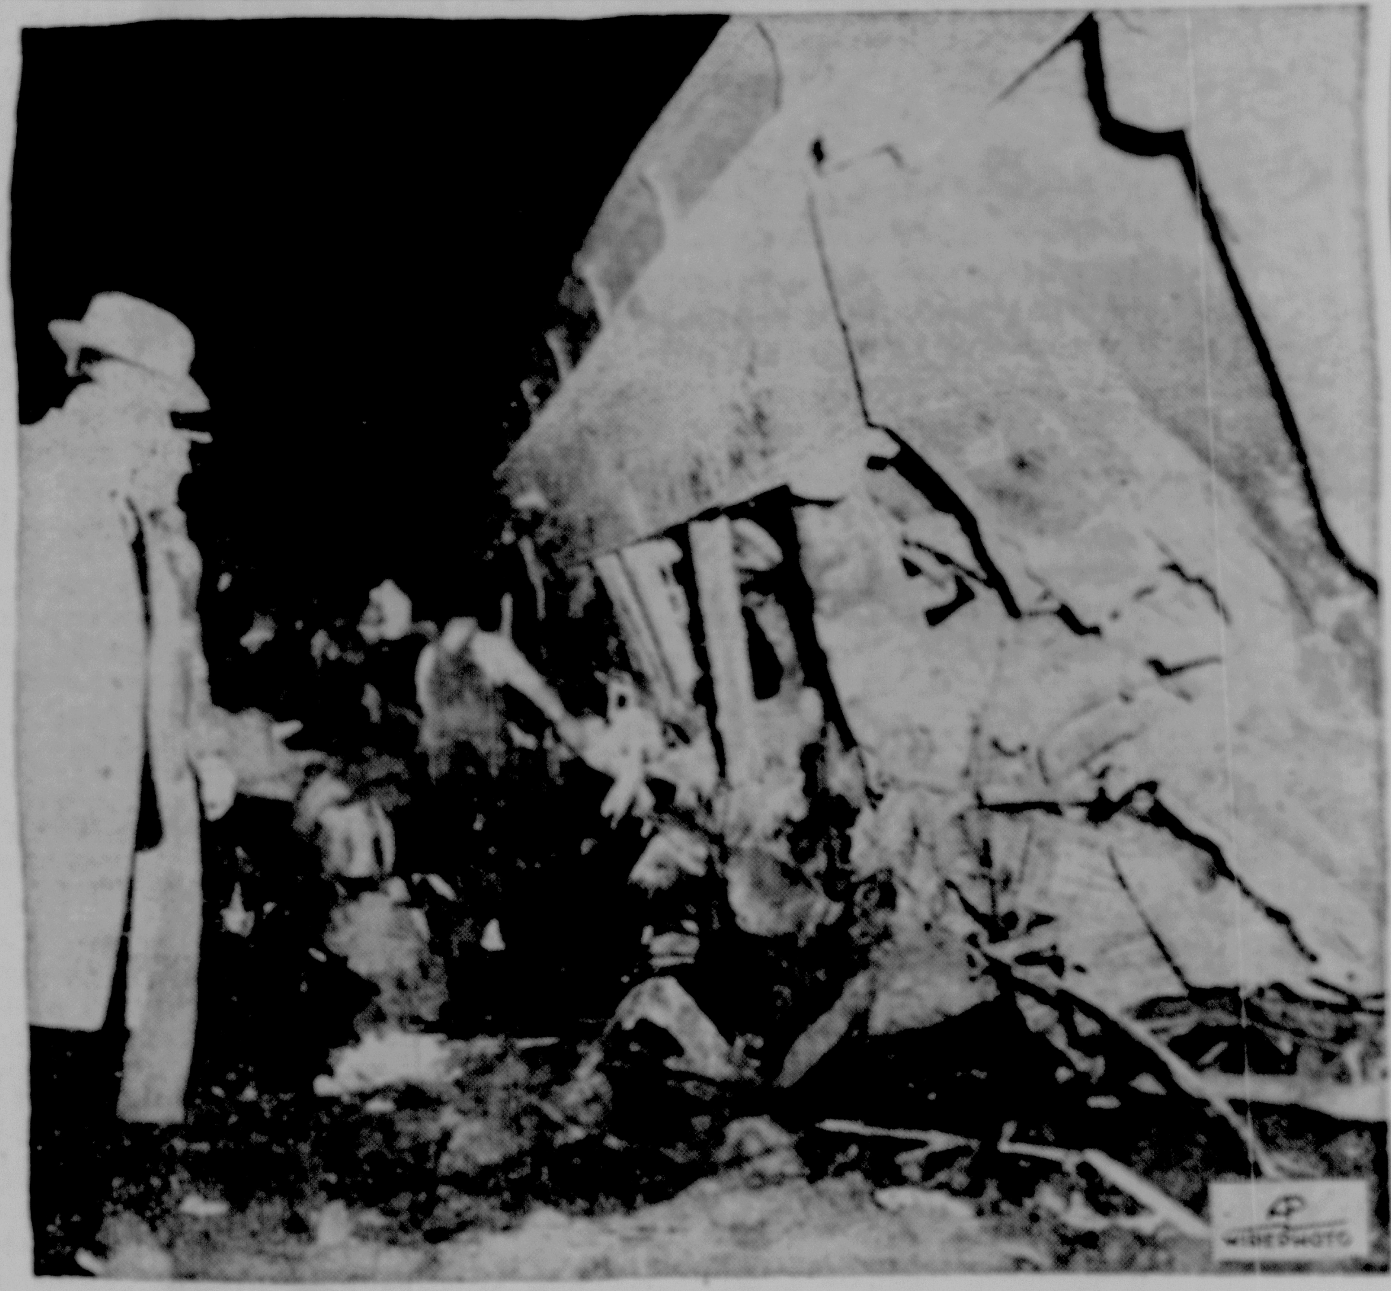
Generally, the new measures would make it easier for a group of temporary employes to gain permanent positions with the state, and would protect the job and pension rights of state workers who join the armed forces.

Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) introduced legislation to add his county to the list of those which allow women to serve on juries.

Truckers resumed their opposition to a bill which would set up a ton-mile tax on vehicles weighing more than 25,000 pounds.

They had contended last week that faulty construction of highways—and not heavy trucks—is the chief reason why roads are damaged.

At a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee today, J. Marshall Stewart, a spokesman for the truckers, said his group is drawing up a plan to build "cheaper and stronger" state roads.



Roof Of Wrecked Car Sheared Away

The wreckage of a Pennsylvania Railroad car, its roof sheared away from the twisted steel of the remainder of the coach, lies on an embankment at Woodbridge, N. J., after the train, a commuter express, crashed through a temporary overpass last night. (Another wreck picture on page 2)

AEC "Satisfied" As Atom Tests Are Concluded

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 6 (AP) — The fifth and biggest atomic blast at the new government range near here shook Las Vegas today and shattered show windows in two auto agencies.

Later, the Atomic Energy Commission announced that it has concluded its experiments for the present and is "completely satisfied with the conduct of the test operation."

Said Carroll L. Tyler, manager of the tests for the AEC, in a statement:

"Use of the Las Vegas site has saved manpower, materials, money and, above all, invaluable time in the national atomic energy development program."

No one was injured, either among AEC personnel or residents of this Southern Nevada resort city, Tyler said.

Today's blast, as previously, just before dawn, hit Las Vegas with two stiff jolts.

"Bigger than Bikini," was the description of Los Angeles Newscaster Clete Roberts, who also witnessed the Pacific island tests.

"The worst yet," said Las Vegas Police Capt. George Thompson.

Today's was No. 14 in a worldwide series of atom blasts, starting in New Mexico in mid-summer, 1945, and including those at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and one set off by the Russians.

Friday's fourth test here splintered a window in a furniture store. Today's concussion knocked out two in auto agencies within a block of each other. In a nearby garage, a window across which an advertising banner had been stretched cracked from the first concussion. The rush of air apparently sucked the banner into the open crack, and when the sound waves subsided, the cloth was neatly caught in the glass.

British Housewife Defeats American In Pancake Sprint

OLNEY, England, Feb. 6 (AP) — Britain kept the international pancake racing crown today. Its buxom flapjack sprinting ace beat her American counterpart by a comfortable 2.4 seconds.

The winner, Olney housewife Mrs. Isobel Dix, 22, legged the 415-yard course from Parish Pump to Olney Church door in a snappy one minute 12.1 seconds. In the similar annual Shrove Tuesday race staged a few hours later in Liberal, Kas., winner Mrs. Emmagene Bruce, 19, took one minute and 14.5 seconds to tote skittle and pancake over the distance.

Up to 1950, when Liberal housewives challenged the maids and matrons of this tiny country market town, the annual Shrove Tuesday event had been going on quietly since 1445 with gaps for wars and the like.

The Olney girls took up the challenge last year and gave the Liberals a battering.

Steps Are Urged To Reduce Tax Underpayments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP) —The nation's tax collector said today that people underpay their federal taxes by almost $1,500,000,000 a year and a withholding levy on interest and dividends would help him collect close to $250,000,000 of that sum.

George J. Schoeneman, the internal revenue commissioner, told the Ways and Means Committee his bureau is steadily improving its methods of detecting and correcting underpayments of taxes.

For the year ended last June 30, he said, the bureau recaptured about $1,800,000,000 from erring taxpayers.

But he said the job of checking up on about 90,000,000 income and excise tax returns is so stupendous he is sure people and firms got away without paying from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000 in taxes they owed the government.

Actually, the revenue bureau got around to checking only 4,326,886 out of those 90,000,000 separate returns.

Shoeneman was questioned closely by the House Ways and Means Committee, which is considering President Truman's request for some $16,500,000,000 new taxes this year to pay for the huge rearmament program.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the prospect of heavy new taxes atop levies already quite high require that the committee insist that taxpayers pay what they owe, with nobody excusd.

Schoenenman said it would probably take an army of 200,000 agents for his bureau to check on all returns. Right now he has about 20,000 agents and collectors, and is asking Congress for 2,484 more. These, along with the withholding tax on dividends and interest, he said, should go a long way toward reducing tax underpayments.

Train Cracks Up On Trestle, Drops 20 Feet

400 Of Commuter's Passengers Hurt

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP) — A speeding Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train cracked up on a temporary overpass tonight killing at least 71 persons.

Middlesex County Coroner Samuel Kane said there were 71 known dead in hospitals and morgues. The toll is expected to rise. Nearly 400 were injured.

The train plunged some 20 feet from the trestle to a street below.

The 11-car train roared onto the trestle and swayed sickenly. Then the steam engine left the rails, dragging five of the cars with it. The crash occurred at 5:43 p. m.

The train — "The Broker" — was carrying passengers to the wealthy North Jersey shore from New York City 30 miles away. The train carried a large number of commuters who normally travel on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which was shut down today by the switchmen's "sick call" walkout. Both lines service the area.

Some of the cars telescoped into a mass of sharp, deadly metal wreckage that ground to pulp some of the passengers.

Third Rail Disaster In Year

It was the third major railroad disaster in the New York metropolitan area in less than a year.

Woodbridge is a city of 27,000 about 30 miles south of New York City near the Jersey shore. The wooden trestle, shored up with big beams, carries trains across Legion Street, two blocks from the center of the city.

A big highway project — New Jersey's cross-state freeway — is underway in that area. The trestle was put up when the tracks were moved to give added room below the embankment.

Railroad men on the scene said the new trestle was put into service only today and the wrecked train was one of the first few to cross it.

First reports said the trestle gave way. However, it did not collapse and the engine of the train had cleared it before derailing.

The Broker left Jersey City at 5:07 p. m. EST, stopped at Newark and then headed for South Amboy, not far from here. The railroad said the train crew was a veteran regular crew.

Not Clear What Happened

Engineer A. H. Fitzsimmons was at the controls as the Broker highballed through blackness of early night above the glistening lights of this industrial section of New Jersey.

It was not plain what happened.

A Pennsylvania Railroad official said the train of red coaches was rocking along at top speed. He did not estimate it in miles per hour.

The engine cleared the trestle by about three car lengths. Then in a flash of sparks and with a roar it left the rails and hit the street below. With it went five of the

Survivor Says Engineer Tried To Stop Train

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Feb. 6 (AP)—Irving W. Teeple, a Newark, N. J., attorney, aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's commuter train "The Broker" which crashed here tonight, gave this eyewitness description of the wreck:

"I was standing on the platform at the end of my car and I noticed the engineer trying to hold her down.

"He was trying to stop her.

"I noticed him throw the air brakes three times as she came down the grade onto the temporary tracks. He was doing his level best to hold her back.

Happened With Roar

"Then there was a roar.

"I looked through the car and saw the people huddle in their seats. I grabbed a door handle on the platform. The next thing I knew I was wedged in between two other fellows.

"A slide between the cars broke and I saw a small hole. I was able to breath by putting my face to it. My nose was bleeding and my arm hurt. Everything was swimming around me. I got dizzy. I was jammed in.

"My car slid about 30 feet before it stopped. It was hanging over the edge of the embankment.

Afraid Car Would Fall

"I tried to break the door to get out. But I couldn't. So I tried to struggle up through the car. But it seemed to me it was tilting more and more. So I sat down. I was afraid she'd fall down into the street.

"I waited for about three-quarters of an hour while they took out the more badly wounded. Then they came for me and put me on a stretcher and took me down.

"I was lucky."

Soldier Shot, Killed In Union Station Fight

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6 (AP) — A soldier was shot and killed during a fight before several hundred travelers in Union Station tonight.

Three other soldiers and a military policeman were clubbed with guns during the brief fight.

The dead man was identified at City Hospital as Robert McKenna. The hospital had no other identification on the man and military authorities said other information would be held up pending notification of next of kin.

U. S. Diplomats Expect No Russian Attack This Year

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—The best guess of key American diplomats in Europe is that Russia will not start a world war in 1951.

They feel, however, another struggle is almost inevitable in the years to come if the Kremlin's pressure against the West goes on unabated.

They are pessimistic that anything except propaganda wrangling would result from a new four-power conference, but they expect one will be held.

These are viewpoints widely shared among American diplomats from iron curtain countries who met in Paris last week and those from Western European capitals who are now conferring in Frankfurt.

Ambassador Alan G. Kirk took part in both meetings before departing today by plane to return to his post in Moscow.

Americans reluctantly credit the Soviet government with some success to date in a campaign to sow disunity among the Western Allies and their peoples.

Rebuilding German military strength for a European defense force was an issue, until a few weeks ago, that had western leaders arguing at cross-purposes.

This apparently has been straightened out, at least as regards timing. A western force will be created first. Then the Germans, if conditions are right, will volunteer their contribution.

Bears Refuse To Leave Moat

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 6 (AP)—Two Como Park bears that skidded into an 18-foot deep moat over the weekend know when they're well off, zoo keepers said tonight. They're staying right where they are.

The big bruins—Betty and Buster—went for a little outing over the weekend when warmer temperatures coaxed them out of their winter caves. Apparently groggy because of the premature ending of their winter hibernation, they slipped on glare ice and zipped to the bottom of the moat which separates their playground from spectators.

Zoo keepers, with scores of suggestions from "bear experts," tried without success to coax them out, but the bears kept slipping back. Two ladders were let down, but they quickly snapped under the weight of the 400-pounders.

Then a heavy-duty ladder was constructed—one that could probably hold an elephant.

But Betty and Buster are smart. They're staying at the bottom of the moat. Zoo Keeper Leo Whalen explained that a strong, cold wind was whipping through the park and about the only sheltered spot was at the bottom of the moat.

Stassen Will Speak At Md. GOP Dinner

BALTIMORE, Feb. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen will be the main speaker at the Alexander Hamilton Club's annual Lincoln Day dinner here Feb. 17.

The state-wide club described Stassen in its announcement as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. He sought the nomination in 1948.

Gov. McKeldin, Sen. Butler, and Maryland's three Republican congressmen, plus GOP members of the Maryland General Assembly, also will participate in the banquet program.

Bill To Alter Md. Income Tax Law Is Recommitted

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—House members made it plain again today they want to withhold action on legislation that would cost the state money until they get an over-all picture of just how much it will take to run Maryland another year.

A bill to make a change in the income tax law was bounced back to committee after its sponsor disclosed it would mean a $100,000 revenue loss to the state.

And earlier in the day, the Republican minority members reportedly reached an unofficial agreement to try to hold up money bills until the fiscal picture straightens itself out.

Gov. McKeldin is scheduled to present on Thursday his proposed budget for the year starting July 1.

He has already indicated it will top $159,000,000.

And there is growing pressure for raises for all state employes including school teachers.

It has been estimated that the budget could be as much as $20,000,000 out of balance in its final form if all money proposals were adopted, unless new taxes were imposed or existing ones raised.

The income tax bill was up for a last House vote during today's session.

Introduced by Delegate Nowakowski (D-Balto 1st) it would allow every one filing income tax returns to take a flat 10 per cent deduction, up to $1,000, instead of itemizing his allowable deductions.

Lawmaker Urges Higher Taxicabs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP)—A Chicago lawmaker today proposed that taxicabs be high enough inside so passengers won't have to remove their hats.

Rep. Alan Best, a strapping six-footer, filed a bill in the Illinois House requiring cabs to be so constructed that persons of "average height" may sit upright in the rear seat without crushing their hats or riding bareheaded.

Manager Says Taft Won't Run In 1952

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6 (AP)—The man who managed Sen. Robert Taft's three successful races for the Senate said today the Ohioan won't run for president in 1952.

After failing twice in attempts to win the Republican Party's presidential nomination, Taft "just won't put on any campaign" again, said Willis D. Gradison of Cincinnati.

Legal Path Cleared For Harford Voting Machines

BEL AIR, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — The legal path has been cleared for Harford County to have voting machines.

Judge Frederick Lee Cobourn upheld in circuit court a contract under which the county commissioners had agreed to buy 36 of them for $1,296 from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Proctor of Cardiff had attacked the contract in a taxpayers' suit on the grounds the machines were faulty and could be tampered with.

War Bride Has 3 Sets Of Twins In 3 Years

MENOMINEE, Mich., Feb. 6 (AP)—A 23-year-old Italian war bride today gave birth to her third set of twins in three years.

The twin girls were born to Mrs. John Ferguson of Wallace, Mich., at the local hospital. Each weighed approximately seven pounds.

The first set, twin boys, was born three years ago. One died at birth. The second set, a boy and a girl, was born 16 months ago.

Mrs. Ferguson, the former Perina Buffolin of Vilesse, Italy, is the wife of a farmer. They met while he was serving with the U. S. Army in Italy.

There was panic in some of the splintered coaches. In others dazed passengers stayed calm, their chalk-white faces reflecting the sudden terror of the tragedy.

Screams of the wounded and dying rose in the night air. One man pinned beneath a heavy coach wheel cried:

"Help, help me."

Help was quick in coming for most of the injured. Scores of ambulances sped to the scene and their motors idled patiently as they waited for their cargo of injured.

M'Arthur Reportedly Requests Authority To Use Chiang's Troops

TOKYO, Feb. 6 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur has asked Washington to bring Chinese Nationalist troops into the fighting in Korea, informed sources said today.

Informants indicated MacArthur believes the Nationalists should get U. S. support for a thrust at the Communist mainland from their island fortress of Formosa, off the southeast coast of China.

The administration in Washington has rejected all proposals for using the Nationalist either in Korea or on the mainland. The Washington position is that supplies needed to prepare the Nationalists for a Korean campaign could be better used in arming anti-Communist Koreans.

Remington Case Will Go To Jurors Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Testimony ended today in the lengthy perjury trial of William W. Remington, former government economist accused of lying in telling a federal grand jury he never was a Communist. He may hear his fate tomorrow.

The defense will sum up tomorrow morning and the prosecution in the early afternoon. Then Federal Judge Gregory F. Noonan will give his charge to the jurors and turn the case over to them.

Commentator Seized

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced that Television and Radio Commentator Paul Harvey was "apprehended" making an "unauthorized entry" early today at the Argonne National Laboratory.

The laboratory turned him over to the FBI for questioning but it was learned he has not been detained. The matter was reported still under investigation.

Russia Asks U. N. To Condemn U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 6 (AP)—Russia charged the United States with 228 air attacks on Red China in November and December and called on the U. N. to condemn "these illegal acts by the government of the United States."

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate, told the 60-nation Political Committee of the U. N. Assembly that United States war planes violated Chinese territory 228 times between Aug. 28 and Dec. 31. This total included 90 violations previous charged by Russia. He said 98 persons had been killed and 113 wounded in the raids.

The U. S. has answered that the attacks were made along the Yalu River against supply lines for the Red Chinese troops in Korea. The United States has disclaimed any intention to bomb deliberately any Chinese territory.

Tsarapkin presented a resolution which charged that American planes violated the Korean-Manchurian frontier and that a U. S. military vessel bombarded, detained and inspected a Chinese merchant ship. The resolution asked the U. N. to condemn these alleged acts and require the U. S. to pay damages.

The U. S. last summer met similar charges in the Security Council with a demand for an impartial committee to determine the damages, but Russia refused to accept such a group.

What To Do With 7-Year-Old Bank Robber Is Puzzler For Ohio Judge

He's too young for the reform school and too ornery for the children's home," says Probate Judge Harry Albright.

The judge was thinking not only of the latest escapade of a youngster whom we shall name Jimmy.

He was thinking also of Jimmy's police record of 28 offenses.

Judge Albright said Jimmy had:

Stolen a car; broken into a private home with two 10-year-old girls, set fire to papers around the Bellaire police station, pinched all the keys from a used car lot and distributed them up and down the street, and burglarized a number of business places.

To cap this record, Jimmy pulled a $16 burglary of the Belmont Federal Savings and Loan Co. with his five-year-old brother.

Jimmy—that isn't his real name, of course—tossed a brick through the company's window, rifled the petty cash drawer and picked up two boxes of book matches.

Tracks in the snow enabled police to locate the younger brother less than 24 hours later. He readily admitted his part in the burglary—his first crime. But, Jimmy was of sterner stuff.

He steadfastly refused to talk when picked up at a Bellaire movie house. Finally, Patrolman Robert Campbell said:

"Well, I guess I'll have to call in the FBI."

Jimmy took a peek at Campbell to see if he was kidding. Then, he replied:

"Okay, then, I'll talk."

This small boy's hiding place contained candy, cigarets, candles and keys.

Jimmy said he obtained keys to a bakery, grocery store, feed store and soft drink bottling plant—purveyors of juvenile delicacies—on his first night-time trips. He used the keys later, too.

Judge Albright finally decided to send Jimmy temporarily to the Belmont County Child Welfare Board. He said the board will keep Jimmy at the county children's home for a time, then put him in a foster home.

"He does well under strict supervision," Judge Albright said, "but he just can't stay out of trouble when he's on his own."

Why is this? Well, the Bureau of Juvenile Research at Columbus once spent considerable time analyzing Jimmy. Then it reported, "aggressive, anti-social behavior is seen as a reaction to home conditions which are suspected to being more extreme than shown on the surface."

In other words, said Judge Albright, the "boy isn't getting the proper parental supervision."

Jimmy's father is a coal miner. Jimmy's paternal grand parents ended up as a murder and suicide. He has five brothers and a sister.

Jimmy isn't stupid. The research bureau said his intelligence was normal and his "IQ" was 100. He is 48 inches tall, 53 pounds heavy, blond, blue-eyed and fairly clean for a seven-year-old boy.

He talks readily and well. He says he gets his ideas for behavior from the movies.

Income Tax Primer

Medical Expenses, Taxes, Interest Help To Cut Bill

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Did you pay large medical bills or interest on a sizeable loan and substantial local taxes during 1950?

If you did you may be able to reduce your federal income tax by listing those allowable deductions on your tax return. You can deduct medical expenses which exceed five per cent of your income for the year.

The law also allows you to deduct most interest payments, several kinds of state and local taxes and contributions to charitable, religious and educational organizations. You can deduct losses from fire, flood, storm and theft not reimbursed by insurance or otherwise.

Figure carefully to see whether your allowable deductions amount to more than 10 per cent of your income in 1950. You have a choice of taking a standard allowance for deductions amounting to 10 per cent of your income or of listing your various deductions and taking whatever they total.

Here is a sample case:

Jim Brown, married and no dependents, had an income of $5,200 in 1950. Brown paid $320 interest on a home-purchasing loan, $120 property tax, $50 in state gasoline and auto license taxes and $700 doctors' and hospital bills.

Brown can deduct only that portion of his medical expenses which exceeds five per cent of his income.

Five per cent of his $5,200 income is $260. That much of his medical expenses is not deductible but the remaining $440 is deductible.

That $440, plus the $320 interest payment, $120 property tax and $50 gasoline and auto taxes, give him a total of $930 allowable deductions. That's considerably more than 10 per cent of his $5,200 income, $520.

By itemizing his deductions instead of taking the 10 per cent allowance, Brown saves $65 in tax.

But if Brown's allowable deductions amounted to only $425, they would total less than 10 per cent of his income. By taking the 10 per cent allowance instead of itemizing deductions he would save about $16 in tax—and trouble of extra paper work!

Medical expenses include costs of dental work, eyeglasses, hearing aides and crutches, as well as doctors' and hospital bills. Also payment of nurses, including nurses' board when paid for by the taxpayer.

You can deduct amounts paid for accident or health insurance and for membership in group hospital associations. You can deduct the cost of special training in speech and lip reading.

You can deduct travel costs "essential to rendition of medical services or alleviation of a physical or mental illness." But you cannot deduct other travel expenses even if for a rest or if it benefits your health generally.

The law does not allow you to deduct as a medical expense funeral expenses or premiums on life insurance.

The earth's fertile area is estimated at about 33,000,000 square miles.

German-French Amity

An encouraging development in Germany is discerned by Leo Lania, author of "Nine Lives of Europe," who has recently returned from the Continent. He finds that the German younger generation is strongly drawn to France, and hopes for a Franco-German understandinug out of which may grow a European union. It may take some time before the French believe in the sincerity of such a movement in a country which has made three efforts to destroy French power, and came near ending French national existence. Still, if the Germans are not too easily discouraged, the presence of a greater danger may induce France to dwell less on past enmities.

A reconciliation would mend the oldest national quarrel in Europe, dating back to the Sixth Century. Then the Franks, a Germanic tribe, ruled both France and Germany, yet repeatedly split the country up so as to provide a kingdom for each of the king's sons. Reunited under Charlemagne and occassionally under his successors, Austrasia, the original territory of Germany, and Neustria, out of which France rose, steadily grew apart. The last sovereign to rule both was the weak Charles the Fat, dethroned in 887.

If a complete alliance is too much to be hoped for in the near future the two countries ought to find a way of living in friendship. Their mutual bitterness is no greater than that long prevailing between the Turks and the Greeks, who now get along harmoniously together.

Edison's Birthday

The 104th anniversary of the birth of Thomas A. Edison on February 11 will pass unobserved and generally unnoticed, and it is strange that this should be so. Edison was one of the greatest of American inventors—certainly the greatest of his time—and he constructed many foundations on which others have continued to build.

Edison invented, or brought to practicability, the electric light, the motion picture, the phonograph, the electric storage battery, and had to his credit scores of other inventions, many of which are commonly accepted conveniences of today.

It is strange that the nation fails to honor the man who contributed so greatly to modern living. Continued neglect of his memory by his countrymen cannot be explained on any rational ground. Presidents and governors issue proclamations calling attention to the birth date of figures less worthy of remembrance.

Edison's was a typical American success story. Reared in poverty, he left school after a few years and started to make his own way at a tender age. But his education, though self-acquired, was all inclusive and not confined to mechanics. His perseverance was unmatched in an era when long hours of application to the task at hand was the rule.

Thomas A. Edison occupies a niche in American history among the truly great.

New Measure Of Time

A dramatic coalition between the newest scientific discoveries and the most ancient materials is being brought about in a Yale University laboratory.

A grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to the Yale division of science is to be used for research in the ages of geological finds, with the aid of recently acquired knowledge and techniques in the field of radioactivity. A common ingredient of all organic matter is a natural radioactive carbon isotope which loses its radioactivity at a known rate. It had previously been suggested that this offered a clue to the exact age of ancient materials when of organic origin. Now discovery of exact age has become a practical possibility through the devolpment of the Geiger counter and techniques for making exact measurements of radioactivity with it.

Through this laboratory it is expected that the ages of relics containing organic materials can be fixed with precision to times as early as 15,000 years ago. This will eliminate much of the guesswork from the reconstruction of history around these relics, and may help to clear up some puzzling questions about the development of the earth and the various races which inhabit it. The better history is understood, the better the present may be understood.

Economics In Israel

With its wage level and its cost of living among the highest in the world, Israel is facing a labor crisis. A series of strikes in the metal industry has brought the situation to a head

The deadlock is a familiar one. Management asserts that wage raises can be granted only on the basis of increased productivity; labor claims that the profit margin is wide enough to allow wage increases without price rises. The continuing flood of immigrants to this haven naturally increases the demand for goods, making it seem reasonable that increased production is vitally necessary. The alternative inflation and a lower standard of living.

Such situations as this are usually resolved only by national emergencies, which demand unselfish service for labor and management alike. Israel apparently has passed the point where its survival as a nation was in doubt. A certain amount of pulling and hauling will doubtless be normal until a time when some new unified national effort becomes necessary.

Chinese Popularity

A large city department store formerly advertised a certain type of furniture as "Chinese furniture." Now "Chinese" has been dropped, and the furniture goes under another name Obviously the store fears a boycott on this type of goods if an unpopular name is attached.

Not long ago China and things Chinese were in high favor in the United States, partly, it is true, because of sympathy for China's struggles against the Japanese. Now this friendship is turning to hostility which, even if the war in Korea ceases, will do damage to China.

Mao and the Communists are responsible for this injury, which may last long. It is not an accident; they seem to want it that way.

The former safecracker who maintained a living by renting out his burglary kit learned, when the police inevitably caught up with him, that it doesn't pay to retire on merely the tools of success. Only actual accomplishments count, and in this case they were worse than worthless.

Ways and means committees in Congress are finding there are plenty of both to consider in this season.

Comfortable Working Quarters

MANY arguments in the home center about the temperature of the room. The husband wants it cooler and the wife prefers it warmer. There is no argument about who wins. Similar discussions are going on in office buildings and factories. It is a complex problem because so many factors are involved. In industry there is no definite rule except that the temperature for work and rest must be comfortable and neither so warm nor so cold as to interfere with the ability and desire to work.

In some foundries, for example, the men work so hard and wear such heavy clothing that there really is no need for added heat. But management tried to maintain a foundry of 60 degrees F. or above; otherwise when the men take their rest periods there would be danger that the warm and perspiring body would become chilled. In ordinary workrooms, air temperatures between 68 and 72 degrees F., with natural or moderate humidity, are suitable for men engaged in light work. Women prefer temperatures four degrees higher because their metabolism is lower and they wear lighter clothing.

Unpleasant drafts should be avoided but some air currents are necessary for ventilation. Air movements not exceeding 50 feet per minute generally are satisfactory. This helps to "purify" the air as well as to remove body odors and tobacco smoke. But the draft problem is one of the most difficult to solve, especially in rooms where many persons work. Those sitting near the windows are on the firing line and are being criticized by the occupants in the middle of the room. Furthermore, the trouble is not always caused by faulty ventilation. The needs of the individual vary and the man or woman most likely to suffer has poor circulation in the extremities or a deficient vasomotor system.

Much also depends upon the size of the room, the number of workers, and how active they are physically. An air change of at least 10 cubic feet per minute per person usually is sufficient assuming that some air is leaking thru the building. Mechanical ventilation is required for adequate air movement, especially when crowding exists or there is excessive heat, moisture, dirt, fumes, gases, or odors in the room.

• — • — •

In many states there is specific legislation relative to the minimum air space per worker. Proper ventilation also tends to lessen infections in crowded quarters where the number of persons occupying a given room is larger than it should be. Disease is spread from one person to another thru droplets in direct proportion to the head to head distance between occupants. Flushing the room with clean air is beneficial but defeats its purpose by stirring up dust and organisms on the floor. The best plan is to space the workers properly and modernize the ventilating system to minimize drafts.

Too high a humidity in a warm room is uncomfortable, more so when the individual is working because the air already is saturated with water, making it more difficult for perspiration to evaporate from the body surface. This rarely is a problem, however, because in the average home or apartment the humidity is low when steam heat is used. Dryness parches the membranes of the nose and throat, and many authorities are convinced that this plays a role in the increasing incidence of respiratory infections.

UNTRUE

Mrs. G. writes: Does a corsage die more quickly if worn during the mentrual period?

REPLY

No. This is an old wives' tale that stems from the days when all sorts of stories were popular concerning what occurred during the period.

FOLDS OF FLESH

Mrs. N. writes: After losing a lot of weight, I have an apron of flesh hanging from my abdomen. Can this be made to disappear thru exercises?

REPLY

No. Some shrinkage will occur in time but when the apron is large, surgery often is suggested. This procedure is similar to removing a double chin except that it is more extensive.

ABDOMINAL DISCOMFORT

Mrs. R. Writes: I am 50 years old and have a spastic colon and diverticulitis. I am miserable. Do you think I will ever feel well again?

REPLY

Both of these conditions are common and are more annoying than serious. Many sufferers have obtained relief by learning not to take life too seriously. These persons have discovered that whenever the bowel flared up this was a sign that they were doing too much work or permitting anxiety to get the upper hand.

DOMINANT SIDE

L. J. writes: Could a right handed person have a dominant left eye?

REPLY

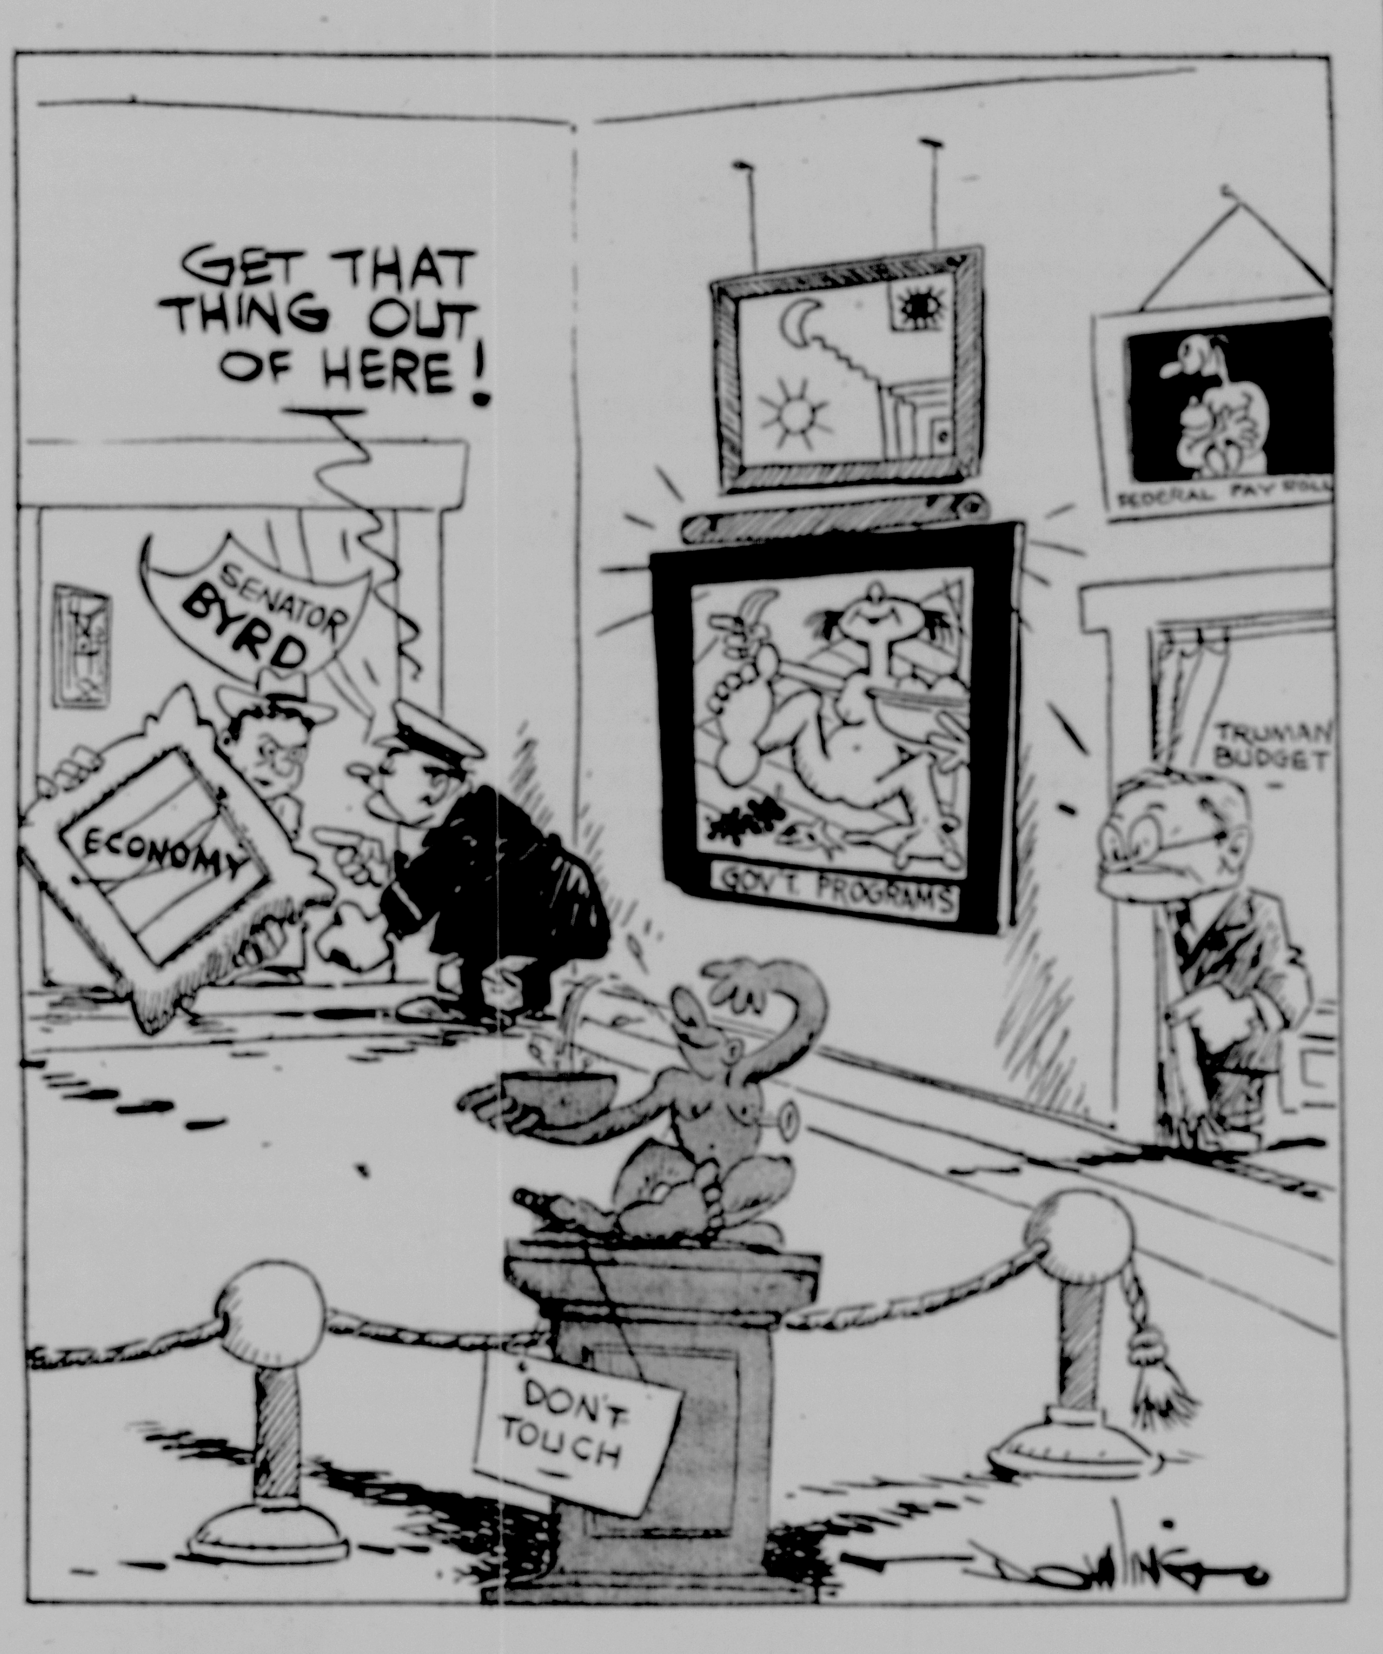
HIS LIFE'S WORK



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Eisenhower Wins Congress To His Corner; Ike Embarrassed By Gen. Gruenther; House Doorkeeper "Takes Care Of" His Stepmother-In-Law.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Almost as interesting as the military secrets he revealed—which cannot be told—was the human side of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as he briefed the House Armed Services and Foreign Affairs committees on his recent trip to Europe.

Ike impressed congressmen with his honesty and humility during the closed-door session. There wasn't a member present—Democrat or Republican—who wasn't solidly in his corner when it was over.

Probably the best compliment was paid by articulate Carl Vinson of Georgia, House Armed Services chairman, who didn't open his mouth once during the entire meeting. As one congressman remarked: "A guy has to be good to make Carl, who dominates all our meetings, take a back seat."

Eisenhower reported that Europeans generally were "determined" to fight communism, with our help, but he added that we should not adopt a "mendicant attitude" toward Germany or any other nation, as though they are doing us a favor by fighting their own battles against Soviet aggression.

"I'm the kind of guy who would rather go down with my flag nailed to the masthead, fighting for what I believe in," he emphasized. "Those we are helping must show the same spirit."

Ike also told the closed-door meeting that Marshal Zhukov, former Soviet commandant in Berlin, was in bad with the Kremlin, apparently because of a too-friendly attitude toward Western powers.

"Back in the days when I knew him, Zhukov was hand-in-glove with Stalin," Eisenhower said. "But the last I heard of him, he was riding around in an old Ford that could use a repair job."

While Ike was stressing the importance of sea and air power, GOP Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee inquired if he wasn't "minimizing" the importance of the foot soldier.

"I don't want to be understood at any time as minimizing the responsibility and ability of the doughboy," Eisenhower replied quickly. "No fight has ever been won without him. The Air Force and the Navy get the cheers, but the doughboys get the white crosses in the ground."

At one point when he felt that he was growing peachy, Ike grinned: "If I should philosophical, just remember that I have been a college president."

But he didn't sound like a college president a moment later, when, stressing the importance of unity with our European allies, he said:

"We'd be in a hell of a fix—"

Then he apologized to Congresswomen Frances Bolton of Ohio and Edna Kelly of New York.

One congressman, alluding to Ike's statement that the European people were "determined" to carry on the fight against communism, asked him the reason. Chief of Staff General Alfred Gruenther broke in to answer the question.

"Ike himself is chiefly responsible," he said. "He sold the Europeans on the idea that we couldn't help them much unless they had the will to fight for their own salvation."

"That's the first time in my life that a Chief of Staff has ever embarrassed me," commented Eisenhower.

CAPITOL LOWDOWN — House doorkeeper "Fishbait" Miller, who is also in charge of the House "folding room," has an interesting way of taking care of his stepmother-in-law. He places her on the folding-room payroll and lets Uncle Sam foot the bill. If Fishbait does this for his stepmother-in-law, wonder what he does for his closer relatives? (The "folding room" sends out literature, franked mail, etc., to congressmen's constituents.) . . . Though H. S. T. has Bernie Baruch on the presidential black list, Baruch still has plenty of power in Washington. Two of his closest friends, Gen. Lucius Clay and Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, have key defense jobs, while Baruch also cracks the whip occasionally over Mobilization Czar Charles E. Wilson . . . Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle got a bit miffed at first when Price Potentate Mike Di Salle told a congressional committee: "There is such an immediate need for employes that I may even have to hire some Democrats." Boyle didn't realize Di Salle was kidding. (DiSalle claims that the actual ratio of Democrats hired is about 36 per cent against 65 per cent Republicans).

ALONG THE POTOMAC—Wartime bureaucrats are flocking back to Washington by the thousands. A quarter of a million civilians have already been added to the federal payroll and another 500,000 may be taken on by 1952 . . . The kicking around given Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine by Jumpin' Joe McCarthy has got a lot of senators sore. Byrd of Virginia gave Mrs. Smith pointed support by publicy praising her views on economy, while Pat McCarran of Nevada told GOP Leader Wherry: "I would like very much to have Mrs. Smith as a member of my committee investigating subversives." . . . . Constantine Brown, the Washington Star's foreign editor, has gone in for domestic kingmaking. He has been conferring with Dolores Bridges, wife of the New Hampshire senator, on ways and means of kicking out genial Guy Gabrielson as chairman of the Republican National Committee. . . . Sen. Bob Taft tells friends that McCarthy's Senate speeches are chiefly for the purpose of garnering more lecture engagements. Joe's fee has now gone up to $1,000. . . . The White House picked one of the toughest lawyers in the East to enforce price control—"Jiggs" Donohue, the man who convicted Harry Bridges of perjury. Prediction: There'll be less black marketing this time than last.

BACKSTAGE WITH THE DIPLOMATS—Dean Acheson has been sore as blazes at the British, especially Foreign Minister Bevin, for hanging back on citing Red China for aggression. In one off-record session, Acheson exploded: "How many times do the Chinese have to say no before Bevin believes them!" . . . The Red Chinese in Peiping have suddenly started courting British and Swedish diplomats. The Chinese invite them to dinners and receptions where the following line is dished out: "There is no reason why China can't be friends with Britain and Sweden if only you will stop being friends with those atrocious Americans." . . . The Kremlin has refused to accept the appointment of Shenor Zalan Shazar as new ambassador from Israel. The Soviet Foreign Office gave no reason but the American Embassy says Shazar is not wanted because he was once a Zionist leader in Russia and is suspected of wanting to return as a spy. . . . Acheson is telling friends that he will never resign under fire—no matter how bitterly Senator McCarthy and other GOPsters attack him. Acheson is confident the American people eventually will realize how unfair these attacks are and that his policies will finally be vindicated while men like McCarthy will go down in history as malicious crackpots.

Truman Campaign Appeals May Be Abetting Inflation

By MARK SULLIVAN

FEBRUARY 1 was a landmark date in our foreign relations, in the sense that momentous decision was in the making. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower had just returned from an extremely important mission to Europe, taken to acquire facts and judgment, and on that day reported to Congress. Congress and the country were seeking to come to a decision between two schools of thought on what was at the moment a crucial question, the extent to which we should give military aid to the countries of Western Europe.

By somber coincidence February 1 was an important date in our most threatening domestic problem also, inflation. Just a week before the Administration, seeking to arrest inflation, had announced imposition of ceilings on prices and wages; agencies to fix the ceilings and enforce them were getting under way in Washington and throughout the country. Into this beginning of the arrest of inflation came threat of more of it.

Railroad workers on a large number of systems had struck on an issue described as 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. That phrasing is almost an automatic formula for inflation, it means increase of purchasing power without corresponding increase of goods. Besides that, and to the same effect, interruption of transportation meant reduced production of goods, in practically all lines. As nearly as the basic cause of inflation can be expressed, it is increase of purchasing power, of money, without corresponding increase of goods.

The railroad strike of the last week in January was disturbing of itself and also symbolically. There had been strikes and threats of strike in many industries during seven months preceding. And these seven months, going back to the outbreak in Korea, June 26, composed a definite period. How the period would be made use of would go far toward determining the country's fate.

From the beginning it was plain there would be war in Korea and need of preparedness against greater war. It was plain also that the country's economy must be mobilized in a way which, unless controlled, would bring danger of extreme inflation. President Truman recognized this and said it to the country with the utmost seriousness. A few steps were taken, chiefly ones that restricted credit. But Mr. Truman recognized the need for other controls also and during July asked Congress for them. Congress granted the controls, in the Defense Production Act of September 12. From that date on Mr. Truman had a large accountability. He had knowledge of the need for the controls as earnestly expressed by himself and had authority to set up the controls. They were not set up until the last week in January.

Mr. Truman can hardly feel justly aggrieved if there is reproach for the delay on the part of political opponents, and others besides, together with search for motives or surmise about them. Surmise and accusation start from a coincidence in time; the period during which

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6—Lots of bungling occurred in handling the negotiations leading up to the present railroad strike—and an inquiry should certainly be made, irrespective of the ending of the work stoppage this week.

The record discloses that there is a serious defect in labor-management relations on the railroads and a much more serious defect in the way governmental influence is exerted once a crisis arises.

The public is entitled to a thorough study of what has happened. It could lead to legislation to protect the public interest. It could lead to better machinery for mediation or arbitration. But certainly the utter indifference of the Congress of the United States is inexplicable except on the theory that the politicians are afraid of the punitive power of a railroad labor union and hence they shy away from any action whatsoever.

There are some, of course, who have spoken out bluntly and among these is Senator Wayne Morse, Republican, of Oregon, a former member of the War Labor Board, who refers to the "sickness" excuse for the stoppage as a dishonest strike.

The Oregon Senator believes the government might have long before this interposed its influence to bring the parties together and to avoid the interruptions of rail service.

But the fact is the government has meddled with the problem and the machinery provided already by the Railway Labor Act has been utilized, and still the parties do not agree. To understand what had been going on it is necessary to examine a chronological record of the important steps in the controversy:

March 1949—Beginning of formal demands for a 40-hour week at the same pay as 48 hours of work, and filing of demands for other increases in pay for various groups of rail workers.

August 4, 1950 — No agreement after nearly 18 months of bickering, and then a request from President Kennedy of the railroad trainmen that the government take over the railroads.

August 27 — President Truman puts the railroads under the Army. Assurances are given by the union chiefs that the union members will work for the government. This was followed by a series of conferences at the White House, but no joint meetings of labor and management.

December 14 — Beginning of a "wildcat" strike, with sickness as the excuse.

December 21 — Memorandum handed to railroad executives and union chiefs at the White House by John R. Steelman, assistant to President Truman. Memorandum was signed by railroad presidents and by the four presidents of the railroad labor unions.

January 7, 1951—All four general chairmen of committees of the rail unions rejected the agreement made by their presidents at the White House.

January 18—Another meeting at the White House with Mr. Steelman, who turned the matter over to the National Mediation Board.

February 1 — "Wildcat" strikes begin anew and spread for several days.

February 2—White House claims that the union presidents did not fully explain the December 21 memorandum to their respective committees and "that they now say they had no intention of recommending it, thereby indicating that they signed it in bad faith." Union chiefs concede they did not recommend the ratification of the memorandum, which on January 7 they characterized as "inadequate and unjust."

February 3—First joint meeting in several months, with rail carriers and union chiefs sitting down together at the White House.

Many Questions Arise

Now it will be asked why, if the communication of the results of the earlier conferences and the meaning of the December 21 memorandum was unsatisfactory, some better means was not devised. Why didn't the government, which was operating the railroads, ask for an opportunity to speak to the rank and file of the workers and explain the agreement? Why were the union chiefs not requested on January 7 to explain to the government their reasons for rejecting something they had signed—and if they signed it under some misapprehension as to its binding character, how did such a misunderstanding arise?

Above all, it seems absurd that better machinery for settling a major dispute cannot be developed. Certainly in a time of crisis the weaknesses in existing statutes cause heavier damage than in normal times. When the government takes over a property, are the workers employes of the government? There needs to be a clarification on this point lest the whole theory of seizure be rendered useless in emergencies.

The rail strike has inflicted hundreds of millions of dollars of damage to innocent bystanders. But, what's more, it has injured the prestige of some of the oldest and best of America's labor unions. Are the leaders aware of the damage they have done to the cause of organized labor by the hollow excuse of "sickness"? Somebody in the rail unions has bungled, too.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The 22nd Amendment

REMARKABLE HEADWAY has been made for the ratification of the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. This amendment provides:

"Section 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of President more than once. But this article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this article becomes operative from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

"Section 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission to the states by the Congress."

The two-term tradition for the presidency served this country well from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt. The latter managed to violate the tradition, probably as much because the Republican party deserted its principles and nominated an unacceptable candidate for the 1940 election. Mr. Roosevelt was elected to a third term: thus being enabled to prolong his private bureaucracy and to pursue policies which burdened our land with war, debt, high taxes, traitors and a creeping socialism.

Roosevelt, a dying man, was elected for a fourth term. He went to Yalta and there agreed to arrangements with Stalin which have brought upon this land the Korean War, mobilization for World War III and an isolationism not of our will or making.

It needs to be noted, in justice, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was extraordinarily popular as a person and remains so, after his death and in spite of the evidence. Roosevelt's fourth term also gave us Harry Truman, an inadequately educated and experienced man who was catapulted into the presidency, the functions of which office and its relations to Congress he has never understood.

The Twenty-Second Amendment was submitted to the states for ratification on March 26, 1947. By its own terms, it must be ratified by March 26, 1954, by three-quarters of the states.

Already, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming have ratified this amendment.

That means that more than half the states of the union have ratified this amendment. Should an additional ten states ratify this year, it would make a total of 36 states and the amendment would be binding.

It is astonishing, in view of public opinion, that such states as Oklahoma, Texas, Montana and South Carolina have failed to ratify this amendment. Massachusetts and Maryland are also among the missing. Utah, which defeated Senator Elbert Thomas, ought to go along with a limitation on the presidency.

The amendment has already been passed by two-thirds of the House of Representatives and the Senate. It comes, in accordance with Constitutional provisions, automatically into effect, if ratified by three-

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

FELLOWSHIP WITH GOD

Jesus' Fellowship with His Father

Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit...to be tempted of the devil. Matthew 4:1. Read Luke 4:1 — 15.

The time for definite action had arrived, but before Jesus could blow the trumpet he had to plan the campaign. He had to think over the challenging Jordan experience, to be sure of its meaning to him. It was not a conflict of doubt concerning the discovery of himself, but a time of uncertainty as to the path he should take. He knew that God meant to triumph, and that all the ugliness of evil represented by "the devil" would pass away as a hideous dream just as soon as the world's heart could feel the awakening touch of love.

Feed the people, do the spectacular things, fall down and worship the Spirit of the World? By easy strides Jesus could climb to the world's throne by the world's ways. But to paraphrase Rousseau's famous line, if Plato thought like a philosopher, Jesus Christ thought like God.

Jesus was perfectly willing to die for the something that would last — a community of souls loyal to truth, faithful to the good, and dedicated to love and justice.

Let Us Pray: Our father, teach us the law of spiritual power, and when we have found it let nothing turn us aside. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

"Pencil Point" Dresses, "Illusion" Coats Among New Spring Fashions

PARIS (AP)—Slender "pencil point" dresses that get narrower towards the hemline, wide lapels and "illusion" coats were among the spring fashions displayed this week by Robert Piguet.

The "illusion" coats looked like a suit from the front view and a loose box coat from the back. They were simple belted jackets that had panels falling loose from the shoulders at the back.

His outsize lapels—only one lapel to each model—were shown on narrow box coats, and tight waisted coat-dresses. His suit jackets are given the same treatment.

Most of the lapels are in glazed white linen but one coat-dress in black faille had its lapel in white spotted taffeta to match gloves worn with it.

Like Belmain, Piguet also shows crinoline dresses for day and evening wear. By means of stiffening and very pliable whaleboning, he makes them a little more supple looking than the hooped variety.

For evening he showed a frilled crinoline in white nylon. To illustrate how pliable it was, the mannequin wearing it carried a small packet in which the dress could be packed.

Piguet's "pencil point" line was seen on very slender tunic and mock-tunic dresses.

The mock-tunic numbers looked like plain, slim dresses from the back but had two stiff panels falling from the waist to evoke the look of a tunic from the front view.

He uses the "pencil point" technique for hobble evening dresses.

Fashions shown by Gres, whose designing has a sturdy reputation for making fat women look slim, were in direct contrast to those shown by other courtiers so far.

She shows a great deal of Grecian drapery in fine wool, silk jersey or chiffon. Her skirts look quite slender but in reality have blocks of fanpleats or bias fullness displaced at the back or front.

Tree Experts Visit Diseased Forest Area

Two pathologists from the University of Maryland visited the Green Ridge State Forest yesterday to check into diseases which have caused damage to a large number of white oak trees, according to William H. Johnson, district forester.

Johnson said there have been reports the white oak disease has been found in western Pennsylvania. It may have spread south to this area, he added.

A tract in which the diseased white oak trees were found in the Green Ridge State Forest has been marked and is being cut to salvage the timber.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at a nuptial mass at 9 a. m., in St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Ridgeley, Rev. Robert Kilgannon officiated. The altars were decorated with bouquets of white gladoli, surrounded with palms and candelabra of lighted tapers.

Francis Will served as Mr. Martin's best man and the ushers were John Sirna and Robert Daugherty.

The bride was attired in a white satin and lace dress fashioned with a lace bodice and long tapering sleeves, made with a net yoke. The full satin skirt ended in a short sweeping train. Her pleated veil was held by a wreath of white rosebuds. Completing her costume, she carried a white prayerbook topped with camelias and a shower of satin streamers.

Her matron of honor's pink mousseline de soie gown was made with a bertha collar and was complementary to the bride's. With it she wore matching mits and a tiny whisp of matching veiling pleated like the bride's, and held by pink rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of mixed pink flowers. Her little girls all wore floor length frocks with matching headdress and carried old fashioned nosegays. Margaret was in yellow; Mary Jo, light blue; Ines, green; Patricia, fuschia; and Mary Jane, aqua blue.

Mrs. Sirna chose a plum colored suit for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore pink accessories and a corsage of pink camelias. Mrs. Martin wore a wine colored suit with white hat and a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Ridgeley High School, attended Potomac State School. She is a graduate of Allegany Hospital School of Nursing and is employed by Dr. W. S. Wiseman.

The bridegroom is a graduate of LaSalle High School, a veteran of several years service in the Army. He attended University of Maryland and is employed as an investigator for a loan company here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sirna entertained with a wedding reception at their home following the ceremony. A three tiered wedding cake, iced in white and trimmed with pink rosebuds was adorned with the traditional miniature bride and bridegroom. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Carmelita Fleming, Mrs. Patricia Sirna, Mrs. Betty Sirna and Mrs. Vera Sirna.

For traveling the bride wore a melon colored suit with fur jacket and black hat and accessories. With it she wore her camelia corsage.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON.

A NEW industry like television invariably develops new rackets to fool the same old suckers . . . But a sparkling young woman, Sally Muchmore, of our Capital's Better Business Bureau, keeps plugging away to protect people from frauds . . . The brains of the world supposedly assemble here, but Washingtonians apparently are just as gullible as people in other towns.

AUSTINE

A real crusader in a man-size law enforcement job, pleasant, pretty, ash-blond Sally Muchmore, one of the most feared women in town, personally tracks down rackets, whether they're big or small, serious or petty . . . And, she says, "You'd be staggered at what some crooks try to, and often do, get away with!"

Sally's humbug-hounding career began as a secretary in the Better Business Bureau . . . Promoting confidence between merchant and consumer and protecting the public from swindles led her to law school. . . She studied evenings until she won her law degree . . . It's much easier to trap lawbreakers when you know the law . . . And she's trapped all kinds of bamboozlers—from a fellow selling "color television attachments" for $13.95 which turned out to be red, blue and yellow cellophane covers to fit over television screens—to trucks canvassing residential neighborhoods, selling lawn fertilizer which proved to be just plain dirt.

Hardly a week goes by that some new racket doesn't spring up in the Capital, and bring forth screams of protest that, "I've been gypped" . . . Latest involved a "television repairman" who telephoned offering expert services "to make your set work twice as good for only $1.50" . . . The smooth-talking operator would then make a visit to the home of the television owner . . . The repairman had an honest face and pleasing manner . . . He would explain that he wanted to take the set to his shop for a complete overhaul, but since he had promised he would do the job for only $1.50—that was all it would cost! . . . Why, he was losing money on the deal!

As usual, bewildered customers turned to the Washington Better Business Bureau when their TV sets and the repairman failed to show up again. . . Complaints began pouring into the Better Business Bureau from customers to whom he had also sold a $65 "Service Contract" and made off with the dough. . . The Better Business Bureau located the gyp-artist, took him before the district attorney where he promised to make good. Witnesses withdrew their complaints. He made good, all right—went back into business and made off with a couple of other TV sets!

Now they're preparing a case charging him with grand larceny and hoping to bring him back to stand trial.

When she isn't listening to complaints from some bilked citizens, or hot on the heels of some heel, smart-looking, ever-smiling Sally Muchmore enjoys a good game of golf or a romp with her four-and-a-half-year-old daughter.

From time to time she has promised to warn this column of The-Racket-of-the-Month in Washington. . . I'll keep you posted.

FLASH! BULLETIN! EXTRA! Something new has been added to an Embassy Party.

So often lazy diplomatic hostesses let local caterers dish up their buffets. . . So the unvarying shrimp on sticks, cold ham, sandwiches, etc., appear at every party, with the same old waiters passing them around . . . A taste of native food prepared by the Embassy chef would surprise the guest and better advertise the homeland. . . At the big yearly Australian party a new feature got gastronomical applause. . . Australian lobster tails, flown over for the event, were big and meaty. . . . Never tasted before in these parts. . . . Guests tore into them with Oh-h-h-h's, Ah-h-h-h's, and um-m-m-m's.

New words have sent some Senators into migraines. . . Such like: . . . Phenolics . . . Melamines . . . Polyesters. . . Polystyrenes and Polyethylenes. . .

Hate to disappoint you but those words mean nothing eyebrow-raising. . . They were first heard by the Senators while listening to witnesses from the plastic industry testifying for one of the committees. . . Stenographers really had a tough time taking the minutes.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

"LOOK HOW those models glide! Wish I could walk like that," said a feminine voice behind me at a recent fashion opening. "If you'll just step outside a moment, madam, I can show you how in seconds," was what I wanted to turn around and say. Showing is easy—but doing is quite something else.

Even when you know the rules for glide-walking, you cannot make your body follow them unless your legs are in as good condition as well-oiled and adjusted machinery. Daily deep-knee bends, tiptoe walking and ankle rotating are the conditioners—and (please note) part of every smooth-moving model's habitual exercise routine.

Model Routine

Why not make them part of yours? The name of the exercises tells you all you need to know: Deep-bend your knees and sink to the floor; walk, shoeless, around your room on tiptoes; sit on a chair and rotate your ankles outward.

Soon your legs and feet will be ready and able to obey your commands to glide. Then you must start teaching them what not to do. When you've taken all the "what-nots" out of your walk, which bad habits have put there, you will find that you are gliding with the natural grace with which you were born.

No. 1 on the what-not list is never to let your heel strike the ground heavily. It should simply skim the floor as your weight rolls from it through the center of your foot to the toes.

Glide — Don't Slide!

2. Never slide your feet along the floor. Pick each foot up between steps. This is the main difference between ballroom dancing and walking, and why the practice of one improves the other.

3. Never stiffen your knees. Keep them flexed like a cushiony spring.

4. Never let self-consciousness creep into your walk.

Graceful movement is only part of the lovely performance an experienced model gives. The rest is a matter of poise. She controls her mental attitude so that in public she neither shows off nor shows embarrassment. When you come right down to it, this is the charming attribute of charming women everywhere.

Circuit Court Judges Ask For Raise In Jurors Mileage Pay

Also Favor Change In Jury Drawing

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris of Allegany County Circuit Court have made two recommendations to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county delegation to the General Assembly, on changes in the rate of mileage to persons serving on juries and the method in drawing the grand and petit jurors.

A letter listing the recommendations was also sent to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for its consideration. Members of the Board today expressed themselves as in favor of the changes requested by the court.

Under the present system persons drawn for jury duty and who live outside the city limits of Cumberland are allowed mileage for only one trip during the court term under the state law.

Asks Daily Mileage

Judges Henderson and Harris suggest that the original Allegany county law be re-enacted and jurors be paid 10 cents per mile for each day they serve on the jury. It was pointed out that the additional mileage payments would cost the county about $500 each jury term.

It was also pointed out that a juror living in Westernport must pay $1.40 each day for bus fare, thus his net pay for the day's service is only $3.60 as contrasted to the $5 a Cumberlander receives. The Westernport juror also has the additional disadvantage of having to spend more time on the road coming and returning. The unfairness of this arrangement is commented upon at each term of court, the jurists stated.

The court stated they are leaving the final decision as to the per diem pay for the jurors to the legislators. Each $1 increase in the pay rate for jurors would cost approximately $500 each of the three jury terms of court, it was added. This is based on the figures of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden on the average number of days each juror attends court.

Favor Change in Drawing

The second change is with reference to the method of drawing the jury. Under the law the names of 200 persons are put into the jury box by the judges. These names are taken from the voting precincts, each precinct having representation based on its voting population.

From these names 48 are drawn, all of whom are required to attend court on the opening day of court. When court is assembled on the first day of the term, the foreman is announced, and then 22 other names are drawn. This constitutes the grand jury and it immediately proceeds with its duties.

The other 25 men constitute the petit jury and are then excused until later on in the term, usually the third Monday of the term when the criminal docket starts. Of course, the 25 petit jurors are paid for the opening day of court, so the county pays out a total of $125 without receiving any services from the petit jury.

Suggest Garrett System

The court suggested the Garrett county system be used. The names of 48 jurors are drawn there and the court selects a foreman from the list. Then the 22 top men on this list comprises the grand jury. The grand jury is summoned for the opening day of court and the other 25 persons on the list report at a later date. This saves the county $125.

In addition, there is another advantage in that men know at once whether they are on the grand or petit juries. Most men can sacrifice three to six days service on the grand jury. But many in Allegany county, as soon as they are drawn, ask to be excused from service because they think petit jury service will entail a great deal of time. Therefore, many of them request to be excused although they would not do so if they knew they would only serve on the grand jury.

A copy of the letter was also sent to State Senator Robert B. Kimble. The court has requested Dr. Horace E. Flack, director of the department of legislative reference, to send drafts of the proposed changes in the law for the court to check prior to asking for introduction of the measure.

City Sewage Case Demurrer Upheld By Judge Henderson

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday filed an opinion sustaining the demurrer of the Mayor and City Council against a suit filed by Meyer W. (Kayo) Christner.

The court order grants 15 days in which Christner can file an amended declaration. Christner filed a damage suit against the city as a result of a defective sewer, which he alleged damaged his property on Virginia Avenue. He conducts a bowling alley.

The opinion stated that the demurrer in this case was based on the failure of the declaration to allege that the blocking of the sewer (which caused it to back up and overflow and damage the plaintiff's property) was actually known to the mayor or city engineer at least 24 hours prior to the occurrence of the damage, or that they were notified in writing of the defect in the sewer at least 24 hours prior to the damage.

The city charter makes this condition precedent "before the City of Cumberland shall be liable for damages."

It has been decided by the Court of Appeals of Maryland that this provision of the city charter is constitutional, and that there can be no recovery unless there is actual or written notice.

It was argued on behalf of the plaintiff that in this case the damage was caused by a defective sewer, and that the section referred to above applies only to a defect in "any public street, highway or grounds."

But the wording of the section applies also to a defect in "any public work of the city."

"This is certainly broad enough to include a defect in a sewer," Judge Henderson ruled.

NEW MEDICAL PLAN SET BY INSURANCE FIRM

A new medical care plan will be offered policy holders of the Reserve Life Insurance Co. as the result of its two day meeting of Regional State and Local Managers of the Firm's hospitalization department. The meeting which closed Wednesday, was to introduce to the sales organization, a new series of policies including a new plan providing payment of doctors' bills for medical care at home, in the doctor's office or in the hospital. The group was told that Reserve Life's premium income for 1950 was approximately $23,000,000. The company currently is receiving more than $2,000,000 a month at the home office.

South End Business Men Attack City Smoke Program

Say Cost Has Not Been Justified

Results of Cumberland's smoke abatement program have not been sufficient to warrant the money expended in the past two years, the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association claims.

Meeting Monday at Grace Methodist Church, the group went on record unanimously as believing that because of the money expended, as compared to results obtained, the organization should hold the matter open to future discussion.

The action came during an open forum by members on the effectiveness of the local smoke control program headed by George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer.

The group pointed out, in looking at the money question, that $8,188.68 had been spent from April 1, 1948 to June 30, 1949; a total of $10,085.50 from July 1, 1949 to June 30, 1950; and that $10,500 has been appropriated for the department for the current fiscal year.

Formation of the West Side Improvement Association, in which several of the South End group's members are participants, was discussed and it was decided that coordinated action between the two organizations is consistent with the public interest. The businessmen felt, a spokesman said, that their group should support the West Side organization.

Members taking part in the forum agreed that the major offenders under the smoke ordinance are not railroad engines but stationary installations which apparently are not properly fired.

Considerable discussion was held with respect to specific instances in the permanent installations. It was suggested that association members report violators and the association consolidate information in a review to the Mayor and Council.

Pittsburgh's smoke ordinance was scrutinized and the stringency of the Pennsylvania city's ordinance regarding fuel was emphasized. The group said Cumberland's ordinance has no clause in regard to fuel.

The South End group said many home owners unnecessarily waste coal in the use of stokers, causing excessive smoke because "they do not know how to regulate the mechanism."

The thought was expressed, a spokesman said, that education along this line by the Smoke Abatement Department, would curtail home smoke conditions as well as result in a fuel-saving for home owners.

Charitable Aid Asked By County

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has requested the Allegany county delegation to the General Assembly to amend the present law pertaining to donations to charitable groups so as to include the Allegany County Arthritis and Rheumatic Fever Association.

A total of $5,000 is set aside in the budget each year to provide donations for the Allegany County League of Crippled Children (which gets $1,000 mandatorily), the Red Cross, Cancer Fund, Cumberland Community Chest and others.

The balance of the $5,000, after the League for Crippled Children is given $1,000, is divided among the other agencies.

The board also received a financial report from the Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company covering the period from September, 1948, to October, 1950.

All of the volunteer fire companies have been asked to make this report to the board in writing. The companies have requested an increase of $200 each in view of the rising cost of equipment and materials.

The Bedford Road company spent a total of $4,224.81 during the period, and $2,733.52 of the amount was for new equipment. Repairs and maintenance to buildings was $853.02. The report was signed by W. E. Lawyer, fire company president.

'Weaving' Sailor Blames Exam

BALTIMORE, (AP)—John Mingels, a six-foot-six marine engineer, just back from Korea, had his shore leave interrupted for a few hours so he could collect his thoughts in jail

Patrolman James Stefan told Magistrate James R. Cadden he saw the big engineer "weaving" at a downtown corner after he was turned down by a cab and a Turkish bath establishment.

"That's bad," Magistrate Cadden said, referring to the charge of drunkenness.

It wasn't that, explained Mingels. It was because he had taken a check-up proficiency exam during the morning.

"This exam, your honor, is very tiresome," he added. "It makes you feel sort of drunk. Figure, figure, figure, is all you do."

"Are you sure you didn't make a stop after you took the exam?" the magistrate asked.

No, sir, not Mingels.

"Not even for a little nip?"

"No, sir," declared the sailor. "It's the figuring that makes you dizzy."

"That must have been a tough exam, drunk or sober," Magistrate Cadden said. "You'd better not take it anymore."

"I won't have to, not for five years," answered Mingels.

"Then you can go as soon as you've assembled your thoughts," said the judge. He suspended a $1 fine and costs.

Belfoure Appeal Case Scheduled For Today

A hearing in the appeal of Edward J. Belfoure, proprietor of the Hi-Dee Club, 138 North Mechanic Street, from a fine of $150 imposed in Police Court, is scheduled today tomorrow in Circuit Court.

Belfoure was fined in Police Court for the sale of intoxicants to minors.

Area Chain Store Workers Receive Raise In Pay Scale

A contract has been signed between Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, AFL, and Meat Cutters Union, Local 322, AFL, and the American Stores Company for a wage raise for approximately 75 employes in the firm's stores in Cumberland, Frostburg, Lonaconing, Westernport and Piedmont, W. Va.

C. E. Stutzman, union business agent, said the increased wages are based upon weekly gross income of the stores. Workers in stores with a gross income up to $3,000 will receive $1 per week pay increase retroactive to January 20 and an additional $2 on April 1.

Stores which do from $3,000 to $8,000 business will pay workers $2 retroactive to January 20 and an additional $3 on April 1. In stores with over $8,000 gross income workers will receive $3 weekly retroactive to January 20 and an addtional $2 on April 1.

Stutzman also reported that truck drivers and warehousemen employed by the Kenneweg Company, C. D. Kenny Company, Piedmont Grocery Company and the Pritchard Company met last night at Trades Council Hall, Frederick Street, to act on a $2 wage offer by the firms.

Today at 2 p. m. a field examiner of the National Labor Relations Board will meet at the office of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, to interview Stutzman on charges of the union against the Ort Brothers Bakery.

The field examiner will check evidence produced by Stutzman against the bakery on charges of unfair labor practices. The data will then be submitted to the regional NLRB for action. The facts in the case will determine if a hearing on the charges will be ordered.

County Supports Assessment Plan

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday sent a telegram to Clarence E. Tyler, legal representative of the State Association of County Commissioners, in which it unanimously supported the proposed three-year cycle of assessing property.

Under the present system the cycle extends over a five-year period. One fifth of the county is assessed each year under this setup.

The board commented that even if the legislature changes the present system to the three-year plan it would not go into effect until 1954.

As explained yesterday by the board, the assesembling would be done over a three-year period and then at the end of that time all changes in assesments would be placed on the tax books.

All other provisions of the present law would be retained.

The area of the Baltic sea is 160,000 square miles. It has a great influx of fresh water, and so contains proportionally little salt.

Thaws Will Pose Serious Threat To Allied Forces

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—The coming spring thaws pose a serious future threat to the United Nations advance in Korea.

The predominantly American U. N. army is highly mechanized. It is fighting in an area whose dirt roads are narrow and bounded by rice fields or hills which make broadening difficult.

Engineers compare the road network with rural Southern Virginia or Northern North Carolina.

Even with the earth frozen, the huge self-propelled 155-millimeter guns, Pershing and British Centurion tanks and other large vehicles have trouble maneuvering over the roads.

Somewhere between the last week of February and the end of March, the spring thaw is expected, engineer officers report.

Temporary thaws have given a preview of what is to come. Jeeps sank axle deep in mud on main supply routes. The real thaw will almost certainly slow down mechanized supply lines. Tank and self-propelled gun movements will be limited sharply.

River beds pose one of the sharpest threats. Permanent bridges were long since blown up in the fighting. Now some nearly dry rivers are crossed only by fords. When the thaws come, those rivers will be torrents. They must be bridged in the next few weeks.

"The situation is serious but not as bad as might appear," said Maj. Harvey Whitehouse of Columbus, Ohio, an assistant division engineer. He explained that divisional engineers can keep their own forward divisional area road net working provided there are sufficent corps and army engineers to take care of the rear.

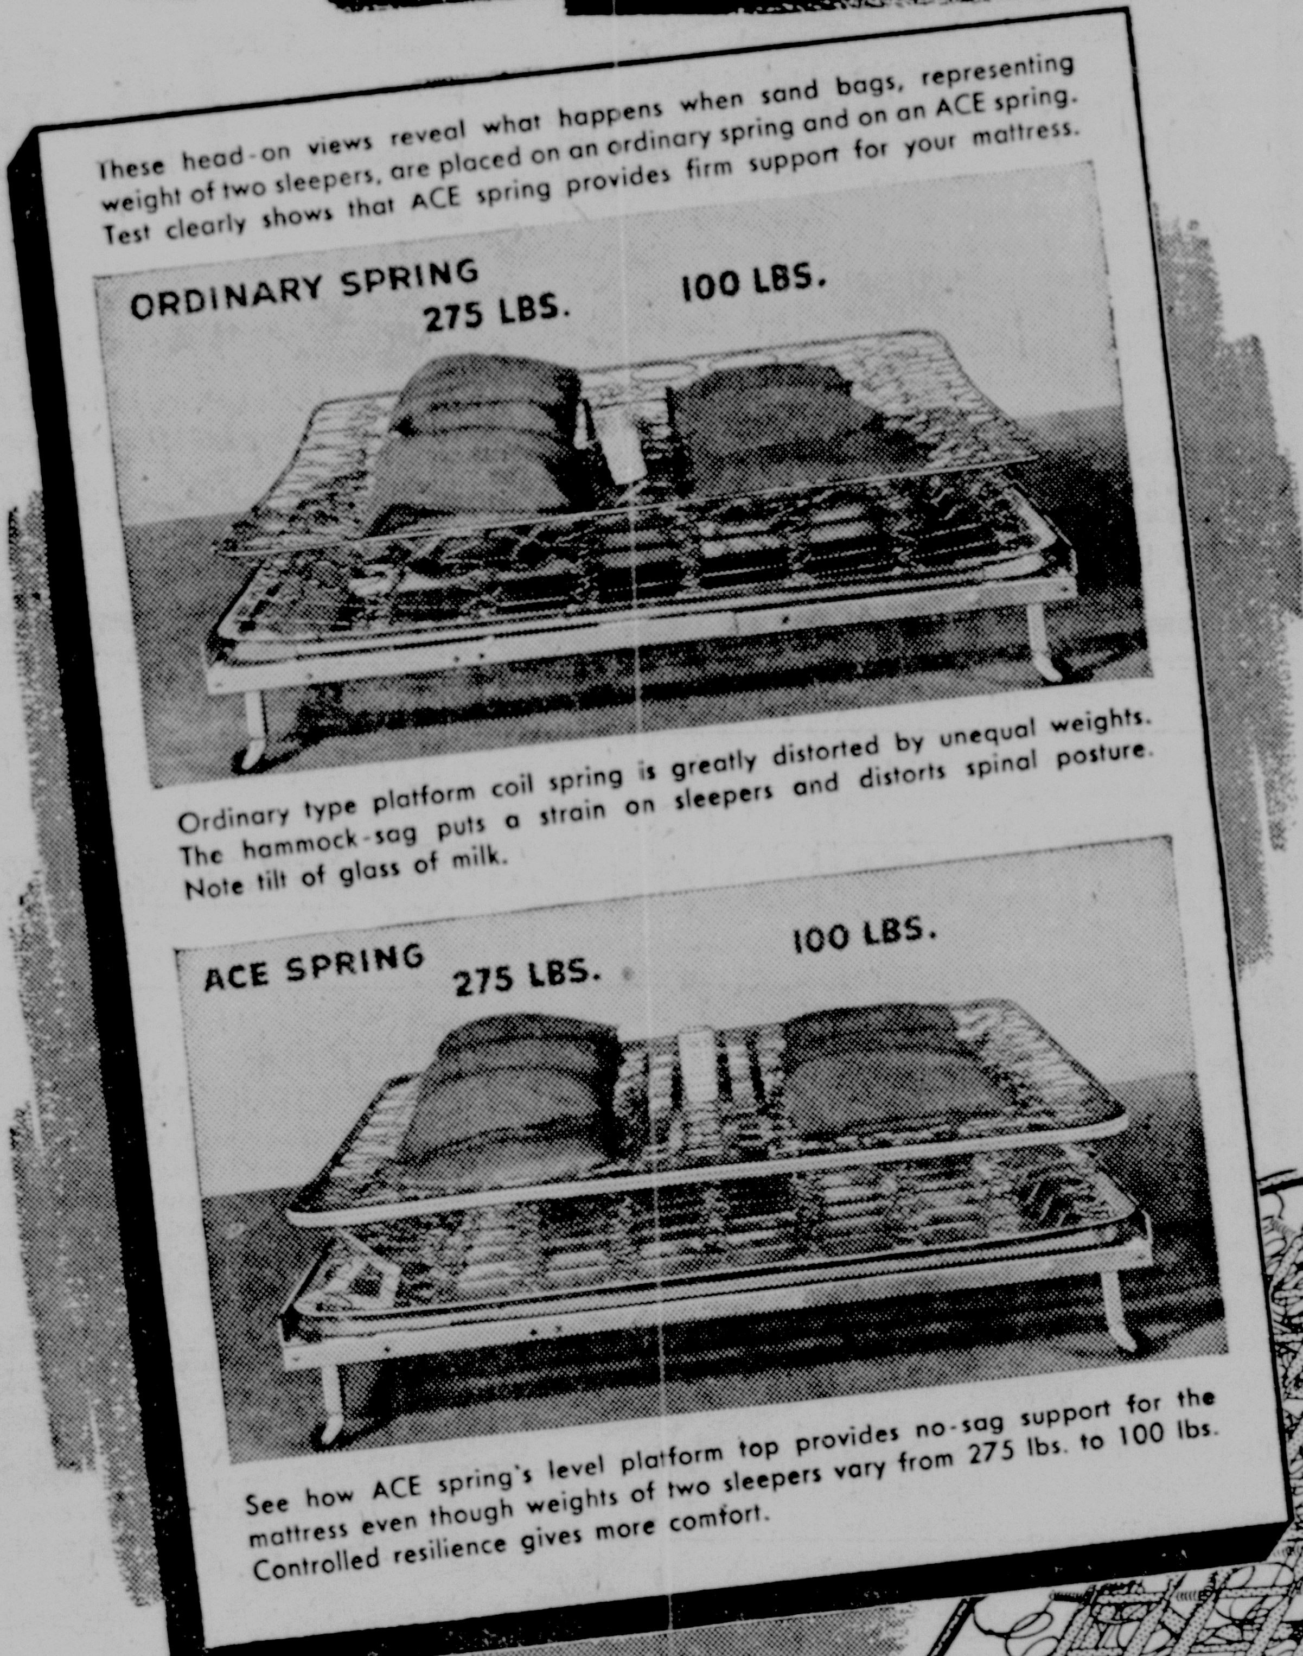
LB SAND BAG TEST SHOWS WHY ACE SPRING GIVES YOU MORE COMFORT

These head-on views reveal what happens when sand bags, representing weight of two sleepers, are placed on an ordinary spring and on an ACE spring. Test clearly shows that ACE spring provides firm support for your mattress.



Ordinary type platform coil spring is greatly distorted by unequal weights. The hammock-sag puts a strain on sleepers and distorts spinal posture. Note tilt of glass of milk.

See how ACE spring's level platform top provides no-sag support for the mattress even though weights of two sleepers vary from 275 lbs. to 100 lbs. Controlled resilience gives more comfort.

LaSalle led at the quarter, 11-6, trailed by four points at halftime, 22-18, and the margin swelled to 10 points as the third quarter ended 36-26.

Schley Lyons and Lynn Beightol were the chief scorers for the Sentinels with 17 and 14 points. Lyons with six goals and 5-5 fouls collected 14 of his 17 markers in the final period. Beightol scored four doubledeckers and meshed six of seven free throws.

Jim Moran was LaSalle's main scorer with an even dozen points. Paul Ackerman had nine and Marty Mullaney eight.

Drills Start In April, 76 Members Hear Hoey

Seventy-six members of the Hot Stove League were present in the recreation room of the Cumberland Brewing Company last night to hear City Recreation Director Edmund Hoey tell what has been accomplished to date in organization of the baseball circuit for thirteen and fourteen year old boys for the coming season.

Hoey reported that all Little League graduates will be assigned to teams within the next few weeks when managers will draft players in that classification. All fourteen year olds and thirteen year olds who did not play in the Little League will report for spring practice in April and a draft of players in this classification will be made by May 1.

League play will start about the middle of May on a modified basis so as not to interfere with school, and as soon as school is out the program will be accellerated so that each team will play at least two games per week.

The City Rec Department has received two hundred and twelve applications from boys who wish to play in the league and expect to receive at least one hundred more.

Five of the eight team sponsoring service clubs delivered checks covering the expense of equipping their teams, leaving three sponsors who have agreed to deliver their checks this week.

Two baseball films were shown depicting the major league stars of the infield performing at their respective positions.

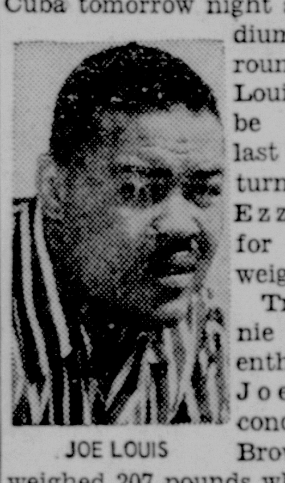
Louis To Face Cuban Heavy At Miami Tonight

Seamon Expects Joe To Kayo Agramonte

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)— Joe Louis meets Omelio Agramonte of Cuba tomorrow night at Miami stadium in a ten-round fight that Louis hopes will be the next-to-last before the return battle with Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title.



JOE LOUIS

Trainer Mannie Seaman was enthusiastic about Joe's physical condition. The Brown Bomber weighed 207 pounds when he finished his heavy training yesterday.

Seamon said Louis was "trained to go one round or 10, but he'll try to knock out Agramonte quick."

The ex-heavyweight champ meets Andy Walker in San Francisco Feb. 23 and says he would like another crack at Charles in March because he's "as ready as I'll ever be" for the title fight.

That was surprising to Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker who arrived here Saturday.

"Charles don't want Louis until September," Weill said. "Ezzard is fighting Jersey Joe Walcott at Detroit and we've mapped out a fight for Charles with Joey Maxim in Chicago around June."

But, after thinking it over, Weill added: "We'll let Charles decide it. After all, he's the champion, and if he wants Louis, we'll be willing to put it on in March, April or May."

Despite rainy weather the past two days, promoters of the Louis-Agramonte fight were forecasting an attendance of 15,000 and a gross gate of $50,000. The fight will not be broadcast or televised.

Rinehart Slated For Racing Post

Washington Countian Will Replace Dulin

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — It was reported today that Governor McKeldin will appoint D. Eldred Rinehart of Washington County to the State Racing Commission.

Rinehart, it was said, will replace Wilbur R. Dulin, an Anne Arundel Democrat, on July 1. Rinehart is Republican leader of Washington County and president of the Hagerstown Fair Association, operator of the half-mile track there.

Dulin was appointed to fill out the term of H. Courtenay Jenifer which expires July 1. Jenifer was moved up to chairman of the commission when Stuart Janney resigned to step into a term expiring in 1953.

Governor McKeldin also is expected to replace Jenifer as chairman in July with Frank Small, Jr., the third member of the commission.

West Virginia Whips Spiders By 76-60 Score

14 Straight Points In 4th Heat Decide

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP) —West Virginia uncorked 14 straight points in the closing moments tonight to spill Richmond 76-60 in a Southern Conference basketball game.

The Mountaineer explosion came after the surprising Spiders had cut West Virginia's edge to one point at 60-59 with three minutes and 14 seconds to play.

Mark Workman started the surge with a tip-in to make it 62-59 and added two more goals later. Jim Sottile and Ken Alessi each had two fielders in the outburst.

Workman, appearing before home town folks, led all scorers with 30 points, although he missed numerous tries close in. He thus ran his total for the year to 530 as West Virginia ran its overall record to 14-9 and its conference mark to 8-3.

Richmond, led by Wesley Brown with 16 points, saw its loop mark slip to 4-7.

National League To Play Record 209 Night Games

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP) — A week ago President Truman, in his congratulatory letter to the National League on its 75th anniversary, voiced the hope "may the sun never set on baseball."

Today, the National League announced its 1951 playing schedule containing a record number of 209 night games. The St. Louis Cardinals set the pace with 53 arclight tilts.

Nearly one third of the big league contests next season will be played at night. Together with the previously announced 197 American League tilts, a total of 406 of the 1,232 games will be played after dark.

Last year the National engaged in 205 night games to set an all-time mark. Seven were played by that circuit in 1935, the year night play was inaugurated in the majors.

The Cardinals' 53 night games at home fall one short of their record of last year when they played 54 such games.

Bowie Track Goes In Hands Of Receiver

Court Takes Action Following Petition By Stockholders

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Feb. 6 (AP)—Bowie race track was placed in receivership today by order of Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury.

The court acted on a petition by minority stockholders asserting the present Bowie management has engaged in "illegal and unlawful activities" and had misapplied corporation assets.

Judge Marbury named as receiver M. Hampton Magruder, a former Prince Georges county state's attorney and collector of internal revenue for Maryland.

Until 1947 Magruder was president of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association which operates both Bowie and Marlboro, a half-mile track.

Bowie apparently will continue to operate, but it will be managed by Magruder, who in turn will be responsible to the Prince Georges County Circuit Court.

The judge said the need for placing Bowie in immediate receivership was "unusually urgent" since the Maryland Racing Commission is considering assigning racing dates for Maryland's tracks.

The petition said the state racing commission had let it be known it would not renew Bowie's license unless L. Ed O'Hara were replaced as general manager and Mrs. Josephine O'Hara were replaced as president.

Mrs. O'Hara was elevated to the post last month at a stormy board of directors meeting in which John W. Farrell was ousted from the presidency.

The petition was filed in behalf of Farrell; Howard S. Pierce, largest single stockholder and former secretary who was let out with Farrell; Mrs. Pierce, and seven others.

The writ stressed that Bowie's financial status was sound.

"But the acts of certain officers and directors," it said, "are of such character as to amount to gross mismanagement of the business of the corporation and a misapplication of its assets to the injury of the stockholders."

Judge Marbury said normally the court would delay naming a receiver until the Bowie management was given an opportunity to show cause why such action should not be taken.

But any delay now might result in Bowie lying idle this year without racing dates or a license from the racing commission, he said. And this, he added, would invite serious harm to both the track's stockholders and Maryland taxpayers.

The petitioners contended that acts of "gross mismanagement" by the present Bowie officials included "illegal and unlawful activities in violation of the laws of Maryland and the rules, regulations and orders of the Maryland Racing Commission."

The racing commission last month turned over to the state's attorney a statement made by Bowie officials concerning alleged activities during last year's meetings. The state's attorney has said the statement probably would not be made public until the county grand jury convenes in April.

Ridgeley Meets Allegany In Series Finale Tonight

Play At Campobello, AHS Annexed Opener

Ridgeley High's busy Blackhawks will play the second of three games on their schedule for this week when they wind up their season series with Allegany High School tonight on the Campobello court at 8 o'clock.

Coach Ralph Poling's aggregation dropped a 69-60 decision at Moorefield on Monday and will play its final game of the week on Friday by meeting LaSalle on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The boys across the Potomac lost the series opener to Allegany, 56-49, beat LaSalle 50-41 and lost to Fort Hill 55-38. A win tonight would give the Mineral Countians an even break with Cumberland teams.

Ridgeley's record to date is eight wins and seven losses. Allegany has bagged six and lost eight.

Officials for tonight's game will be Bill Hahn and William "Bee" Orndorff.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games round out tonight's cage program.

Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High Elks play hosts to Capon Bridge while the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney invades Mathias to do battle with Mathias High School.

Colorful Career Of Gabby Street Ended By Death

Led St. Louis Cards To Pair Of Pennants

Gabby Street

The "Old Sarge," who served as player, manager and radio commentator during his years in the sport, died in a Joplin hospital at the age of 68.

He entered the hospital January 24 and died of a malignancy of which he had never been advised. Twice before he had fought off the same trouble, undergoing operations in 1945 and 1949. At his bedside when he died at 5:55 o'clock this morning were Mrs. Street and their two children, Marine Lieutenant Charles E. Street, Jr., and Mrs. Owen Hull of Weston, Mo.

Gabby's career included terms as manager of the two St. Louis major league teams, the Cardinals in 1930-33 and the Browns in 1938. He won pennants with the Cards in 1930 and 1931 and led them to a world series victory over the Philadelphia Athletics the latter year.

He considered those two years and his association with pitcher Walter Johnson on Washington Senator teams as the highlights of his career. The Johnson-Street combination was one of the game's great batteries.

A member of baseball's old guard, Gabby was a popular figure in diamond society from coast to coast. Early in life he chose the nickname Gabby for himself and it suited him well. He had a seemingly endless supply of baseball yarns. He was the first man to catch a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, a stunt which gained him much publicity.

Gabby broke into professional baseball with Hopkinsville, Ky. in the kitty league in 1902. After a term with Terre Haute, Ind., in 1904 he went to the majors and played with the Senators, Cincinnati Reds, Boston Braves and New York Yankees.

A weak hitter—his lifetime major league average was .208—Gabby dropped into the minors in 1913 where he played with San Francisco, Chattanooga, Nashville, Joplin, Muskogee, Okla., Augusta, Ga., Columbia, S. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

After his St. Louis Cardinals jobs, he managed San Francisco for two years in 1936 handled St. Paul in the American Association before being signed as Browns' manager in 1938. In recent years he had been broadcasting Cardinal games over a midwestern network.

Funeral plans have not been completed.

Japan Draws US Davis Cup Team

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 6 (AP) — Japan, challenging for the Davis Cup for the first time since before the war, was drawn today to face the United States in the first round of the North American Zone in the 1951 championships.

If the Japanese succeed in training a team and sending it to the U. S., it will mark the first time in exactly 30 years that the two countries have met in international tennis competition.

Back in 1921 the Japanese surprised the tennis world by playing through to the challenge round, where they lost to the American team, 5-0, at Forest Hills.

Names of the challenging countries were drawn from the kleaming Davis Cup today by Sir John Latham, chief justice of Australia.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (INS) — Sometimes we get downright discouraged trying to tell some of the sucker public how the chips are stacked against them in the fight and wrestling rackets.

And when we think of that alleged "fight" between Joe Louis and Omelio Agramonte in Miami tomorrow night we are forcibly reminded of the old saying among Broadway con men:

"Never give a sucker an even break because he wouldn't know what to do with it if he got it."

We asked Al Weill, matchmaker for the International Boxing Octopus, how he ever dug up nerve to foist this one on Miami, and his reply was:

"Say, you guys are all wet about Agramonte. He's a great fighter. Maybe he will knock Louis out. Anyhow, it will do at least $60,000."

Can you tie that? And, mind you this is the same Agramonte who had to be assured Louis would go easy on him in a four-round exhibition with the big gloves.

He also is the same Agramonte who was soundly thrashed by one Clarence Henry in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden only three weeks ago.

And Weill has the gall to insist this bird is a great fighter.

The old Joe Louis would have stopped Agramonte with one punch. Even now, as far gone as he is, Joe shouldn't let him go over three rounds.

If a rabbit like Agramonte can go the full ten heats with Joe, Joe should be made to hang up his gloves before even a mediocre pug beats his brains out.

No matter how bad the fight may be it won't worry Weill, provided it draws the $60,000 he predicted. Should the fight prove a stinkeroo, Fat will simply waive a pudgy cynical paw and say, as he has said so often before:

"Well, nobody made them pay to see it."

And then some wonder what's wrong with the fight racket.

It just occurs to us that Joe Louis might do well, since he is running a Bum Of The Month Club again, to follow Max Baer's example and become a wrestler.

We hear that Max is to get $100,000 (promoter's publicity figures) for 26 weeks on the mat.

Max should be a distinct addition to the mat game and he was often enough on the canvas to be entirely familiar there.

At that, his still magnificent physique should make him a tremendous attraction, especially to the female fans, and his hamming should be worth the price of admission.

If a neanderthal specimen like Primo Carnera can pack 'em in, Max should have the SRO sign out all the time.

Louis, too, could easily blow himself up to 250 pounds and be a distinct addition to the quote game unquote.

Maryland Harness Tracks Satisfied Oppose Separate Racing Commission

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 6 (AP) — Owners of the state's four harness tracks said today they didn't want a separate racing commission to supervise their sport.

Representatives of Rosecroft, Laurel, Ocean Downs and Baltimore Raceways said they are satisfied with administration by the present commission which regulates all Maryland horse racing.

They joined spokesmen for thoroughbred tracks and two of the present racing commissioners in asking the House Ways and Means Committee to kill a bill to name a separate harness commission.

All opponents expressed fear that squabbles between two commissions over awarding dates would jeopardize the entire sport.

The commission bill was introduced by Delegate McNulty (D-Anne Arundel) as representative of harness horse owners and trainers he said are demanding a voice in administration of their sport. McNulty and other proponents admitted at this and a previous hearing they have no specific complaints against regulation by the present commission.

"Our real objection to this bill," said Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico, "is that it is an unnecessary duplication that can do nothing but cause trouble."

He said it is difficult now with one commission to allot 230 racing days a year with a minimum of competition and it would be almost an impossibility to do so with two commissions.

Reckord said the mile thoroughbred tracks are the state's primary concern because they produce $4,000,000 of Maryland's $4,500,000 revenue from racing.

"Unless we so adjust our dates so that the mile tracks can cater to the large crowds, thereby getting a greater amount of play, the state as well as the tracks will be the loser," he declared.

Reckord suggested the harness horsemen might be satisfied if by law one of their representatives would be appointed to the present commission. The harness horsemen opposed this, and so did H. Courtenay Jenifer, present racing chairman.

Jenifer said the racing commissioners shouldn't be horsemen of any type and that since 1920 only two of them have been. The commissioners' jobs are merely regulatory and don't require actual experience with horses, he said.

"If you don't protect the interest of the state," he said, "you might as well repeal your racing laws and sell your horses."

Steam Shovel Damages Truck, $1,750 Suit Says

Two Other Actions Filed In Court

A civil suit for $1,750 damages allegedly received by a truck when a steam shovel dropped boulders and other rocks upon it was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Enoch P. Price, through Attorney John M. Robb, filed the suit against G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc.

In this suit, Robb asserted that the damage occurred on or about August 26, 1948, while an employe of the plaintiff was hauling dirt in a truck owned by the plaintiff from the North American Refractories Company to another point. The truck was being loaded by a steam shovel owned by G. C. Sensabaugh, Inc., and operated by one of its employes.

The suit asserted that the defendant's employe "did allow claw of said shovel to become too full" and as a result a boulder, other rocks and dirt were dropped on Price's truck damaging its hood and cab extensively.

Dispute Over Estate

A second suit filed yesterday involves a dispute over the administration of the estate of the late William T. Tharp. This suit was filed in behalf of John Furstenburg and James Abe, an infant, by Attorneys Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., against David T. Tharp and the New Amsterdam Casualty Company.

This declaration set forth that on or about September 28, 1949, letters of administration of the estate of William T. Tharp were issued by Allegany County Orphans Court to David T. Tharp. His surety bond was posted by the New Amsterdam Casualty Company.

The plaintiffs contend that Tharp did not "well and truly" perform his duties. They say they were entitled to shares which they allege they did not receive from the estate, which was set at $6,580.90 upon payment of all debts, taxes and other expenditures. The petition alleges that John Furstenburg was William T. Tharp's nephew and James Abe was his great nephew. They seek $2,000 through the suit.

Comprise Settlement

A third suit filed yesterday, a $1,000 action, also carried with it papers showing that the two parties agreed to a $100 compromise settlement of the case. This $1,000 suit was filed for Thomas Salisbury, Lonaconing, whose wife, Mrs. Mary Jane Salisbury, was killed last November 7 when struck by an automobile on U. S. Route 36, one mile north of Midland. Attorney Leslie J. Clark filed the suit for Salisbury against Harbert E. Allen, RFD 1, Frostburg, who was driving the car. An agreement for the $100 compromise judgment was signed by Clark and Thomas B. Finan, attorney for the defendant.

A railroad in this state hauls heavy freight and keeps their road beds in shape. They are not taxed. Trucks are taxed and the revenue is used to build highways except when it is diverted. An average mile of 2 lane highway costs more than an average mile of 2 track railroad, so highways could be built and able to carry Senator Kimble's so called "boxcars on rubber tires."

However, from information received, "The first diversion of motor vehicle revenue occurred in Maryland in 1933. It was in that year that General Assembly of Maryland transferred $512,000 from the highways to the General Fund. In 1935 Maryland embarked upon the real misuse of motor vehicle revenue. During the '30s a total of fifteen million dollars of highway revenue was used for General Fund purposes. In fact, it was not until 1947 that the titling tax, a 2% special tax on the titling of vehicles, was used for highway purposes.

Although this tax was originally levied in 1935, many millions of motorists' dollars went for General Fund purposes. It is indeed interesting to note that although this outright diversion of special motor vehicle revenue was stopped in 1947, legislative records show that Senator Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County was co-sponsor of a measure which would have put these funds into the General Fund."

Such a tax, if made law, would be discriminatory, almost impossible to enforce, cause hardship, provoke retalitory measures by surrounding state and in general create chaos. In the end the trucker will not pay the tax as he cannot. The public will have to pay.

Former Resident Believed Murdered

Suspicion of murder was expressed officially yesterday in Eureka, Calif., in the mysterious killing of Jack W. Burns, former Cumberlander who more recently was a San Carlos, Calif., chemical salesman, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Burns was found dead in a motel court at Pepperwood, Calif.

During World War II, Burns was assistant to the director of research at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at nearby Pinto. He also was secretary of the Rocket Propellant Panel working under the Joint Committee on New Weapons and Equipment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Burns was found Sunday night just outside his cabin door. He had been shot in the chest and side.

Sheriff Charles Raab of Eureka said yesterday he was convinced a murder had been committed but that he had uncovered nothing to establish a motive.

HERE ARE THE FACTS, YOU BE THE JUDGE!

TO OUR FRIENDS OF ORGANIZED LABOR:

A statement on the so-called labor dispute at Ort Bros. Bakery. On January 6 there appeared pickets at Ort Bros. Bakery stating the Teamsters were on strike. However, NO NOTIFICATION OF SUCH A STRIKE HAS EVER BEEN MADE TO THIS COMPANY.

In a letter to you signed by Mr. C. E. Stutzman of the Teamsters Union, he stated that a majority of the men were members of his union and requested a strike. IF MR. STUTZMAN CAN SHOW HE EVER REPRESENTED A MAJORITY OF THE MEN, HE AT ONE TIME CLAIMS TO HAVE COVERED, WE WILL RECOGNIZE HIM AS A LAWFUL BARGAINING AGENT IMMEDIATELY.

HERE ARE SOME QUESTIONS THAT SHOULD BE ANSWERED:

- If his statements are true, why have the bakers, who are 100% union shop, continued to produce Sof-Spun Bread as before?
- Why were our salesmen, themselves, not notified that there was to be a so-called strike?
- Why does Mr. Stutzman have to use outside pickets in his attempts to harass the men into joining his union?

This management offers to sit down anywhere, any place, any time that might be selected and discuss this situation, answer any charges that may be made and let you know the truth of this whole despicable situation. Ort Bros. Bakery will peacefully bargain with any union of the men's free choice. We will not stand for our people being coerced into anything they do not desire. This is not the American way. If our salesmen desire to organize, their privilege as citizens of this land of ours is to choose who will represent them and not to be brow-beaten into anything. Nearly 30 years of peaceful union-management relationship by this company should mean something. Consider the facts before you decide!

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

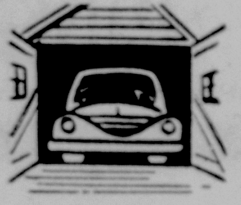
What About Radios and Telephones?

EVEN THOUGH YOUR TELEPHONE MAY CONTINUE TO WORK, USE IT ONLY FOR TRUE EMERGENCIES

NEITHER explosive nor lingering radioactivity has any effect on the operation of most mechanical or electrical devices. Unless the wires are down or there is a power failure, both your lights and telephone should continue to work. But don't rush to the phone just to find out how Aunt Susie may have weathered the attack. Leave the lines open for real emergency traffic.

The bomb's radioactivity will not interfere with the operation of your radio. In the event of attack, be sure to turn it on. It may be your main source of emergency instructions. And don't forget: Battery-operated portable sets, including those installed in automobiles, will continue to work even if the city power goes off. Television reception, like radio, won't be jammed by radioactivity.

What About Automobiles?



KEEP THE FAMILY CAR OFF THE STREET. RADIOACTIVITY WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH ITS OPERATION

One more household suggestion: In times of emergency don't park the family automobile on the street. Leave the way clear for emergency traffic. Keep the windows rolled up to prevent possible contamination of the interior by underwater or ground bursts and don't worry whether or not it will run. Radioactivity won't interfere with operation of its fuel or ignition system.

What About Children?

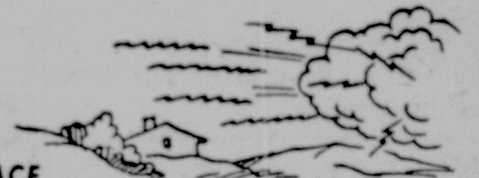
Everything in these articles holds true for all members of the family, including children, old people, or shut-ins. It would be a good idea to talk over the facts with all members of the family to be sure each understands. People with school children should discuss the articles with teachers and other parents at PTA meetings and similar gatherings.

You may be sure that, in times of emergency, all schools will be well organized for the protection of children.

Children old enough to understand can be taught to do the right things. Younger children simply will have to depend on their parents.

To Sum Up



BLAST AND HEAT ARE THE GREATEST DANGERS YOU FACE

To sum up, always remember that blast and heat are the two greatest dangers you face. The things that you do to protect yourself from these dangers usually will go a long way toward providing protection from the explosive radioactivity loosed by atomic explosions.

While the lingering radioactivity that occasionally follows some types of atomic bursts may be dangerous, still it is no more to be feared than typhoid fever or other diseases that sometimes follow major disasters. The only difference is that we can't now ward it off with a shot in the arm; you must simply take the known steps to avoid it.

KEEP YOUR HEAD. DON'T TOUCH OFF A PANIC THAT MAY COST YOUR LIFE

If you follow the pointers in the series, you stand far better than an even chance of surviving the bomb's blast, heat, and radioactivity. What's more, you will make a definite contribution to civil defense in your community, because civil defense must start with you. But if you lose your head and blindly attempt to run from the dangers, you may touch off a panic that will cost your life and put tremendous obstacles in the way of your Civil Defense Corps.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

ADD TO THE LIST of dramatic medical advances a synthetic blood plasma with the jaw-breaking name of "polyvinyl-pyrrolidone."

It was formally unveiled yesterday at the headquarters of its maker, General Aniline and Film Corp., whose president and board chairman is Jack Frye, one of the top pioneers of commericial aviation during his years with TWA.

PVP, as the substance will be popularly known, is—in the form revealed today—an off-white powder which, when sifted into a solution of water and alcohol, becomes man-made blood plasma.

Exhaustive tests have indicated that it may be even superior to natural plasma as a stream in which the life-giving corpuscles navigate. Recent research also has brought out many other uses for PVP.

It looks like the efficient "retarder" which biochemists have been searching for since the advent of the wonder drugs: The sulphas, penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin, cortisone, ACTH and the like. The human system too quickly discharges most of those drugs and antibiotics.

Penicillin mixed with PVP not only stays with the patient longer thus hastening recovery, but can be administered in much larger doses than is now considered advisable. So can morphine and novocaine.

Iodine, always tricky when taken internally for treatment of, say, goitre, is rendered extremely less toxic when mixed with PVP, and there are many other uses for this curious new matter.

PVP is a condensation product of pyrrolidone (a compound derived from certain protein substances) and common acetylene gas. It is not to be confused with another plasma substitute recently developed at Marquette University—utilizing the pods of okra.

General Aniline, whose research chemists contributed greatly to the refinement of PVP, is currently staffed and equipped to produce 15,000 pounds of it a month—enough for 440,000 standard doses. Company officials state that production can be stepped up to a vast scale.

PVP arrives on the broad medical scene at a time when civilian defense authorities are deep in their studies of how to care for widespread casualties in the event of an A-bomb attack on American population centers.

Cortisone came into existence, partially at least, because we believed erroneously that the Germans were souping up their crack Luftwaffe pilots with hormone extracted from the adrenal cortex of cattle. We tried to ape them, and came up with cortisone.

PVP's roots reach more realistically into Germany, and the military aspect is again present. About a dozen years ago a group of German scientists, alerted to Hitler's impending war, found the basic formula for PVP. It helped keep Germany in the war after its natural reserves of plasma were exhausted. It was used extensively on wounded troops and civilians, and in French hospitals during the occupation.

The versatile product, greatly improved by General Aniline scientists, can sustain life in a patient who has only 15 per cent hemoglobin whereas 30 per cent hemoglobin is the minimum required to keep alive patients given regular plasma transfusions.

PVP has elevated serious low blood pressure within 30 minutes. Of 75 infants treated with PVP for extreme gastro-intestinal disturbances, 40 were quickly cured — where natural plasma had no effect. In 230 cases of hemorrhage, shock collapse and surgery, PVP proved itself as efficacious as whole blood and had a persistent tonic action on blood vessels.

Luftwaffe flight surgeons were impressed with its effect on badly burned fliers, and before the end of the war were using PVP instead of whole blood. The Germans also discovered that it had few equals as a treatment for dehydration caused by severe diarrhea. It became standard practice in German military hospitals to inject PVP in patients just prior to surgery.

Its introduction into the U. S., on what promises to be a vast scale is not an invitation to close down the country's blood banks. There will always be an urgent need for whole blood plasma within the country and among our troops overseas. But this substitute, which can be manufactured in enormous quantities, removes an enormous worry from the minds of the military and civilian defense heads.

Poultryman Is Enjoined From Keyser Business

Judge See Takes Action In Case

KEYSER, W. Va.—A permanent injunction was issued yesterday by Judge Ernest A. See in Mineral Circuit Court prohibiting Eddie Carroll from conducting a commercial chicken business within the city limits of Keyser.

Some months ago legal action in this case was begun in a suit titled City of Keyser vs. Walter and Alice Bartlett and Eddie Carroll. When Judge See heard the case he sided with the city, contending that the chicken business run by Carroll on Mineral Street was both a nuisance and a health menace.

The case was appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals which refused to review it, thereby affirming Judge See's ruling.

In addition to handing down the injunction, Judge See ordered Carroll to pay the cost of court. The case insofar as it pertained to the Bartletts was dismissed. They own the property where the business was operated.

Defense Attorney Vernon (Pat) Rankin informed Judge See before he took action yesterday that Carroll no longer occupied the premises on Mineral Street. He said that the Bartletts were planing to remodel the property and convert it into apartments.

Bus Problems Discussed In Westernport

Construction Plans Will Be Listed

WESTERNPORT—Officials of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company and the Osgood Bus Company conferred with Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night about traffic problems.

Since the C. & W. Bus company could not get near the curb, causing a traffic congestion, Mayor Kight suggested to Jack Lochoner, Lonaconing, traffic supervisor for the line, that two parking meters be reserved a short distance above Trenum's Store on Main Street for their exclusive use.

The bus company would pay $7.50 for each meter reservation and no one else would be permitted to park in that location.

Lochoner seemed favorably impressed but said he would have to discuss the matter with his general manager and said the town would be informed soon of the bus company's decision.

Roy Mulledy, police commissioner, stated to officials of the Osgood Bus Company that some time ago buses were pulling out on Main Street and backing, with the driver not having clear vision and some one nearly was run over.

Cupp assured the commissioners the situation had been remedied.

William Brasher told the town officials he planned to erect a weigh scales below Malc's Place and understood the town has ordered or purchased a new scale. He suggested that if town could make an agreement for weighing it would not need to buy a public weigh scales.

Brashear was informed the city would consider a proposition.

Dwayne Brashear requested that Greene Street be improved and was told some work would be done on it.

Robert Miller asked the town to deliver some shale for him on Wood Street, he offered to place it and his wish was granted.

A letter from G. Bates Chaires, district SRC engineer, was read, stating the Bureau of Public Roads has requested the State Roads Commission to provide the NPA with lists of critical material entering the proposed construction of maintenance of roads and streets for 1951 and 1952.

It was ordered that a reply be made, giving an approximate estimate of contemplated construction costs.

It was ordered that a sign prohibiting the placing of garbage at the lower side of Kolberg's Hill be erected.

Foxey Lad Wins At Hialeah Park

Hedley Woodhouse Is Aboard Victor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—Circle M Farm's Foxey Lad, making his first start since the close of the New York racing season, impressed the crowd of 16,591 at Hialeah Park today when he captured the featured Bay Pines Purse, a test for three-year-olds at six furlongs.

Despite his long absence from competition, the black colt was sent postward the favorite at $5.60.

Foxey Lad whipped J. W. Nizlek's Teaneck Flash by a length and completed a riding double for Hedley Woodhouse, who seems to have a habit of winning Hialeah's feature races. Third in the field of nine was Irene Martin's Ogre, while F. W. Hooper's Officious finished a tiring fourth.

Joseph Tucci's Flamingo hopeful, Bob Considine, also made his three-year-old debut in the $4,000 overnight race, but the colt broke late and finished sixth. Foxey Lad is not eligible for the $50,000 Flamingo.

Last year, Foxey Lad was sparingly campaigned, competing in only five races, winning two of them, with one second and a third for earnings of $5,600.

GROW THICKER HAIR in Your OWN HOME

Free EXAMINATION One Day Only!

National Staff Trichologist

Trichologist V. T. Paul will personally give you a FREE HAIR and SCALP EXAMINATION at the FORT CUMBERLAND HOTEL THURSDAY, Feb. 8th, 11 A. M. to 9 P. M. No Appointments Necessary!

Come in when it's most convenient for you. We will analyze your scalp disorders absolutely FREE! We'll explain our new home treatment method that helps you grow thicker, stronger, more virile hair . . . at home!

Home Treatments Individually Prescribed

Since there are a dozen good reasons for baldness, no "cure-all" has ever been 100% effective... so HAIR EXPERTS, Inc., insists on a personal scalp examination and an individual treatment for each hair and scalp condition. Your treatments and instructions are for you alone, and you treat yourself . . . right in the privacy of your own home . . . usually twice a week for about 10 weeks. Treatments are simple, brisk, and stimulating.

Results Are Quick!

You'll notice a new, clean, vigorous feeling in your scalp right away, and, in most cases, your scalp will be purged of bacteria, imbedded dandruff, and decay organisms in just a few, short weeks. Then your scalp is free of the hair-killers, and Nature's dynamic urge to GROW THICKER HAIR is once again able to function, able to keep your hair thick and luxurious for life.

Learn the Facts!

Stop in at the Fort Cumberland Hotel and see Trichologist V. T. Paul. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way, and if you decide to take HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments, you will find the fee very reasonable.

Can You Answer These "Bald" Questions?

Q. Is baldness hereditary?
Q. Is baldness due to old age?
Q. Can baldness be prevented?

No, baldness is not inherited, nor is it due to old age. These are just misconceptions of the "Hair Tonic" age. Hair can be regrown with the aid of HAIR EXPERTS' home treatments. This has been proved by HAIR EXPERTS' Offices across the country throughout the years. In most cases of thinning hair or baldness, there is a definite scalp disorder that is blocking the growth of normal, healthy hair. Don't miss this chance for THICKER HAIR AT HOME!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6 (INS) — Over the long distance telephone, George Sanders, who is in New York, agreed to play the role of Caesar in "Androcles And The Lion" before he opens on Broadway in "South Pacific." Gabriel Pascal, who made the call, says George will be here this week to join Jean Simmons, Horace Mahon and Robert Newton.

George Sanders

Newton arrived via TWA today. He made front page news when he left London with his four-months-old baby and nurse. His wife was paging him frantically, but Newton says the child must have care and Mrs. N. is in a nursing home.

Sanders, by the way, gets the role in "Androcles" for which sexy-Rexy Harrison was originally scheduled.

Dolores Costello, who hasn't been seen on stage or screen since she married John Barrymore many years ago, opens at the Century Theater in Harold Sherman's stage play "The Great Man," March 6.

Dolores, daughter of the late Maurice Costello, met John Barrymore on the Warner lot when she was his leading lady and, as all the world knows, later became Mrs. Barrymore. Their son, John Barrymore, Jr., is carving a career for himself as a screen actor.

At the time Dolores was at the Warner Studio she was a real beauty, so fragile and lovely.

I've just heard from New York that Cardinal Spellman is making two shorts for the bishop's fund for war victims. Jarmila Novotna will narrate one film depicting the pitiful plight of the children in the displaced persons camp. That's a subject close to her heart since the children of her own country, Czechoslovakia, were war victims.

Novotna, by the way, has signed with the Metropolitan Opera for an additional eight performances of "Die Fledermaus" both in New York and on the road.

The 22nd of this month Maria Jeritza makes her comeback as Rosalinda opposite Novotna's Orlovsky in the Strauss opera.

There's an interesting story on Al Jolson in the February Cosmopolitan magazine, "The Jolson Nobody Knew," by Harry Akst, song composer and Al's friend for many years.

One sad phase of the Jolson story not told is that Lou Epstein, who was Al's business manager and close adviser for thirty-four years, has no job. Eppie is very able and very likeable, and it seems that he ought to be valuable to anyone who needs a manager.

Those closest to the Jolson situation feel that Al must have intended to do something about Eppie. Meanwhile the infant girl who inherited a half million dollars, will never be well and Mrs. Jolson is heartbroken. What to do about her is the question.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance to watch is that of Jim Howard and Marguerite Chapman, who were a Saddle and Sirloin duo.

The Duchess of Windsor's closest friend in Manhattan these February days is Ethel Merman.

Robert Walker was on the Paramount lot to talk to Leo McCarey about the Helen Hayes picture.

Mae West is considering filing suit against the city fathers of Atlanta for refusing to let "Diamond Lil" open last week.

Since her marriage to Philip Rivero, Judy Canova is in the Golden Book of Havana (the Cuban 400).

Grace and Abel Green, who are at the Hotel Nacional in Cuba, sent me a clipping of my column in the Havana Post. It was a thrill to see it.

Anna May Wong, most famous of our Chinese actresses, may play the Oriental charmer in "Peiping Express." Anna was actually born right here in Los Angeles.

The Stanley Goulds expect their first baby in June. She was formerly married to Jed Harris.

Eddie Duchin is back in the Memorial Hospital for treatment, and his friends are all pulling for him to hurry and get well.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

By JOHN CROSBY

Death In The Afternoon

EDNA FERBER once attributed the success of her novels at least partly to the fact that they dealt in the fundamentals of life—birth, marriage, disease, death. Soap opera deals pretty much in the same primary commodities except that the emphasis lies on their frustration or perversion. Soapland is full of women who can't have children, of marriages that have broken up or are breaking and of deaths that are anything but ordinary.

John Crosby

Murder, which intruded only occasionally in soap opera years ago, has become overwhelmingly fashionable. That old sleuth, Perry Mason, has Walter Bott on trial for his life for murder. My old friend Larry Noble of "Backstage Wife," just beat a murder rap for a backstage killing. It was Claudia Vincent, as you and I knew all along, who was the killer. Claudia's mind snapped under the strain and she's been put away. But not before she threw acid into the face of Mary Noble, "Backstage Wife," possibly disfiguring her forever.

• — • — •

Some instinct tells me she'll recover her beauty. She's done it before after even worse tribulations. As a matter of fact, poor Mary has a rather nasty habit of falling victim to the mentally deranged. Last time I listened in February, 1946, she was recovering nicely, after having been drugged, locked in a room and left to die by someone described as "mentally not well."

Backstage and theatrical murders are rather fashionable among current soap opera. Front Page Farrell, the demon reporter, is currently trying to solve a double murder of stage folk. And Portia, the demon lady lawyer of "Portia Faces Life," also has a twin killing involving nightclub people. The freshest corpse anywhere around is that of Ralph Kirkland who was done in by Rupert Gorham on "The Second Mrs. Burton." Rupert then proceeded to elope with his victim's mother-in-law, Grace Burton, a nice touch. Ralph is so freshly dead, that his wife, Marsha, doesn't know it yet. She thinks her husband is off again with that Elizabeth Miller girl who has again escaped from the hospital.

A good many of the murders have been committed by women. The "Backstage Wife" and the "Young Widder Brown" killings were both done by women and I strongly suspect the Front Page Farrell murders had a woman behind them, too. In addition, there is a woman swindler, Lady Audrey Jones, now trying to get her claws on all that Peabody money in Lorenzo Jones.

That pretty well winds up the homicide in soapland, except that Stella Dallas just escaped a couple of attempted assassinations and there has been a good deal of bloodshed in "Lorenzo Jones" which was once primarily a comedy show. Murder has been popular a long time in the evening hours but this afternoon murder is a rather different dish of tea. In the first place, there is almost no element of mystery.

Almost always an innocent person is indicted and the trial goes on for weeks or months, keeping the housewife in a wonderful state of sustained anxiety. Sometimes murders are committed for no other reason than to implicate Nora or Caroline or whoever, the victim having been unfortunate to be around when a corpse was needed. Jealousy is the principal motive but the girls, curiously enough, don't kill the other woman; they are much more likely to kill the man they both love. In that way, Nora is kept alive—after all, the Noras have to live forever—to weep her eyes out and then stand trial.

While good women are nobler than anything in your or my experience in soap opera, the bad women are more venomous than anything you'd care to encounter. In either case, the women are strong, just as men, whether good or bad, are weak or at best rather simpleminded and easily bamboozled by women. Also, while women are committing a good many of these soapland murders, these lapses from feminine grace are offset by the fact that women solve the crimes too. It was Mary who put the finger on Claudia in "Backstage Wife;" Portia is running down the nightclub murders and even Front Page Farrell is getting a lot of help from his wife. The man's job in soapland murder is just to stand around. Or better yet, to fall down gracefully when the bullets strike.

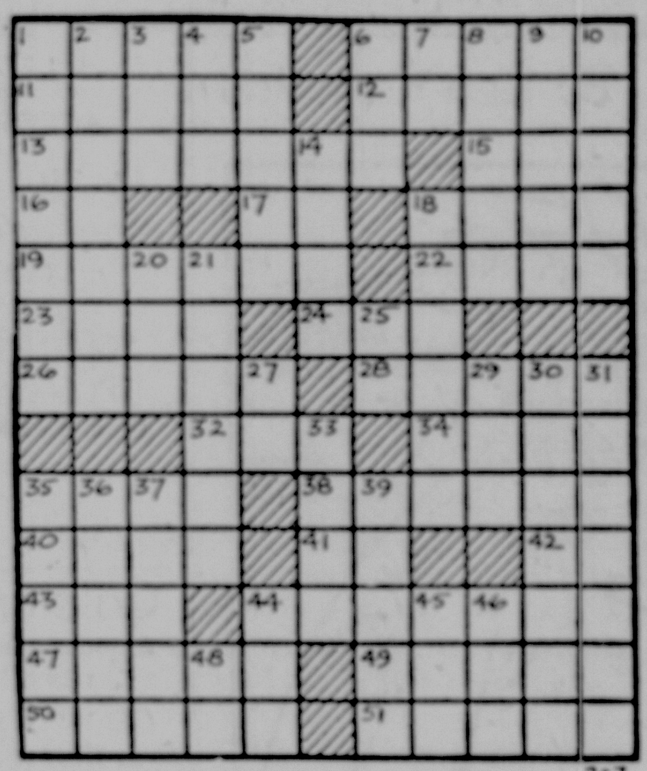
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

KERNS—May we take this means to express our heartfelt appreciation to all our neighbors and friends who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement of our mother, Leah M. Kerns, also we especially thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars, those who sent floral tributes and the Minister, Rev. J. A. Patterson, for his comforting words.

In Memoriam

CROSS—In loving memory of my beloved father, Charles W. Cross, who passed away 4 years ago today, February 7, 1947.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered: "Peace be thine,"
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His ever patient, worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.

Sadly missed by his son and family,
MR. & MRS. RICHARD L. CROSS

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICKING THE WINNER

SUCCESS of a throw-in play can depend on more than merely preparing the situation by stripping out certain suits. In some card combinations, the play can be thwarted if the wrong defender wins the trick which is used to throw the side into the lead. He is then able to make a return through the tenace in a crucial suit. One sure way of picking the correct winner of that decisive trick is by taking a losing low finesse in that very suit, if the cards in your own hand and dummy permit such action.

At three tables where West led the 2 of his partner's clubs, only one declarer made the contract. The first, who failed, won with the club A, scored the heart K, finessed the spade J, led to the spade A, used the heart A and Q, discarding the club 7, then finessed the diamond Q to the K. Later he lost another diamond, so was down one.

Five tricks went the same at another table. To the sixth, South led the heart Q, discarding the diamond 9, ruffed the heart 7 and then led the club 7, hoping East would win it. But West overtook the J with the K and returned the diamond 2, compelling South to lose to the diamond K and be set a trick.

Where South made the contract, his play was different in one great essential. He followed the club A trick with the heart K, spade J, heart A, a ruff of the heart 7, the spade A, heart Q for discard of the club 7, a ruff of the club 10, return to his own hand with the spade 7 to the Q and then led the diamond 3. Dummy retained the diamond A-Q-9 and a trump and his own hand just the three diamonds and a trump. No matter what West played, he was able to make East win that trick and then lead back anything he wished. A diamond would have been into the A-Q and a club would have enabled South to ruff in dummy while discarding his next to last diamond, assuring the contract.

Mr. Truman could have taken action but did not coincided with a political campaign to elect a new Congress. In this Mr. Truman took an aggressive hand, at St. Louis on Saturday night preceding the election he made a vigorous appeal in behalf of candidates of his own party, expressed strong opposition to Republicans.

Politics Enters

While putting ceilings over wages and prices would affect the public generally, there were two large groups members of which would feel the limitations of the ceilings with especially concrete directness; and toward whom as groups politics is apt to defer. These are labor and farmers. These groups had been especially singled out for appeal by Mr. Truman in his 1948 campaign for the presidency. In his acceptance speech that year he said:

"Never in the world were farmers of any republic as prosperous as the farmers of the United States. And if they don't do their duty to the Democratic party they're the most ungrateful people in the world . . . and I will say to labor just what I have said about the farmers — they're the most ungrateful people in the world if they don't support the Democratic party."

It would be little wonder if Mr. Truman, having made this appeal in 1948, and having won the election largely through the votes of these groups, especially the farm vote, should feel constraint about them—hesitating to impose ceilings which would limit the demands for wage raises which labor was making during the months from June to January and hesitating to interfere with the price support of farm crops that was in operation.

quarters of the state legislatures.

The likelihood is that it would have passed everywhere if pushed by articulate, constructive public opinion. These are the states that have thus far failed to do their duty:

Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah Washington and West Virginia.

Of course, this amendment could not be used to prevent Harry Truman from running for a third term, he being the incumbent on its adoption as a congressional resolution. Nevertheless, he would probably avoid flouting public opinion so pronounced that it becomes an amendment to the Constitution. Surely neither the Democrats nor the Republicans would be distrait over the elimination of Harry Truman as a candidate in 1952.

Only public opinion will force this amendment through and it needs to be vociferous and active in some states.

WHILE THE KREMLIN GUARDS THE SECRET of whether Russia is the only major naval Power increasing its battleship strength, a London artist presents his impression of the Sovietski Soyuz's probable appearance. He pieced together bits of European intelligence to project the supposed battleship of 860 feet overall length, 45,000 tons displacement and 260,000 shaft horse power. With a reputed speed of 33-35 knots, it would be faster than the U.S.S. Iowa class. It is believed to be of 130-foot beam but its comparatively shallow draft of 29 feet would facilitate navigation in the Baltic and the Black Sea. Armament is estimated to be 15- or 16-inch guns, in either two or three triple turrets, and twenty secondary guns of about 5-inch calibre. A pair of domed towers (fore and aft) are understood to be for launching guided missiles. Reports say that German experts have been "co-opted" to assist in modernizing the design. It is pointed out that if and when ships of the Sovietski Soyuz class are completed, they will make a menacing addition to the Russian battleship strength, which now consists of three launched in 1911. It is rumored that there are at least three in the new class. (The Illustrated London News—Central Press)

Market Declines Slightly Under Pressure Of Selling

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—The stock market eased lower today under the pressure of general selling that touched almost every section of the list.

There were a number of individual issues that bested the trend, and motion pictures as a group stood out on the upside.

Most of the pressure on the downside came in the steels and motors. Irregularity was the rule in the rails. Santa Fe lost 3½ at 174, Illinois Central gained 3¼ at 74, Nickel Plate was off 2 at 228, and Southern Railway gained 1½ at 59½.

Motion pictures did well. RKO Theater led the most active list up ¼ at 5 with RKO Pictures in third place up ⅛ at 4¼. Loew's was fifth most active up 1 at 18¼. Also on the list of 15 most active issues were Warner Bros. Pictures up ⅝ at 12⅜, and Twentieth Century-Fox up 1⅝ at 23⅝.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 10 cents at $96.70. The industrial component of the average was off 30 cents and rails were down 10 cents. The utilities section gained 20 cents.

The volume of business contracted to 2,360,000 shares as compared with 2,680,000 shares yesterday when the market advanced to a new high for 1950-51 and the best average level in more than 20 years.

There were 1,207 individual issues traded with 346 advancing and 600 declining. There were 69 new highes established and one new low.

Chicago Board Of Trade

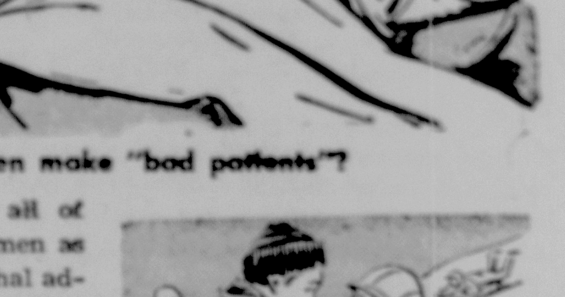
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

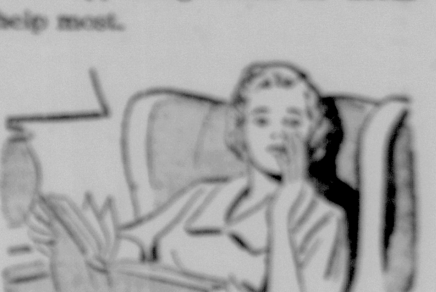
Do sick men make "bad patients"?

Answer: Certainly not all of them. I believe as many men as women have made triumphal adjustments to illness or invalidism—as the record of handicapped veterans from both wars shows. If the average man is more apt than his wife to be thrown into a panic by being laid up with a bad cold, remember how sternly he has been conditioned to feel that not only his security but that of his family depends on his staying active. Aside from the fact that women are more accustomed than men to minor disabilities, the ultimate disaster to a family is the crippling of the breadwinner, and right well he knows it.



Will stern parents make a child a bully?

Answer: Yes, says Edith Lesser Atkin in a pamphlet, "Aggressiveness in Children" issued by the Child Study Association. While every human being has some degree of aggressiveness in his nature, how fully this is developed depends largely upon whether as a child he finds the world a warm and friendly place or a cold and dangerous one. In the latter case, the child builds up a mass of suppressed hostility which he takes out on the first people weaker than himself whom he meets. The child who becomes a playground bully for such reasons as this appears least appealing when he needs help most.



May mental attitudes make motherhood more dangerous?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Desmond O'Neill of Guy's Hospital, London. Many of the actual dangers of motherhood are either created or increased by such conscious or unconscious mental attitudes as emotional shock, the desire to retain the irresponsibility of childhood, hostility towards one's husband (or toward men in general) and identification with a mother who has herself had serious difficulties in child-bearing. The safety of expectant mothers may depend almost as much upon their being helped to conquer morbid feelings as upon the physical side of pre-natal care.

Unusual Events Mark Failure Of Power Here

Electric Blackout Hits Entire System

An unusual chain of circumstances including two entirely unrelated mishaps cut off electric power in the Cumberland and tristate area, interrupted an operation at a local hospital, caused production loss at Amcelle plant, stopped newspaper production completely and created untold confusion yesterday afternoon.

Henry W. Price, dictrict manager of the Potomac Edison Company, whose power was completely shut down for from 20 minutes to an hour over the entire system, related that a construction crane used at the Batch Plant at Rolling Mill in South Cumberland for the area flood project, struck and knocked out a 33,000-volt transmission power line. This caused a short circuit at the company's substation at the River Plant.

The resultant short temporarily caused a breakdown of power in Cumberland and the surrounding area. It damaged insulation, wiring, and fuses at the River plant. Local repairmen replaced the broken transmission line and restored power service here in approximately 20 minutes, Price said.

Williamsport Failure

Apparently a few minutes after the local mishap a valve in a condensed steam line at the Williamsport plant blew off and removed all power from that section. This combined with a shutdown for inspection and repairs at the New Riverton, Va., plant, created the complete breakdown of the PE system, the first of its kind in the history of the company, according to Price.

The temporary loss of power here caused a substantial production loss at the Celanese Corporation of America plant as a majority of the plant was shut down, H. C. Givens, Jr., personnel manager, said last night. A single turbine at the plant works independently of the regular power, Givens said, and kept essential parts working.

At Allegany Hospital, Dr. Wiley Faw was operating on a four-weeks-old baby when the current was stopped. Emergency portable lights operated from a battery were placed into use to aid the completion of the operation, hospital attaches said yesterday.

Hospital Emergency

Nurses working in surgery at the time of the incident said no complications resulted from the power failure in the operating room although the remainder of the building has no emergency setup.

The telephone operator at the hospital related she had to use a flashlight to operate the central switchboard there during the failure.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night that an emergency battery power set kept all phases of the hospital in operation during the critical moments. Lights were turned on a few moments after the power cut off, they said. Memorial also has a portable emergency battery spotlight for use in the operating room in case of light failure. It was not necessary to use it.

West Penn Tapped

Cumberland's electrically controlled fire alarm system was not affected, firemen reported, as the system automatically switches to emergency power provided by batteries in case of trouble.

The PE succeeded in obtaining power tapped from West Penn Power Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., until repairs were made and resumed normal operations about an hour after the mishaps.

Radio stations here and in Hagerstown were put out of commission. Other towns hit included Frederick, Brunswick, Hancock and Clear Spring, in Maryland, Waynesboro, Pa., Winchester, Va., and Martinsburg, W. Va.

St. Patrick's To Mark Lent

Lenten services at St. Patrick's Catholic Church were announced last night by Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor and dean of Western Maryland.

Ashes will be distributed today after the 6:30 and 8 a. m. masses, at 2:30 p. m. and after Benediction of Blessed Sacrament at 7:30 p. m.

Stations of the Cross will be held each Friday during Lent at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Beginning February 14, Rev. Francis Curley, O. M. I., of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, Catholic University, Washington, will deliver the first of a series of Lenten sermons.

The sermons will continue each Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. during Lent, Father Kilkenny said.

North End Teenage Council Elects

Paul Ackerman has been named president of the Teenage Council sponsored by the North End Playground Association and the City Recreation Department.

Other officers are David Herboldsheimer, vice president; Gene Weisenmiller, secretary-treasurer. John Kienhofer, Mary Fisher, Smokey Howe and James Nixon were named to the council.

The group will meet each Thursday at 7 p. m. at the North End field house. The February social activity will be square dancing.

Delegates from the Teenage Council will be present at all North End Playground Association meetings.

Empty Bins And Mail Sacks

Empty receiving bins and mail sacks in the Cumberland Post Office are mute evidence of the seriousness of the embargo placed on mail and parcel post. The local post office is using only a skeleton crew to handle the small flow of first class mail and parcel post which is delivered to local and surrounding areas points. Officials have estimated the normal flow of mail through the Cumberland area has dropped 80 per cent since the mail embargo. Oswald C. Dean stands beside the parcel post stamp machine before an empty receiving window in the post office while Earl Humbertson collects and sorts the small amount of first class mail dropped in the bins.

Cobey Explains City Liability In Accidents

Relates Procedure In Filing Claims

The city is definitely not responsible for most of the accidents which occur in Cumberland, according to W. Earle Cobey, city attorney.

Those who believe they have legitimate claims against the city, he added, should make complaints through regular channels and not to the departments involved, he added.

Claims must originate, he said, in a letter to the Mayor and Council.

Then the department involved makes a complete investigation and reports to the city attorney, who advises the city of its responsibility in the complaint.

Only then, Cobey said, can definite action be taken on damage claims.

The city is definitely not responsible in most accidents unless the mayor or city engineer is notified at least 24 hours before of a potentially dangerous situation. The claim must be submitted within 30 days of the date of the accident.

The city code requires that snow be removed from sidewalks and footwalks within six hours after the end of a snowfall.

Penalties include a fine of not less than $1 and not more than $2 for each violation with a $5 fine for each day snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalk.

Wide Interest Shown In Area For War Work

17 Shops Combine Defense Efforts

A number of prime contractors have become interested in the facilities of the Tri-State Industrial Complex which was formed here recently for mutual assistance in bidding on government contracts.

H. W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project, said representatives of the contractors have visited the area in recent weeks to inspect the facilities of firms.

Some 17 independent machine shops and small factories in Western Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia recently banded together for joint bidding on government contracts, with the Piedmont Tractor Division of the Inexco Corporation as coordinator.

The cooperative, with assets of over $850,000 and over 500 specialized machine tools and 165,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space, will be able to bid on either prime or sub-contracts.

As the nation's defense activities progress, officials said, a greater part of the work awarded to prime contractors will be turned over to sub-contractors.

Some idea of the facilities available in the cooperative may be seen from the list of tools available.

They include 104 lathes, 20 milling machines, 44 drills, 46 grinding machines, 19 power saws, 11 shapers, five arbor presses, 20 welding machines, nine heat treating furnaces, 10 hydraulic and push presses and 26 miscellaneous metal working machines.

Nine varied plastics forming machines will be available for the manufacture of plastics.

Another 133 machines are available for specialized metal and wood working tasks.

Three foundries have a capacity of 10 tons of iron and nickel-iron, four tons of brass and 2½ tons of aluminum each day.

Machinists Support Teamsters' Strike

Local 212, International Association of Machinists, this week voted full support of Local 453, Teamsters Union's strike at the Ort Brothers Bakery.

C. F. Schelble, secretary, who announced the action, said B. and O. Federated Shop Crafts No. 7 has taken similar action.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

Editor's Note—Starting today, Ash Wednesday, The News begins a series of sermons by Cumberland ministers through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association. Hereafter the sermonettes, digests of a message preached in a local church on Sunday, will appear every Monday morning.

In addition, The News will carry daily during Lent the "Fellowship of Prayer," a non-sectarian daily devotion. It starts today on Page 4.

Today's sermonette was prepared by Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, who is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Divine Resources

IN A world which is characterized by strife, confusion, hurry and uncertainty there is need for faith in something bigger than ourselves. Most of us have had the experience of being "all dressed up with no place to go." We had a new outfit and wanted to show it to some one who would admire it. But it happened that our friends were all occupied elsewhere and we found ourselves with a feeling of frustration and loneliness.

The world is full of people in such a predicament. We are driven by inner compulsions which send us out in search of comfort, recognition and appreciation. We look for something which is satisfying—and find no place to go. Yet there is a source of satisfaction which is available to all of us if we but turn in the right direction. Abraham Lincoln once said, "Often I have been driven to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had no place to go." The source to which he turned for help is available to all.

Ash Wednesday formally opens the Lenten season. According to an old custom, people were given a mark of ashes on their foreheads on the first day of Lent. This custom gave us the term Ash Wednesday. The Lenten season is a time for special emphasis on the spiritual side of life. During this season it is profitable for us to think of our relationship to the divine.

God is the Giver of life. If we are grateful for our daily bread, as all of us should be, to whom do we express our gratitude? The baker and other workers toil in unseen places that we may have daily food and other essentials of life. But the baker did not grow the bread. He used the flour which some miller had ground from the wheat which some farmer had raised. But again the farmer did not make the wheat grow. He merely planted the seed and the sun and rain from above called out the life which was inherent in the seed. The baker, the miller and the farmer helped in the process but we are dependent first of all upon God for our bread.

God is the Forgiver of life. The U. S. Treasury has over a million dollars in a "conscience fund," a fund consisting of money received across the years from people who have cheated the government, have repented, and have made restitution. In the words of the givers most of it has been returned "to clear my conscience." Yet the forgiveness of men is never enough to give one a sense of complete satisfaction. Only God can finally forgive. We must depend upon him for pardon. "If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us."

God is the Sustainer of life. The pressures of life are heavy, and we need strength beyond our own to withstand them. The men who dig tunnels under rivers must work under pressures which make their tasks impossible unless a counterpressure is set up in the tunnel to match the pressure outside it. Compressed air is used to prevent the collapse of the tunnel and the destruction of the work and the workers. To withstand the pressures of life we need strength within us. Those who have learned the secret of abundant living are grateful for the fact that "the Lord is my strength and my salvation."

God is the Goal of life. The grave is not the end of man. "'Dust thou art, to dust returnest' was not spoken of the soul." A man who took his own life left a note which said that he had exhausted his powers in "homeless wanderings." To one who has faith in God life on earth is not homeless wandering. It is a journey which leads to a glorious eternity.

Commissioners End Hearing Of Employes' Firing

Infirmary Nurses Speak At Session

Allegany County's Board of Commissioners concluded its investigation into the abrupt discharge of seven employes of the County Infirmary with an hour-long session in the grand jury room at the Court House.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the workers who received dismissal notices January 31, said last night that the commissioners indicated to him they would make a decision in the case later this week.

Only one of the discharged employes—a man who had served as an orderly—was heard by the commissioners at yesterday's hearing. Three registered nurses still employed at the County Infirmary also testified. Ryan said that all of the nurses dealt in generalities and gossip without making any specific charges against the employes who lost their jobs.

Four of the fired workers appeared before the commissioners when they opened the investigation with a hearing at the County Infirmary Monday afternoon.

Ryan first brought the case to the attention of the commissioners when he appeared at last Friday's meeting at the Court House. He contended then and has repeated since that the workers should have received at least two weeks' notice before discharge and should have been given specific reasons why their work was not satisfactory.

The dismissal notices were given the seven employes last Wednesday by Earl Grim, who has served as Infirmary superintendent since the first of the year.

Water Supply Good

Sensabaugh Asks Kimble's Withdrawal

French Sensabaugh, of the Sensabaugh Contracting Company, has sent a telegram to Lewis Goldstein, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee in Annapolis. The message pertains to action by Senator Robert B. Kimble on additional taxation to the trucking industry.

The telegram reads as follows:

Due to Senator Kimble's association with interests competitive to the trucking industry we believe, in dignity, that he should bar himself from any action pro or con relative to the two mill tax or any legislation affecting trucking. If he doesn't, we think you should consider requesting him to do so. With rare exceptions heavy trucks do not hurt highways anymore than, with rare

Cornelia Stabler, monologist, will present a program of her original character sketches in the Allegany High School auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Monday, February 19, under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society.

She calls her sketches "Personality Portraits" for they are word-pictures of the people one meets every day. Miss Stabler, who is the author as well as the interpreter of her monologues, has presented them from coast to coast in this country, and has also toured Europe for USO Camp Shows. She has been heard on the major radio networks, has appeared on television, and had the honor of entertaining at the White House for the late President and Mrs. Roosevelt. During the summer months she directs a Community Theatre in the Pocono resort area of Pennsylvania.

City Dustfall Shows Decline During January

Diesels Credited For Improvement

Dustfall in Cumberland showed a significant drop last month, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, announced yesterday.

He attributed most of the decrease to the increasing Dieselization of the Cumberland yards, which brought a sharp decrease in dustfall in the Thomas Street area.

January records showed a city-wide average of 26.54 tons of dust per square mile. That is 2.5 tons less than in January, 1949, and 3.31 tons less than last year's average.

A chemical analysis of the dustfall, Hitchcock, said, showed non toxic PH readings varying from 3.4 at Humbird Street School and 4.2 at Allegany Hospital.

Most of January's improvement showed up in the Thomas Street section, near the B. and O. Hump.

In December, 1950, dustfall readings there showed an average of 297.22 tons a month. Last month, the reading had dropped to 234.60 tons, a 62.75 ton improvement during the month and a drop of 101.5 tons over the 1950 average.

The marked decrease in Thomas Street shows a definite trend toward the solution of Cumberland's air pollution problems, Hitchcock said.

In the Fairmont Lane section, which receives the first dustfall from east winds, the fall was back to a normal 3.22 tons, but Columbia Avenue at Franklin Street showed an increase of 14.54 tons in January, possibly due to shifting winds.

The Allegany Hospital area, Hitchcock said, dropped 11 tons over December's 56.18 tons, but is still too high.

A fair improvement was noted at the B. and O. YMCA, with a dustfall of 65.45 tons last month, a drop of 36.5 tons over December.

The Avirett lot area dropped 16.93 tons over January, 1950, with a reading of 13.33 in January.

The best improvement in the city was noted at the C. and P. Telephone building. The 1950 average there was 464.80 tons. January's dustfall there, if continued throughout the year, will mean a decrease of 133 tons a year.

Lowndes Heads State Easter Sale Campaign

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the Maryland State Board of Education, is directing the 1951 Easter Seal Sale on behalf of crippled children and adults, it was announced this week.

Lowndes, who is chairman of the board of directors of the Second National Bank, said that the goal of the campaign is $110,000 in the city and state.

Lowndes declared: "The Easter Seals which are to be sent to 300,000 Maryland homes late this month support the work among the handicapped performed by the Maryland Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its affiliates, including the Allegany County League, the Baltimore League, the Frederick County Chapter, the Montgomery County Chapter and helps with Society activities throughout the State.

"The Easter Seals mean hope to the thousands of handicapped in our State; to the cerebral palsied, the boy or girl with a speech difficulty, the crippled youngster, man or woman who needs help. The services performed by Easter Seal funds are not duplicated by any other agency.

Piedmont Grocery Grants Wage Boost

The Piedmont Grocery Company announced last night that a $2 a week wage increase was granted to drivers and warehousemen of the firm January 19.

The five cents an hour wage boost for some 12 workers went into effect before the wage-price freeze became effective, according to R. G. Duvall, manager of the firm.

Duvall said similar boosts were granted to workers of the firm in Oakland.

Help Heart Drive

Barbara Joyce and Nancy Carol, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry T. Defibaugh, 515 City View Terrace, help the local campaign of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association by adding their contribution to the red heart collection containers. Barbara Joyce drops a dime into the container which is held by her sister. The local campaign committee, under the direction of Howard M. Spiker, distributed and placed the containers throughout the city last night.

Cumberland Heart Fund Drive Committee Named

Posters And Coin Containers Placed

Appeal posters and red heart contribution containers were placed in business and professional establishments last night by the Cumberland committee members of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association fund raising organization.

Howard M. Spiker, local real estate man, and William C. Cobel, are co-chairmen of the Cumberland group which covers areas in LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Pinto, Flintstone, Oldtown and Cumberland.

Spiker announced his local committee, composed of American Legion Post No. 13 members, and named co-chairmen for the outlying districts under the local committee's jurisdiction.

The legion committee members are Joseph F. Reissig, George E. Zegles, Joseph F. Challinor, Filmore Fleming, Lawrence E. Lease, Ralph L. Wilson, William P. Claar, Jerry T. Defibaugh, Jr., Thomas R. Farrell, Galen Storer and Raymond Settle.

The legion group is working in close cooperation with other service organizations and auxiliary units in the city as the Heart Association drive gains momentum in its campaign toward a $7,000 goal.

Mrs. Rachel James, chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary committee, Mrs. Effie Vogel, chairman of the American Legion auxiliary committee, and Mrs. Heyl Walker, chairman of the 8-40 group, are planning Tag Day to be held either the 10th or 17th of this month.

Chairmen of surrounding districts named by Spiker are Dale Broadwater, Cresaptown postmaster, John L. Nixon, postmaster at Oldtown, Mrs. Elsie Roland, Flintstone school principal, and Mrs. Betty Kirk, home visiting nurse who will work in the Rawlings, Pinto and Bowling Green areas.

Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman of the Association's campaign, said a meeting of the Frostburg group will be held tomorrow.

Zoning Board Hearing Slated

The application of a local man to build a three-car garage and apartment building at the rear of his home has been referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

C. W. Viney, 214 Mary Street, recently asked the City Engineer to issue a building permit for the structure.

The application will be considered at a meeting of the appeals board February 28 at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Officials said the City Engineer may issue permits for two car garages if the structure does not take up over half of the back yard space.

Applications for three car garages, however, are automatically referred to the appeals board.

The structure is planned in a Residential B area.

Parkway Land Bill Proposed By Beall

Rep. J. Glenn Beall announced last night that he has presented to Senator Robert B. Kimble, Allegany County, a bill which would empower the Maryland State Roads Commission to purchase additional land along the right of way of the proposed C. and O. Canal Parkway.

He said Senator Kimble indicated he will introduce the bill in the Senate within the next few days.

Rep. Beall emphasized that he is not pressing the Parkway plan at present, due to the national emergency.

He said, however, that it was deemed wise to secure the enabling legislation since non-emergency laws may be passed only at regular sessions of the assembly.

Whitworth To Head Budget Trimming Group In House

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was named yesterday to head a House sub-committee appointed to study Governor McKeldin's budget with a view of trimming it wherever possible.

Another sub-committee headed by Delegate Hopkins, (R-Balto 3rd) will look into means of obtaining additional revenue for the state.

Governor McKeldin has indicated his budget will cost $159,000,000.

The appointment of the committees was one of a growing list of House actions in the last several days that added weight to the evidence that the delegates want to go slow on financial measures at this time.

Hearing Slated

A hearing on a House resolution introduced by Delegate Whitworth calling for the ratification of an amendment to the U. S. Constitution limiting the President to two consecutive terms of office will be held February 21 at 3 p. m., in Annapolis.

Whitworth said that the hearing will be open to the public before the House Judiciary committee.

Police To Open Drive To Curb Speeding In City

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long last night appealed for full cooperation of all citizens in a drive to curb dangerous speeding.

Many reports have been received recently, he said, of cars speeding in school areas, especially at dismissal time.

The full cooperation of drivers, police, school safety patrols, students, and parents, the commissioner added, will be needed to solve the problem.

Drivers of all police cruisers members of the traffic division and patrolmen have been notified by Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn to be on the alert for speeding vehicles.

Although reports of speeding come from all sections of the city, the majority of recent complaints were from Virginia Avenue and First and Second Streets, police said.

Delegation Bills Praised By City

Members of the Allegany County Delegation received an unanimous vote of thanks from the Mayor and City Council this week for two House resolutions relating to this area.

The legislation, introduced by the County Delegation, includes HR 11, asking that county residents be employed on flood prevention and control work in Allegany County.

The second, HR 5, requested the Office of Defense Mobilization to establish defense industries in Allegany Counties.

The council voted full support to the Delegation toward passage of the legislation.

Quartermaster Laboratory Site Due For Decision

Secretary Marshall Will Make Selection

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The site where the Quartermaster Corps will establish its research laboratory may be announced within two weeks, a Defense Department spokesman said today.

He said the report of a special committee appointed to recommend one or more sites now is being signed and may reach Secretary of Defense Marshall this week.

The final decision is up to Marshall and no disclosure will be made in advance of the Secretary's announcement, the spokesman emphasized.

The report will include several sites, he continued, listed in the order in which the committee thinks they would meet requirements. From these Marshall will make his choice.

Does Not Know Sites

The spokesman, who has been working with the committee since its inception, said he does not know what the recommended sites are.

However, he said, his office has received numerous telephone calls, telegrams, letters and other communications from various localities purporting to be on the recommendation list.

"They can't all be on it," he said.

Congress was told last December during hearings on a supplementary appropriation bill that the number of sites had been reduced to three. The sites were not named. Hundreds of prospective sites had been considered.

Congress has authorized $11,000,000 to build the laboratory, which will conduct research on clothing, equipment and other items for the armed forces.

The Army has received a $250,000 appropriation to get the laboratory started, when the site is selected.

May Cost More

Persons close to the situation have said that, because of increased costs brought about by the Korean War and the defense effort, the laboratory might cost much more than $11,000,000. If so, an additional congressional authorization would have to be sought.

The two principal contenders for the laboratory have been Boston and Philadelphia.

Congressional spokesmen for both cities fought over the issue for years.

Eventually, a compromise was reached under which the Secretary of Defense would make the selection, acting on the recommendation of a special committee.

That committee, chosen by the chairman of the Research and Development Board, includes:

Chester M. Alter, dean of the Boston University Graduate School; H. S. Coleman, assistant director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh; Donald H. Loughridge, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army; Gilbert Scribner of Winston & Company, Chicago; John J. Traynor, assistant vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, New York; and Blake R. Vanleer, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, chairman.

Morris of the University of Maryland's Dairy Department speaks on "Standards of Efficient Dairy Production." Then, at 11 a. m. Stanley L. Stabler of the university's Agronomy Department will discuss "Pasture Renovation." A lunch recess will come after Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger shows some local colored slides at noon.

"Feeding the Milking Herd" will be Morris' topic at the afternoon session, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Then, at 2:30 o'clock Stabler will speak concerning "Grass Silage—Its Merit and Its Problems." Adjournment will come at 3:30 p. m.
